Indicates Faulty Blood and Worn Out Nerves—Build Up or Total Collapse Will Surely Follow

When you're tired all day, bothered by trifles, exhausted with nervousness, be sure there is something wrong.

You need bracing up, need more nourishment in the blood, need a powerful medicine to vitalize the nerves and distribute force and staying power to all over-worked organs.

The most marvelous success is Ferrosone, a nourishing tonic so scientific as to be the admiration of every physician. Ferrosone performs wonders for people in poor health; acts directly on the blood, enriching it with strength and new life that is at once dispatched to all parts of the body. Ferrosone feeds the nerves and vital energies, supplies force, determination and joyous, buoyant spirits.

A case where there was lassitude and lack of strength is told by Mr. David Brown, of post-office box No. 20, Beaton, Ont.: "About a year ago my health commenced to fail. My hands and feet seemed always cold. I felt worn-out and exhausted, weak as a little child. My face twitched. My limbs and arms commenced to lose their sense of feeling and finally my left side was perfectly numb. All my color left. My appetite run down. Ferrosone was the first to give me any help. I improved with it very quickly. It toned up the blood and started circulation, so that the numbness gradually disappeared. My condition was perfectly cured by Ferrosone, and I have been well ever since. (Signed) "David Brown."

SPECIAL NOTICE.—To get satisfactory results be sure you get Ferrosone only. Fifty cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

THE FUEL OUTLOOK.

There has been a rise in the price of coal in Pennsylvania, which is usual in the early winter, following the [illegible] month from April each season.

The addition is not felt by the wealthy consumer, who can lay in his stock in early spring. It is the poor who suffer, by having to delay purchasing and to buy in small quantities when pinched by need.

But as the Philadelphia Record puts the case, it is not the present increase of price that is troubling people. It is the fact that the coal companies are engaged in a determined effort to bring the price of coal to a generally higher level, and that level is to be high enough so that they will not only recoup themselves for any increased wages they pay, but they will get an increased margin of profit.

It has been given out that Mr. John Mitchell is sanguine of a settlement of the dispute between operators and miners without a strike next spring. But the present attitude of the coal companies leads to the common belief that they will not hesitate to bring about another strike next April, when the question comes [illegible] an agreement with the coal miners. The last strike proved highly profitable to the coal roads and the coal operators. That there was a general conspiracy against the public was brought out in a large volume of evidence which is now forgotten. The coal companies are willing, in the minds of many coal dealers, to precipitate another strike because they know that any losses they suffer may be more than made up from the public.

The moral attitude of the coal roads in this matter, The Record remarks, is beyond discussion. Its iniquity is so apparent that the ethics of the situation need not be considered.

In the last strike the coal barons shifted the responsibility to the miners. But if there is another strike, it will not be easy to shift the responsibility. The coal roads will be regarded as welcoming a difficulty which enables them to permanently raise the price of coal.

This will be all the more easy if the anthracite and bituminous operators are able to "get together" in a close combine at their coming Chicago convention. Such a combination would be a menace to Ontario, which is in almost absolute dependence on the States for these kinds of fuel. In the last coal crisis the soft varieties were not affected. Their prices remained steady at conservative rates.

If by joint action the two interests can dictate a general rise in Ontario it will be a bad outlook, which will grow worse as time goes on unless the matter is equalized by the restoration of our forests and the utilization of our vast stores of peat.

FATHER MURDERED FAMILY

Terrible Crime is Reported From Melancthon Ten Miles From Shelburne

Shelburne, Ont., Dec. 9.—The town is greatly excited by advices, so far very meagre as to details, received here telling of a triple murder and suicide in the northern part of the county in Melancthon, about ten miles from here.

The report says that James Coulter, a farmer living in the district mentioned, in a fit of rage or insanity, completely wiped out his family, consisting of his wife, son and daughter, afterwards taking his own life.

KILLED IN THE BARN.

The neighbors who brought the news were unable to give a very detailed account of the awful affair, but it is supposed that the father first murdered his son in the barn, striking him with an axe.

Then proceeding to the house he ended the life of his wife and daughter by shooting them down in cold blood, subsequently taking his own life.

Constables have been hurriedly despatched to the scene.

The motive for the frightful deed is not made known.

Later advices from the scene of the triple murder in Melancthon township indicate that the crime was committed about one p.m. on Thursday.

The horrified neighbors when they learned of Coulter's awful deed hastily summoned Dr. Moore, of Hornings' Mills, who arrived on the spot shortly before the son and daughter breathed their last.

Unfortunately they were both unconscious and the doctor was, therefore, unable to secure any information from them regarding the crime.

WERE WASHING DISHES.

It is supposed that Mrs. Coulter and her daughter were washing the dishes just after the noon-day meal when they were attacked by the crazed husband and father.

Dr. Rooney, coroner of Shelburne county, and Crown Attorney McKay, of Orangeville, are going up to the Coulter home this afternoon.

Poland May Set All Europe Ablaze With War

London, Dec. 9.—It is probable that at the present time the Polish section of the popular disturbance now existing in Russia is occasioning serious concern at both Berlin and Vienna. If by any means Russian Poland flames up into insurrection, if the Polish people succeed in overthrowing the representatives of the Czar and in establishing for themselves an autonomous government with Warsaw as its capital, it will be almost impossible for the Prussian and Austrian authorities to prevent the uprising of the Poles in those districts of their respective countries which were originally parts of the old kingdom of Poland. The Poles, whether Russian, Prussian or Austrian, have never been contented with their fate, but have found it impossible to struggle against a coalition formed of three of the strongest European powers. Russia has always been at the head of this trio, but in the absence of Russian leadership it would develope upon Emperor William to take such steps as might be necessary to assert the power of imperial rule. No doubt the easiest way to prevent a revolt among his own subjects would be to [illegible] the Polish subjects of the Czar; hence the statement that he has in readiness for action in Russian Poland a detachment of 20,000 or more men of the German army is not at all surprising.

A New Appointment

Mr. Geo. J. Chalmers, of this city, yesterday received a communication from the assistant secretary of the Department of Lands and Mines, informing him that he had to report to Mr. Maughan, Crown Lands Agt. Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., to fulfill special duties as wood-ranger and culler in that district, a position which he certainly can fulfil. It is gratifying to the public that such an able man as Mr. Chalmers has, been given such a billet, as one he can successfully fill. For many years he has been a well-known wood man, and also a "Typo," in his younger days.

He was surprised at how the sores healed— I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been afflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itchiness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time all symptoms had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no sign of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. The Lust of Hate

BY GUY BOOTHBY

Author of "A Beautiful White Devil," "A Bid For Fortune," "The Marriage of Esther," "Dr. Nikola," Etc., Etc.

My chief prayer for the next month was that it might never be necessary for me to pass through such an awful time again. For three weeks I fought with the disease night and day, one moment cheered by a gleam of hope, the next despairing entirely of success. All the time I was quite aware that I was being spied upon, and that all my saying and doings were reported to the manager by my landlord when he took over the weekly mail bag. But as I had no desire to hide anything, and nothing, save Ben's progress, to tell, this gave me but the smallest concern. Being no longer in his employ, Bartrand could do me no further mischief, and so long as I paid the extortionate charge demanded by the proprietor of the shanty for board and residence, I knew he would have no fault to find with my presence there.

Somewhere or another I remembered to have read that, in the malady from which I believed my old friend was suffering, on or about the twenty-first day the crisis is reached, and afterwards a change should be observable. My suspicions proved correct, for on that very day Ben became conscious, and after that his condition began perceptibly to improve. For nearly a week, though still as feeble as a month-old child, he mended rapidly. Then, for some mysterious reason he suffered a relapse, lost ground as fast as he had gained it, and on the twelfth day, counting from the one mentioned above, I saw that his case was hopeless, and realised that all my endeavors had been in vain.

How well I remember that miserable afternoon! It had been scorchingly hot ever since sunrise, and the little room in which I watched beside the sick man's bed was like a furnace. From my window I could see the stretch of sunbaked plain rising and falling away towards the horizon in endless monotony. In the adjoining bar I could hear the voices of the landlord and three bushmen who, according to custom, had come over to drink themselves into delirium on their hard-earned savings, and were facilitating the business with all possible despatch. On the bed poor Ben tumbled and tossed, talking wildly to himself and repeating over and over again the same words I had heard him utter that afternoon at Markapurlie—"five hundred paces north-west from the creek, and just in a line with the blasted gum." What he meant by it was more than I could tell, but I was soon to discover, and that discovery was destined to bring me as near the pit of damnation as it is possible for a man to get without actually falling into it.

A little before sundown I left the bedroom and went out into the verandah. The heat and the closeness of the sick room had not had a good effect upon me, and I felt wretchedly sick and ill. I sat down on a bench and took in the hopeless view. A quarter of a mile away across the plain a couple of wild turkeys were feeding, [illegible] look-out about them, and on the very edge of the north-eastern horizon a small cloud of dust proclaimed the coming of the mail coach, which I knew had been expected since sunrise that morning. I watched it as it loomed larger and larger, and did not return to my patient until the clumsy, lumbering concern, drawn by five panting horses, had pulled up before the hostelry. It was the driver's custom to pass the night at the Change, and to go on again at daylight the following morning.

When I had seen the horses unharnessed and had spoken to the driver, who was an old friend, I made my way back to Ben's room. To my delight I found him conscious once more. I sat down beside the bed and told him how glad I was to see that his senses had returned to him.

"Ay, old lad," he answered feebly, "I know ye. But I shan't do so for long. I'm done for now, and I know it. This time to-morrow old Ben will know for himself what truth there is in the yarns the sky-pilots spin us about heaven and hell."

"Don't you believe it, Ben," I answered, feeling that although I agreed with him it was my duty to endeavour to cheer him up. "You're worth a good many dead men yet. You're not going out this trip by a great deal. We shall have you packing your swag for a new rush before you can look round. I'll be helping sink a good shaft inside a month."

"Never again," he answered; "the only shaft I shall ever have anything to do with now will be six by two, and when I'm once down in it I'll never see daylight again."

"Well you're not going to talk any more now. Try and have a nap if you can. Sleep's what you want to bring your strength back."

"I shall have enough and to spare of that directly," he answered. "No, lad, I want to talk to you. I've got something on my mind that I must say while I've the strength to do it."

But I wouldn't hear him.

"If you don't try to get to sleep," I said, "I shall clear out and leave you. I'll hear what you've got to say later on. There will be plenty of time for that by and bye."

"As you please," he replied resignedly. "It's for you to choose. If you'd only listen, I could tell you what will make you the richest man on earth. If I die without telling you, you'll only have yourself to thank for it. Now do you want me to go to sleep?"

"Yes, I do!" I said, thinking the poor fellow was growing delirious again. "I want you to try more than ever. When you wake up again I'll promise to listen as long as you like."

He did not argue the point any further, but laid his head down on his pillow again, and in a few moments was dozing quietly.

When he woke again the lamp on the ricketty deal table near the bed had been lit some time. I had been reading a flyblown paper which I had picked up in the bar, and was quite unprepared for the shocking cry with which he attracted my attention. Throwing down the paper I went across to the bed and asked him how he felt.

"Mortal bad," was his answer. "It won't be long now afore I'm [illegible] Laddie, I must say what I've got to say quickly, and you must listen with all your ears."

"I'll listen, never fear," I replied, hoping that my acquiescence might soothe him. "What is it you have upon your mind? You know I'll do anything I can to help you."

"I know that, laddie. You've been a good friend to me, an' now, please God, I'm going to do a good stroke for you. Help me to sit up a bit."

I lifted him up by placing my arm under his shoulders, and, when I had propped the pillows behind him, took my seat again.

"You remember the time I left you to go and try my luck on that new field down South, don't you?"

I nodded.

"Well, I went down there and worked like a galley slave for three months, only to come off the field a poorer man than I went on to it. It was never any good, and the whole rush was a fraud. Having found this out I set off by myself from Kalaman Township into the West, thinking I would prospect round a bit before I tackled another place. Leaving the Darling behind me I struck out for the Booka Range, always having had a sort of notion that there was gold in that part of the country if only folk could get at it."

BELLEVILLE MAN TO BE SHOT

One of Three Men Convicted of Murder in Mexico

Belleville, December 7.—An interesting fact came to light here today, namely, that a former resident of Belleville has been condemned to be shot for murder in Mexico.

About three years ago a dapper young man made his appearance in this city from nobody knew where. He appeared to be of gentle birth and good manners, and he secured a situation as a district agent of the Mutual Life Insurance Company. It was not long before ugly rumors began to float about, and finally Mr. Richardson was brought before Magistrate Flint on the charge of fraud, preferred by a blacksmith named Gadsby, of Tweed. The evidence was strongly against the prisoner, and he was given a suspended sentence.

He was not heard from again, but he must have gone directly on the downward path, for he has just been sentenced with two of his pals to be shot at Chihuahua, Mexico. They were convicted of murdering two men there for life insurance money, Richardson being the insurance agent, a man named Mason, his brother-in-law, the assistant agent, and a man named Harle, the examining physician.

They murdered a man named Davers, decoyed from El Paso, and another man, named Mitchell, said to be [illegible] has been in the Mexican courts three years, the arrests having taken place in El Paso, and the men extradited from there. Harle was formerly an El Paso physician.

PETERBORO BROKERAGE CO., Fiscal Agents

It Will Pay You to Read and Investigate this Proposition.

Custer, Idaho, November 15, 1905.

To the Stock Holders of The Oxarna Mining Co.:—

We have steadily continued the development of our properties since last advising you June 28th. At that time we had no plant erected or contracted for, but now I am pleased to report that we have secured a Ten Stamp Mill, together with Boarding House, Assay Office and all other necessary buildings, originally costing $15,000.00, hence you will know that we have been making great progress, and are rapidly approaching a productive stage, but as we have a final payment to make on this Mill, we will not withdraw our stock from the market until this money is raised. We are now making preparations so that by early spring we can start our Mill for a long and continuous run. You will be advised later on as to the date when we will start so that you can be present if possible.

In addition to this Mill, which is now erected, with all machinery in place and in perfect running order, we have secured the machinery for another Ten Stamp Mill, consisting of Battery, Seventy-five Horse Power Engine, two Forty Horse Power Boilers, and all other necessary machinery which we expect to install in the Mill now already equipped, while will increase the capacity of our plant from 750 to 1500 tons a month, which means a great saving in the cost of reducing our ores, as it takes about the same labor to operate a Ten Stamp Mill as it does to operate a Twenty Stamp Mill, about the only additional expenses necessary to operate the larger Mill is a little additional fuel. In addition to above machinery we have also purchased an Ingersoll Air Compressor for use in the Mines, at a cost of $1200.00.

We are assured funds to complete our payment on the Ten Stamp Mill and for other purposes, and never having any brokers to place our stock, we have had no commissions to pay, hence we have financed the Company for a less sum than is usually required. We have no debts and will pay no salaries until after the Mill goes into commission.

I also beg to advise you that we expect to take over the control of the stock of the Corning Mining Company, at an early date, giving a part of our stock in payment therefore. This will give us an additional eighty acres of Mineral Land, twenty acres of which is the Black Mine. This Mine has produced $100,000.00 net, and has one mile of developments, costing over $70,000.00, and an additional sum of $10,187.00 has been expended in developments this and last summer. Our Mill is on this group and is adjoined by "The Lucky Boy Mine," which has produced $1,000,000. and by "The Badger Group," which has paid $500,000.00 on a capital of $1200.00.

The time is rapidly approaching when THE OXARNA COMPANY WILL BE ONE OF THE STEADY PRODUCERS, and I urge each of the stock holders to buy all the stock that he or she can pay for while it can be had at the exceedingly low price of 10 cents a share. The officers are increasing their holdings and we want to give all the stock holders an equal chance with us. I have just put $1,000.00 more cash into the Company's Treasury for stock at 10 cents a share, the same that you will pay if you take advantage of this opportunity NOW.

I trust that you will be pleased with this report and with the efforts that are being made by your officers for the interests of each stock holder.

REGINALD CORYELL, Manager Oxarna Gold Minging Company.

To the readers of "The Times":—

The above report has been sent out to all our stock holders, and the allotment of stock for sale at 10 cents a share is being rapidly taken, for the ore that we are now taking out averages over $57.00 a ton, and, with our Twenty Stamp Mill in operation, our earnings will not be less than $30,000.00 net per month, which will enable us to pay at least 100 per cent. (ten times the present cost) in dividends within six months from the time we put the Mill in commission. For immediate acceptance only, I can offer this stock for 10 cents a share cash, or one-quarter of the amount with order and a like amount in 30, 60 and 90 days. Make all orders payable to the undersigned, or remit through the NATIONAL BANK OF DELPHOS.

W. E. FLODING, Vice-President Oxarna Mining Company.

Yesterday Was Cold

Yesterday was cold. It was noticed that many ladies on their way to church developed a sudden tender regard for their nasal organs, carefully hiding that portion of their physiognomy in glove clad hands. Strange to say their male friends paid more attention to tingling ears. Appearance always counts.

THE TEA PENALTY

A Strong Man's Experience

Writing from a busy railroad town the wife of an employe of one of the great roads says:

"My husband is a railroad man who has been so much benefited by the use of Postum Food Coffee that he wishes me to express his thanks to you for the good you have done him. His waking hours are taken up with his work that he has no time to write himself.

"He has been a great tea drinker all his life and has always liked it strong.

"Tea has, of late years, acted on him like morphine does upon most people. At first it soothed him, but only for an hour or so, then it began to affect his nerves to such an extent that he could not sleep at night, and he would go to his work in the morning wretched and miserable from the loss of rest. This condition grew constantly worse, until his friends persuaded him, some four months ago, to quit tea and use Postum.

"At first he used Postum only for breakfast, but as he liked the taste of it, and it somehow seemed to do him good, he added it to his evening meal. Then, as he grew better, he began to drink it for his noon meal, and now he will drink nothing else at table.

"His condition is so wonderful improved during these four months that he could not be hired to give up Postum and go back to tea. His nerves have become steady and reliable once more, and his sleep is easy, natural and refreshing. He owes all this to Postum for he has taken no medicine and made no other change in his diet. His brother, who was very nervous from coffee-drinking, was persuaded by us to give up the coffee and use Postum and he also, has recovered his health and strength." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

The Mayoralty Sphynx

Mayor Beat at present assumes a Sphynx-like expression when asked as to chances of his being a candidate next year. The genial Harry, when asked a pointed question on this subject, only looks wise and assumes a smile that would take a Philadelphia lawyer to correctly interpret. This city will have to hunt far and intelligently to get a better man and one who will give more honest or able services in the presiding chair at her council meetings. It is to be hoped that, all things being equal, Mayor Beat will once more give his time and valuable services to the city.

Hotel Yards Crowded Saturday

Saturday's market was one of the most largely attended here for years. Into one hotel yard, that of the Windsor on Brock street, there were 54 horses stabled during the busy market hours. This yard, although spacious, was simply packed with all kinds of buggies and wagons, farmers arriving late having to feed their horses as they stood outside tied to their rigs. Other hotels reported great demand on all their available yard room and stables. They all report having had difficulty in feeding the immense invasion of farmers. It was generally conceded that with any curtailment of yard or table facilities, many farmers would, of necessity make less frequent visits to the city.

—Hon. Senator Cox was in the city on Saturday.

—Mr. and Mrs. James Kendry are in New York city. Mr. Kendry was on Saturday evening one of the guests at a dinner given by Mr. Gustav Schwab of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company, on board the ocean greyhound Kaiser Wilhelm II., one of the finest ships afloat.

Miss Davies appeared in several numbers and was given a cordial reception. She had to respond to several encores.

MR. BURNHAM PRAISED

Toronto Mail and Empire Has Strong Words of Praise for Marcelle

Referring to the latest work from the facile pen of Mr. J. H. Burnham, Peterboro's novelist and historian, the Toronto Mail and Empire of Saturday, in their book review, says:

"In the mad rush of new books demanding attention for the Christmas trade, there is none more deserving than one of the early fall books — 'Marcelle,' by Hamilton Burnham. Not only is this fascinating romance, about a French-Canadian maid and her Indian lover, sufficient to hold and sharpen the reader after diversions, but Mr. Burnham is such a faithful and accurate historian, that the student has not fault to find. Moreover this author writes excellent English.

TO BUY PLANT

Officers of Peterboro Sandstone Brick Co. Gone on Tour of Inspection

That the Peterboro Sandstone Brick Company, whose recent incorporation was noted as a former issue of The Times, means business, and not letting the moss grow under their feet, is fully in evidence.

Messrs. J. J. English, president of the company, accompanied by Mr. R. Hardiment and Mr. L. F. Clarry, of the same company, are now absent in the United States, visiting the most modern sandlime brick plants, and to complete the purchase of the machinery, which will be installed as soon as the most modern and latest type extant can be bought and hurried forward to this city.

IT DRAWS HARD

On a woman's vitality to do work for which she is unfitted, and we wonder how some of the women of our land live through a single season of pleasure or dissipation.

They will say with tears in their eyes, when they mention the subject at all "it is a hard pull," that with pain, weakness and weariness they are "almost dragged out."

Many, in this condition, resort to alcoholic stimulants and "invigorants," the after effects of which are very injurious.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, forty years, ago found that women were being mistreated through ignorance or carelessness and determined to devote his life and energies to their relief.

Having found the cause of their suffering, he next sought for the means of relief, and found in Nature's laboratory—the earth, certain roots which had remarkable and valuable medicinal virtues for the cure of these ailments.

Using chemically pure glycerine, of proper strength instead of alcohol, he prepared extracts of these, and the result was so satisfactory that the combination became his "Favorite Prescription." The roots used are: Lady's Slipper root, Black Cohosh root, Bethroot root, Blue Cohosh root and Golden Seal root. The world knows it as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which has the wonderful and unparalleled record of a half-million of cures in the last forty years.

"I am glad to be able to testify as to the merits of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the many ills that women suffer with," writes Miss Gertrude Mitchell (President Young Ladies' Christian Endeavor Society), 69 Columbia Street, E., Detroit, Mich. "After many years of suffering and pain, I took your medicine, and in a short time began to feel stronger, became more regular and didn't have the bearing-down pains which had been my lot for so long. Shall never cease to be very grateful that it was brought to my notice. I have no pains, and feel much stronger generally."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cleanse the clogged system from accumulated impurities.

PETITION TO WIND UP

Directors of Peterboro Cold Storage Co. Want to Wind up the Concern

Messrs. E. B. Edwards and D. W. Dumble, acting for the directors of the Peterboro Cold Storage and Provision Co., have presented a petition to his Honor Judge Weller, to wind up the business of the company.

Messrs. A. P. Poussette, and Mr. D. O'Connell representing the shareholders, opposed to the petition. Several stockholders appeared in response to the notices sent out informing them that the petition would be presented. Objections were taken by Messrs. Poussette and O'Connell to the validity of the proceedings and certain technical objections were also raised by them to the petition itself. Affidavits were read in opposition to the petition and Mr. Judge permitted several shareholders to make statements viva voce on oath and also gave permission to have shareholders examined and cross examined by counsel. An adjournment was made to permit counsel to cross examine deponents whose affidavits have been filed.

NEXT YEAR'S COUNCIL

Aldermen Hicks Has Definitely Decided to Retire

Ald. R. Hicks has definitely decided to withdraw from the arena for local aldermanic politics. Mr. Hicks has been in the council two years and has proved to be a capable, progressive representative. He is chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee, and has done good work on several other committees. It is hoped that Ald. Hicks will reconsider his intention and again be a candidate.

It is said that pressure is being brought to bear upon Ald. Crowe to get him to reconsider his alleged determination to retire this year.

SIN'S CONSEQUENCES

Innocent Indulgence Often Brings Trouble—Simple Means of Escape.

The consequences of violating physical law are often as unpleasant as the breaking of a moral rule. The innocent indulgence of over-eating brings consequences that amount to real suffering. Indigestion is not natural; it is not right; it should not be. We offer a means of escape in Mi-o-na tablets that is simple and practical.

These simple tablets are composed of such valuable medicinal agents as bismuth subgallate, which is superior to all other remedies for stomach troubles, cerium oxalate, and tonics and correctives which promote the action of the digestive organs, strengthen the whole digestive tract, and make it possible to eat what you like and when you like.

If you suffer with head aches, indigestion, flatulency, heart burn, dizziness, sleeplessness, back aches, or debility and weakness, begin the use of Mi-o-na at once. Just one tablet out of a 50 cent box before each meal, and you will regain perfect health and strength.

If you cannot obtain Mi-o-na of your druggist, it will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price. Write us for advice on your case from a leading stomach specialist which will be sent free. The E. T. Booth Company, Ithaca, N. Y.

Great General Strike is Their Answer

St. Petersburg, Dec. 12.—There is every indication to-day that the Government's challenge will be accepted, and that within forty-eight hours a general strike throughout Russia will be ordered. A terrible storm has been raised by the arrest of M. Krustaleff, president of the Executive Committee of the Workmen's Council, which was followed during the night by the imprisonment of the members of the Workmen's Council and a number of socialistic leaders. "The reaction has come," were the words on every lip, and in the liberal extremist camp there was only one opinion, namely, that it must be resisted to the bitter end.

At all the meetings last night, some of which lasted until morning the opinion was unanimous that the Government had forced the hands of the proletariat, and that the supreme weapon, a general strike, must be invoked.

The newspaper editors at yesterday evening's meeting decided that the temporary press law, forbidding the discussion of vital questions, affecting the welfare of the nation, violated the principles of freedom of speech, and of the press guaranteed by the Imperial manifesto, and that it must be defied. The result was that the editions of the Russ and half a dozen more Radical papers were confiscated. The employes of the Riga-Orel Railroad have declared a strike on account of the declarations of martial law in Livonia and have sent an appeal to the other roads to join. Last night the railroad men of the Baltic lines decided to follow the example of the Riga-Orel men.

A FRIGHTFUL SITUATION.

The situation in Livonia is frightful. Absolute anarchy prevails. A passenger who arrived here today declared the streets of Riga were flowing with blood. After a meeting the railway men of Riga were moved down by the fire of machine guns and artillery. The railroad men of St. Petersburg, at a meeting yesterday evening resolved that, inasmuch as the reaction is gaining force, and the Government is seeking to retract what was won by the first Pan-Russian strike, the railroad men stand ready to obey the signal for a general strike, but advise their fellow-workers to await the word from the Central Committee at Moscow as a failure must not be risked.

MANY ARRESTS AT MOSCOW.

Simultaneously with the arrests here, M. Bramshitny and all the members of the union of the employes of the posts and telegraph operators of Moscow, with [illegible] were arrested at Moscow.

Interior Minister Durnovo to-day issued an official proclamation not only notifying all the post and telegraph employes that their failure to return to work to-morrow will be equivalent to their dismissal, but all those who agitate for a continuance of the strike or are guilty of cutting or otherwise destroying wires and apparatus, will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

COMMEND THE COSSACKS.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 12. —Emperor Nicholas has issued an order of the day thanking all the Cossack troops for their "self-sacrificing, untiring, and loyal services to the throne and fatherland, both at the seat of war and in the preservation of order within the Empire."

The Municipal Board of Arbitration has appealed to Premier Witte to release M. Krustaleff, president of the executive of the Workmen's Council owing to the threats of a general strike unless he is liberated.

A telegram from Kieff says the postal and telegraph strike there has ended.

JUDGE DEAN DEAD

A Lindsay Member of the Bench, well Known Here, Passes Away

Yesterday afternoon, many and regretful remarks were heard about town, when the sad news of Judge Dean's death became generally known. The first intelligence was a telegraphic message, simply saying that Judge Dean, senior judge of Victoria county, had passed away, as a result of pneumonia.

His Honor W. W. Dean, county court judge, was a son of the late Rev. Rev. Horace Dean (Methodist). Born in London, Ont., in 1830, he was educated at the Barrie Grammar School, Otonabee; Mr. Lorne Brooks of Peterboro, Mrs. J.Jas. Rose, of Orillia and Mr. Fred Brooks, of Sault Ste. Marie.

Wallbridge, Q.C., afterwards Chief Justice of Manitoba, and was called to the bar in 1858. He practiced in Belleville, where he became Master in Chancery. For a short period he was acting Deputy Minister of Justice under Hon. Edward Blake, but gave up that position on his appointment, September 9, 1874, to be Judge of the County Court of Victoria. His Honor was a member of the Methodist Church. He was also a member of the Board of Regents of Victoria University. He married early in life the eldest daughter of the late Gilbert Bogart, Belleville.

In another column of this and following issues of The Times our readers will be interested to peruse the adv. of Websters International Dictionary. Twenty-five thousand new words.

Do You Want an Investment That Will Pay You Fifty Per Cent Per Annum?

Fr. Raschaupt, the great Geologist, Mining Engineer and Chemist, has made an exhaustive examination of the properties of .

The Union Oil and Sulphur Company

near the HOUSTON RIVER, LOUISIANA, in CALCASIEU PARISH, and over his own signature has reported that the lands of The Union Oil and Sulphur Co. have under them large quantities of oil. As real valuable deposits are always overlain, he says, by a considerable thickness of sediments, and such is the case here, which show no outcropping and hence no seeping, it is clear that such primary oil deposits, particularly in the best included in our tracts, are by far more valuable than the secondary ones, because they are by far less subjected to variations.

Professor Raschaupt gives a long scientific and technical description of the property and from its geological formation and position proves the existence of oil in large quantities. He says: "I therefore have the greatest confidence that your land tracts lying in the before mentioned 'oil belt' will cover one of the most productive and extended oil basins."

The officers of the company are the ones who put in the money to make all the tests and to buy the ground; and now that we know we have oil we ask you to put your money in our hands and we will

GUARANTEE TO YOU HONEST TREATMENT, HONEST REPORTS AND HONEST RETURNS

The books of the company are open for inspection and the officers of the company refer you to any bank or wholesale house, or to Dunn or Bradstreet Agencies.

Investigate the officers and directors; ascertain if they have the ability to correctly judge the probabilities of their own enterprise. It's the MEN BEHIND THAT COUNT.

We are within 400 yards of the tracks of the Kansas City and Southern Railway. We own all the land around our well and have leased large tracts besides. The Houston River runs alongside our property so that our shipping facilities are the very best.

THE UNION OIL AND SULPHUR CO. was organized under the laws of South Dakota, with a capital stock of $750,000.00, the shares being $1.00 each.

After the organization of the company we began to search farther for evidence of sulphur and we have a piece of land today that will from all evidence produce as much sulphur as the famous mine near our land, this is producing today about thirty-five (35) cars a day with a profit of $1,000 a car and we want to say to you that this famous mine is the wonder of the world and is paying the enormous monthly dividends of 100 per cent., and they are now increasing their capacity to try and meet the demands, and we feel confident (that as soon as we can develop our sulphur property) we will be able to do the same; we knew we had the oil and we also knew that it would take less to develop it and that oil would pay for the sulphur plant as soon as we were able to begin the sale of the oil and this we think, we will be able to do within a short time, and we want to say to you right here, that as soon as we begin the sale of oil there is no more stock for sale, for this company will then be self-sustaining.

We began the drilling on our property on July 4th, 1904, we have a well that is 2,304 feet and 8 inches deep, and has five distinct showings of oil; this well has a pressure of 120 pounds, which ought to give us a flow of about 2,000 barels a day as soon as we get the strainer on and the tanks built; this takes time and money and that is why we are selling this allotment of stock. Everything points to a high grade of oil and if this is what they all think it is, we can say to you that you will make the best investment of your life when you buy some of our stock.

A PLAIN TALK WITH INVESTORS

What, think you, is the earning power of money? Can it with safety earn more than five per cent? Let raw facts answer. The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company pays 43 per cent.; the Union Trust Company, 47 per cent.; the Central Trust Company, 80 per cent.; Fifth Avenue Bank, 100 per cent., and the Chemical National Bank 180 per cent.

PERSONAL TO THE READER

Is our proposition worthy of your consideration? In buying the stock of this company are you buying only paper? Certainly not! This company is formed on a business basis; is conducted for profit to the stockholders, and you share just in proportion to the amount you hold.

STOCK

The cost of stock in The Union Oil and Sulphur Co., is now forty cents per share, but will soon jump to par. Please note in this connection that when your stock reaches par you have made more on your investment than money loaned at 6 per cent. for forty years. You should also remember that the quarterly dividends to be paid after the well is in successful operation will also be estimated on the par value of the stock, and not on the price paid for at time of purchase.

PAR VALUE

We feel confident that within one year our stock will be at or above par, for we could today contract the entire unfinished output of our wells at such alarming figures that would guarantee an annual dividend of 25 per cent. on a basis of five wells to the acre.

BIG COAL FIELD OF NICOLA VALLEY

Inexaustible Supply of Best Bituminous Coal

RIVAL RAILWAYS BUILDING

Property of the Diamond Vale Coal and Iron Mines, Limited

The matter that was put up in the House of Commons last session between the C.P.R. and its American rival, managed by J. J. Hill, has not been forgotten, nor has it ceased, but the game is changed, and the struggle is now being carried on in British Columbia. Hill's railway known as the V. V. & E., which is part of the Great Northern system, and the C.P.R. line, that will connect the Crow's Nest branch—now constructed as far west as Midway—with the main line at Spencer's Bridge, are both being built and work is going on at both ends of each line.

This railway activity has brought into prominence a new coalfield of vast proportions, known as the Diamond Vale. The coal is said to be second to none in Canada as steam fuel, and is a first-class cooking coal. As it lies in the heart of the richest mining district in the province the coal can be delivered to the smelters at a price much less than is now prevailing, owing to the great saving in freight rates. This will mean much to the low-grade mines of British Columbia, that must look for salvation in the matter of cheap smelting.

Diamond Vale Coal and Iron Mine shares are now in great demand, and the history of the Crow's Nest Coal Company, seems likely to be repeated in this new company.

The stock of the company is being largely purchased in several Ontario cities. Capitalists in Peterboro will also have an opportunity of investing.

POLICE COURT NEWS

There were two cases before his worship at yesterday morning's police court. The first case was that of Jas. D. Douglas, charged with keeping his boot and shoe store, in the Market building, open after 7 p.m. Mr. Douglas pleaded not guilty. Chief Rossel laid the information. P. C. Adams, and another witness, testified to seeing business being transacted after hours, in contravention of the early closing bylaw. The Magistrate imposed a fine of $2 with $4.55 costs.

William and Charles Wescott were charged by Chief Rossel with depositing filth on Westcott street, in contravention of the Health act. The Magistrate explained that whilst the city is glad to get its streets graded cheaply, it must not be done with material detrimental to public health. A fine of $5 with $3.00 costs, was imposed.

HAVELOCK.

Yesterday afternoon two local magistrates sat at the Havelock police court. One of them tried a case brought by the Free Methodists at Cardova mines against some young men, whom they charged with disturbing their meetings.

It seems that the minister officiating went down and tried to either stop the racket or put out the disturbers. A scrap resulted, and the divine had his head lacerated by the business end of a whip, as well as being otherwise injured. Mr. Kerr looked after the prosecution, whilst Mr. Sherry, of Norwood defended the young men. Full particulars in tomorrow's issue.

SOLDIERS OF CHRIST

Correspondent Writes Anent Tonight's Beautiful Oratorio

(To the Editor of The Times).

Sir,—I had the privilege last evening of hearing a rehearsal of the beautiful Oratorio by Farmer, entitled as above. Mrs. Kardley-Wilmot with rare ability and energy, has succeeded in bringing the choir up to a high degree of training, the choruses being rendered in a really excellent manner. When added to this there will be several solos by Mrs. Kardley-Wilmot and Miss Helen Davies, not to mention several other superior vocalists, there is a rich treat in store for those who may be present on Tuesday evening. The accompaniments by Miss Stephens upon the "silver-toned" organ of St. John's are all that can be desired. The music of the Oratorio is not of the heavy character generally present in the greater works, but is thorough out sparkling and melodious. No one should miss this opportunity of hearing such a splendid production as this will be.

Yours, etc.

CURLING.

Fenelon Falls Gazette: The following board of directors was elected at the annual meeting on Friday evening: Thos. Robson, president; F. McDougall, vice-president; R. M. Mason, secretary; Wm. Campbell, treasurer; Wm. McKeedry, T. Austin, J. Aldous, H. Austin and Dr. Sims.

RUGBY.

In his address at the annual meeting of the O.R.F.U., held in Toronto on Saturday, President DuMoulin said;—It is to be regretted that the Hamilton football club, senior champions, and Peterboro football club, intermediate champions, did not compete for the Canadian championship this year. With all due respect to the Canadian Rugby Football Union, I must say their actions in both cases were far from being fair and just. However, this question will come up later on in the meeting, when we appoint our delegates to the annual meeting of the Canadian Rugby Football Union.

A BRAIN WORKER

Must Have the Kind of Food That Nourishes Brain

"I am a literary man whose nervous energy is a great part of my stock in trade, and ordinarily I have little patience with breakfast foods and the extravagant claims made of them. But I cannot withhold my acknowledgement of the debt that I owe to Grape-Nuts food.

"I discovered long ago that the very baldness of the ordinary diet was not calculated to give one a clear head, the power of sustained, accurate thinking. I always felt heavy and sluggish in mind as well as body after eating the ordinary meal, which diverted the blood from the brain to the digestive apparatus.

"I tried foods easy of digestion, but found them usually deficient in nutriment. I experimented with many breakfast foods and they, too, proved unsatisfactory, till I reached Grape-Nuts. And then the problem was solved.

"Grape-Nuts agreed with me perfectly from the beginning, satisfying my hunger and supplying the nutriment that so many other prepared foods lack.

"I had not been using it very long before I found that I was turning out an unusual quantity and quality of work. Continued use has demonstrated to my entire satisfaction that Grape-Nuts food contains all the elements needed by the brain and nervous system of the hard working public writer." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

GRAND ORATION

"Christ and His Soldiers" to be Presented in St. John's This Evening

Much interest has been awakened among local lovers of good high-class music, by the grand Oratorio, "Christ and His Soldiers," to be given by local talent in St. John's church this evening.

These talented vocalists who will participate have taken great trouble and given much arduous practice to this coming rendering of one of the finest oratorios extant.

With such a list of soloists as Mrs. K. Kardley-Wilmot, Miss Davies, Miss Fader, Mr. Herbert Mowatt, Mr. Hagne Sawyers, Mr. Alex. Elliott, Mr. W. H. Denham and Mr. J. Halpany, assisted by a chorus of over forty voices, there can be no doubt as to the result from a musical standpoint. The choir of St. John's [illegible] under the direction of Mrs. K. Kardley-Wilmot, will assuredly give the public the best of music, and it is to be hoped they will show their appreciation by turning out in large numbers this evening.

FALL CATARRH

Disease Prevalent Now, But Can be Quickly Cured with Hyomei

A great many people suffer more with catarrh during the fall months than at any other season of the year, the changes in weather seeming to have a bad effect upon the disease.

Some of the cures made by Hyomei seem marvelous when one remembers that the patients had suffered from catarrh since childhood, and that for years they had been unable to get a good night's sleep, on account of the disagreeable tickling and dropping at the back of the throat caused by this offensive disease. A few days treatment with Hyomei brought quick relief, and its continued use made a complete and lasting cure.

By breathing Hyomei through the pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, all the air passages of the lungs and throat are filled with air laden with Nature's remedies for the cure of catarrh. All disease germs are killed, and the irritated mucous membrane is healed.

The complete outfit costs but $1.00, extra bottles 50 cents. Compare this small expense with the fees charged by specialists.

If you cannot obtain Hyomei of your dealer, it will be forwarded by mail, postage paid, on receipt of price. Write today for consultation blank that will entitle you to services of our medical department without charge. The R. T. Booth Company, Hyomei Building, Ithaca, N. Y.

On the Yukon River

Ottawa, Dec. 11. —Representations are being made to the Department of Public Works by persons interested in the navigation of the Yukon River with the object of lengthening the season for steamers. The proposal is that the department shall construct booms at the mouths of the rivers tributary to the Yukon, and thus keep the fighting ice out of the main stream. Steamers plying on the river carried 20,000 tons of freight into the Yukon during the season just closed, and 5,000 to Alaskan points.

Anxious People at York Loan Offices

The Legal Proceedings and General Agitation Revive the Uneasiness of the People Who Have Money Invested in the Company.

Toronto, Dec. 12.—There was renewed activity at the general offices of the York County Loan Company in Toronto yesterday. The waiting, and an ever-changing crowd, varying from a dozen to fifteen or four times that number, crowded around the wickets. Most of them were looking for money, and in this they were disappointed. The paying teller informed all comers that they were not paying for stock except in priority of application.

Asked for a further explanation of this procedure he said that they were only paying out fifty per cent. of the receipts, and that as there were far more demands for settlement on the part of the people, whose shares had matured, they had got somewhat behind in the paying out line.

SHAREHOLDERS CHAGRINED.

Many shareholders showed not a little chagrin at this explanation. One man with a share which had matured about two months ago, after unsuccessful encounters with the cashier carried his case to Secretary-Treasurer Lynn.

"What I want to know is, when am I going to get my money?" said he.

"You will have to wait your turn," said the official.

"Then, when does my turn come?"

Mr. Lynn went away, and after about a quarter of an hour came back with the information that there were a matter of some five hundred claims to be settled ahead of his, and that it would probably be the end of the year before he would be paid.

But the company is still taking in deposits on, more accurately speaking, payments on shares.

The [illegible] elbowed his way towards the receiving teller's wicket—it was not as hard to reach as the paying teller's—and planked down $2 and his passbook.

"There," he exclaimed as the tellers after the formalities had been attended to, "that pays that up to today the 11th of December. It is not for myself, but for a lady I know. She has been paying for two years, and she wants to be paid up to within the five weeks' limit if the amalgamation takes place on the 15th of January. You see, there will be three classes of shareholders. The first class will be those who paid up in full. The second will be those who are paid to within five weeks of the 15th of January, and the third class will be those who have allowed their payments to lapse."

AGED WOMAN ANXIOUS.

Other callers were very much lacking in his assurance. One old lady, whose face was fully of worry stood at the wicket for ten minutes discussing with the teller as to whether she should make further payments now due, or not.

"If I pay up will I get my money back?" she enquired in an anxious voice. "And if I don't pay will I lose all I have already paid?"

The clerk explained that it would all depend on what happened after the amalgamation took place. It was not for him to say what the Dominion Permanent Company would do with the different classes of shareholders.

A PETERBORO SINGER

Miss Helen Davies as Understudy to Miss Hope Morgan

The Lindsay Post, of Saturday, referring to the concert there on Friday night, at which Miss Helen Davies sang instead of Miss Hope Morgan, who was ill, says;—

"The audience was more than pleased with Miss Helen Davies, of St. Paul's choir, Peterboro, who kindly consented to sing, and although those present were no doubt disappointed at the non-appearance of Miss Morgan, Miss Davies singing left nothing to be desired from a musical point of view, and filled the gap most admirably. Her several numbers, "Love the Pedler," by Edward German; "Orpheus with his Lute," Sullivan; and "Enchantment," by Meadersoni, were all given with that excellence of technique and sweetness of voice for which she is [illegible]

CHANDOS SMALLPOX

Toronto Has Awakened to News Given by The Times Long Ago

Toronto has now awakened to the fact, long ago first reported by The Times, and at the time, attempted to be belittled by a local contemporary, and yesterday wired a local contemporary that;

"An outbreak of smallpox has occurred in one of the lumber camps in Chandos township, County of Peterboro. Before the doctor could get there some of the men had escaped from the camp, which is now quarantined. There are sixty-two known cases of small-pox in the township."

By a comparision of our back files, it will be found that the Toronto people are approximately correct in their estimate.

Killed by Horse's Kick

Chatham, Dec. 11.—John McKellar, who lived about five miles up the creek in Harwich, met his death yesterday by being kicked by one or both of the horses he was feeding. The animals were loose in the box stall, and neither was known to be vicious. Deceased came in from the adjoining field, where he had been working shortly before noon, and, going to the barn, was fearfully kicked, his head crushed in, and his face and body covered with coats. A track of blood led from the stall to the place where his nephew, coming from the field, was attracted by a dog running to it howling.

Deceased was about 60 years of age, unmarried, and is survived by three brothers—Peter and Archibald, Harwich, and Neil.

Bills Wilted Signed

Burlington, Dec. 11.—A good story has leaked out in regard to securing names to the local option petition presented to the Burlington Council. A resident of the village received a printed circular from the local option party, stating that he and 142 others had signed a petition, and explaining the result at the council meeting. The recipient upon reading it incidentally remarked that "he had not signed any petition or had never seen one." It was very singular that the one who had floated the petition in his locality happened to be standing near and heard the remark, and he explained the situation by saying that "his good wife had signed it for him." The man's surprise can easily be imagined.

The Water Supply

Guelph, Dec. 11.—The report of Mr. Allan Hazen, the New York expert, whom Ald. Struthers objected to as an alien, was received in the city, and considered by the Water Committee. He gives the cost of both slow sand and the mechanical filters, but refrains from saying which is best. The cost of constructing a sand filter is estimated at $61,150, and a coagulating mechanical filter plant would cost $48,600. This is a difference in favor of the latter filter, but the cost of operating per year is given as $5,000 and $8,000 per year respectively. In his report, Mr. Hazen does not deal with any other method of obtaining pure water except that by filtration.

Finger Marks Gave Him Away

Ottawa, Dec. 11.—Impressions taken by Constable Foster of the Dominion Police of the finger-marks of Richard Carrington, a young Englishman now doing time in the city jail for going through boarding houses, have caused him to be identified as Henry B. Barnes, a notorious English crook. The impressions were sent to Scotland Yard, where they were compared with those of Barnes, and found to agree.

Word was received in the city yesterday that early Sunday afternoon, T. W. Rainie, a well-known resident of Campbellford, met with an accident which caused his death. Dynamite Found on Bridge Where Non-Union Men Worked

New Haven, Conn., December 11.—An attempt was made some time Monday morning or Sunday night to wreck the new steel Kimberley avenue bridge, over West River, and to kill or mangle the twenty-five non-union workmen who are employed on it by an explosion of dynamite at the New Haven end of the bridge. The bridge connects New Haven and West Haven, and has been the source of considerable litigation and trouble.

Bobcaygeon Presentation

Bobcaygeon Independent: Mrs. McConachie and Mr. Ross, who left on Wednesday morning for Vancouver, were presented at the residence of Mrs. Falls with a silver sugar bowl and cream pitcher, and a nicely worded address by the Presbyterian congregation, with which so long they been identified, and Master Allan was given a handsome volume of Scott's poems by the boys and teachers of his Sunday school class.

TRIED TO JUMP OVER.

New York, Dec. 11.—Believing that voices were calling her to throw herself into the sea, Miss Margaret Bristol, 18 years old, of Hamilton, Ont., attempted to jump overboard from the liner Kronoland while in mid-ocean. She is the daughter of a prominent steel manufacturer of Hamilton.

Both her father and mother were at the dock to meet her when the steamer arrived. Miss Bristol had been at school in Brussels, and had been sent home on account of illness.

AN EXCITING TIME.

Plymouth, Eng., Dec. 12. — Twenty-seven passengers of the American line steamer New York, from New York, Dec. 2, had an exciting half-hour while landing here. A tender with the passengers and a thousand bags of mail on board collided in a fog with the freight steamer Magdalena Branch. The bulwarks of the tender were smashed and several stanchions were carried away, but no one was injured and the passengers were safely landed.

HEALTH FOR WOMEN

Mrs. Emma Daigle of Moncton N B., Sends an Open Letter to All Sufferers.

Most women are tired when they wake up. Housework drags along with great difficulty. Nervousness is always present, headaches seldom depart, tears are ever ready to flow. But there is a cure, a true specific for women's ills that restored a prominent lady in Moncton, Mrs. Daigle, who tells the following experience:

"About a year ago I had a serious sickness, sort of a general breakdown. My digestion failed entirely and I was able to eat but very little. I took violent stomach pains and suffered terribly from headaches. My doctor said it was "nerve exhaustion" and I might never be well. My troubles increased, for as I grew weaker I became subject to neuralgia and rheumatism. Sleep finally forsook me and I almost lost heart. Different medicines didn't help. Doctors couldn't do me any good. I was desperate when I heard of Ferrozone. The first box convinced me it was just what I needed. It toned up my stomach, gave me a splendid appetite and then my nerves very seemed easier. Ferrozone increased my weight several pounds, has restored my nerves, given me a good color and strength such as I never had before. For the weak and sickly I can truthfully recommend Ferrozone." (Signed) Emma Daigle.

REMEMBER: No mere stimulant or alcoholic concoction can take the place of the nerve and blood nourishment contained in Ferrozone. This true tonic always does what is claimed for it. Sold everywhere in 50c. boxes or six for $2.50. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS

A warning which carries more than the usual weight, since it comes from the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association, is addressed to the people who have Christmas decoration to perform.

There is a measure of danger to life and property from the Christmas decorations in churches, public buildings and mercantile establishments. The danger is due to the fact that in these decorations, flimsy materials, quickly combustible, are frequently used, and the electric and other lighting systems are near at hand to provide the initial spark. It is suggested by the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association that special care should be given to electrical installations of a temporary nature, and they should only be put in by competent electricians. The use of cable cord in connection with such displays is forbidden, and the enclosing of incandescent lights with paper and other inflammable materials is contrary to the insurance regulations.

These precautions might be carried out without much trouble. They seem to be based on common sense. Not only property but human life must be endangered by carelessness in these things at any time during the Christmas shopping season. In any large building, fire followed by panic might result in holocaust.

THE FAMINE IN JAPAN

Japan isn't anywhere near as distressful a country as Russia is after the war, but she isn't entirely comfortable. A famine prevails there over a large area. Out of 1,000,000 people who are troubled, at least half are actually starving, not knowing where to turn for the necessary sustenance wherewith to keep alive. So many instances of petty theft have occurred that the police are unequal to the enormous work of arresting. They now merely forward the statistics to headquarters, and nothing more is done. There are cases where parents are selling their children in order to decrease their responsibility and gain a little money. Wholesale emigration to other provinces is going on. The unhappy people leave stealthily at night to avoid their creditors, taking a small bundle of their earthly belongings.

The talk is that there are too many Japanese in Japan. By and by perhaps the surplus Japanese will find a good living in Korea, Manchuria and the United States.

A RARE OPPORTUNITY

To Make an Independent Fortune by a Small Investment.

The workings of nature in distributing her blessings over the face of the earth are mysterious, but even the most casual observer can understand how the acorn falling onto fertile ground will produce the massive oak; how the agriculturist converts waste land into waving fields of grain; but the wealth, concentrated, in the bowles of the earth passeth all understanding, and each decade brings something more startling than the one before.

We want to engage your attention for awhile about the report on our lands given by Fr. Rauchhaupt; this is a geologist of note and one who has guided many a good thing to the satisfaction of those who were interested, and he is the one who is guiding us now and who will demonstrate again that nature, to those who understand her, speaks a very positive language, and to those who understand that language it is an open boook.

He tells us (because of the formation overlaying our ground) that we will produce one of the greatest oil fields in the world; he told us that we would have to go very deep for our oil, and what is the results: we have the deepest well in the south today and have found distinct veins, and now we are going to follow him again. Why? because he has guided us, so far, safely across the stream, and to those who are with us we will say right here, "You will never regret the investment, for not only will you be thoroughly compensated for all you put it but the returns which you are sure to get will be enormous, and that within a short time."

"I am often asked," says a famous writer on financial topics, "whether I believe money can be made in mining enterprises, especially in oil and sulphur properties, and I always answer unquestionably in the affirmative. The history of this as well as every country tells its own story. Probably greater fortunes have been made from smaller investments in oil and sulphur stocks than in any other field of the human endeavor."

The man who seeks oil and sulphur stocks, as well as other stocks, and will use thesame care and discretion as in other investments, will find them much more profitable; he who invests profitably must either know it himself or be guided by some one who knows, and that is why we employed the famous geologist we did, because he has brains; because he has the ability; and he, above everything else, is honest, and if you will call for his special report and study it you will see at a glance why we have the confidence in him and you will also see how mother earth has these things in store for those who go after them in a true scientific way.

Stop and consider some of the advances in some of the leading companies, as taken from the National Banker, a magazine of note. These are facts that cannot be denied, and we want to say to you that it is the intention of the officers to give you a holding in a company that will stand with these in a short time:

	Former	Now.
Oil City Pet...	$ 0.50	$ 70.00
Black Mountain	0.05	1.50
Monte Cristo	0.10	2.00
Kern...	0.35	8.75
Kern River	0.50	21.50
Alcade...	0.50	150.00
New York...	0.50	200.00
Krevenhagen	10.00	150.00
Union...	1.00	1,500.00
Home...	10.00	5,000.00

The thing to most consider in any enterprise of this nature is the question of transportation, and here is where we have the advantage over every field in the south, and as the road that is owned by this company is traversed by the Kansas City Southern Railroad, and which is now building a branch to New Orleans; with the Houstan River within one mile of us, and leases and option to it; the Southern Pacific only three miles away, you can see at a glance why it is solved for us, and if you will read the prospectus you will see that the ideal location has been selected, and that mother earth has in her bowles deposited for us one of her richest blessings and that we are adding to the finances of the world as we take these things from it,, where it has been placed for the fortunate ones. Edgar Everet once said: "I believe that every man should cultivate the ability to make judicious investments of his spare funds;" we say that as mighty streams are made from little rivers so are mighty companies made from the small investors, and are you going to be one who will join us in this company and reap the benefits with the ones who made the first tests?

Do you realize what an oil field is? Do you realize what a company paying from 5 per cent. to 25 per cent. a month means? Do you want to get in one which does? These are questions that are up to you, and it was on the suggestion of one of your fellow townsmen that we are in Canada today, and we want to say to you that if the stock continues to move as it has for the last two weeks you will not have a chance much longer to get any of it at all, and as you have a person whom oyu can go and see, talk to about it, it is best for you to do so at once and ask for one of the prospectuses and convince yourself that we have a proposition of merit and one that will pay you greater dividends than you ever dreamed of and not the small 4 per cent. you are getting in the banks, for they are only custodians of funds, not investors for you.

Any question about the company will be gladly answered if you will write us about it. You can get it on the instalment plan if you wish.

HAD BLOOD POISON 12 YEARS

The New Method Treatment Cured Him after Drugs, Mercury, Hot Springs, &c., all failed.

Wm. H. Patterson, of Saginaw, Mich., relates his experience: "I do not like notoriety and especially of this kind, but I feel I owe this much to Drs. K. & K. for the great good they have done me. I had a serious blood disease when 24 years of age. The skin and blood symptoms gradually developed. Pimples and ulcers formed, running sores broke out, hair became loose, pains in the bones and joints. After I contracted dyspeptic stomach, foul breath, itchy skin, etc. It is needless for me to say I tried doctors. I grew to hate the looks of one. I visited Hot Springs twice for four months each time. It helped me temporarily, but in six months after returning home I was as bad as ever. Finally a Doctor friend of mine advised me to see Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. He said he had known of them for over 25 years, and as they made a specialty of these diseases and treated the worst cases by the hundred they ought to be expert in curing them. I was afraid of advertising doctors, but I took his advice. They agreed to cure me under a guarantee, etc. I investigated their financial standing and found they were perfectly responsible. I commenced the new method treatment. The eruptions disappeared in two weeks, the bone pains in four weeks and in four months I was entirely cured. Yes, sir, I can recommend the New Method Treatment for Blood and Skin Diseases."

The Lust of Hate

BY GUY BOOTHBY

Author of "A Beautiful White Devil," "A Bid For Fortune," "The Marriage of Esther," "Dr. Nikola," Etc., Etc.

He panted, and for a few moments I thought he would be unable to finish his story. Large beads of perspiration stood upon his forehead, and he gasped for breath, as a fish does when first taken from the water. Then he pulled himself together and continued:

"Well, for three months I lived among those lonely hills, for all the world like a black fellow, never seeing a soul for the whole of that time. You must remember that for what's to come, Gully after gully, and hill after hill I tried, but all in vain. In some places there were prospects, but when I worked at them they never came to anything. But one day, just as I was thinking of turning back, just by chance I struck the right spot. When I sampled it I could hardly believe my eyes. I tell you this, laddie," here his voice sunk to a whisper as he said impressively, "there's gold enough there to set us both up as millionaires a dozen times over."

I looked at him in amazement. Was this delirium? or had he really found what he had averred? I was going to question him, but he held up his hand to me to be silent.

"Don't talk," he said; "I haven't much time left. See that there's nobody at the door."

I crossed and opened the door leading into the main passage of the dwelling. Was it only fancy, or did I really hear someone tip-toeing away? At any rate whether anybody had been eavesdropping or not, the passage was empty enough when I looked into it. Having taken my seat at the bedside again, Ben placed his clammy hand upon my arm and said—

"As soon as I found what I'd got, I covered up all traces of my work and cut across country to find you. I sent you a letter from Thargomindah telling you to chuck up your billet and meet me on the road, but I suppose you never received it?"

I shook my head. If only I had done as what a vast difference it might have made in both our lives.

"Well," continued Ben, with increased difficulty, "as no letter came I made my way west as best I could, to find you. On Cooper's Creek I was taken ill, and a precious hard time I had of it. Every day I was getting worse, and by the time I reached Markapurlie I was done for, as you know."

"But what did you want with me?" I asked, surprised that he should have taken so much trouble to find me when Fortune was staring him in the face.

"I wanted you to stand in with me, lad. I wanted a little capital to start work on, and I reckoned as you'd been so long in one place, you'd probably have saved a bit. Now it's all done for as far as I'm concerned. It seems a bit rough, don't it, that after hunting for the right spot all my life long, I should have found it just when it's no use to me? However, it's there for you, laddie, and I don't know but what you'll make better use of it than I should have done. Now listen here." He whispered in my ear—

"As soon as I'm gone make tracks for the Booga Range. Don't waste a minute. You ought to do it in three weeks, traveling across country with good horses. Find the head of the creek, and follow it down till you reach the point where it branches off to the east and leaves the hills. There are three big rocks at the bend, and half a mile or so due south from them there's a big dead gum, struck by lightning, maybe. Step five hundred paces from the rocks up the hillside fair north-west, and that should bring you level with the blasted gum. Here's a bit of paper with it all planned out so that you can't make a mistake."

He pulled out half a sheet of greasy note-paper from his bosom and gave it to me.

"It don't look much there; but you mark my words, it will prove to be the biggest gold mine on earth, and that's saying a deal! Peg out your claim as soon as you get there, and then apply to Government in the usual way for the Discoverer's Right. And may you make your fortune out of it for your kindness to a poor old man."

He laid his head back, exhausted with so much talking, and closed his eyes. Nearly half-an-hour went by before he spoke again. Then he said wearily,—

"Laddie, I won't be sorry when it's all over. But still I can't help thinking I would like to have seen that mine."

He died almost on the stroke of midnight, and we buried him next day on the little sandhill at the back of the grog shanty. That I was much affected by the poor old man's decease it would be idle to deny, even if I desired to do so. The old fellow had been a good mate to me, and, as far as I knew, I was the only friend he had in the world. In leaving me his secret, I inherited all he died possessed of. But if that turned out as he had led me to expect it would do, I should, indeed, be a made man. In order, however, to prevent a disappointment that would be too crushing, I determined to place no faith in it. My luck had hitherto been so bad that it seemed impossible it could ever change. To tell the truth, I was feeling far too ill by this time to think much about anything outside myself. During the last few days my appetite had completely vanished, my head ached almost to distraction, and my condition generally betokened the approach of a high fever.

As we left the grave and prepared to return to the house, I reeled. Gibbs, the landlord, put his arm round me to steady me.

"Come, hold up," he said, not unkindly. "Bite on the bullet, my lad. We shall have to doctor you first if this is the way you are going on."

I felt too ill to reply, so I held my tongue and concentrated all my energies on the difficult task of walking home. When I reached the house I was put to bed, and Gibbs and his slatternly wife took it in turns to wait upon me. That night I lost consciousness, and remember nothing further of what happened until I came to my senses, in the same room and bed which had been occupied by Ben, some three weeks later. I was so weak then that I felt more of a desire to die and be done with it, than to continue the fight for existence. But my constitution was an extraordinary one, I suppose, for little by little I regained my strength, until, at the end of six weeks, I was able to leave my bed and hobble into the verandah. All this time the story of Ben's mine had been simmering in my brain. The chart he had given me lay where I had placed it before I was taken ill, namely, in my shirt pocket, and one morning I took it out and studied it carefully. What was it worth? Millions or nothing? But that was a question for the future to decide.

Before putting it back into its hiding place I turned it over and glanced at the back. To my surprise there was a large blot there that I felt prepared to swear had not been upon it when Ben had given it to me. The idea disquieted me exceedingly. I cudgelled my brains to find some explanation for it, but in vain. One thought made me gasp with fright. Had it been abstracted from my pocket during my illness? If this were so I might be forestalled. I consoled myself, however, with the reflection that, even if it had been examined by strangers, no harm would be done, for beyond the bare points of the compass it contained no description of the place, or where it was situated; only the plan of a creek, a dotted line running five hundred paces north-west and a black spot indicating a blasted

It Will Pay You to Read and Investigate this Proposition.

Custer, Idaho, November 16, 1905.

To the Stock Holders of The Oxarna Mining Co.:—

We have steadily continued the development of our properties since last advising you June 25th. At that time we had no plant erected or contracted for, but now I am pleased to report that we have secured a Ten Stamp Mill, together with Boarding House, Assay Office and all other necessary buildings, originally costing $15,000.00, hence you will know that we have been making great progress, and are rapidly approaching a productive stage, but as we have a final payment to make on this Mill, we will not withdraw our stock from the market until this money is raised. We are now making preparations so that by early spring we can start our Mill for a long and continuous run. You will be advised later on as to the date when we will start so that you can be present if possible.

In addition to this Mill, which is now erected, with all machinery in place and in perfect running order, we have secured the machinery for another Ten Stamp Mill, consisting of Battery, Seventy-five Horse Power Engine, two Forty Horse Power Boilers, and all other necessary machinery which we expect to install in the Mill now already equipped, which will increase the capacity of our plant from 750 to 1000 tons a month, which means a great saving in the cost of reducing our ores, as it takes about the same labor to operate a Ten Stamp Mill as it [illegible] Twenty Stamp Mill, about the only additional cost [illegible] In addition to above machinery we have also purchased an Ingersoll Air Compressor for use in the Mines, at a cost of $1250.00.

We are assured funds to complete our payment on the Ten Stamp Mill and for other purposes, and never having any brokers to place our stock, we have had no commissions to pay, hence we have financed the Company for a less sum than is usually required. We have no debts and will pay no salaries until after the Mill goes into commission.

I also beg to advise you that we expect to take over the control of the stock of the Corning Mining Company, at an early date, giving a part of our stock in payment therefore. This will give us an additional eighty acres of Mineral Land, twenty acres of which is the Black Mine. This Mine has produced $100,000.00 net, and has one mile of developments, costing over $70,000.00, and an additional sum of $10,187.00 has been expended in developments this and last summer. Our Mill is on this group and is adjoined by "The Lucky Boy Mine," which has produced $1,000,000, and by "The Badger Group," which has paid $500,000.00 on a capital of $1200.00.

The time is rapidly approaching when THE OXARNA COMPANY WILL BE ONE OF THE STEADY PRODUCERS, and I urge each of the stock holders to buy all the stock that he or she can pay for while it can be had at the exceedingly low price of 10 cents a share. The officers are increasing their holdings and we want to give all the stock holders an equal chance with us. I have just put $1,000.00 more cash into the Company's Treasury for stock at 10 cents a share, the same that you will pay if you take advantage of this opportunity NOW.

I trust that you will be pleased with this report and with the efforts that are being made by your officers for the interests of each stock holder.

REGINALD CORYELL, Manager Oxarna Gold Mining Company.

To the readers of "The Times":—

The above report has been sent out to all our stock holders, and the allotment of stock for sale at 10 cents a share is being rapidly taken, for the ore that we are now taking out averages over $67.00 a ton and, with our Twenty Stamp Mill in operation, our earnings will not be less than $80,000.00 net per month, which will enable us to pay at least 100 per cent. (ten times the present cost) in dividends within six months from the time we put the Mill in commission. For immediate acceptance only, I can offer this stock for 10 cents a share cash, or one-quarter of the amount with order and a like amount in 30, 60 and 90 days. Make all orders payable to the undersigned, or remit through the NATIONAL BANK OF DELPHOS.

W. E. FLODING, Vice-President Oxarna Mining Company, Delphos, Ohio, U. S. A.

NO LIGHT AGAIN

Transformer Gone Wrong Places the City Largely in Darkness

Last night about six o'clock, many offices and stories on George street were suddenly, and without warning, placed hors de combat as far as work was concerned. As citizens homeward and supperward bound, passed along George street, every other store was illuminated by tallow candles or the proprietors holding a match to search for a candle. It seems that another transformer burnt out. When so many hundred citizens are dependent, not only for comfort, but for bread and butter on the public electric light service, it seems as though some provision should be furnished to meet such contingencies.

Young Man Saved by Canoe

Wire fences disfigure most skating on the Little Lake. Last Saturday afternoon, to come within a reasonable distance of death. When south forty yards, from the point of Little Lake cemetery, as he sped along on his ringing blades, he suddenly took a plunge through the thin and treacherous ice. A young man, seeing Guerin plunging and frantically struggling towards the surrounding ice, which gave way as he attempted to get a hold on it, secured a canoe lying near the shore, and with the heroism assistance, worked his way out to where Guerin was fast becoming numbed. Several people on the shore watched the brave rescuer, whose name is by request withheld, shove the boat towards the struggling man. Who catching the stern, got a firm hold, and was dragged to safety.

STREET CAR LIGHTS

Driver Objects to Head Light When Cars are Standing Still

(To the Editor of The Times).

Sir,—I have seen some kicking lately in the Peterboro papers about the unnecessary powerful head lights on our local street cars.

Now I think the company should be asked to reduce the power of their lights for public safety of [illegible] our streets at night.

There is one thing however, that the city authorities should insist on, and that is requesting the street car people to shut off this terrible head light whilst the car is stationary. It is dangerous at all times to drive a team past this dazzling light, but when the car is standing still and the light turned on full, it is positively dangerous, as well as almost impossible to drive horses past it. I believe the law compels them to shut off the head light when the car is standing still.

I suppose the company will go on until horses or men are killed, and then pay attention to the rights of the public. On Saturday night I could hardly get my horse past a standing car, having its head light turned on full. It would not take the motor man a minute to turn the light off when the car comes to a standstill.

Yours truly,

DRIVER.

HIGHER QUALIFICATIONS

Aldermen Must Have $1000 Freehold or $2000 Leasehold

Now that the time approaches when next year's aldermen will soon be elected it is well for coming candidates to know where they are at as far as qualifications under our new city deeds are concerned. A town, anyone assessed for $600 freehold or $1,200 household was qualified to seek municipal honors. Now it is necessary to be assessed for $1000 freehold or $2000 leasehold.

A change has also been made in the qualification of voters. To vote at municipal elections in towns only requires an assessment of $300 real estate or income. This has been increased to $400, on account of Peterboro becoming a city.

An Earnest Teacher

A local hotelman, whose place of business is situated not a thousand miles from the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte streets, is the proud possessor of a parrot. The parrot, imported to the city last week is moulting, but what he lacks in plumage, he makes up in conversation. The genial landlord in question, it is alleged, spends 18 hours a day trying to teach this African bird to say "Pretty Poll, what will you have. Cough up gentlemen," and other expressions applicable to the case. Mike says the bird is a "beaut," and will inside of two months, deliver a good political speech. His friends are now watching his hands to find a few fingers and thumbs missing, owing to strenuous bites of the red-headed, green, barbed repeater of well taught cuss words. A few nights ago a local Irishman was looking at the bird, and becoming too familiar, stuck a finger through the bars of the cage. As he neared the cocked head, he said, "——— ———, if it was not for your color, I'd kill you."

There is today a crying need of a reformation in the treatment of the body. The basis of this reformation is to be found in the thesis of Dr. R. V. Pierce: "Diseases which originate in the stomach must be cured through the stomach."

In the forty odd years of Dr. Pierce's experience as chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute in Buffalo, N. Y., he has treated more than half a million people, with a record of ninety-eight cures in every hundred. The theory held by Dr. Pierce that the stomach is the chief breeding place of disease, is abundantly borne out by the success of his treatment which is addressed primarily to the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Men and women afflicted with shortness of breath, heart disease, suffocation, dizziness, spots before the eyes, "liver pains," and similar ailments have been promptly and perfectly cured by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery."

Miss Lovilla Bering, Curator Natural History Society, of 423 Lawarce Street, West, Lansing, Mich., writes: "I suffered with chronic dyspepsia for nearly seven years, and this caused me to grow very thin and pale, at the same time my blood became poor and I was so nervous and unstrung that I was unfit to attend to my daily duties. Heart was also affected and fluttered at the least excitement. I spent a lot of money doctoring and found no relief, until I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It certainly is a wonderful medicine. It toned up my stomach and I began to have a splendid appetite; had no trouble with my digestion, and I began to pick up and get strong; soon new, rich blood flowed in my veins, and once more felt the beauty and joy of life. I have now enjoyed perfect health for a year, thanks to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

Messrs. Warne Bros. New Combined Stores Now Open

On Saturday morning Messrs. Warne Bros., opened their splendid new combination store. As is known Mr. Warne has carried on a successful patent medicine store just north of the C.P.R. uptown ticket office. The store to the north, recently absorbed and connected by a handsome archway, all fitted up with a new and complete stock of watches and jewellery for Saturday's trade. The jewellery portion of this store is one of the most modern and beautifully fitted up in this city.

To the left, as one enters the jewellery store, is a handsome office, in quartered oak. In the broad archway between the stores is a new "silent salesman" fitted with unique specimens of the glass cutters' art. On the top of it are bronze statuettes. Down the whole length of the store, are heavy, and splendid looking show cases, fitted with the thickest bevelled plate glass, which contain their newly purchased, and well chosen assortment of watches, jewellery, etc.

Behind the show cases the walls are covered with the most recently made wall cases, of quartered oak and plate glass. One feature of these wall cases is that the whole front, fitted with enormous pieces of individual plate glass, swings up to the wall for convenience of admittance to stock. On the wall to the north are handsome quartered oak shelving for displaying clocks. The decorations, made to harmonize throughout, with the fittings described above were the work of local painter, Mr. Howell.

Taken altogether Messrs. Warne Bros., have an establishment that would be admired in any city in Canada.

Scrap Over a Buggy

Yesterday morning there was quite a disturbance near the post office. It seems that Mr. W. Fox, as claimed by Mr. Alex. Reid, the Government postal carter, had purchased a cutter from this latter gentleman, but had only paid a small portion of the whole amount due. An altercation arose as to the payment, and Mr. Reid, attempted, so it is said, to forcibly divorce cutter and the horse attached, quite a disturbance arose, although no blows were struck.

Before Mr. Reid could unhitch the horse, some one, presumably a friend of Mr. Fox jumped into the cutter and drove off. The disturbance went so far that a local boniface, whose place is in the neighborhood of the affair, interfered and asked the disputants to adjourn or change the scene of their affray.

The York Loan

A spirited conversation was held yesterday by some leading citizens in a prominent hotel yesterday about the York Loan Society, now moribund, and about to be absorbed by the Dominion Permanent Loan Society.

It was generally agreed that the action of this society in trying to get proxies from shareholders looked very fishy. It seems that everyone buying stock in the company was compelled to sign a proxy authorizing the president to vote on their stock "in case of personal absence." Now when things go wrong, when a leading official of a company is given away, looks, to say the least, as though the new deal smells fishy.

Robbed a Bank Fled and Wed

E. S. Banwell, Teller in Crown Bank, Took Gold and Unsigned Notes and Eloped With Miss Hector of Erindale

Toronto, Dec. 13.—E. S. Banwell, of Port Credit, paying teller of the Crown Bank, his sweetheart, Miss Nora Hector of Erindale, $1,487 in gold, and $20,000 in unsigned $50 Crown Bank bills, have disappeared together, and are being hunted for by detectives in all the large American cities.

The young couple, for they were married on Saturday last, got a good start, the theft having been made by Banwell on Saturday afternoon, and not discovered until yesterday at noon, when the bank people became suspicious as to Banwell's prolonged absence.

The cash box was found to be short $1,487, and there were also missing four hundred $50 bank bills, which, however, did not bear the signature of G. de C. O'Grady, the general manager, which they need before they are negotiable. His account was properly balanced at Saturday noon, so that he must have slipped the money in his pocket while in the vault, after having had his figures checked by his fellow-teller. The haste in which it was done probably accounts for his mistake with regard to the unsigned notes.

WENT TO HIS HOME.

Leaving the bank, he went to his home in Port Credit, where he has been supporting his mother and sister for some years. Later he left with the announced intention of going to Erindale, while Miss Hector left her home about the same time to go to Port Credit. It is surmised they came to Toronto, were married, and left for parts unknown.

Banwell's friends telephoned to the bank yesterday, saying he had missed his train, owing to not having returned from Erindale. Yesterday noon Mr. Hector, the young lady's father, came to the city to make enquiries as to a mysterious phone message he had received — "Don't worry about ——, they are happily married." It was his visit that caused the investigation.

Banwell, who is 26 years old, was supposed to be a most exemplary young man, and was one of the most trusted clerks of the bank. He had formerly been in the employ of the Bank of Commerce.

HIS BRIDE POPULAR.

His bride was about 21 years old, and moved in the best society circles at home and in this city. Her father is a retired civil engineer. Her mother is lying so seriously ill that the family are afraid to impart the news of the elopement, and the distressing circumstances connected with it. Slim, missing notes are numbered from 501 to 1,000, series "A." The bank is secured by a guarantee bond, and all the branch offices in Canada have been notified.

SUPPORTED HIS MOTHER.

Miss Banwell formerly was the owner of a small fortune, which, however, was lost a few years ago, in an unfortunate investment. Since that time she and her daughters have been supported by her two sons. They lived in Arthur street, in this city, up to three years ago, when they went to Port Credit to live.

Mr. McC. O'Grady, the bank manager, has handed out the following statement:

"E. S. Banwell, a teller of the Crown Bank of Canada, reported absent from his post.

"We learn that he is supposed to have eloped with a young woman from Erindale. On enquiry at the bank it is learned that his books show that he has taken $1,487 in mixed gold, consisting of sovereigns and eagles, and also four hundred unsigned $50 notes. Nos. 601 to 1,000, series 'A.'

"The bank authorities cannot surmise why he should have taken the latter, unless in mistook the bundles for negotiable bills. Which, of course they are not in their present condition, as they lack the signature of the general manager, Mr. O'Grady, who is the only officer of the bank authorized to sign $50 notes.

"The family of the young woman naturally are very much distressed over the matter, and every effort is being made to trace the fugitives.

"The bank is secured by a guarantee bond, and steps have been taken to notify this various branch bank officers in Canada."

Marked Activity in Passenger Traffic

Montreal, December 13.—The railways report that there is a marked activity in the passenger traffic from Western Canada to the East. The Christmas holiday business gives promise of being of the greatest volume of recent years. This is due to the rich harvest of the West having furnished the means for numerous holiday jaunts. One day last week 200 passengers passed through Winnipeg on the C. P. R., and it was necessary to send the Transcontinental through in two sections. It is believed that this will keep up until the end of the season.

ANOTHER STEEL MAN FALLS

Bad Luck Seems to Follow Steel Magnates

New York, December 13.—Prosperity turned the head of Chas. M. Schwab, the first president of the United States Steel trust, and he was obliged to resign. William E. Corey, his successor, is now in trouble, and is expected to resign almost any day.

Schwab gave the Steel Trust some excellent advertising at the gaming tables at Monte Carlo. Corey has cast his wife adrift and it is said will marry a chorus girl.

Andrew Carnegie and Corey's former friends are thoroughly indignant at his actions, and have made their views public in the newspapers.

Both Schwab and Corey were poor boys, and rose from the ranks to one of the greatest positions in the United States.

Corey, it is said, will be succeeded by Thomas Morrison, a famous steel expert, and a relative of Andrew Carnegie's

NEW RINK READY

Peterboro Radial Railway Company's New Enterprise Complete

As noted in former issues of this Times, the management of the local street car company, has with commendable and usual zeal for the amusement of their patrons, established a fine new rink at Jackson Park.

This rink is now completed, and all that is required is one or two nights cold weather and the rink will be opened. They have got a foundation made for the ice, and all they want now is a visit from Jack Frost. The dressing rooms are completed and make very comfortable and convenient quarters.

Work has also been started on the clubhouse slide, and it will likely be completed in lots of time for the first snow storm.

Women Need It

London, Dec. 12.—At last we have the long-waited-for good word on the ills of feminine devotion to bridge and dress. An Hartley street specialist on mental diseases has spoken it. He declares that the devotion paid by women to the pursuit of card-playing and dress saves them from that idleness which sows the seeds of lunacy.

COUNCILS AND LOCAL OPTION

Some Bodies Suspected of Being Workable

SECRET SESSIONS FATAL

When Council Closes its Doors to Public, Local Option is Side-Tracked

Local option campaigns are being waged in 124 municipalities. Of these there are fifty-one where the councils have agreed to submit the bylaw to the electors, twenty places where the councils refused, fifteen cases where the matter was dropped before coming to the council, and thirty that are doubtful, half of which are expected to decide in favor of a vote.

The Pioneer this week speaks strongly and says: "It is a discredit to our province that so many councils were 'workable.' It may be only a coincidence, but it is rather remarkable that in almost every case where the council went into secret session to decide the local option question the decision was adverse to the temperance people."

Those places where councils refused to vote are:

TOO MANY CHILDREN BORN?

ENGLISH WRITER DECLARES "RACE SUICIDE" IS WORLD'S SAFETY

Says Earth Will Become Too Densely Populated for Safety

London, December 13.—The constant lament over the decline in the birth rate in the United Kingdom brings out a startling argument in The Standard, showing that not only in England but in the entire globe the population is increasing at a rate so alarming as to endanger the welfare of mankind.

The writer shows that at the present ratio of births and deaths the population of the United Kingdom seventy years hence will be doubled, making eighty-three millions, a number which the British Isles cannot possibly support unless there is some unforeseen change in conditions of life.

DOUBLING EVERY SEVENTY YEARS.

But, allowing the possibility, and estimating that the population will be doubled every seventy years, the writer pictures a time no further forward than the Roman conquest in backward—say the year 2,000, when there will be 1,632,000 people to the square mile in England, giving each individual about half a square yard. To house and suitably accommodate these every inch of dry ground in the country would have to be covered with sixteen story skyscrapers, leaving no space for streets, parks, shops, theatres, or, in fact, anything but dwellings.

DANGER TO ENTIRE WORLD.

Assuming that emigration to the unoccupied lands of the world will vastly increase, the writer supposes that the emigrants will produce a progeny at an equal rate, while other nations of the world, too, will be increasing. Quoting the calculations of the eminent statistician, the late Sir Robert Giffen, that the peoples of European origin have increased from 170,000,000 at the beginning of the nineteenth century to 514,000,000 at its end, and reckoning that the world's population doubles every seventy years, he demonstrates the impossibility of maintaining the present rate of multiplication, and contends that the sooner the birthrate declines to the level the present rate thebetter it will be for our descendants. Indeed, he says the time is not far distant when the rate must not exceed one birth for every two marriages, or all people must die before they reach twenty years, or they must destroy one another.

GRAND ORATORIO

Largest Attendance Hears Christ and His Soldier's in St. John's

Last night St. John's spacious church was fairly well filled by a delighted audience, embracing most of Peterboro's elite. The long looked for oratorio "Christ and His Soldiers" was admirably rendered, by most of Peterboro's leading vocalists, strengthened by a full choir of some forty voices.

As all of the local singers participating are well and favorably known it would be invidious to make comparisons as to individual excellence in rendition of their parts last night.

Mrs. Eardley-Wilmot, in grand voice, in Part I. sang the beautiful solo, assisted by chorus, beginning Hark! the God Sound, the Saviour comes, etc. A carol by the choir boys, was very sweetly sung, the fresh young voices, filling the fine old building.

Hymn 59 was given by the choir and full congregation. Mr. Morgan's fine tenor voice was particularly adapted to the solo, beginning When I Survey the Wondrous Cross, etc. The quartette by Mrs. Eardley-Wilmot, Miss Daisy Jackson, Mr. Morgan and Mr. E. Elliott, was perhaps the most generally appreciated of all the parts in which more than one voice was heard. It is unnecessary to say that Miss Helen Davies in the solo beginning "Hark! a Thrilling Voice is Sounding, etc., was eagerly listened to.

The solos given respectively by Miss Peeler, Mr. Hague Sawyers, Mrs. Pearce and Mr. Alex. Elliott were all admirably rendered, and worthy the attendances by any lover of music.

Never have the walls of St. John's church reverberated to more thrilling and soul-searching music than that rendered last night by both soloists and choir; the choir had their parts in perfect control and harmony.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT

Mr. James Crowley Injured and His Buggy Demolished

Last night as Mr. Jas. Crowley, who lives some three miles down the Otonabee river, was driving home, and passing the C.P.R. crossing, the 5.10 C.P.R. passenger train struck his buggy. Mr. Crowley was thrown violently into the ditch, sustaining severe injuries. No bones were broken, but he received severe cuts about the head and face; he was also hurt in the chest.

The horse was uninjured, but the buggy was completely shattered.

Dr. Gray, coroner, was at once called and advised his patient to go to the hospital. As Mr. Crowley insisted on going home, Dr. Gray telephoned at once for Mr. R. Gibbs, the hackman, who drove the injured man home.

FAKER WINS OUT

Horton or Harkness Gets Back His $60 and Costs

Yesterday the case of an appeal, made by the man Harkness alias Horton, with as our readers will remember was fined $60 and costs by Magistrate Deenble, last September, for carrying on a game of chance at the fair grounds, was up for trial at the county court yesterday.

It will be remembered that two men, Gagnon and Harkness, at the fair grounds, occupying a kiosk, were selling, or preparing to sell, packages of medicine enwrapped in bills running from $1 to $5 each. Gagnon was arrested and pleaded guilty being fined $20 and costs. The next day an information was laid against his pal, Harkness, who was also as above noted, fined $60.

Harkness appealed the case, putting up the money to ensure costs. Yesterday he was represented by Mr. Kerr, Chief Ramsay acting as prosecutor. As there was a weak link in the chain of evidence, connecting the two medicine men in the case, the chief withdrew the case. Harkness thus has his money refunded.

The Ontario Government now has a claim in for its fine paid into the city by the man Gagnon; the Government claims that they are entitled under the Ontario Statutes, to the money.

THOS. RUTHERFORD DEPUTY-GAME WARDEN PRO TEM.

Chief of Local Fire Brigade Appointed During Mr. Fitzgerald's Illness

Yesterday Mr. Thos. Rutherford, popular chief of the Peterboro Fire Brigade, received official notice of his appointment, by the Ontario Government, as Deputy game warden, to act pro tem. during the absence of Mr. G. W. Fitzgerald, by his generally regretted illness.

This is an appointment that shows great discrimination. Mr. Rutherford's great experience, extending over many years past, among the wilds of our northern country, and his extensive knowledge of all matters appertaining to hunting and fishing, will be of great assistance in this premotion of his new position.

Do You Favor Reducing No. of Licenses?

This Question Will be Asked of the Electors at the January Elections--Bylaw Passed by Council Last Night.

The Council met in special session last night, when there were present, His Worship Mayor Henry, and all Aldermen Bagley, Tovey, McIntyre, Crowe, Johnston, Hatton, Adams, Scott and Mason.

T.V.C. COMPLETION.

The Finance Committee, reported that they had decided to arrange for the co-operation of the Board of Trade, County Council, Trent Valley Canal Association, and councils of municipalities along the Trent waterway route, in urging upon the Government the need of the earliest possible completion of the unfinished portions of this canal, and the construction of both outlets.

His Worship thought the Trenton outlet should be advocated, as being in the best interests of Peterboro and other interested districts.

Ald. Adams thought the proposed deputation should leave the outlets question alone; otherwise complication might arise with Port Hope, thus delaying progress.

Ald. Mason offered that the main purpose of the deputation was to await upon the Government in time to get the necessary appropriations in next year's estimates for the canal's completion, and subsequent letting of contracts.

In discussing the preliminary steps necessary to secure the interest of the several municipalities;—His Worship thought it might be well to wait a few days and learn if possible the Government's intentions concering this matter. The deputation going to Ottawa to-morrow on this question of dockage along the river front, might secure inside information, through our energetic member, R. R. Hall, M.P., which would guide the deputation on the Trent Valley Canal question. This was agreed to.

EXTENSION OF TIME.

R. Sinsby's request for extension of time in which to complete his sewer contract was referred to the Board of Works.

RIGHT OF WAY.

Ald. Johnston asked that the old London street bridge, above the American Cereal Co's present dam, be opened up for team travel for the convenience of citizens living in that neighborhood immediately across the bridge.

Council decided, that as this bridge is not fit for equestrian travel, the Council do not assume the responsibility asked by Ald. Johnston. Were they to do so the city would be liable should any accident occur.

REDUCTION OF LICENSES.

Ald. Johnston submitted the report of the Committee of the Whole which met Friday night, recommending that the people vote on the question of reduction of licenses thereof at next January elections. He moved the adoption of this report, seconded by Ald. McIntyre.

Ald. Mason.—"I don't favor the hotel-keepers, but the Ministerial Association have taken hold of this question from the wrong end."

Ald. Mason did not think the Council should act in the matter, as they are not in a position to say what or how many, boteds, should be cut out. Hotels is not at present sufficient ladies in Dummer passenger accommodation, and, recognizing this one member of the Ministerial Association has expressed his willingness to withdraw from the stand taken by him on Friday night last; if the Council will pass a resolution asking the License Commissioners to cut off licenses leaders who will not keep the law, and grant their licenses to those who will.

Ald. Hatton said that some of the best hotels do not furnish shed accommodation. The National Hotel's aldes are closed to those who don't pay expressly for them, and the Oriental has no shed accommodation to speak of. The commissioners should see to it that hotel license holders furnish hotel accommodation.

The Mayor pointed out that the inconsistency of the license act lies in the fact that the Council can limit the number of licenses, but the License Commissioners only can grant and refuse licenses. They are the people to say who shall be cut off; in this respect the Council has no voice in the matter.

Ald. Adams thought it would be well to leave the question in the hands of the commissioners, to cut off those who do not observe the law. He favored the resolution of last meeting, leaving the whole matter in the hands of the commissioners to make any necessary reductions by May next, in default of which, taking a vote of the people on the first available opportunity.

Ald. Johnston replied that he would not retract one inch from his stand taken on Friday last. The hotel keepers had only themselves to blame, this matter would not have stepped up had they observed the law. He would, had he the power, go as far as to say who should be cut off.

Ald. Crowe remarked that while he supported the measure leaving the matter in the people's hands, he would vote against it himself at the polls.

The vote was then taken, and resulted as follows;

Against—Ald. Mason, Scott and Adams. 3

Ald. Leary, Hicks and Hall were absent.

Ald. Bagley remarked that he would raise the license fee to $600 had he the power.

A by-law, providing for this plebiscite being taken, was read three times, and the question, "Are you in favor of a reduction in the number of liquor licenses issued?" will be voted on this same time and in the same places as the elections for Mayor and aldermen on January 1st next.

And all interested will govern themselves accordingly.

The posters giving notice of this vote will be out in a few days.

The Council then adjourned.

TO INVESTIGATE SCHOOL PROBLEM

The Pope to Look Into United States' Schools

PAPACY'S RAPID DECLINE

Attributed to the Fact That Only National Schools are Maintained

[Special to The Times.]

Rome, December 13.—The positive announcement has been made in vatican circles that the pope will soon send to the United States a high dignitary of the church to investigate all matters affecting the church in America and to visit all the principal Catholic institutions inthat country. The working of the parochial schools will form a special object of inquiry on the part of the papal envoy, as information has reached the vatican that, notwithstanding the large number of parochial schools established of late in nearly every parish, thousands of Catholic children are still to be found attending the public schools. This, it has been reported here, is particularly the case in New York with the children of Italian parents, of whom more than 25,000 are enrolled in the public schools. The plan suggested some years ago by Bishop Conary, of Los Angeles, at the time rector of the Catholic university at Washington, to convert some of the Catholic colleges at present existing in the United States into regular high-schools, is also to be looked into. The plan has recently received much encouragement from several American bishops, who regret the fact that thousands of Catholic children, after ending the course of studies in the parochial schools, are obliged to attend the public schools because no such educational institutions have been provided exclusively for Catholics, except in a few isolated cases. It is now proposed that many of the colleges, even those kept by religious orders, shall change their curriculum so as to conform strictly to the course of studies as followed in the public high schools of the country.

The fact that papacy is rapidly losing ground in the United States, owing, it is alleged, to the maintenance of national schools is responsible for the move.

Attacked by Tomcat

Toronto, Dec. 12.—A rather peculiar highwayman in an expensive fur overcoat attacked Policeman Dent at 1.30 yesterday morning while he was patrolling his beat at the western junction of King and Queen streets. The officer was attacked so suddenly from the rear by a half-starved muskrat that he had no time to draw his revolver, but killed his animal assailant with a baton.

THE OPEN SHOP

Insisted on by the National Founders' Association

New York, December 13.—Methods for the introduction of the open shop system in the iron molding industry in all parts of the United States and Canada were discussed at the ninth annual convention of the National Founders' Association at the Hotel Astor. Four hundred million dollars' capital was represented by 150 delegates.

In order to effectively introduce the open shop it was unanimously decided to strengthen and extend the organization throughout America. The convention was opened by President Antonio C. Pessano, of the Great Lakes Engineering Works, of Detroit, Mich. The following statement in behalf of the convention was issued:

"The association as a body stands for the open shop and will stand for it. There will be no discrimination in the employment of union or nonunion men. There are shops in which all the men employed may be union men, but this does not bar out nonunion men in these shops. We have no agreements with unions, and unless the methods of unions change as the conditions warrant a [illegible] that will be our policy. We have a working agreement with the National Metal Trades Association, many of the firms of which are members of the association, by which there can be mutual co-operation between the two bodies in case of labor troubles affecting both directly or indirectly."

Do You Want an Investment That Will Pay You Fifty Per Cent Per Annum?

Dr. Raschaupt, the great Geologist, Mining Engineer and Chemist, has made an exhaustive examination of the properties of near the HOUSTON RIVER, LOUISIANA, in CALCASIEU PARISH, and over his own signature has reported that the lands of The Union Oil and Sulphur Co. have under them large quantities of oil. As real valuable deposits are always overlain, he says, by a considerable thickness of sediments, and such is the case here, which show no outcropping and hence no seeping, it is clear that such primary oil deposits, particularly in the best included in our tracts, are by far more valuable than the secondary ones, because they are by far less subjected to variations.

Professor Raschaupt gives a long scientific and technical description of the property and from its geological formation and position proves the existence of oil in large quantities. He says: "I therefore have the greatest confidence that your land tracts lying in the before mentioned 'oil belt' will cover one of the most productive and extended oil basins."

The officers of the company are the ones who put in the money to make all the tests and to buy the ground; and now that we know we have oil we ask you to put your money in our hands and we will

GUARANTEE TO YOU HONEST TREATMENT, HONEST REPORTS AND HONEST RETURNS

The books of the company are open for inspection and the officers of the company refer you to any bank or wholesale house, or to Dunn or Bradstreet Agencies.

Investigate the officers and directors; ascertain if they have the ability to correctly judge the probabilities of their own enterprise. It's the MEN BEHIND THAT COUNT.

We are within 400 yards of the tracks of the Kansas City and Southern Railway. We own all the land around our well and have leased large tracts besides. The Houston River runs alongside our property, so that our shipping facilities are the very best.

THE UNION OIL AND SULPHUR CO. was organized under the laws of South Dakota, with a capital stock of $750,000.00, the shares being $1.00 each.

After the organization of the company we began to search farther for evidence of sulphur and we have a piece of land today that will from all evidence produce as much sulphur as the famous mine near our land, this is producing today about thirty-five (35) cars a day with a profit of $1,000 a car and we want to say to you that this famous mine is the wonder of the world and is paying the enormous monthly dividends of 100 per cent., and they are now increasing their capacity to try and meet the demands, and we feel confident (that as soon as we can develop our sulpher property) we will be able to do the same; we know we had the oil and we also knew that it would take less to develop it and that oil would pay for the sulpher plant as soon as we were able to begin the sale of the oil and then we think, we will be able to do within a short time, and we want to say to you right here, that as soon as we begin the sale of oil there is no more stock for sale, for this company will then be self-sustaining.

We began the drilling on our property on July 4th, 1904, we have a well that is 2,504 feet and 8 inches deep, and has five distinct showings of oil; this well has a pressure of 100 pounds, which ought to give us a flow of about 2,500 barels a day as soon as we get the strainer on and the tanks built; this takes time and money and that is why we are selling this allotment of stock. Everything points to a high grade of oil and if this is what they all think it is, we can say to you that you will make the best investment of your life when you buy some of our stock.

A PLAIN TALK WITH INVESTORS

What, think you, is the earning power of money? Can it with safety earn more than five per cent? Let raw facts answer. The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company pays 40 per cent.; the Union Trust Company, 47 per cent.; the Central Trust Company, 60 per cent.; Fifth Avenue Bank, 100 per cent., and the Chemical National Bank 100 per cent.

Are these institutions "get-rich-quick" concerns? Are their dividends REAL or FICTITIOUS?

PERSONAL TO THE READER

Is our proposition worthy of your consideration? In buying the stock of this company are you buying only paper? Certainly not! This company is formed on a business basis; is conducted for profit to the stockholders, and you share just in proportion to the amount you hold.

STOCK

The cost of stock in The Union Oil and Sulphur Co., is now forty cents per share, but will soon jump to par. Please note in this connection that when your stock reaches par you have made more on your investment than money loaned at 6 per cent. for forty years. You should also remember that the quarterly dividends to be paid after the well is in successful operation will also be estimated on the par value of the stock, and not on the price paid for at time of purchase.

PAR VALUE

We feel confident that within one year our Stock will be at or above par, for we could today contract the entire anticipated output of our wells at such alarming figures that would guarantee an annual dividend of 10 per cent. on a basis of five wells to the acre.

All Thin, Pale Women

Can Learn the Cause of Their Nervous, Used-up Condition

With women, ill-health is usually traceable to nerve exhaustion. Feeling run-down and tired most of the time is nature's warning that more nerve-force is required.

You must build up, nourish the body, vitalize the nerves, get more fluids and blood.

It's this abundant nutriment and building material in Ferrozone that enables it to cure so many sick women. It increases the appetite, adds weight and strength, restores lost color and develops a surplus of energy and nerve force that defies sickness of any kind. There is living proof in Mrs. Daniel Ferguson, Jr., of Prescott, Ont. Read her statement:

"A year ago my health failed. I grew thin and exceedingly pale. At night it was difficult to obtain restful sleep. My appetite was variable and indigestion bothered me considerably. I became nervous and suffered from heart palpitation. You could scarcely believe the benefit I derived in one week from Ferrozone. Color came back to my cheeks. My vitality and appetite increased, renewed nerve force and better spirits came also. Ferrozone did a world of good and made me well.

Remember this: No alcoholic stimulant can nourish and build up like Ferrozone. Fifty cents per box or six boxes for $2.50. At all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

IS SUDDEN DEATH PAINLESS?

The terrible death of two Polish workmen, who were crushed and killed under a flood of molten lava at Midvale Iron Works some days ago, has caused a discussion in the scientific world as to the effect of sudden death on the sensibilities. The doctors practically agree that sudden death is painless. In the case of these two men, according to the opinion of Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton, annihilation was complete and sudden and the men were spared any suffering. The doctor [illegible] whether electrical execution does not cause more suffering than is generally supposed. The question is whether the shock produces immediate insensibility, or merely a numbness which is not sufficient to prevent the sufferer from feeling the shocks. The opinion of another medical authority is expressed to the effect that a person suffering from a great shock feels little or no pain at all, unless a great flow of blood takes place. Death from poison, though sudden, is a most painful proceeding, especially in the case of carbolic acid or strychnine poisoning. Ordinary sudden deaths are painless; thus it is with the quick and fatal stroke of apoplexy, the sudden faint of heart disease, the well-directed aim of the suicide, and with all other injuries that stamp out life on the spot. This is the origin of the saying, "He never knew what hit him," and the saying is declared to be a true one.

THE CONQUEST OF C. N. M.

By Booth Tarkington. Pool Publishing Company, Limited, Toronto. Illustrated. Cloth, $1.50.

In the Indiana town of Canaan there lived a lonely little girl, Ariel Tabor by name, whose only companions were her grandfather and Joe Louden, a neighbor's boy, as poor and uncared for as herself. Joe earned a livelihood by selling newspapers, spending his spare money for law books and his spare time in reading them, but when nineteen years of age, through an unfortunate series of mishaps, he incurred the displeasure of Judge Pike, the great man of the town, and as a result Joe hurriedly decided to leave Canaan. Almost at the same time Ariel and her grandfather fell heirs to a fortune, and the two removed to Paris in order to study art. Seven years passed before Joe, transformed into a clever lawyer, re-appeared in Canaan. The good people of the town didn't want Joe, but the redemerged lamb hailed him as their long-lost friend, and with the hearty approval of the latter he opened an office in the place. Joe's friends were of the kind who need frequent advice in matters of law, and as a consequence his professional progress was rapid, although his social standing left much to be desired. At length, after an absence of nine years, Ariel Tabor returned to her native town, a beautiful and charming woman, in whom the interest of Canaan immediately centred. She stoutly championed her old comrade, Joe, and the manner in which the "conquest of Canaan" was accomplished has been told by Booth Tarkington's own delightful way. The sayings and doings of the Canaanite sages; the humor, pathos and tragedy in the lives of Joe's poor friends; his own manly personality and the love which wrought such a wonderful change in his life, have formed material for a story of rare interest. Poole Publishing Company, Limited, 149 and 151 Church street, Toronto.

SARAH IN NEW YORK

Mme. Bernhardt Tells American Reporters How Trouble in Canada Arose.

New York, Dec. 12.—Speaking of the protests made against her plays during her Canadian tour, Sarah Bernhardt, who arrived here yesterday, said,

It amounted to nothing. It was all a misunderstanding. There is a theatre in Quebec which has been producing a series of degenerate plays. The Archbishop asked that a sermon be preached against these plays. This was done, and some foolish people thought that he meant my plays. The interview published was incorrect. They asked me what I thought about Canada, and I admired the great progress made agriculturally. I asked them if they could show such progress in literature and art, saying that I had not heard of it. They forgot that it was a question I was asking and made me say that Canada had no art, which was not what I meant."

She declared that the scene outside the theater at Quebec was not a serious demonstration. She looked upon it rather as the prank of some college youths.

Dismissed from Office.

London, Dec. 12.—High Constable McLeod was dismissed from office on Saturday by the Middlesex County Council. He addressed the council in his own defence, and said that his alleged inefficiency was due not to himself, but to the insubordination of the constables under him. The motion for his dismissal passed without a dissenting voice. It takes effect on December 31. Already there is talk of McLoud's successor, and it is said John D. McColl, ex-London policeman and a former athlete of some note, will be an applicant. McColl has been keeping hotel in Lucan, and later in New Ontario.

Died from Exposure.

Toronto, Dec. 12.—Joseph Gerow, of 63 Princess street, a laborer employed at the power house of the Toronto Railway Company, died of exposure to the cold on Saturday night. James Lake, with whom Gerow roomed at the above address, found the body Sunday morning in an alleyway near the house. A flask of liquor was found on Gerow, and everything indicated that he had fallen while intoxicated, and had been unable to rise.

Gerow was aged 28 years, was single, and has a brother John, at 50 Berkeley street, who claimed the body.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy and Kergan, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were specialists skilful. He wrote them and for the New Method Treatment for me. My progress was somewhat slow, but during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $18 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $31 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your splendid treatment.

gum tree. As Ben had given me my directions in a whisper, I was convinced in my own mind that it was quite impossible for anyone else to share my secret.

A week later I settled my account with Gibbs, and having purchased sufficient stores from him to carry me on my way, saddled my horses and set off across country for the Booligo Range. I was still weak, but my strength was daily coming back to me. By the time I reached my destination I felt I should be fit for anything. It was a long and wearisome journey, and it was not until I had been a month on the road that I sighted the range some fifty miles or so ahead of me. The day following I camped about ten miles due north of it, and had the satisfaction of knowing that next morning, all being well, I should be at my destination. By this time the idea of the mine, and the possibility of the riches that awaited me, had grown upon me to such an extent that I could think of nothing else. It occupied my waking thoughts, and was the continual subject of my dreams by night. A thousand times or more, as I made my way south, I planned what I would do with my vast wealth when I should have obtained it, and to such a pitch did this notion at last bring me that the vaguest thought that my journey might after all be fruitless hurt me like positive pain.

That night's camp, so short a distance from my Eldorado, was an extraordinary one. My anxiety was so great that I could not sleep, but spent the greater part of the night tramping about near the fire, watching the eastern heavens and wishing for day. As soon as the first sign of light was in the sky I ran up my horses, saddled them, and without waiting to cook breakfast, set off for the hills which I could see rising like a faint blue cloud above the tree tops to the south. Little more than half-an-hour's ride from my camp brought me to the creek, which I followed to the spot indicated on the chart. My horses would not travel fast enough to keep pace with my impatience. My heart beat so furiously that I felt as if I should choke, and when I found the course of the stream trending off in a south-easterly direction, I felt as if another hour's suspense must inevitably terminate my existence.

Ahead of me I could see the top of the range rising quite distinctively above the timber, and every moment I expected to burst upon the plain which Ben had described to me. When I did, I almost fell from my saddle in sheer terror. The plain was certainly there, the trend of the river, the rocks and the hillside were just as they had been described to me, but there was one vital difference—the whole place was covered with tents, and alive with men. The gold had been discovered, and now, in all human probability, my claim was gone. The very thought shook me like the ague. Like a madman, I urged my horses across the river, crossed the creek and began to climb the hill. Pegged-out claims and a thousand miners, busy as ants in an ant heap, surrounded me on every side. I estimated my five hundred paces from the rocks on the creek bank, and pushed on until I had the blasted gum, mentioned on the chart, bearing due south. Hereabouts, to my despair, the claims were even thicker than before—not an inch of ground was left unoccupied.

Suddenly straight before me, from a shaft head on the exact spot described by Ben, appeared the face of a man I should have known anywhere in the world—it was the face of my old enemy Bartrand. Directly I saw it the whole miserable truth dawned upon me, and I understood as clearly as daylight how I had been duped.

Springing from my saddle and leaving my animals to stray where they would, I dashed across the intervening space and caught him just as he emerged from the shaft. He recognised me instantly, and turned as pale as death. In my rage I could have strangled him where he stood, as easily as I would have done a chicken.

"Thief and murderer," I cried, beside myself with rage and not heeding who might be standing by. "Give up the mine you have stolen from me. Give up the mine, or, as I live, I'll kill you."

He could not answer, for the reason that my grip upon his throat was throttling him. But the noise he made brought his men to his assistance. By main force they dragged me off, almost foaming at the mouth. For the time being I was a maniac, unconscious of everything save that I wanted to kill the man who had stolen from me the one great chance of my life.

"Come, come, young fellow, easy does it," cried an old miner, who had come up with the crowd to enquire the reason of the excitement. "What's all this about? What has he done to you?"

Without a second's thought I sprang upon a barrel and addressed them. Speaking with all the eloquence at my command, I first asked them if there was anyone present who remembered me. There was a dead silence for nearly a minute, then a burly miner standing at the back of the crowd shouted that he did. He had worked a claim next door to mine at Banyah Creek, he said, and was prepared to swear to my identity whenever I might wish him to do so. I asked him if he could tell me the name of my partner on that field, and he instantly answered "Old Ben Garman." My identity and my friendship with Ben having been thus established, I described Ben's arrival at Markapurlie, and Bartrand's treatment of us both. I went on to tell them how I had nursed the old man until he died, and how on his deathbed he had told me of the rich find he had made in the Booligo Ranges. I gave the exact distances, and flourished the chart before their faces so that all might see it. I next described Gibbs as one of Bartrand's tools, and commented upon the ink-stain, on the back of the plan which had aroused my curiosity after my illness. This done, I openly taxed Bartrand with having stolen my secret, and dared him to deny it. As if in confirmation of my accusation, it was then remembered by those present that he had been the first man upon the field, and, moreover, that he had settled on the exact spot marked upon my plan. After this, the crowd began to imagine that there might really be something in the charge I had brought against the fellow, Bartrand, I discovered later, had followed his old Queensland tactics, and by his bullying had made himself objectionable to more than Ben. For this reason the miners were not prejudiced in his favour.

In the middle of our dispute, and just at the moment when ominous cries of "Lynch him" were beginning to go up, there was a commotion behind us, and presently the Commissioner, accompanied by an escort of troopers, put in an appearance, and enquired the reason of the crowd. Having been informed, the great man beckoned me to him and led me down the hill to the tent, which at that time was used as a Court House. Here I was confronted with Bartrand, and ordered to tell my tale. I did so, making the most I could of the facts at my disposal. The Commissioner listened attentively, and when I had finished turned to Bartrand.

"What did you receive the information which led you to make your way to this particular spot?" he asked.

It Will Pay You to Read and Investigate this Proposition.

Custer, Idaho, November 15, 1900.

To the Stock Holders of The Ozarna Mining Co.:—

We have steadily continued the development of our properties since last advising you June 25th. At that time we had no plant erected or contracted for, but now I am pleased to report that we have secured a Ten Stamp Mill, together with Boarding House, Assay Office and all other necessary buildings, originally costing $15,000.00, hence you will know that we have been making great progress, and are rapidly approaching a productive stage, but as we have a final payment to make on this Mill, we will not withdraw our stock from the market until this money is raised. We are now making preparations so that by early spring we can start our Mill for a long and continuous run. You will be advised later on as to the date when we will start so that you can be present if possible.

In addition to this Mill, which is now erected, with all machinery in place and in perfect running order, we have secured the machinery for another Ten Stamp Mill, consisting of Battery, Seventy-five Horse Power Engine, two Forty Horse Power Boilers, and all other necessary machinery which we expect to install in the Mill now already equipped, which will increase the capacity of our plant from 75 to 150 tons a month, which means a great saving in the cost of reducing our ores, [illegible] does to operate a Twenty Stamp Mill, about the only additional expenses necessary to operate the larger Mill is a little additional fuel. In addition to above machinery we have also purchased an Ingersoll Air Compressor for use in the Mines, at a cost of $1200.00.

We are assured funds to complete our payment on the Ten Stamp Mill and for other purposes, and never having any brokers to place our stock, we have had no commissions to pay, hence we have financed the Company for a less sum than is usually required. We have no debts and will pay no salaries until after the Mill goes into commission.

I also beg to advise you that we expect to take over the control of the stock of the Corning Mining Company, at an early date, giving a part of our stock in payment therefore. This will give us an additional eighty acres of Mineral Land, twenty acres of which is the Black Mine. This Mine has produced $150,000.00 net, and has one mile of developments, costing over $75,000.00, and an additional sum of $15,157.00 has been expended in developments this and last summer. Our Mill is on this group and is adjoined by "The Lucky Boy Mine," which has produced $1,000,000, and by "The Badger Group," which has paid $600,000.00 on a capital of $1200.00.

The time is rapidly approaching when THE OXARNA COMPANY WILL BE ONE OF THE STEADY PRODUCERS, and I urge each of the stock holders to buy all the stock that he or she can pay for while it can be had at the exceedingly low price of 10 cents a share. The officers are increasing their holdings and we want to give all the stock holders an equal chance with us. I have just put $1,000.00 more cash into the Company's Treasury for stock at 10 cents a share, the same that you will pay if you take advantage of this opportunity NOW.

I trust that you will be pleased with this report and with the efforts that are being made by your officers for the interests of each stock holder.

REGINALD CORYELL, Manager Ozarna Gold Minging Company.

To the readers of "The Times":—

The above report has been sent out to all our stock holders, and the allotment of stock for sale at 10 cents a share is being rapidly taken, for the ore that we are now taking out averages over $57.00 a ton and, with our Twenty Stamp Mill in operation, our earnings will not be less than $30,000.00 net per month, which will enable us to pay at least 100 per cent. (ten times the present cost) in dividends within six months from the time we put the Mill in commission. For immediate acceptance only, I can offer this stock for 10 cents a share cash, or one-quarter of the amount with order and a like amount in 30, 60 and 90 days. Make all orders payable to the undersigned, or remit through the NATIONAL BANK OF DELPHOS.

AN AMERICAN DISEASE

Indigestion is Responsible for More Sickness in America Than Any Other Disease.

Some doctors go so far as to say that indigestion is the national disease of America. Repeated attacks inflame the lining of the stomach and cause the glands to secrete mucous instead of the juice of natural digestion. Consequently the blood is poisoned, nerve force is reduced, the vitality of the entire system is weakened.

There is but one national remedy for indigestion and that remedy is Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are being used by thousands with marvellous success.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills accelerate the action of the gastric glands and give tone to the digestive organs. They strengthen the kidneys and liver, cleanse and purify the blood, and thus add general tone to every organ of the body. Flesh and strength are fast restored and the patient can eat and digest any food he pleases.

Under the vitalizing effect of Dr. Hamilton's Pills your system will soon rally; once more you'll enjoy the blessings of health. Test Dr. Hamilton's Pills yourself. 25c. per box or five boxes for $1, at all dealers, or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., and Kingston, Ont.

A CATTLE HUNT

Local Sportsmen Engage in an Old Time Buffalo Hunt

One day last week, four local sportsmen had a hunt that closely resembled the old-time chase after wood buffalo.

It seems that Mr. Andrew (Fiddler) Tully of Smith, had sold some five head of cattle to a local butcher. It was up to the butcher to remember the old cook book rules for cooking a hare, viz., "First catch your hare, etc."

To give the names, by which the four local sportsmen who assisted to catch the cattle, are known colloquially, there were Ketchesum General, Jack's Lake General, Peterboro's champion sprinter, and Peterboro's champion meat wrestler. We might also mention that Messrs. R. Hibbs, [illegible] Gerrie, J. Moore and [illegible] were also present.

When the party arrived at the scene of the would-be capture, ropes, lariats and other tools were unloaded.

The next thing were to find the cattle; They were discovered in a swamp. A conjoint attack, with the Ketchesum General and Buffalo Bill taking the central position, and the other two forming themselves into outlying wings. As the party closed in on the cattle, the latter, turning round, made for the advancing army. It is related that the Ketchesum General made one, two three time up a handy balsam tree until he struck a bunch of gum, and there he stuck, till relieved by the reserve troops.

Guns were then brought to the front, and, one by one the cattle were laid low. The next job was to twist them up and properly bleed the plain. Then the captured enemy were loaded on a large wagon and brought to town, for skinning and dressing.

MR. CROFT HURT

Howard, a Harwood Man, Drives Carelessly

Yesterday morning, about eleven o'clock, as Mr. William Croft, a venerable and well-known citizen, was crossing George at the corner of Charlotte street, he was run into, and and knocked violently to the ground by a team driven by Andrew Howard, a Harwood man.

Howard was driving a two-seated rig, containing two women and three men. The party had just arrived in the city from Harwood, via Bewdley. When Howard's rig, driving north along George street, reached Charlotte street, the driver, being unused to street cars, was gazing about in every direction, except straight ahead, looking for cars that were not in sight; thus his careless collision with Mr. Croft.

P. C. Stewart at once took Howard's name, and gave him some fatherly advice as to the rights of pedestrians. He also instructed Howard to drive Mr. Croft home, as the latter gentleman was made lame, and considerably shaken up. Mr. Croft, however, with the pluck and grit of a young man, [illegible] eighty odd years old, declined the drive and limped home.

Drivers should recognize the fact that pedestrians own certain rights to the streets.

THE HOTEL QUESTION

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—Knowing that your paper is always fair to all classes, and does not, like other papers, only give news of importance to those who are well [illegible] about this license question that is just now being so much talked about.

The ministers of this town are trying to cut off some of the Peterboro hotels. If these ministers would come to the hotel where I board, the Clancy House, just before and just after church time on Sundays, they could see where the hotels do a lot of work for the public, and make no charge. The Clancy House yard, and likely other hotels are the same, just before church time, is every Sunday crowded with rigs, the stables are filled, and still no charge is made for this accommodation. Last Sunday about forty rigs put up in the yard and while the men were unhitching the horses before church and harnessing them up after church, two rooms of the hotel were crowded with women-folks, who used the hotel stoves and other conveniences while waiting. For all this the hotel did not get a cent. But the proprietor, Mr. Hood, has every Monday to hire a woman to clean out the rooms used by these men and women. Why does not the Ministerial Association give hotelmen credit for all this free work and free accommodation?

Yours truly,
FAIR PLAY.

FARMER DROPS DEAD

Postypool Farmer Dies Suddenly in Bowmanville

Great excitement prevailed in Bowmanville yesterday, when an unknown man driving a team of horses dropped dead in his wagon immediately after inquiring of Mr. John Fife for the residence of Mr. S. C. Hewlett. Mrs. Hewlett was first summoned to identify the dead man, and when she saw him she thought he was her father and she fainted.

Mr. C. J. Thurston, of Kirby, harnessed along and identified the body as that of William Forsythe, of Postypool, farmer, 67 years of age, father of a large family. His remains were conveyed by Levi Morris & Son, undertakers to his late residence yesterday evening.

Mr. Cochrane's Salary

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—I see in the Examiner of last issue a letter signed Old Resident, in which the writer advocates raising Mr. Cochrane's salary as license inspector, that he may attend better to the duties of this office. Now surely Old Resident must be joking him at the commendation license inspector. Does he mean to insinuate that a gentleman, who, in the past, has acted so blamefully, so devoid of all talent of political manipulation, who has always so clearly that he is above suspicion or control, could, by a larger annual payment, change his modus operandi? Of course, by the addition of Mr. Cochrane's other sources of revenue, under Government and otherwise, to his salary as inspector, he might reasonably be expected to devote several hours a month more to seeing that the law is kept by [illegible]

OUR EXPERIENCE IN TELEPHONES

A Few Plain Words Possibly Useful

TO BRANTFORD PEOPLE

The Evil Effects of a Double Telephone Service Plainly Set Forth

A peculiar, and to a citizen who recalls the pitiable farce of telephone opposition here, laughable condition exists in the City of Brantford.

In that progressive little city there is a theatrically savored triangular duel in progress, between two visionary and pigmy opponents of the established Bell Telephone Co. These two would-be opposition companies are, with more ambition than possibility, reaching after the scalp of the Bell Co., whilst in direct competition with one another.

The Canadian Machine Company, which purports to be operating in this city, is asking a franchise from the Brantfordites for 21 years, inserting a saving clause, that they will, in ten years give the city a chance to buy them out at a valuation. The company promises to have the system completed in 18 months from start. This company got a franchise from Peterboro with the same time limit specification. We all know how, when their year was up, they asked an extension of time; now some two years after its inception the company has possibly 30 instruments in operation, as against 700 of the Bell Company.

The other company flirting with the common sense of Brantford citizens, regarded through Peterboro eyes, has taken the ominous title, "Ontario" Telephone Co.

We had experience in this city with another Ontario Telephone Company, long since departed into the shade of unregretted mistakes.

The Ontario Telephone Company was launched into being here under circumstances, that should have ensured success, were success possible for opposition to a company that the very exigencies of its business and public policy demand a monopoly.

The Ontario Telephone Co., which struggled along to its death for about three years, was owned by Peterboro people; not by two or three rich men, but their stock was wisely divided broadcast among scores of merchants and business men. The reason for this was obvious: it was a Peterboro company, owned by many Peterboro men, hence should be supported by Peterboro people.

Those who were seduced from the dictates of their better judgment, by rosy-tinted promises of future development and outside connection, simply locked up so much capital for so many years, without getting one cent of interest in return. The prices charged for service were about the same as those proposed by the Brantford ghost of our local dead concern.

The Ontario Telephone Co., here, started in with about one-third as much for stock; they were not crippled by lack of funds. The company simply tried the impossible. They tried to compete with a company well established, well managed, lust to its patrons, and possessed of unlimited means for meeting any unforeseen contingencies, that inevitably arise in telephone business.

It is not for us to advise our neighbors of Brantford, we simply state facts and let them take advantage of or neglect them.

Such puny opposition as these little one-horse local concerns can put up, does no material harm to the Bell Company, but must inevitably, whilst running their short course of existence, be a "hold-up" to merchants and others, who are compelled to pay for two sets of instruments, one, in a mistaken sense of local loyalty to a home-run concern, and to the Bell Co. for telephone service.

BREAKS AN ARM

S. Decarlo, an Italian Falls From C.P R. Tie Car

Yesterday afternoon, as a gang of Italians were engaged in unloading ties from a C.P.R. flat car, one of their number, by name Decarlo, had the misfortune to fall from the car and break his arm.

It seems that Decarlo, standing on the loaded car, was using a cant hook. The cant hook slipped unexpectedly and Decarlo fell backwards to the ground. When picked up it was found that he was badly cut and in great pain. Dr. Gray was called and examined the injured man. Besides other injuries the doctor found the Italian's left arm broken. Decarlo was removed to St. Joseph's hospital, where Dr Gray set the fractured arm and dressed the other wounds. It is feared it will be some weeks before the unfortunate man will be able to return to work.

SOUND INVESTMENT

Rare Opportunity to Secure Stock in British Columbia Trust Company Denounced Sara's Plays

In these days of multitudinous opportunities advertised to secure the capital of investors, it is well to thoroughly investigate each individual proposition, from every point of view, before placing your funds.

There is such a diversity of schemes to lure money out of credulous investors' pockets that many people go headlong into any proposition promising good returns in interest or dividends.

In another portion of this issue appears the advertisement of a newly incorporated company of British Columbia, that bears every evidence of solidity and unlimited future financial possibilities.

Possibly the most important feature of any company or corporation's financial standing is the class of men forming the directorate.

The Securities Corporation of British Columbia, Ltd., which is now offering 10,000 shares of its stock, par value $100, at $110, has among its Directors such well known gentlemen as F. S. Barnard, Chairman, Director of the B. C. Electric Railway; D. R. Ker, President of the Brackman-Ker Milling Co.; Richard Hall, M.P.P., Director Victoria Sealing Co.; Robt. Kelly, Kelly-Douglas & Co., Wholesale Grocers, Vancouver; Hon. F. L. Carter-Cotton, M.P., Man. Editor News Advertiser; Wm. Farrell, President B. C. Telephone Co.; Patrick Donnelly, General Manager, late Manager The Great West Per. L. & S. Co. for B. C.

With such a list of Directors, gentlemen well known and respected in financial circles all over the Dominion, the future of the Securities Corporation is assured.

The inception of such a company in the fast growing Province of British Columbia, where unlimited possibilities in finance are assured, must not only be of great importance to financiers of the Province, but result in stock of the company rapidly increasing in value.

It might be noted that special arrangements have been made with the local branch of the Bank of Montreal to receive subscriptions to stock: this fact alone gives a certificate of character and conservatism to the Securities Corporation.

It is to be regretted that so many thousands of Canadian capital annually go to the United States for investment, whilst here in Canada are companies, such as the Securities Corporation, managed by men of standing in this Dominion, offering their stock at comparatively low prices, with every prospect of future and quick advancement.

Neglect of Doctors in Smallpox Cases

Dr. Sheard's Report to Provincial Health Department--A Statement Issued at Parliament Building. 20 Cases in Dundalk

Toronto, Dec. 14.—Smallpox is very prevalent throughout the rural communities of this Province. In some places it is of a very mild type, but much carelessness has been displayed by the doctors in reporting the cases that a great many people have been infected. In other localities the disease is prevalent in a very serious form.

The Provincial Health Officer received a telephone message this morning that twenty cases had been found in the village of Dundalk in the County of Dufferin. They are mostly adults, and all those at present affected have not been vaccinated. There are already a number of cases in the surrounding Townships of Melancthon.

PROVINCIAL REPORT.

The following report was given out by the secretary of the Provincial Board of Health yesterday morning:

"Considerable difference of opinion has/has existed for some time, not only amongst the general public but amongst the medical profession regarding the true character of the contagious diseases which have shown prevalent in the townships, more particularly, of Seymour and Sidney, in the Counties of Northumberland and Hastings, and which had been pronounced by Dr. R. W. Bell, Medical Inspector of the Provincial Board of Health, as smallpox, the Hon. W. J. Hanna, the Provincial Secretary, instructed Dr. C. A. Hodgetts and Dr. Charles Sheard to visit the district and to report upon the character of the outbreak. The inspection was made last week and an examination obtained of some of those who had been quarantined by Dr. Chrlaw Medical Health Officer of Seymour Township, for smallpox as far back as August last. The report of Dr. Sheard was received by the Minister to-day.

NOT REPORTED.

"The medical experts report having found distinct evidence of some of the recovered patients having had smallpox. They further report having found cases in two houses in Seymour Township of persons suffering from the disease, which cases had been treated as chickenpox and had not been reported to the local health authorities.

"In the Township of Sidney people were seen who had recovered from smallpox, and others were examined with a view to ascertain upon them. This confirming the previous diagnosis by Dr. Bell, the medical inspector of the board. In the latter municipality Dr. Hodgetts ordered quarantine by the authorities of additional sanitary police to maintain the quarantine, and notified the reeve that if the request were not complied with the Provincial Board would do it at the expense of the municipality.

CARELESS, INDIFFERENT.

"While it is quite true that the disease is of a mild type in these places, yet from the careless and indifferent manner in which it has been treated, many persons have been exposed, and also bearing in mind the fact that the law regarding vaccination has been almost entirely neglected, there is every probability that the disease will spread further, as pointed out in the report made by Dr. Sheard.

"The Provincial Board of Health at a special meeting held December 1, after hearing the reports upon the spread of smallpox, passed a resolution which pointed out the necessity for greater care on the part of medical men in regard to diagnosing the disease and the necessity of general vaccination throughout the Province. The caution was also thrown out that so-called cases of chicken-pox be treated with suspicion.

"The report of Dr. Sheard emphasizes the necessity that exists for these recommendations of the board.

"It is to be hoped that the opinions of the two experts sent by the Government to these districts will be much to strengthen the hands of medical health officers and Board of Health in carrying out the provisions of the Public Health Act, and also enforcing vaccination.

THE CLERGY AND LIQUOR TRAFFIC

Rev. J. C. Davidson Deals With the License Reduction Question

[To the Editor of The Times.]

Sir,—In view of the public action lately taken in reference to the liquor question, and many little conceptions in regard to the matter, I think it well to bring certain facts before your notice and to make certain suggestions for the public weal which I believe will commend themselves to all unprejudiced men.

To begin with, let me say that I now speak personally, and not as a member of the Ministerial Association.

First, as being licensed by them, the public have a definite interest and voice in the way in which the liquor traffic in conducted. That the conduct of this business in Peterboro is not satisfactory may for the present be taken for granted. Our grounds of action are unfortunately only too strong, and the fact was generally conceded by Councillors last Friday.

CLERGY AND MORAL REFORMS: Is it reasonable for the clergy of the city to raise steps to call attention to such abuses with a view to improvement? Not if the people regard their clergy as men to be kept (like the unused Family Bible) under an Ecclesiastical glass case, restricted to their church services and afternoon calls upon the ladies of their congregations. For myself, I choose instead of this, the conception of our mission voiced by a prominent citizen, who in answer to the objection that this was a painful position for clergy to occupy, said "it is the very position where we should expect to find the moral leaders of the community doing their duty." Again, the drunkards who are "formed" by present conditions are largely turned over to us to be "reformed," and our intimate knowledge of home life brings the results of such abuses directly and constantly before us. If then we, with all this direct connection and knowledge, shrink from tackling such public difficulties of a moral nature, to whom may people look for leadership and action?

MENDING VS. ENDING: Passing from this point, there are two different means being employed for removing the difficulties of the liquor traffic as it is too often conducted today.

Into the question of the efficiency or inefficiency of prohibition as applied to our city, I do not now enter. But granted that it is inadvisable to attempt the ending of the traffic in Peterboro, the only alternative would seem to be something towards its mending under conditions as they are today, with the added probability that these will become much worse when prohibition is adopted in the country around us.

With the rapidly increasing public determination for moral reform, as shown in the two movements throughout the Province today (for prohibition in the country and increased regulation in the city), clearly the only chance the liquor men have to save themselves and the executioner's axe, is to check abuses and to raise the whole tone of their business, and the better class of them should be heartily thankful to us for bringing public pressure to bear with this object in view.

IMPROVEMENT THE OBJECT, NOT ATTACK: This brings me to an entire mistake which has been made about our movement of last week. We did not go to the Council to attack the liquor sellers, nor did we as officers of the association use harsh or extreme language about them. Indeed, we had no such feelings towards our fellow-citizens, with whom we felt it a privilege to confer in a frank and friendly fashion as to the important issues between us. We were entering upon no crusade against these men, and until the vote of the Council no feeling was aroused. I had previously stipulated that if the Council should see fit to ask the question of the ratepayers, I would ask no voter in public or private to answer in one way or another, and I was not alone in this determination.

What was our object then? It was definitely, as stated, the improvement of present conditions and the moral betterment of the city. We refuse to inform against any individual or to specify how many licenses (if any) should be cut off. We simply laid down certain principles which are conceded to be of a broad and reasonable character, for the guidance of the commissioners if, (with the public support they ask for) they should choose to exercise their power of reducing the number of licenses. No one would like to cut off except through their own failure to do what was right and reasonable. If many of us believe that some reduction of the number of licenses would help to improve present conditions, as cutting out the lowest houses, this belief is held by a very large number of citizens, and surely it may be expressed by their clergy especially in this very moderate fashion.

On this point of reduction, however, I know that there is a difference of opinion. What I now urge most strongly is just what was most strongly urged on Friday evening: viz: it is imperatively necessary in the public interest, that there should be a very considerable improvement, not only in the keeping of the law, but also in the whole tone of the liquor business; and I bring out in this letter our broad and conciliatory attitude toward the hotel-keepers because I would have them work with us in bringing about a better state of affairs.

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF THE VOTE—The popular vote (which was not the main point in our minds) is after all not a very important matter. If answered in the affirmative it will not necessarily effect anyone, but simply give the commissioners the support they ask for in case they may need to use it. If a definite number had been set down, some injustice might have been done. Now, as it is, the commissioners are left perfectly free, and we are assured that if any men are cut off it willonly be because their method of conducting their business is evidently illegal or irresponsible, dangerous and degrading. The policy of the commissioners through their chairman has been most clearly and strongly stated. In time we feel a thorough confidence and with them we leave the issue confident that justice will be done to all, and that advantage is certain to result to the public good.

Yours truly,

J. C. DAVIDSON.

THE LICENSE QUESTION

Correspondent Takes Exception to Action of Ministerial Association

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—The reverend gentlemen who are advocating a reduction in the number of licenses with a view to diminishing intemperance have again shown how eminently unpractical they are. It is true that the ilonored victuallers as a body resent interference of this kind, because they loyally stand together, but some of them well know that they would benefit by a reduction inasmuch as their trade would be increased instead of drinking being lessened. It is undeniable that there are hotels in the city which are a shame to modern civilization but the proprietors are not the places are to blame. In every large community there are a goodly number of law abiding wayfarers, frequent taverns to gratify their evil desires. Such persons will obtain drink at any hazard and if not at licensed houses, "shebeens" will grow up to supply them. How, pray, is this to be remedied?

Does it not seem that the Ministerial Association is as slay in the hands of the Potter? Have we not the paradox that its morning sessions never commence without A. Peace-or and end with a Politician? Certainly the hotel men got more hot shot from the new Canon, but will the reduction in licenses prevent Rumor flowing in Tropical in this realm a Langfeldt want? What is the opinion of the Major part of the Association?

Yours truly,

A. PHOOL.

POLICE COURT NEWS

When the cloud-bank bursts asunder that at this writing obscures the brains of a man arrested yesterday evening, about seven o'clock by P.C. Adams, the prisoner's name may be ascertained. Last night up to going to press the alcoholic fumes still clogged the wheels of his thinking machine.

At the hour mentioned, P. C. Adams noticed the man, who is young, acting very peculiarly on Simcoe street. His conduct was such as to create a crowd, filling the entire depths. The prisoner was, for no ostensible reason dodging behind telephone poles on Simcoe street. He then ran into the Grand Central yard, and climbing over the sheds, fell or tumbled into the Cavanagh House yard. Here he was captured. His pockets contained a flask with just enough whiskey remaining to give it that smell beloved by Weary Willies, and Dusty Diggs of the King's highway; A parcel of candy was also found in one pocket. This morning the prisoner can square things at the police court.

CANADA GETTING CHICAGO PLANTS

Illinois Manufacturers Gather Data Showing Loss to City and Nation

EXODUS DUE TO TARIFF

Reciprocity Arrangement Will Be Urged With Our Northern Neighbor

[Special to The Times.]

Chicago, December 14.—Some alarming conditions which are rapidly driving large manufacturing interests from the United States to Canada are to be considered within a few days by the Illinois Manufacturers' Association.

Reports just gathered show that 132 of the leading concerns of the country have been obliged, chiefly on account of tariff restrictions, to establish branch plants in Canada. Fifteen of these industries have headquarters in Chicago.

The resulting loss financially is estimated at upwards of $50,000,000, of which amount Chicago is represented in the statistics to have suffered a large proportion.

The agitation which the Illinois manufacturers are about to start is expected to assume the form shortly of a national appeal to Congress. The remedy most in favor locally and throughout the country provides for reciprocity legislation which will permit of the freer exchange of American and Canadian manufactured products. It is likely that Congress will be asked during the present session to take some steps in this direction.

EXTENT OF THE MOVEMENT.

The magnetic attraction which Canadian soil has for local industries is shown in the following list of manufacturing interests which recently have been transplanted in part from Chicago to Canadian cities:

American Cereal Company.
American Radiator Company.
American Steel and Wire Company.
Anglo-American Medicine Company.
Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company.
H. E. Bucklin & Co.
Chicago Pneumatic Tool Company.
Creamery Package Company.
Fairbanks, Morse & Co.
International Harvester Company.
Otis Elevator Company.
N. K. Fairbank Company.
W. R. Perrin & Co.
Money Weight Scale Company.
Simplex Railway Appliance Company.

PLANTS BUILT IN FIVE YEARS.

All of these concerns have built branch plants within the last five years. Two of them—the American Cereal Company and Fairbanks, Morse & Co.—are just completing their branches, which probably will be in operation January 1.

Letters addressed a month ago to these concerns inquiring the reasons for removal have brought in nearly all the manufacturers in the United States to compete with Canadian makers in the Canadian market under the present tariff conditions.

These letters and the answers will be submitted at the next meeting of the Manufacturers' Association, together with an explanation of the tariff schedules which are responsible for the situation. They will show that the present Canadian tariff averages a little less than 25 per cent. on dutiable goods. On plows, cultivators, and other important lines of farm implements the present duty is 20 per cent. On windmills, thrashing machines, and wagons the tariff is 5 per cent. higher.

FEAR STILL GREATER DUTY.

While the conditions now existing are sufficiently menacing, a still more threatening prospect will be discussed at the manufacturers' meeting. This is the announcement, said to be official, that the Canadian Parliament which assembles in January proposes to enact a new tariff law providing for a general advance of about 10 per cent. ad valorem in the duties on manufactured products which are imported from the United States.

Prominent manufacturers in Chicago yesterday declared that such an increase in the Canadian tariff will prove a body blow to American trade north of the lakes. No other alternative would remain for American manufacturers. It was argued, than the removal to Canadian cities of so much of their plants as is needed to supply colonial business.

LABOR AN ADDED BURDEN.

Along with the tariff problem the increasing aggressiveness of labor unions in the United States is said to be furnishing an impetus to the emigration of manufacturers. Particularly in Chicago the frequency of strikes is given as a factor. Statistics along these lines have been requested by the Illinois manufacturers, and probably will be submitted by the Employers' Association.

Some of the leading Chicago manufacturers who are interested in the agitation to secure relief and protection for local industries are H. C. Shaver of the Shaver Carriage Company, C. A. Stewart of the Brackett-Shaw Milling Company, Charles H. Morrell of Valentine & Co., and President John H. Wilder of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association.

A Knotted John

It was noted in our issue of yesterday's date that Mr. W. Croft, had been knocked down on Tuesday morning by a team driven by Mr. Walter Johnston of Ilkwood. We are pleased to report that Mr. Croft, while somewhat stiff after his rude encounter with the ground, was able to be out yesterday attending to business. In regard to the seeming careless driving of Mr. Johnston, it might be added that his friends called, after the accident, at the police station, and explained that he, Mr. Johnston, had just arrived to the city matrimonially bent. He was married the same evening. With the little blind roof at the helm, no wonder Mr. Johnston's driving was erratic.

Do You Want an Investment That Will Pay You Fifty Per Cent Per Annum?

Fr. Raschaupt, the great Geologist, Mining Engineer and Chemist, has made an exhaustive examination of the properties of near the HOUSTON RIVER, LOUISIANA, in CALCASIEU PARISH, and over his own signature had reported that the lands of The Union Oil and Sulphur Co. have under them large quantities of oil. As real valuable deposits are always overlain, he says, by a considerable thickness of sediments, and such is the case here, which show no outcropping and hence no seeping, it is clear that such primary oil deposits, particularly in the best included in our tracts, are by far more valuable than the secondary ones, because they are by far less subjected to variations.

The Union Oil and Sulphur Company

Professor Raschaupt gives a long scientific and technical description of the property and from its geological formation and position proves the existence of oil in large quantities. He says: "I therefore have the greatest confidence that your land tracts lying in the before mentioned 'oil belt' will cover one of the most productive and extended oil basins."

The officers of the company are the ones who put in the money to make all the tests and to buy the ground; and now that we know we have oil we ask you to put your money in our hands and we will.

GUARANTEE TO YOU HONEST TREATMENT, HONEST REPORTS AND HONEST RETURNS

The books of the company are open for inspection and the officers of the company refer you to any bank or wholesale house, or to Dun or Bradstreet Agencies.

Investigate the officers and directors; ascertain if they have the ability to correctly judge the probabilities of their own enterprise. It's the MEN BEHIND THAT COUNT.

We are within 400 yards of the tracks of the Kansas City and Southern Railway. We own all the land around our well and have leased large tracts besides. The Houston River runs alongside our property, so that our shipping facilities are the very best.

THE UNION OIL AND SULPHUR CO. was organized under the laws of South Dakota, with a capital stock of $750,000.00, the shares being $1.00 each.

After the organization of the company we began to search farther for evidence of sulphur and we have a piece of land today that will from all evidence produce as much sulphur as the famous mine near our land, this is producing today about thirty-five (35) cars a day with a profit of $1,000 a car and we want to say to you that this famous mine is the wonder of the world and is paying the enormous monthly dividends of 100 per cent., and they are now increasing their capacity to try and meet the demands, and we feel confident (that as soon as we can develop our sulphur property) we will be able to do the same; we knew we had the oil and we also knew that it would take less to develop it and that oil would pay for the sulphur plant as soon as we were able to begin the sale of the oil and this we think, we will be able to do within a short time, and we want to say to you right here, that as soon as we begin the sale of oil there is no more stock for sale, for this company will then be self-sustaining.

We began the drilling on our property on July 4th, 1904, we have a well that is 2,264 feet and 8 inches deep, and has five distinct showings of oil; this well has a pressure of 150 pounds, which ought to give us a flow of about 2,000 barels a day as soon as we get the siralmer on and the tanks built; this takes time and money and that is why we are selling this allotment of stock. Everything points to a high grade of oil and if this is what they all think it is, we can say to you that you will make the best investment of your life when you buy some of our stock.

A PLAIN TALK WITH INVESTORS

What, think you, is the earning power of money? Can it with safety earn more than five per cent? Let raw facts answer. The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company pays 40 per cent.; the Union Trust Company, 47 per cent.; the Central Trust Company, 60 per cent.; Fifth Avenue Bank, 100 per cent., and the Chemical National Bank 150 per cent.

Are these institutions "get-rich-quick" concerns? Are their dividends REAL or FICTITIOUS?

PERSONAL TO THE READER

Is our proposition worthy of your consideration? In buying the stock of this company are you buying only paper? Certainly not! This company is formed on a business basis; is conducted for profit to the stockholders, and you share just in proportion to the amount you hold.

STOCK

The cost of stock in The Union Oil and Sulphur Co., is now forty cents per share, but will soon jump to par. Please note in this connection that when your stock reaches par you have made more on your investment than money loaned at 6 per cent. for forty years. You should also remember that the quarterly dividends to be paid after the well is in successful operation will also be estimated on the par value of the stock, and not on the price paid for at time of purchase.

PAR VALUE

We feel confident that within one year our stock will be at or above par, for we could today contract the entire annualized output of our wells at such alarming figures that would guarantee an annual dividend of 20 per cent. on a basis of five wells to the acre.

Little things going wrong in the house bothered me. The doctor advised different treatments but they didn't help. He said my low condition was due to weakness that might never be cured. STATE INSURANCE.

Belgium is not a very large country or a very wealthy one, but it is a thrifty nation, in which, comfortable competence prevails, and poverty is almost unknown. The Post Office Savings Bank, a system of Life Insurance in connection with the Post Office enables everyone to provide for their families in case of death and for themselves in old age. For a very moderate annual payment, not only does the Department give all the usual policies, but it also provides annuities to commence at any age, say at fifty, fifty-five, sixty, etc. The premium required is well within the means of every workman, and the annuity runs about $160 a year, commencing at fifty-five. This provides everyone against want in old age, and enables them to spend their declining years free from all anxiety, or dependence. Our esteemed contemporary, the Bobcaygeon Independent, thinks it an excellent system, and if the people of this country were not so deeply engrossed with Grittism and Toryism, and any old item that scheming grafters feel them into, they would devote some of their attention to procuring measures tending to their own comfort, pleasure and happiness, rather than the special interests of parties, and ward pushers. A State system by which every laborer between the ages of twenty-one and fifty-six, would be subject to garnishee in his wages for a small amount monthly, ensuring him in an annuity after forty-five, would be a much more sensible plan than taxing the community for the maintenance of Poor Houses in every County. It is the duty of every man to provide for himself, and there is no difficulty in his doing it, if the State only furnishes a simple and inexpensive means of securing the desired result. A social system that produces a few millionaires, and fills County Poor Houses with the aged and infirm, is a state of social rottenness, lacking in sufficient sense to preserve individual independence, and self reliance. The new Postmaster-General has grand opportunities to make a reputation for himself, and it is to be hoped that he will do something more than keep the mail bags in repair.

The Output of Placer Gold in Chile Wonderful

Valparaiso, Chili, December 12.—Prospectors at the Magellan gold placer report that the output there will soon surpass the rest of the world's total production of gold.

The Minister of Finance declares that the present year's deficit is much less than estimated by his predecessor, the customs revenue for ten months of the present year being nearly eight million pesos more than for the same period last year. Laws authorizing the erection of a big steel plant under government protection have been promulgated.

QUARTER SESSIONS OPEN

Judge Weller Noted That No One for Trial Was Confined in Jail

Yesterday at one o'clock, the flag flying over the court house building, announced that the county court and quarter sessions was open. His Honor Judge Weller held the scales of justice.

The following Grand Jury was empanelled:—Wm. Barrie, Douro, farmer, John Butcher, Peterboro, mason; Peter Campbell, Peterboro, banker; F. J. Lillicrap, Lakefield, lumberman; John Maloney, Ennismore, blacksmith; W. J. McMahon, Galway, farmer, Joseph Metcalfe, Smith, farmer; J. Northey, Burleigh, farmer; Robt. W. Payne, Dummer, farmer; William Preston, Smith, farmer; S. Roseborough, Smith, farmer; J. W. Miller, Peterboro, merchant.

In his address to the Grand Jury, Judge Weller remarked that there was not one in jail committed for trial.

It was one of the duties of the grand jury to visit the jail and determine if it were administered in the proper manner, and if the prisoners were properly cared for.

Five people were confined in jail on charges of vagrancy. His honor referred to the law requiring counties to erect suitable dwellings for the shelter of these people. The law says that this must be done within a year.

Although there was no one in jail committed for trial there were several persons out on bail. One of these, a young man was charged with stealing tools from the G.G.E. Company.

His honor noted the seriousness of such cases, where employes stole from proprietors of large concerns. The judge advised the grand jury to look well into the evidence, and if reasonable grounds for possible conviction were found, to bring in a true bill.

The other case was that of a man in Belmont who was charged with stealing a sum of money from the treasurer of a school board, taking advantage of being a visitor at his home. This case would also have to be carefully investigated by the grand jury.

Had His Tongue Cut Out.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—Frederick L. Power, 40 years of age, a director of theatrical companies, had his tongue cut out yesterday, as well as a part of the throat, to remove a cancer. According to the surgeons, Mr. Power will never be able to articulate again. The cancer, it is said, was brought on by excessive smoking. Mr. Power at one time was leading man with Margaret Mather, and had also played with Richard Mansfield and Walker Whiteside companies.

The Publisher's Claims Sustained
UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS
The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it "is, in fact, the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and severer requirements of another generation."
We are of the opinion that this allegation most clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, has been thoroughly re-edited in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and severer requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever sustained.
It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition; and that in the future as in the past it will be the source of constant reference.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS.

Peter E. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience: "I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me, guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair fell—memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me to be feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, went to Mr. Clemens for BEFORE TREATMENT baths, but received little benefit. While AFTER TREATMENT at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kergan, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I embraced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could the vigor going through my nerves. I was cured mentally, physically and sexually. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

CURES GUARANTEED OR NO PAY.

We treat and cure VARICOCELE, STRICTURE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, BLOOD DISEASES, URINARY COMPLAINTS, KIDNEY AND BLADDER DISEASES.

The Lust of Hate

Author of "A Beautiful White Devil," "A Bid For Fortune," "The Marriage of Esther," "Dr. Nikola," Etc., Etc.

"From the same person who gave this man his," coolly replied Bartrand. "If Mr. Pennethorne had given me an opportunity, I would willingly have made this explanation earlier. But on the hill yonder he did all the talking, and I was permitted no chance to get in a word."

"You mean to say then," said the Commissioner in his grave, matter-of-fact way, "that this Ben Garman supplied you with the information that led you to this spot—prior to seeing Mr. Pennethorne."

"That is exactly what I do mean," replied Bartrand quickly. "Mr. Pennethorne, who at that time was in my employment as storekeeper upon Marimpurite Station, was out at one of the boundary riders' huts distributing rations when Garman arrived. The latter was feeling very ill, and not knowing how long he might be able to get about, was most anxious to find sufficient capital to test this mine without delay. After enquiry I agreed to invest the money he required, and we had just settled the matter in amicable fashion when he fell upon the ground in a dead faint. Almost at the same instant Mr. Pennethorne put in an appearance and behaved in a most unseemly manner. Unless his motives are revenge, I cannot conceive, your worship, why I should have been set upon in this fashion."

The Commissioner turned to me.

"What have you to say to this?" he asked.

"Only that he lies," I answered furiously. "He lies in every particular. He has been my enemy from the very first moment I set eyes upon him, and I feel certain as that I am standing before you now, that Ben Garman did not reveal to him his secret. I nursed the old man on his deathbed, and if he had confided his secret to any one he would have been certain to tell me. But he impressed upon me the fact that he had not done so. When he was dead I became seriously ill in my turn, and the information that led this man's taking up the claim was stolen from me, I feel convinced, while I was in my delirium. The man is a bully and a liar, and not satisfied with that record, he has made himself a thief."

"Hush, hush, my man," said the Commissioner, soothingly. "You must not talk in that way here. Now be off, both of you, let me hear of no quarrelling, and to-morrow I will give my decision."

We bowed and left him, each hating the other like poison, as you may be sure.

Next morning a trooper discovered me camped by the Creek, and conducted me to the Commissioner's presence. I found him alone, and when I was ushered in he asked me to sit down.

"Mr. Pennethorne," said he, when the trooper had departed, "I have sent for you to talk to you about the charge you have brought against the proprietor of the 'Wheel of Fortune' mine on the hillside yonder. After mature consideration [illegible] consider your case. You must see for yourself that you have nothing at all to substantiate the charge you make beyond your own bald assertion. If, as you say, you have been swindled, yours is indeed a stroke of bad luck, for the mine is a magnificent property; but if, on the other hand—as I must perforce believe, since he was first upon the field—Bartrand's statement is a true one, then I can only think you have acted most unwisely in behaving as you have done. If you will be guided by me, you will let the matter drop. Personally I do not see that you can do anything else. Bartrand evidently received the news before you did, and, as I said just now, in proof of that we have the fact that he was first on the field. There is no gainsaying that."

"But I was ill and could not come," I burst out. "I tell you he stole from me the information that enabled him to get here at all."

"Pardon me, I do not know that. And now it only remains for me to ask you to remember that we can have no disturbance here."

"I will make no disturbance," I answered. "You need have no fear of that. If I cannot get possession of my property by fair means I shall try elsewhere."

"That does not concern me," he replied. "Only, I think on the evidence you have at present in your possession you'll be wasting your time and your money. By the way, your name is Gilbert Pennethorne, is it not?"

"Yes," I said, without much interest, "and much good it has ever done me."

"I ask the question because there's an advertisement in the Sydney Morning Herald which seems to be addressed to you. Here it is!"

He took up a paper and pointed to a few lines in the "agony" column. When he handed it to me I read the following:—

"If Gilbert Pennethorne, third son of the late Sir Anthony William Pennethorne, Bart., of Polton-Penna, in the County of Cornwall, England, at present believed to be resident in Australia, will apply at the office of Messrs. Grey and Dawkett, solicitors, Macquarie Street, Sydney, he will hear of something to his advantage."

I looked at the paper in a dazed sort of fashion, and then, having thanked the Commissioner for his kindness, withdrew. In less than two hours I was on my way to Sydney to interview Messrs. Grey and Dawkett. On arriving I discovered their office, and when I had established my identity, learned from them that my father had died suddenly while out hunting, six months before, and that by his will I had benefited to the extent of five thousand pounds sterling.

Three days later the excitement and bitter disappointment through which I had lately passed brought on a relapse of my old illness, and for nearly a fortnight I hovered between life and death in the Sydney Hospital. When I left that charitable institution it was to learn that Bartrand was the sole possessor of what was considered the richest gold mine in the world, and that he, after putting it into the hands of reliable officers, had left Australia for London.

As soon as I was quite strong again I packed up my traps, and, with the lust of murder in my heart, booked a passage in a P. and O. liner, and followed him.

CHAPTER II.

When I reached England, the icy hand of winter was upon the land. The streets were banked feet high with snow, and the Thames at London Bridge was nothing but a mass of floating ice upon which an active man could have passed from shore to shore. Poor homeless wretches were to be seen sheltering themselves in every nook and cranny, and the morning papers teemed with gruesome descriptions of dead bodies found in drifts, of damage done to property, and of trains delayed and snowed up in every conceivable part of the country. Such a winter had not been experienced for years, and when I arrived and realized what it meant for myself, I could not but comment on my madness in having left an Australian summer to participate in such a direful state of things.

It Will Pay You to Read and Investigate this Proposition.

Custer, Idaho, November 15, 1903.

To the Stock Holders of The Oxarna Mining Co.:—

We have steadily continued the development of our properties since last advising you June 24th. At that time we had no plant erected or contracted for, but now I am pleased to report that we have secured a Ten Stamp Mill, together with Boarding House, Assay Office and all other necessary buildings, originally costing $15,000.00, hence you will know that we have been making great progress, and are rapidly approaching a productive stage, but as we have a final payment to make on this Mill, we will not withdraw our stock from the market until this money is raised. We are now making preparations so that by early spring we can start our Mill for a long and continuous run. You will be advised later on as to the date when we will start so that you can be present if possible.

In addition to this Mill, which is now erected, with all machinery in place and in perfect running order, we have secured the machinery for an other Ten Stamp Mill, consisting of Battery, Seventy-five Horse Power Engine, two Forty Horse Power Boilers, and all other necessary machinery which we expect to install in the Mill now already equipped, which will increase the capacity of our plant from 750 to 1500 tons a month, which means a great saving in the cost of reducing our ores, as it takes about the same labor to operate a Ten Stamp Mill as it [illegible] to operate the larger Mill is a little additional fuel. In addition to above machinery we have also purchased an Ingersoll Air Compressor for use in the Mines, at a cost of $1,250.00.

We are assured funds to complete our payment on the Ten Stamp Mill and for other purposes, and never having any brokers to place our stock, we have had no commissions to pay, hence we have financed the Company for a less sum than is usually required. We have no debts and will pay no salaries until after the Mill goes into commission.

I also beg to advise you that we expect to take over the control of the stock of the Corning Mining Company, at an early date, giving a part of our stock in payment therefore. This will give us an additional eighty acres of Mineral Land, twenty acres of which is the Black Mine. This Mine has produced $150,000.00 net, and has one mile of developments, costing over $70,000.00, and an additional sum of $10,187.20 has been expended in developments this and last summer. Our Mill is on this group and is adjoined by "The Lucky Boy Mine," which has produced $1,000,000, and by "The Badger Group," which has paid $500,000.00 on a capital of $1250.00.

The time is rapidly approaching when THE OXARNA COMPANY WILL BE ONE OF THE STEADY PRODUCERS, and I urge each of the stock holders to buy all the stock that he or she can pay for while it can be had at the exceedingly low price of 15 cents a share. The officers are increasing their holdings and we want to give all the stock holders an equal chance with us. I have just put $1,000.00 more cash into the Company's Treasury for stock at 15 cents a share, the same that you will pay if you take advantage of this opportunity NOW.

I trust that you will be pleased with this report and with the efforts that are being made by your officers for the interests of each stock holder.

REGINALD CORTELL, Manager Oxarna Gold Mining Company.

To the readers of "The Times":—

The above report has been sent out to all our stock holders, and the allotment of stock for sale at 15 cents a share is being rapidly taken, for the ore that we are now taking out averages over $21.00 a ton and, with our Twenty Stamp Mill in operation, our earnings will not be less than $30,000.00 net per month, which will enable us to pay at least 100 per cent. (ten times the present cost) in dividends within six months from the time we put the Mill in commission. For immediate acceptance only, I can offer this stock for 10 cents a share cash, or one-quarter of the amount with order and a like amount in 30, 60 and 90 days. Make all orders payable to the undersigned, or remit through the NATIONAL BANK OF DELPHOS.

W. E. FLODING, Vice-President Oxarna Mining Company.

RHEUMATISM

Lives in the Blood

Consequently it requires an internal treatment—one that will restore the blood, and thereby relieve the cause of the pain.

After years of experiment, Dr. Hamilton succeeded in producing a remedy that quickly cures rheumatism, gout and all uric acid disorders. This marvellous cure has been given to the public as Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills; in every case they cure quickly.

By toning the kidneys and liver, Dr. Hamilton's Pills ensure a clean healthy body. The blood is restored to a normal healthy condition, renewed vigor is imparted to overworked organs, and thus the general health is built up, and no room is left for rheumatism to creep in.

A Cripple's Story of Cure

"This is a glad day for me, writes James E. Brown, Elk from Midland, Ont., "because I can speak of my permanent cure of rheumatism. I have been all through the aching days and sleepless nights, have spent my money on worthless remedies, and consequently in recommending Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I feel sure of their merit. No remedy gave such relief or did me so much good as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. My rheumatism they cured, and ever since my health has been perfect."

When Dr. Hamilton's Pills are to be had in any drug store, it's foolish to live on in misery and ill-health. You ought to get this medicine today and cure yourself. Price 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1 at all dealers, or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., and Kingston, Ont.

Prominent Pork Packers Discuss the Bacon Shortage

Mr. T. F. Matthews, the local pork packer, accompanied some dozen other gentlemen in the same line of business to Ottawa, and waited upon Hon. Sydney Fisher, in connection with the present shortage of Canadian bacon. The main contention of the packers is owing to the inferiority of American raised hogs, and the consequent undeserved bad name Canadian packers of American bought hogs, get in England on the products of such imported hogs, that the Government should insist that bacon made from imported hogs should be plainly branded.

The demand for hogs, at present, in Canada exceeds the Canadian sources of supply.

Mr. Holgate Returns

PERSUADE AN OBSTINATE CASE rather than lash it into action if you want to see good progress made. This is as true when it is a faulty human system as when it is a faulty mule.

Alcoholic stimulants and alcoholic medicines whip the digestive functions into quick action but do not prevent the weakening reaction which follows as closely.

In cases of impaired appetite and digestion—mal-nutrition and wasting away, a safe and reliable tonic is needed and is the only thing that can be relied upon.

Dr. Pierce discovered, forty years ago, that Nature had provided freely for these needs of her children and that in her laboratory were the remedies. Glycerie extracts of Golden Seal root, Queen's root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Bloodroot and Mandrake root, as prepared, combined and preserved without alcohol, in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, constitute the most effective and certain tonic, alterative and tissue rebuilding remedy ever offered to the public.

A prominent merchant, Mr. J. Alfred Arcand, of 98 Saint Lawrence Street, Montreal, Canada, writes: "I have used Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery off and on for nine years. When I have not in the house I need no doctor or other medicine. Nine years ago, I was troubled with rheumatism. Your 'Golden Medical Discovery' eliminated the uric acid from the system. Since that time I have never been without it in the house. There is no other medicine I think so much of, nor none I think its equal. Every one to whom I recommend it is pleased with the results and all thank me for advising its use. It is a splendid remedy for stomach trouble; cures colds in a few days, and is the only sure cure I know of for 'La Grippe.'"

Port Hope's New Constable Weighs 240 Pounds, and is Now on Duty

The Port Hope Guide says;

Mr. John M. Bond, of Toronto, our new chief constable, and brother of our late chief, arrived in town on the 4.30 train yesterday, and commenced his duties this morning. He is a fine looking man, being six feet in height, and weighing 240 pounds, and there is no doubt but what he will make an excellent officer. Port Hope extends to Mr. Bond a hearty welcome, not only as an official, but as a citizen, and trust that his residence here may be a pleasant one.

The Water Now Analysed

As noted in a former issue of The Times, the Board of Health, in connection with the ice question a few days ago, sent samples of water from Chemong, Clear and Katchowanooka lakes to the provincial analyst, Dr. Amyot, to have them examined. The object was to see if the water was sufficiently pure. A recent examination showed that the water in Little lake was contaminated, and was not fit and proper to secure ice from. Dr. Bingham, medical health officer, stated yesterday that Dr. Amyot had returned his analyses of the water samples sent and the report would be laid before the Board of Health at its next meeting.

Rev. J. G. Potter, B.A., pastor of St. Andrew's church, Peterboro, has been requested by a number of Christian workers, to organize a summer school at Chemong Park. BREATHE HEALING BALSAMS

Hyomei, the Medicated-Air Catarrh Cure, Endorsed by Physicians

No one should confound Hyomei with the patent medicines that are advertised to cure catarrh. It is as superior to them all as the diamond is more valuable than cheap glass. Their composition is secret, but Hyomei gives its formula to all reputable physicians.

Its base is the famous eucalyptus oil, well known for its antiseptic qualities. This is combined with aromatic and healing gums and balsams, making a pure liquid which, when used in the Hyomei pocket inhaler fills the air you breathe with germ killing disease destroying and healing powers that restore health to every part of the throat, nose and lungs.

Hyomei is endorsed by physicians generally. Many of them use it themselves to break up a cold and prevent pneumonia. It is the only natural and rational way of curing catarrh.

Would it be a common sense treatment to try and cure a corn by stomach dosing? Is it not just as foolish to try and cure catarrh of the head and throat by swallowing tablets or liquids? The only natural way to cure this disease and all diseases of the respiratory organs is to breathe Hyomei.

If you cannot obtain Hyomei of your dealer, it will be forwarded by mail, postage paid, on receipt of price. Write today for consultation blank that will entitle you to services of our medical department without charge. The R. T. Booth Company, Hyomei Building, Ithaca, N. Y.

American Falls will Disappear Some Day

Quebec Geologist Reports That Falls on U. S. Side at Niagara Will Run Dry---Falls Will Then be Fifty Feet Higher.

Ottawa, Dec. 15.—Mgr. Laflamme, the Quebec geologist, has reported to the government that there was a time, hundreds of year hence, when the American falls at Niagara will run dry, and the intakes at the Canadian works be without water supply.

"Once the falls have reached the upper ledge of the rapids, so many hundred years," says Mgr. Laflamme (1,000 years, according to Grahame, assuming that the mean rate of retrogression remains constant, which is far from certain), "the retrogression of the cataract will enter into a phase of relative rest and the erosion will henceforth hardly take any other form than the wearing out of the lips of the new gorge, particularly that of the Canadian side. The American channel will have then long disappeared, and the intakes of the Canadian works, after having gradually become impoverished as the line of the fall is rectified and identified with this all of the upper rapids, will end by being dry.

"The fall will then be at the first sill of the rapids. It will be higher than the present cataract by some fifty feet, and will noticeably resemble the drawing which Father Hennepin left us of that which he saw in 1678, when the horseshoe did not exist and the American and the Canadian falls were on one plane. The only difference will be that the fall then in single. Goat Island having joined the American shore.

MORE WATER ON OUR SIDE.

"No matter what direction the retrogression may take, we shall always have more water than the Americans. The level of the river bed is lower on our side. The first sill of the upper rapids crosses the whole of the river, dipping towards the Canadian shore, at this latter point it is considerably lower than on the American side. The Canadian fall is about ten feet lower than the American, and the water naturally bears towards our side. If the hollowing out of the Horseshoe should result in a modification of the general level of the river there is reason to believe that we would not be sufferers.

"The same thing cannot be said of the American channel. It will be dry before the new horseshoe gorge has reached the line which joins the upper end of Goat Island to Dufferin Islands. Already, owing to the tapings made at different points of the river above the falls, the general level has been so modified that nearly every spring, according to the citizens of Niagara Falls, the ice from Lake Erie, not finding water enough to float it, runs aground at the entrance to the American channel, and blocks it completely, so that the American fall for a few days ceases to exist. This phenomenon, which was exceptional before the establishment of the electrical works, seems to have become an annual one. In this respect I think I should add, although this matter is not directly relevant to my instructions, that the danger which really threatens Niagara Falls is not so much from the wearing effected as from the abstraction of a large proportion of its waters by the electrical companies now or likely to be established."

RINK OPENS TONIGHT

Fine New Rink at Jackson Park Will Admit Skaters Tonight

The Street Railway Rink will be opened to the public to-night for the first time. The rink, dressing rooms and lighting are all completed, and the company have got a fine sheet of ice. In the centre of the rink, hanging from the lights, will be suspended a bunch of mistletoe. There will doubtless be an immense crowd at the rink to-night. The 57th Band will be in attendance, and everything to ensure the comfort and pleasure of its patrons has been done by the company.

DESPERATE MAN IN THE TOILS

Colon, Dec. 14.—On board the Panama steamship Havana, which sailed yesterday for New York, were Mr. Price, a special agent of the Santa Fe Railroad, and Matthew Kenny, a detective of Kansas City, having in charge a man named Fuller, who for the past eight months has been station agent and postmaster at Pedro Miguel, in the canal zone, but who, it is now alleged, is a well-known criminal. It is charged that the man among other aliases is known as Armstrong, Ledtz, and McGee, but that his right name is Letts. It is alleged that he already has been convicted of larceny, burglary, and arson and that he has escaped from prison three times. It is further alleged that he has been accused of attempted murder, bigamy, and forgery. Fuller, it is said, married his third wife, Anna Lassen, of St. Louis, at Cristobal a month ago.

A despatch from Kansas City, Dec. 11, reported the arrest at Panama of M. M. Letts, former station agent for the Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fe Railroad at Princeton, Kansas. Letts is charged with stealing $70,000 worth of railroad tickets in 1905, and then burned the depot to hide the theft. He escaped from Ottawa, Kansas, in a sensational manner some time ago, after being convicted of arson and robbery.

UNDER CONTROL

The Chandos Small Pox Scare Will Soon be Over

The Times was yesterday in receipt of official and reliable information that the Chandos small-pox cases which, during the past few weeks have caused our local authorities grave apprehension, are now well under control.

Dr. Alex. Bell, of Apsley, our correspondent, who is fully posted on the subject and competent to formulate a reliable opinion on this subject, does not think that the disease will spread further. He says, in part: "Chandos is almost all cleared up, also Methuen. Quarantine will be lifted in the next few days. Four cases in Burleigh and Anstruther all doing well and closely quarantined."

This will give a great sense of relief to our local health officers and municipal rulers as Peterboro, for several weeks has been face to face with possibilities of a serious epidemic being introduced within our borders.

CONSERVATIVES TO MEET

West Peterboro Conservative Assn. to Meet Tuesday Evening

The annual meeting of the West Peterboro Liberal-Conservative Association will be held in the rooms of the Young Conservative Club, George street, on Tuesday evening next, Dec. 19th, at eight o'clock. President J. J. Lynch will occupy the chair.

Reports will be presented and officers elected for the ensuing year.

It is hoped there will be a large attendance, as every Conservative, young and old, who takes an interest in the welfare and work of his party should make it a point to be present next Tuesday night.

23 MONTHS IN CENTRAL

Howard Peters Stole $145 From J. Ransie Belmont

Howard Peters, who lives in Havelock, will spend the next two years and six months where he will be devoid of all fear from hydrophobia, viz., in the Central Prison, Toronto.

It will be remembered by our readers that Peters whilst calling on Mr. Ransie, treasurer of S.S. No. 2 Belmont, took advantage of his visit to decamp with $145 of public funds. As notes in yesterday's issue, the evidence, taken on Wednesday, clearly established his guilt. As this was Peter's third conviction for acts against the public good and security, Judge Weller, his Honor Judge Weller, sentenced him to a term of (twenty-three months in the Central Prison, forming to in delivering judgment his Honor remarked at some length on the unsavory past reputation of the prisoner, as well as the mass of evidence existing conclusively to his guilt.

The case of Darrell Barker, charged with stealing, on Oct. 18th, a quantity of drills, the property of the Canadian General Electric Company, of which he was an employ, was also settled. It will be remembered that Barker had a preliminary hearing some time ago by P.M. Dumble. The evidence, heard on Wednesday, was practically the same as that given at his preliminary hearing.

Barker, it will be remembered, with a quantity of stolen tools on his person, was captured while leaving the works, and was locked in the gate house, from which he, though under surveillance, made his escape by a rear door, but was secured later by the authorities at Cobourg.

Several witnesses yesterday testified, including Rev. A. H. Brace and others, to Barker's former good behavior.

THE MINISTER SEEN

Peterboro Deputation Discuss Badly Wanted Docks

As noted in yesterday's issue of The Times a strong deputation went to Ottawa to interview the Minister of Public Works, relative to a dock being constructed along the west side of the Otonabee river in Peterboro from the C.P.R. bridge to Hunter street. As is well known the Government dredge has already deepened the channel leading to the proposed dock.

The deputation introduced by Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., saw Hon. H. R. Emmerson, minister of railway and canals, and Hon. C. H. Hyman, minister of public works at noon yesterday. It was clearly pointed out to the ministers that the dock would favorably affect this city's interests.

In reply the ministers made the stock promises of careful consideration of the request and stated that an engineer of the department would be sent to examine the ground, and report fully on the proposal.

A GREAT SUCCESS

Non-Coms Smoker Was Most Enjoyable

As foretold in yesterday's issue, the non-coms of the 57th Regiment held a successful smoker in their messrooms, Simcoe street. There was a large turn-out of members of the mess and a most enjoyable time ensued. The program was above the average and all the numbers were heartily applauded.

Color-Sergt. Sturgeon occupied the chair and the following program was rendered.

Song—A. Lucas.
Banjo Solo—Wm. Dundas.
Song—Staff-Sergt. Edwards.
Recitation—Sergt.-Major Brittain.
Song—Ex-Sergt.-Major Peters.
Song—W. S. Davidson.
Recitation—Sergt. V. LeBar.

During the evening Lieut.-Col. Miller delivered a spirited address which was listened to with great attention by the members present.

Refreshments were served during the evening.

POLICE COURT NEWS

Yesterday morning was, as far as convictions went, a love feast at the police court.

J. Strain's case, remanded for a week previously, was settled, Strain being allowed to go on promise to give the flowing bowl more than half the road as he passes by.

Thomas Brogan, a citizen of Fraserville, who on Wednesday evening was arrested for dodging invisible goblins round the telephone poles on Simcoe street, and even climbing over some hotel sheds to avoid these false creations of an alcoholic brain, was allowed to go on undertaking to make 2.11 time over the highway for Fraserville. Judging by the celerity with which Brogan exercised his brogans when let loose, it would have been a tight race between him and a telegram to Fraserville.

A LITERARY TREAT

The Times has been favored with an advance copy, as yet unbound, of the touching poems bequeathed to a new awakening and thoroughly appreciative public, by Miss Isabella Valancy Crawford.

This book, edited by Mr. J. W. Garvin, is in the first place a beautiful specimen of the bookmaker's art. It is elegantly printed on high grade paper, and contains some 300 odd pages.

The frontispiece is a perfect semi-tone engraving of the talented poetess. The title page beautifully printed in two colors, is followed by "A word from the editor." In this Mr. Garvin gives a short synopsis of Miss Crawford's works, with a history of the collection and arrangement of the 88 poems contained, 28 of which appear for the first time in book form. Mr. Garvin, in every word shows not only a comprehensive grasp of Miss Crawford's beautiful thoughts, poetically expressed, but a rare talent for arrangement under rare talent for arrangement of the poems under different literary classifications.

The work contains a facsimile letter of appreciation written the authoress by Lord Dufferin from the British Embassy, Constantinople. To quote from this letter our former Governor-General says in part: "It is time now that Canada should have a literature of its own, and I am glad to think that you should so nobly have shown the way, etc."

There is also a page giving a facsimile of one of Miss Crawford's poems as written by herself.

The introduction by Ethelwyn Wetherald, gives a history of Miss Crawford from her birth in Dublin, 1850, to her struggle with poverty at Lakefield, when her lack of recognition by the callous public so deeply disappointed the writer of sweet verse.

The poems which occupy this volume must attract the wide spread attention of all whose souls are open to inspiration by sweet and deep thoughts clothed in language the most perfect.

Many of her woodland and descriptive poems strongly recall those of the late Archibald Lampman, of Ottawa. This volume when completed should hold an honored place in the library of every lover of this beautiful.

ATHLETIC WORLD

BY OUR SPORTING EDITOR

HOCKEY.

Still another hockey team has been added to those in this city. This time it is good young, ambitious raw material that is brought together to perfect themselves in Canada's winter sport. The Central school has organized a hockey team with the following officers:

Hon. Pres.—Mr. Walker.
President—Mr. W. Smith.
Sec.-Treas.—Kenneth Crane.
Manager—T. J. Wallace.
Capt.—Elmer Fee.

Committee—Harold Muldrum, Gordon Long, Savigny Lang. It is not yet decided where the boys will practice, they being undecided whether to make a rink in the school grounds, arrange with the rink, or at the Y.M.C.A. ice. All subscriptions to the club will be deposited in the Ontario Bank.

• • • •

Barrie has decided to withdraw their junior team from the O.H.A. series and will play intermediate aggregation only.

• • • •

Lindsay Post says: Some of the Bankers are putting in good practice on the river after bank hours and are rounding into shape for their game with Peterboro on New Year's Day. We understand the Porridge City fiststers are doing ditto, for a local paper says: The Peterboro Banker team will be [illegible] whether they win or lose, but if they win by a greater than the majority of intermediate scores, and any aggregation that beats them will have to travel some.

• • • •

As noted in a former issue of The Times the Peterboro Skating and Curling Rink Co., was to have held their annual meeting in the Ontario Bank Chambers on Monday night. The meeting however, was not attended by a quorum, so the meeting was postponed till next Monday night.

• • • • •

It was currently reported yesterday that the CurHag Club is negotiating for the purchase of the Charlotte street rink from the company, and but for the fact that the papers were not ready, the deal would have been put through Monday night. The meeting decided to postpone all business for a week, when it is expected that all arrangements will be completed for a transfer of the property.

At a well-attended meeting of the Peterboro Curling Club held on Monday evening the men who will skip the different rinks for the year were selected. The following will be the skips.—J. S. Kingman, S. T. Medd, John Stanger, Dr. Greer, W. G. Ferguson, W. G. Morrow, T. F. Matthews, D. Bellegham, D. Carnevin, C. N. Brown, J. H. Consul, S. Clegg, F. H. Dixon, G. H. Gibson, E. R. Edwards, S. D. Hall, T. Rutherford, Thos. Brightman, R. M. Waddell, R. Neill, Dr. Eastwood, E. R. Clegg, Sam Hay, M. C. Tooley, Herbert Snowden, W. McIlroy, R. M. Hamilton, Robt. Sturgeon, Geo Hay, Geo. Fitzgerald, C. Rutherford, David Hall, W. D. Campbell. All the skips are asked to meet at the rink to-morrow night to select their rinks. If not present, each skip is asked to send a representative, and if not present in person or by proxy, it will be assumed that the skip does not desire to take charge of a rink during the season. Remember Thursday night's meeting. Last night Messrs. T. Brightman and T. F. Matthews, were elected skips for the district now competition.

THE TURF.

Every thing points to a most successful meet here next January, in connection with the winter fair there.

• • • •

The circuit will commence at Orillia, thence to Port Hope, Lindsay and Peterboro, on January 23rd, Montreal, Picton, Belleville, Ottawa, Feb. 3rd to 10th, and Montreal, for another week. Secretary Arthur Beaupre has already received letters from several owners signifying their intention of coming to the Peterboro races. Mr. Alf Browne, the veteran driver from Niagara Falls, will be here with three horses belonging to L. H. Taylor, Upper and Emery, L. C. Nesmith, of Silver Springs, N.Y., is also talking about coming.

The rooms are now working on the local track which will be in splendid shape for the races. Mr. Beaupre asks that all those interested in turf matters use the track when they want.

• • • •

It is likely that Peterboro horses will carry off a good benefit of the long prizes from Ottawa.

Result in Saskatchewan Very Close

Indications are That the Provincial Rights Party has Been Defeated by One or Two Majority

Winnipeg, Dec. 14.—The result of the elections yesterday in Saskatchewan is in doubt, with the chances in favor of the Scott Government by a mere majority.

Mr. Haultain and the Provincial Rights party made a splendid fight against tremendous odds, and if they have not secured actual victory, they have won a moral one of much significance.

WHAT THE LIBERALS CLAIM.

Cannington—J. D. Stewart.
Battleford—A. Champagne.
Batoche—W. G. Grant, 354 maj.
Humboldt—Dr. Neeley (acc.)
Lumsden—Hon. Walter Scott, 140 maj.
Moose Jaw District—John Sheppard, 109 maj.
Prince Albert City—Hon. J. H. Lamont, 8 maj.
Qu'Appelle, North — Hon. W. R. Motherwell.

Regina, South—Hon. J. A. Calder.
Rosthern—George, Exr, 185 maj.
Saltcoats—Thos. McNutt, 50 mak.
Saskatoon—W. C. Sutherland, 19 maj.
Yorkton—A. Garry, 100 maj.

Grenfell—Dr. Argue.
Kinistino—Dr. Shadd.
Maple Creek—D. J. Wiley.
Moose Jay, City—J. H. Wellington.
Moosomin—Dr. D. Ellis.
Prince Albert, District — S. Donaldson.
Qu'Appelle, South—Hon. F. W. G. Haultain.
Regina City—H. W. Laird.
Swarts—J. T. Brown.
Whitewood—A. B. Gillis.
Wolseley—Dr. W. Elliott.

THE OPPOSITION CLAIMS.

On the other hand the Provincial Rights party claims to have won 14 seats as follows: Grenfell, Kinistino, Maple Creek, Moose Jaw City, Moosomin, Qu'Appelle, Regina City, Saskatoon, Souris, Whitewood, Wolseley, Batoche, Prince Albert District and Rodberry. These certainly elected are:

Grenfell—Dr. Argue.
Kinistino—Dr. Shadd.
Moose Jay, City—J. H. Wellington.
Qu'Appelle South—Hon. F. W. G. Haultain.

FINAL RETURNS DELAYED.

Neither side can claim a victory as yet, since from the far northern constituencies it will be days before the final returns are in. Four of the electoral districts almost reach to the Arctic Circle, viz., Battleford, Red Berry, Prince Albert and Kinistino, and it will be days, perhaps weeks before the final returns come from their northernmost polls. There are seventy polls in some of them, and only seven polls have been heard from.

A bulletin from Regina says: "Returns not sufficient to determine if Government is defeated or sustained. Premier Scott claims all Ministers elected, and that the Government will easily carry fourteen constituencies of twenty-five. The Opposition claims that the Government counts on winning Regina and Moose Jaw on contested ballots, and that the Government cannot possibly count on more than 11 seats in the House."

A LIBERAL CALCULATION.

The Montreal Star says: We estimate the Liberals have carried Battleford, Batoche, Cannington, Carlton, Humboldt, Lumsden, Moose Jaw District, Moosomin, Qu'Appelle North, Prince Albert City, Redberry, Regina South, Rosthern, Saltcoats, Yorkton—14.

In doubt, Maple Creek, Prince Albert District, Saskatoon—3.

MINISTERS WERE ELECTED.

All the ministers have been returned. Premier Scott had a practical walkover in Lumsden. The election of Hon. J. A. Calder in south Regina, and of Hon. W. R. Motherwell in North Qu'Appelle, are conceded. Hon. J. H. Lamont carried Prince Albert in a three-sided contest, by a majority of 8.

DEPENDS ON BACK POLLS.

The election will probably be decided by the returns from the country polls where the foreign vote was strong.

Premier Scott, in an interview, emphasized the fact that the points principally heard from were on the lines of railway, and he relied upon the back settlements to bring the total vote up to his expectations. He said he expected to win from fourteen to sixteen seats, all told. He was confident of the final result, and further pointed out that two city constituencies, Regina and Moose Jaw, were likely to be found on his side after the extraordinarily large proportion of challenged votes had been passed in review by the court. Mr. Scott's own vote in Regina, City was challenged, as well as that of Mr. W. F. Kerr, editor of the Leader, his paper.

MR. HAULTAIN'S STATEMENT.

Mr. Haultain said he realized it might be some time yet before the issue could be definitely ascertained. He was confident that under fair circumstances the Provincial Rights party would have swept the province, but he intended to [illegible] of the fact) that the cause and its ultimate triumph was increased rather than diminished by the verdict of those polls whose vote had already been published. He was, he continued, in the fight to stay, and was persuaded that no matter how this campaign turned out, the time was not far distant when the people of Saskatchewan would assert their claim to be free men and would administer a crushing rebuke to the corrosionist element which had sought to control their destinies from Ottawa.

Do You Want an Investment That Will Pay You Fifty Per Cent Per Annum?

Dr. Rauchaupt, the great Geologist, Mining Engineer and Chemist, has made an exhaustive examination of the properties of near the HOUSTON RIVER, LOUISIANA, in CALCASIEU PARISH, and over his own signature has reported that the lands of The Union Oil and Sulphur Co. have under them large quantities of oil. As real valuable deposits are always overlain, he says, by a considerable thickness of sediments, and such is the case here, which show no outcropping and hence no seeping, it is clear that such primary oil deposits, particularly in the best included in our tracts, are by far more valuable than the secondary ones, because they are by far less subjected to variations.

Professor Rauchaupt gives a long scientific and technical description of the property and from its geological formation and position proves the existence of oil in large quantities. He says: "I therefore have the greatest confidence that your land tracts lying in the before mentioned 'oil belt' will cover one of the most productive and extended oil basins."

The officers of the company are the ones who put in the money to make all the tests and to buy the ground; and now that we know we have oil we ask you to put your money in our hands and we will

GUARANTEE TO YOU HONEST TREATMENT, HONEST REPORTS AND HONEST RETURNS

The books of the company are open for inspection and the officers of the company refer you to any bank or wholesale house, or to Dunn or Bradstreet Agencies.

Investigate the officers and directors; ascertain if they have the ability to correctly judge the probabilities of their own enterprise. It's the MEN BEHIND THAT COUNT.

We are within 400 yards of the tracks of the Kansas City and Southern Railway. We own all the land around our well and have leased large tracts besides. The Houston River runs alongside our property, so that our shipping facilities are the very best.

THE UNION OIL AND SULPHUR CO. was organized under the laws of South Dakota, with a capital stock of $750,000.00, the shares being $1.00 each.

After the organization of the company we began to search farther for evidence of sulphur and we have a piece of land today that will from all evidence produce as much sulphur as the famous mine near our land, this is producing today about thirty-five (35) cars a day with a profit of $1,000 a car and we want to say to you that this famous mine is the wonder of the world and is paying the enormous monthly dividends of 150 per cent., and they are now increasing their capacity to try and meet the demands, and we feel confident (that as soon as we can develop our sulphur property) we will be able to do the same; we know we had the oil and we also knew that it would take less to develop it and that oil would pay for the sulphur plant as soon as we were able to begin the sale of the oil and this we think, we will be able to do within a short time, and we want to say to you right here, that as soon as we begin the sale of oil there is no more stock for sale, for this company will then be self-sustaining.

We began the drilling on our property on July 4th, 1904, we have a well that is 2,504 feet and 8 inches deep, and has five distinct showings of oil; this well has a pressure of 190 pounds, which ought to give us a flow of about 2,000 barels a day as soon as we get the strainer on and the tanks built; this takes time and money and that is why we are selling this allotment of stock. Everything points to a high grade of oil and if this is what they all think it is, we can say to you that you will make the best investment of your life when you buy some of our stock.

A PLAIN TALK WITH INVESTORS

What, think you, is the earning power of money? Can it with safety earn more than five per cent? Let raw facts answer. The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company pays 40 per cent.; the Union Trust Company, 47 per cent.; the Central Trust Company, 80 per cent.; Fifth Avenue Bank, 160 per cent., and the Chemical National Bank 120 per cent.

Are these institutions "get-rich-quick" concerns? Are their dividends REAL or FICTITIOUS?

PERSONAL TO THE READER

Is our proposition worthy of your consideration? In buying the stock of this company are you buying only paper? Certainly not! This company is formed on a business basis; is conducted for profit to the stockholders, and you share just in proportion to the amount you hold.

STOCK

The cost of stock in The Union Oil and Sulphur Co., is now forty cents per share, but will soon jump to par. Please note in this connection that when your stock reaches par you have made more on your investment than money loaned at 6 per cent. for forty years. You should also remember that the quarterly dividends to be paid after the well is in successful operation will also be estimated on the par value of the stock, and not on the price paid for it at time of purchase.

PAR VALUE

We feel confident that within one year our stock will be at or above par, for we could today contract the entire anticipated output of our wells at such alarming figures that would guarantee an annual dividend of 50 per cent. on a basis of five wells to the acre.

RED

It's the Red Blood Corpuscles that Proper Food Makes

A Tiffin, O., woman says Grape-Nuts food gave her good red blood and restored the roses of youth to a complexion that had been muddy and blotchy. She says:

"For 10 years I had stomach trouble which produced a breaking out on my face. The doctors gave it a long Latin name, but their medicines failed to cure it. Along with this I had frequent headaches, nervousness and always pain in my stomach after meals.

"I got disgusted with the drugs, stopped them and coffee off short, and quit eating everything but fruit and Grape-Nuts, with Postum Food Coffee for my table beverage. The headaches, stomach trouble, and nervous weakness disappeared almost like magic, which showed that when the cause was removed and good food and drink used nature was ready to help. My blood was purified and my complexion became like a young girl's, while my weight was increased from 90 to 120 pounds in a few months—good, solid, firm flesh, where it used to be soft and flabby.

"I recommended Grape-Nuts and Postum to my friend, Maud W——, who was afflicted as I had been. She followed my advice and in a short time was restored to complete health and in about 8 months her weight increased from 120 to 140 pounds.

"Our doctor observing the effect of Grape-Nuts and Postum in our cases declared, the other day, that he would hereafter prescribe these food products for gastritis." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

THAT TIMBER CASE

Mr. McWilliams Enters Appeal Against Decision

Yesterday morning Mr. H. F. McWilliams entered for the plaintiff in the McWilliams-Dickson Company sent, received notice through his agents in Toronto of the appeal entered by the defendants in the case against the judgment of Mr. Justice Street, on November 14th, 1905, in which he found that the plaintiff was entitled to recover the value of the timber cut upon certain lots in the Township of Cavendish, and entitled to the amount of cutting and hauling the timber on certain other lots in that township, and doubled on a reference to ascertain the amount to which the plaintiff was entitled in respect to the timber.

It is against the judgment in respect to the plaintiffs right to payment that the appeal is made.

The appellants have four days in which to furnish the respondents with reasons for the appeal, and the latter the same number of days in which to give reasons against it.

This case will be heard in the Ontario Court of Appeal from one of the judges, in which permission had to be secured to enter appeal.

Peterboro Shovel and Tool Co., Getting New Rolls, Which Will Double Capacity

One local industry that is fast pushing to the front and making its mark in the successful end of the industrial world, is the Peterboro Shovel and Tool Company. This concern, whilst only in its infancy, is to-day turning out 50 dozen shovels a day. The company is now having some fine new rolls cast by the William Hamilton Mfg. Co. When these rolls are installed, which will be accomplished in about a week's time, the capacity of the works will be doubled. Many men skilled in this branch of manufacturing industry, brought specially from Pittsburg, Pa., are now working at this factory.

WHY SO WEARY?

Always Restless and Weak Isn't Natural—But It's Dangerous

You have to work hard. This uses up lots of nerve force and tears down the body faster than it can build up.

The result is a half-dead feeling you can't shake off. Somehow you must get more vitality. The water in your blood must be turned into nutriment and building material.

This is just what happens in using Ferrozone, which renews the blood and nerves, and makes each organ do the work that nature expects of it.

Ferrozone quickly increases your weight, brings appetite and healthy color, instills a reserve of vigor into the system that defies weariness, exhaustion, debility, or sickness of any kind.

The marvelous strengthening power of Ferrozone is proved in the case of Mrs. Edward Hill, of Orr Lake, Ont., who says:

"Two years ago I had a nervous breakdown. At night I tossed restlessly in bed, unable to get any rest from sleep. In the morning I suffered from over-powering weakness. My appetite was poor. I grew pale, thin and despondent. A slight backing cough also added to my burden.

"My doctor said to try Ferrozone, and it did me good in a few days. I increased in strength, the nervous sensations disappeared, and with my appetite came back my color and good spirits. I have gained over ten pounds in weight, and as my age is 56, I consider Ferrozone is a marvel." (Signed) Mrs. Edward Hill.

REMEMBER THIS: Ferrozone is a true tonic—not an alcoholic stimulant. Fifty chocolate-coated tablets in a box for fifty cents, or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

LIFE INSURANCE.

A writer in the New York Spectator has called attention to the present insurance situation in a way that will to a considerable extent restore confidence, if not in the men and the methods which have to do with the large insurance companies of the United States, at least in the system. We are after all really interested mainly in two things in connection with life insurance—cheapness and safety. While the companies whose affairs have been brought under the searchlight of public opinion of late have been shown to have been administered in such a way as to cause uneasiness on the part of the policy-holders and to reveal very dangerous methods of finance, there is nothing to create alarm as to their actual financial condition. Had the objectionable methods been permitted to continue, it is probable that these institutions might have been exploited to such an extent as to have wrecked them during a period of financial panic. What is now required to place them beyond the suspicion of such contingency is legislation, the nature of which is sufficiently indicated in the evidence given at the investigation, and honest men as managers.

But as to the system in vogue, the writer assures us that it is the best in the world, the result of long experience. Several reforms have been suggested for the cheapening of the rates. They are all based upon a lack of knowledge of the principles of life insurance. We have now the cheapest insurance, consistent with safety, it is possible to have. When we hear about the immense salaries that are paid and the fine buildings erected and the donations to political funds, it is quite natural to conclude that the price of insurance could be materially reduced. This, says the Spectator writer, is a grave mistake, because the rates are based upon scientific principles, applied by skilled actuaries, who have given years of study to statistics of mortality. All companies the world over charge practically the same rates on the same kind of insurance. The American companies, strange to say, are the cheapest. At the age of 30, for instance, the American average rate on $1,000 is $17.50, while that of the British companies is $20.50, of the French companies $20.70 and of the German $20.60.

It is argued that if the companies dispensed with their army of highly paid agents, and transacted business on the cheap plan Englishmen prefer, quite the contrary. The Equitable of London, which employs no agents, has a premium rate of $20.25 per $1,000, and the London Life, another non-soliciting company, has a rate of $20.25, as compared with the American rate of $17.50. As a matter of fact, the companies which push for business can give a cheaper rate than those which do not. This, says the Montreal Witness, commenting upon the Spectator article, is easily accounted for by the fact that life insurance is something which the majority of people only take by urgent solicitation, which they would otherwise neglect. Naturally, too, the canvassers seek the best lives, while under the voluntary system only the poorest would offer. This view, confirmed by experience and common sense, is one that the theorist does not take into consideration.

There is, however, the cheap insurance based on the assessment system. That experiment has had its day. There was, as we can all remember, a wave of cheap assessment or mutual insurance which swept over the country a few years ago. Mushroom companies by the score sprang up. For a long time they prospered like the proverbial green bay tree; but it was not long before the fallacy of the mutual system was discovered, and the companies fell down, one after the other. The Spectator remarks: "The regular companies, on the other hand, for nearly three-quarters of a century have conducted their business on a scientific plan, selling insurance at a reasonable and comparatively uniform price, proving that the system itself can stand all the tests and meet all the obligations when capably and honestly conducted." The only cheap insurance that can be had, which will represent the bare cost, is government insurance, and that would naturally fall within the category of a voluntary life insurance company, the rates of which are higher than those employing agents and paying high commissions.

This, however, does not mean that there is no need for reform. The revelations of the United States investigations have shown a lack of common honesty and a gross abuse of what is practically a public trust. What is wanted is a system honestly administered rather than any change of system. There will never be a time in any country when a trust will not be violated; but the old-fashioned honesty and rigorous public opinion such as govern in Great Britain today are the only real safeguards which our financial institutions handling the people's money can have.

THE TURF.

The Port Hope Guide says:

Mr. Charles Wilmot, who has been attending the Horse Show at New York, returned home on Saturday. Mr. Wilmot's ponies were much admired and he disposed of Black Diamond, Strawberry Blonde and Gypsy Queen. It was a very unfavorable season of the year to sell ponies, but notwithstanding this Mr. Wilmot realized a nice sum on his transaction. "Black Diamond," which was a general favorite in Port Hope, will be greatly missed on our streets, and the New York buyer has certainly got a prize.

The Lust of Hate

BY GUY BOOTHBY

Author of "A Beautiful White Devil," "A Bid For Fortune," "The Marriage of Esther," "Dr. Nikola," Etc., Etc.

Immediately on arrival I made my way to Blankerton's Hotel, off the Strand, and installed myself there. It was a nice, quiet place, and suited me admirably. The voyage home from Australia had done me a world of good—that is to say, as far as my bodily health was concerned—but it was doubtful whether it had relieved my brain of any of the pressure recent events in Australia had placed upon it. Though nearly three months had elapsed since my terrible disappointment in the Booiga Ranges, I had not been able to reconcile myself to it; and as the monotonous existence on board ship allowed me more leisure, it probably induced me to brood upon it more than I should otherwise have done. At any rate, my first thought on reaching London was that I was in the same City with my enemy, and my second to wonder how I could best get even with him. All day and all night this idea held possession of my brain. I could think of nothing but my hatred of the man, and as often as I saw his name mentioned in the columns of the Press, the more vehement my desire to punish him became. Looking back on it now it seems to me that I could not have been quite right in my head at that time, though to all intents and purposes I was as rational a being as ever stepped in shoe leather. In proof of what I mean, I can remember, times out of number, talking sensibly and calmly enough in the smoking room, and then going upstairs to my bedroom and leaning out of my window, from which a glimpse of the Strand was obtainable, to watch the constant stream of passers by and to wonder if Bertrand were among the number. I would imagine myself meeting him and enticing him into one of those dark passages leading from the gas-lit thoroughfare, and then, when I had revealed my identity, drawing a knife from my sleeve and stabbing him to his treacherous heart. On another occasion I spent hours concocting a most ingenious plan for luring him on to the Embankment late at night, and arranging that when I got him there I would seize him with irresistible force and throw him over into the stream. I could picture him struggling among the ice floes, the freezing water numbing his limbs more and more with every passing second; and, in fancy, would follow him along the bank, taunting him with his treachery, until the cold proved too much for him and he disappeared from my sight. Hundreds of such schemes occupied my brain to the exclusion of almost every other thought, and the more I perfected them the more my hatred grew. At this point I must pause to make an explanation. I am quite aware that in thus candidly revealing the depraved condition of my heart at that particular period I am not presenting myself in a very favorable light; but, I contend, if I desire to set this chronicle of the blackest portion of my life before the reader, I am bound to do so in such a manner that he may see for himself exactly what induced me to consider the awful temptation which was afterwards placed before me, I must not keep any single item back from him. To refrain from revealing the motives would be to give a false notion of the effects, and that I have no desire at all to do.

The day following my return to the mother country was destined to prove an eventful one. According to custom I rose early and went for a stroll. It was half dark and a bitterly cold morning; the air along the Embankment, which I chose for my promenade, could only be described as Arctic. Ice floes covered the water from bank to bank, and flocks of ravenous gulls wheeled and screamed above my head. The scene was depressing in the extreme, and I turned to retrace my steps to my hotel, feeling about as miserable as it would be possible for a man to be. What did life contain for me now? I asked myself this question for the hundredth time, as I walked up the cobble-stones; and the answer was, Nothing—absolutely nothing. By judiciously investing the amount I had inherited under my father's will I had secured to myself an income approaching two hundred pounds a year, but beyond that I had not a penny in the world. I had been sick to death of Australia for some years before I had thought of leaving it, and my last great disappointment had not furnished me with any desire to return to it. On the other hand I had seen too much of the world to be able to settle down to such an idle life in England, and my enfeebled constitution, even had I desired to do so, would have effectively debarred me from enlisting in the Army. What, therefore, was to become of me—for I could not entertain the prospect of settling down to a sort of vegetable existence on my small income—I could not see. "Oh, if only I had not been taken ill after Ben's death," I said to myself again and again, "what might I not then have done?" As it was, that scoundrel Bertrand had made millions out of what was really my property, and as a result I was a penniless pauper, without a hope of any sort in the world. As the recollection of my disappointment came into my mind, I ground my teeth and cursed him; and for the rest of my walk occupied myself thinking of the different ways in which I might compass his destruction, and at the same time hating myself for lacking the necessary pluck to put any one of them into execution.

As I reached the entrance to my hotel a paper boy came round the corner crying his wares.

"'Ere yer are, sir; 'orrible murder in the West End," he said, running to meet me; and, wanting something to occupy me until breakfast should be ready, I bought a copy and went in and seated myself by the hall fire to read it. On the second page was a column with the following headline, in large type:—

"SHOCKING TRAGEDY IN THE WEST END"

Feeling in the humor for this sort of thing, I began to read. The details were as follows:—

It is our duty to give to the world this morning the details of a ghastly tragedy which occurred late last night in the West End. The victim was Major-General Charles Brackington, the well-known M.P. for Pollingworth, whose speech on the Short-Service Extension Bill only last week created such a sensation among military men. So far the whole affair is shrouded in mystery, but, as is hereby the police are in possession of a clue which will ultimately assist them in their identification of the assassin. From inquiries made we learn that Major-General Brackington last night visited the Royal Shakespeare Theatre in company with his wife and daughter, and having escorted them to Chesson Square, where his residence is situated, drove back to the Veteran Club, of which he is one of the oldest and most distinguished members. There he remained in conversation with some brother officers

It Will Pay You to Read and Investigate this Proposition.

Custer, Idaho, November 15, 1905.

To the Stock Holders of The Ozarna Mining Co.:—

We have steadily continued the development [illegible] properties since last advising you June 5th. At that time we had no plant erected or contracted for, but now I am pleased to report that we have secured a Ten Stamp Mill, together with Boarding House, Assay Office and all other necessary buildings, originally costing $15,000.00, hence you will know that we have been making great progress, and are rapidly approaching a productive stage, but as we have a final payment to make on this Mill, we will not withdraw our stock from the market until this money is raised. We are now making preparations so that by early spring we can start our Mill for a long and continuous run. You will be advised later on as to the date when we will start so that you can be present if possible.

In addition to this Mill, which is now erected, with all machinery in place and in perfect running order, we have secured [illegible] machinery for another Ten Stamp Mill, consisting of Battery, Seventy-five Horse Power Engine, two Forty Horse Power Boilers, and all other necessary machinery which we expect to install in the Mill now already equipped, which will increase the capacity of our plant from 25 to 150 tons a month, which means a great saving in the cost of [illegible] our ore. [illegible] does to operate a Twenty Stamp Mill, about the only additional expense necessary to operate the larger Mill is a little additional fuel. In addition to above machinery we have also purchased an Ingersoll Air Compressor for use in the Mines, at a cost of, $1,200.00. [illegible]

We are assured funds to complete our payment on the Ten Stamp Mill and for other purposes, and never having any brokers to place our stock, we have had no commissions to pay, hence we have financed the Company for a less sum than is usually required. We have no debts, and will pay no salaries until after the Mill goes into commission.

I also beg to advise you that we expect to take over the control of the stock of the Corning Mining Company, at an early date, giving a part of our stock in payment therefore. This will give us an additional eighty acres of Mineral Land, twenty acres of which is the Black Mine. This Mine has produced $160,000.00 net, and has one mile of developments, costing over $70,000.00, and an additional sum of $10,000.00 has been expended in developments this and last summer. Our Mill is on this group and is adjoined by "The Lucky Boy Mine," which has produced $1,000,000, and by "The Badger Group," which has paid $500,000.00 on a capital of $120,000.00.

The time is rapidly approaching when THE OZARNA COMPANY WILL BE ONE OF THE STEADY PRODUCERS, and I urge each of the stock holders to buy all the stock that he or she can pay for, while it can be had at the exceedingly low price of 10 cents a share. The officers are increasing their holdings and we want to give all the stock holders an equal chance with us. I have just put $1,000.00 more cash into the Company's Treasury for stock at 10 cents a share, the same that you will pay if you take advantage of this opportunity NOW.

I trust that you will be pleased with this report and with the efforts that are being made by your officers for the interests of each stock holder.

REGINALD CORTELL, Manager Ozarna Gold Mining Company.

To the readers of "The Times":—

The above report has been sent out to all our stock holders, and the allotment of stock for sale at 10 cents a share is being rapidly taken, for the ore that we are now taking our averages over $37.00 a ton, and, with our Twenty Stamp Mill in operation, our earnings will not be less than $30,000.00 net per month, which will enable us to pay not least 100 per cent. (ten times the present cost) in dividends within six months from the time we put the Mill in commission. For immediate acceptance only, I can offer this stock for 10 cents a share cash, or one-quarter of the amount with order and a like amount in 30, 60 and 90 days. Make all orders payable to the undersigned, or remit through the NATIONAL BANK OF DELPHOS.

SOUND INVESTMENT

Rare Opportunity to Secure Stock in British Columbia Trust Company

In these days of multitudinous opportunities advertised to secure the capital of investors, it is well to thoroughly investigate each individual proposition, from every point of view, before placing your funds.

There is such a diversity of schemes to lure money out of credulous investors' pockets that many people go heedlong into any proposition promising good returns in interest or dividends.

In another portion of this issue appears the advertisement of a newly incorporated company of British Columbia, that bears every evidence of solidity and unlimited future financial possibilities.

Possibly the most important feature of any company or corporation's financial standing is the class of men forming the directorate.

The Securities Corporation of British Columbia, Ltd., which is now offering 10,000 shares of its stock, par value $100, at $110, has among its Directors such well known gentlemen as F. S. Barnard, Chairman, Director of the B. C. Electric Railway; D. R. Ker, President of the Brackman-Ker Milling Co.; Richard Hall, M.P.P., Director Victoria Sealing Co.; Robt. Kelly, Kelly-Douglas & Co., Wholesale Grocers, Vancouver; Hon. F. L. Carter-Cotton, M.P.P., Man. Editor News Advertiser; Wm. Farrell, President B. C. Telephone Co.; Patrick Donnelly, General Manager, late Manager The Great West Per. L. & S. Co. for B. C.

With such a list of Directors, gentlemen well known and respected in financial circles all over the Dominion, the future of the Securities Corporation is assured.

The inception of such a company in the fast growing Province of British Columbia, where unlimited possibilities in finance are assured, must not only be of great importance to financiers of the Province, but result in stock of the company rapidly increasing in value.

It might be noted that special arrangements have been made with the local branch of the Bank of Montreal to receive subscriptions to stock.

It is to be regretted that so many thousands of Canadian capital annually go to the United States for investment, whilst here in Canada are companies, such as the Securities Corporation, managed by men of standing in this Dominion, offering their stock at comparatively low prices, with every prospect of future and quick advancement.

The Securities Corporation of British Columbia is one of the best investments for capital now on the market.

Objects to the County Being Soaked

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—As a large taxpayer in this county, I would call attention, through your valuable paper to a farce that is pretty expensive to the county of Peterboro.

I refer to the O'Brien-Barrie case of Dundo tried on Wednesday. Here a local lawyer, presumably for reasons best known to himself, carries a case involving a mere $2 to a higher court. Does it seem decent or according to legal etiquette that when a nominal fine of $2 has been imposed a lawyer should advise his client to appeal it and stick the county for some $30 or $40. It is simply gentlemanly politics that gives certain lawyers a hard name. Just to think supposedly decent legal gentlemen carries a suit involving $2 to a higher court, it is well known how the case regarded, and the county pays $30 or $40 for this lawyer's advice. It is not for me to question his motives.

Yours truly,
TAXPAYER.

Maj. Moody Leaves for Home

Major Moodie, of the North-west Mounted Police, was in the city yesterday, a guest of the Snowden House. The major who is well known in the county, as in the Moodie family throughout Canada, arrived in the city last Saturday night, drove straight to Lakefield to visit relatives there, and yesterday left by the 5.15 C.P.R. train for Toronto, en route for the North-West. The Major, whilst in the city yesterday brought a lot of skins of ducks and other birds, shot in Katchawanook Lakes, to a local taxidermist for setting up.

Major Moody's station is within the Arctic Circle and is done not expect to be in civilization for three years to come.

This explains many cures of heart, liver or kidney diseases in the cases where Mi-o-na is used. It is the most wonderful health restorer known.

THE DANGER TO THE CHILD

May be real or the snake may be a harmless one, but there is danger that menaces every child's life if the mother is deficient in womanly health and functional vitality.

Thousands of women have borne their sufferings and kept their troubles to themselves from motives of delicacy and feeble childhood has paid for it.

Dr. Pierce, forty years ago, consulted Nature, and found that she had provided remedies in abundance for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments and weaknesses. He found that non-alcoholic glyceric extracts of Golden Seal root, Blue Cohosh root, Unicorn root, Black Cohosh root and Lady's Slipper root, combined in just the right proportions, gave such surprising results that this compound soon became a standard favorite of his in the treatment of such cases. In a little time the demand for it became so great that he determined to put it up and provide for its general sale so that the multitudes needing it could readily supply themselves.

This is now known all over the civilized world as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and its unparalleled record of hundreds of thousands of cures, in the last forty years, justifies all that can be said of it.

It is non-alcoholic, non-narcotic. It is safe and reliable for any woman, of any age and in any condition, to use.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets—only one or two a day will regulate and cleanse and invigorate a foul, bad Stomach, torpid Liver, or sluggish Bowels.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 50 stamps. Over 1008 pages and Illustrated. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

BOOMERANG'S ANTICS PUZZLE SCIENTISTS

Anthropological Institute of England Trying to Popularize Use of the Weapon.

(Special Cable.)

London, December 16.—The Authropological Institute is engaged in an attempt to popularise the boomerang, and an exhibiton of the throwing of this Australian weapon took place yesterday afternoon on Wormwood Scrubs Common.

The difficulty was that none of the spectators could gauge the alighting place of the boomerangs, and terrified members of the institute were pursued all over the common by twirling, semi-circular pieces of hard wood. It was good exercise on such a cold day, but the enthusiasm of the greatest scientist is sensibly diminished when a boomerang suddenly arls betwen his legs and knocks him down.

The thrower-in-chief was F. H.-N. Knowes, of Oxford University, who has devoted three years to studying the erratic flights of the boomerang, and hopes in another three years of constant practice to equal in skill the Australian aborigines.

The majority of the boomerangs used were lent by the authorities of the British Museum, and Mr. Knowles made them do some extraordinary things.

They sprang from the hand with a hiss of fury, leaped high into the air, and then described gracefully circle [illegible] absence of half a minute at the thrower's feet. Often the boomerang shot away 150 yards before beginning the return journey.

TACTICS TO GUARD KAISER FROM MOBS

Berlin Police Learn Plan of Campaign in Case of Popular Uprising.

(Special Cable.)

Berlin, Dec. 16.—Berlin has made elaborate arrangements to suppress any popular demonstration that may be contemplated against the Government.

Owing to the effects of the Russian revolutionary movement upon the Socialists of Germany, the city has been divided into square sections, by the organization of which the police could put down effectually any attempt by a mob to march toward the Emperor's palace and the Government offices.

The plan of campaign is rehearsed as often as festive occasions attract immense crowds to the centre of Berlin.

On such occasions the extraordinary skill of the police in disposing of the crowds, which they drive, block by block, out into the suburbs, has been commented upon. One side of each organised square is left open, and this always the side facing the suburbs, so that the crowd may drift in that direction.

In the case of a popular uprising, the fourth side of each square would be left open or closed, according to the gravity of the situation.

If it became necessary to suppress the rising by the most severe measures, the fourth side of each square could be closed, so that the rebels within it would be enclosed within impenetrable lines of fire and steel, and could be shot down or bayoneted to the last man.

TOWN TERRORIZED BY "JACK THE RIPPER"

Insane Man Stabs Five Women on Berlin Streets—One May Die.

(Special Cable.)

Berlin, Dec. 16.—For weeks a mysterious criminal, whose methods resemble those of "Jack the Ripper," has caused great excitement in Nuremberg. He would approach women in dark streets and suddenly draw a knife, with which he stabbed them. Within a few days five such cases were reported to the police.

A few days ago Adam Schmidt, a brewer, of Furth, was arrested on suspicion of being the criminal. When confronted with his victims they all identified him. The man seems to be insane. One of his victims has died.

HELLO GIRL ACTS DETECTIVE'S PART

She Succeeds in Restoring to its Parents a Kidnapped Child.

(Special Cable.)

Stettin, Dec. 16.—A six-year-old child of a well-to-do Stettin merchant was kidnapped on Tuesday, and on Wednesday the father was requested by letter to pay $1,250 to a man waiting at a cemetery, otherwise it was threatened the parents would never see the child again.

The father informed the police, and went to the cemetery, followed by detectives, but the man apparently got suspicious and decamped.

This morning a telephone girl overheard a message of a man at the main telephone office requesting the father to pay. She immediately telephoned for the police, who smartly appeared on the scene and arrested the man.

His accomplice ran into a house and got on to the roof, followed by the police. Large crowds witnessed an exciting chase, the flight of the man being stopped by a timely shot in the leg.

At the police station the man confessed to the whereabouts of the child, which has now been restored to its parents.

(Special Cable).

Chris ETOAIN N....

Christiania, Dec. 16.—King Haakon VII and Queen Maud, who have changed the somewhat retired life to which they have been accustomed in Copenhagen for the many varying duties of a monarch and his consort, have made themselves much beloved among those who have been lucky enough to be counted among their intimate acquaintances in the Danish capital.

Prince Charles (now King Haakon VII) is, like his uncle, King George, of Greece, a sailor prince, who has worked his way to his present position through all the degrees of the navy, from middy to captain, without any preference being shown him as a member of the royal family.

His brother officers regard him not alone as a good comrade, but as a very able officer, and his popularity among the non-commissioned officers was shown by the enthusiasm he met when he visited their club to bid them farewell, before leaving for Norway.

Queen Maud has inherited her mother's (Queen Alexandra) musical taste, and combines with it extended literary interests. The Princess' health, which formerly was anything but satisfactory, has improved very much, especially during the last year. The Princess now speaks excellent Danish, and this will make it easy for her to master Norwegian, the two languages being very much alike.

THE CROWN PRINCE.

The third member of the new royal family, the Crown Prince Olaf, hitherto Prince Alexander, is a most intelligent and very amusing little boy, who already speaks English and Danish quite well, and even can express his wishes in French. How he likes his new name is not known, but officers who are on intimate terms with this august, if small royal personage report that he is by no means pleased with the compulsory alteration.

It will be a great change for the royal couple, used to a simple mode of life, for which a yearly income of some $35,000 to $40,000 has been sufficient, after their entry in their capital.

Seen from a distance, say, from the farthest end of the principal street in Christiania, the Karl Johan street, the King and Queen's future home presents a splendid view, the castle towering high over the town on a lofty hill, with a fine equestrian statue of the first Bernadotte in the forecourt. Approaching the castle, the beauty of the building vanishes, and only a magnifcent view over the town remains. The structure, however, is of large dimensions—so large that the short time that has been at disposal for [illegible] necessitated a limitation of them to one wing, where for the time being, the King's, the Queen's and the Crown Prince's rooms have been made as comfortable as possible. The state rooms, and the wing of the castle which will be used for futurg guests, have hardly been touched, and it is expected that partial reconstruction of the interior of the entire building will take place in the near future.

ROYAL ROOMS.

The royal rooms are in the south-western wing of the castle, the King's study and a fine billiard room is however, situated in the southern wing from which a door leads to the King's dressing room and the sleeping apartments. These rooms are on the second story, from where winding stairs lead down to the first floor, where the dining and drawing rooms and the rooms for the servants are situated. The Crown Prince Olaf's rooms are in the western part of the wing, and consist of three apartments, with the necessary rooms for servants.

From the King's private study a passage leads to the state rooms in the central part of the castle. Several reception rooms lead to the throne room, where the three well-known grand coronation pictures are to be found. This will be the apartment where the King will receive the foreign Ambassadors. After passing the state room, there follows a smaller hall, from where a door opens to the room where hitherto the state councils have been held, and which also has been used for the royal library. This library has been collected by the Bernadotte Kings, and belongs to King Oscar, who has left it in the castle under certain conditions, among them that the university library shall be allowed to take from the royal collection any books that it needs.

The expenses of the royal household will naturally show a considerable increase over those necessary for the quiet life in Copenhagen. Indeed, the Norwegian Parliament has just agreed to a vote of $360,000, about five times the Copenhagen income.

STEALS HER CHILD AT REVOLVER'S POINT

Threatens to Kill Herself Unless the Infant is Surrendered to Her.

(Special Cable.)

Berlin, Dec. 16.—A dramatic story comes from Stuttgart. Accompanied by two gentlemen and a locksmith, the divorced wife of a wealthy citizen arrived at the latter's house yesterday evening in a motor car, forced open the door, and carried out the 18-month-old child, of which the father had been granted the custody.

The grandmother screamed frantically for help, and a workman came to the rescue and seized the child.

The mother then placed a revolver to her temple and passionately declared that she would shoot herself unless the child was given to her. Thereupon the workman handed her the infant, and the mother and party drove away in the motor car.

London, Dec. 16.—Burglars entered a provision shop at Putney on Thursday night and lowered a heavy safe from a window, using sides of bacon to deaden the sound of its fall on the ground.

SCREEN A "BLIND" FOR LADY'S INFLUNCE

British Peeress Wins in Suit Against a Pretended French Baron.

(Special Cable.)

Paris, Dec. 16.—A case brought by Lady Wentworth against the "Baron Lerendu de Longueval," brother of the supposed accomplice of the notorious swindler, Galley, has been decided by the Paris courts.

Lerendu was summoned to pay $200 for an art screen purchased from Lady Wentworth. The defendant alleged that the purchase of the screen was merely a "blind" for obtaining the plaintiff's influence in obtaining a government situation. He declared that he had promised to pay $400 for Lady Wentworth's aid, the purchase of the screen for $200 being a pretext for the transfer of the money. He had not used her influence, and did not want the screen.

The court ordered him to pay the $200, and also decided that he had be right to the title of "Baron."

STRANDED IN ARCTIC FOR 7 LONG YEARS

American Has Terrible Experience With Eskimos Within the Polar Regions.

(Special Cable.)

Edinburgh, Dec. 16.—With the return of the whaler Active yesterday to Dundee, George Cleveland, a native of Massachusetts, returned to civilization after being out of touch with it for seven years.

Cleveland was in charge of a whale fishing station on the northern limits of Hudson Bay, but the vessel on which he relied for provisions was burned, and he was left absolutely destitute. In dire straits he joined a tribe of Eskimos, with whom he stayed for three years.

During that time he never saw a [illegible] tasted tea, coffee, biscuits or similar food, and existed entirely on flesh, which in winter time was raw and often rancid. Along with two natives he was adrift on an ice floe in Hudson Bay for five days without water or food.

At one period Cleveland went out of his mind, and when he recovered he found the witch doctor of the tribe invoking the aid of strange gods. During the seven years he never had boots on his feet, and when he arrived in Dundee he could not walk in them.

GROOM SAYS "YES," BUT BRIDE SAYS "NO"

Man's Hesitancy to Marry Costs Him Loss of Woman He Would Wed.

(Special Cable).

Hamburg, Dec. 16.—A bridal couple yesterday came before the registrar in a small town in Mecklenburg. The official in due formula asked the bridegroom if he would take the woman as his wedded wife. He answered: "No, I must think the matter over."

There was consternation and protestations among the assembled company, and the bridegroom finally asked for an hour in which to reflect. He then shut himself up alone in a room and spent an hour meditating on his future.

At the end of that time the couple made their second appearance before the registrar. The bridegroom replied to the usual question with a joyful "Yes!"

The official then asked the bride the same question. Her reply was very loud and distinct.

"No," she said. "I can't accept such a weathercock, weak-willed individual as husband."

STOLE A PRINCE'S PRESENT.

London, Dec. 16.—A man committed for burglary at the Lambeth Court yesterday made this confession: "I lifted the basement window, entered the room and stole one marble clock, with silver plate. 'A present from Prince Louis of Battenburg, 1894,' thereon; one rolled gold watch, one gold chain, one coat and vest, one hat, and handkerchief and one umbrella."

TOO COLD FOR SUICIDE.

London, Dec. 16.—While a man named Sheeham, under arrest for shop-breaking at Aylesford, was being conveyed handcuffed to the police station, he suddenly sprang into the river Medway, with the evident intention of committing suicide. It was a bitterly cold night, and after remarking that the water was "too cold for his purpose," Sheeham climbed out and gave himself up.

MOTORISTS' GARAGES IN EUROPEAN CITIES

Arrangements Now Being Made to Link Together the Great Capitals.

(Special Cable).

Paris, Dec. 16.—M. Henri Fournier states that the Societe Paris Automobile, has made plans for international garages for motorists.

"We intend to open garages and repair depots in Berlin, Rome, London, Nice, Cannes and New York," he said, "on a similar scale to those which now exist in Paris. Thus the establishment in Rome will be called Rome-Automobile, and in London, London-Automobile, and so all round.

"These places will be in charge of an independent manager, subject only to the control of the council of administration. A customer in Paris will instantly be viewed as a customer in [illegible] his arrival he will be treated as such.

"At all these depots parts, tires, lamps, and even entire machines will be on sale, and the tourist failing in with our system will have all manner of information at his disposal at any one of these garages.

"Already we have made arrangements for opening the Rome garage, and within a few months the others should be completely installed. We shall offer for sale cars by the same makers as the race-winning machines any one of these garages.

A feature of the new business will be a catalogue in each of the different centres, with the net prices of all machines set plainly down. M. Fournier says he wishes to abolish entirely the system of selling cars at varying prices, according to the customer. No matter what a man's reputed income may be, he will be called upon to pay no more and no less for any particular purchase than any other man.

RUINED BY PHEASANTS.

London, Dec. 16.—A Norfolk farmer, undergoing his public examination in bankruptcy at Norwich, ascribed his failure to the fact that pheasants preserved by a neighboring landowner ate up his crops.

RECTOR AS ACTOR IN ROMANTIC PLAY

(Special Cable.)

London, Dec. 16.—The connection between the Church and the stage has been drawn closer by the efforts of the Rev. J. Greathead, rector of Corringham, Essex, and his wife. The latter, who is a daughter of the late Dr. Gauntlett, of musical fame, has written a "romantic play, founded on fact," entitled "The Master Carver," in which her husband plays the part of the hero.

The play was produced last night at Southend, in the parish room of All Saints, of which Dr. Long, who is himself an enthusiastic devotee of things theatrical, is the vicar. There was a crowded audience, which showed high appreciation of the performance.

The time of the play is placed in 1809, during the invasion of Italy by Napoleon, and the scene is laid in the little village of Oberammergau. The plot turns on the betrayal by Peter, a villager, of the secret pass of Ettal, which led directly from Oberammergau down into Italy.

The part of the hero, Gottlieb Schmalts, the master carver, was taken with conspicuous ability by the Rev. J. Greathead, and Mr. A. Clifton Kelway, a London journalist, appeared as the carver's assistant.

The other characters were taken by villagers of Corringham, who were surprisingly good in their various roles.

PROLIFIC POTATOES.

London, Dec. 16.—In the National Potato Society's show at the Horticultural Hall on Thursday and Friday a Scotch grower will exhibit 176 pounds of potatoes, the produce of twelve roots. The average yield of potatoes is about seven tons per acre, but this crop was equal to sixty-one tons per acre—the heaviest crop on record.

ARMY OFFICERS SACK NEWSPAPER OFFICE

Resent the Publication of Caricatures by Demolishing Both Furniture and Plant.

(Special Cable.)

Madrid, Dec. 16.—A Catalonian newspaper office was sacked by the officers of the garrison in Barcelona last night. Much fighting took place later in the streets, and it is reported that many persons were killed and wounded.

The officers considered themselves grossly insulted by certain caricatures and references to the army published in the Cuscat. They gathered outside the offices, and after calling for cheers for Spain, broke into the building. They smashed up the furniture and threw it into the street, setting fire to it later. They disabled the plant and beat the editor.

Some thousands of civilians gathered outside, and when the officers came out they led them to the offices of another Catalonia organ, the Voice of Catalonia. They broke in here, and had smashed up some of the furniture, when General Castelri, the military governor of the city, appeared, and appealed to them to disperse.

LACE MAKING NOW SOCIAL LEADERS' FAD

Women of "Smart Set" Revert to Pastime of Their Great-Grandmothers.

(Special Cable.)

London, Dec. 16.—After many incursions into what were once regarded as masculine preserves, smart women are reverting for a time to old-world customs and occupations essentially feminine.

Large numbers of them at present are taking lessons in the art of their great-grandmothers, the making of pillow lace being the latest "craze."

There are few West End drawing rooms now where the pillow, covered in a dainty light-colored material, with its fringe of wooden bobbins and bit of half-completed lace, does not form a prominent object.

Miss Bevington, who lives in a tiny Queen Anne house, in King street, Kensington, teaches pillow-lace making to many pupils, who speedily become as enthusiastic as herself over the quiet delights of the art.

She learned it from an aged woman, who all her life made Wiltshire lace, a delicate variety now seldom seen, but she teaches all sorts from thick Spanish point down to delicate Brussels and Honiton kinds.

Many people have old bits of lace they want to copy. One mother is making the bridal lace for her five-year-old daughter, others are learning it to be able to teach the women of their country estates.

MISER'S PILE GOES TO DISTANT COUSINS

They Alone Will Benefit by the Accumulations of Long Life of Misery.

London, Dec. 16.—Some remarkable revelations have been made concerning a Brighton recluse who starved himself in necessaries and picked up cigar ends and other street odiments, and died the other day worth $70,000.

His name was William Rose, he was 74 years of age, and it is stated that he came of an old and highly respected Brighton family.

The first part of his life he spent at sea, and then returned to his native town and resided for a time in the house which his family had occupied for over 100 years.

He let this, however, and took to occupying a shed at the rear of the premises.

Here he entered upon a life of remarkable self-denial, dressed like a tramp, and excited so much sympathy that people freely gave him pennies, which he always placed in a collection box of the Distressed Mariners' Penny.

It is now stated that he leaves £30,000, which will be inherited by three cousins living in Australia.

Geneva, Dec. 16.—The high development of the imaginative faculty Swiss child-travellers has necessitated the use of measuring machines on railway. For the future no child [illegible] is more than three feet in height will be allowed to travel half price. The age limit of ten years has been found to be too elastic.

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS

The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it "is, in fact, the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and greater requirements of another generation."

If any of the quotes that this allegation most clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, has been thoroughly revised in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and severer requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.

QUARTER SESSIONS

Grand Jury Deplore That Aged People are Confined in Local Jail

Thursday morning the grand jury gave their presentment, and after receiving the thanks of Judge Weller, were dismissed.

Their presentment reads as follows;

To His Honor Judge Weller,

The Grand Jury begs to submit the following presentment;

We beg to compliment the county on the noticeable absence of crime. Our duties have been very light, only two cases having been brought before us. Our work in connection with these having finished, we visited the jail and have found everything clean and in good order, showing that the officials have been careful and energetic in the performances of their duties. We found several persons incarcerated for various crimes, all being satisfied with their treatment. We also noted, and with regret, that a number of aged persons were detained [illegible] for crime committed, but because fate had been unkind to them, linking poverty with their old age. We earnestly hope that within the coming year a building may be erected, wherein God's poor and unfortunates may be placed, and where the clang of prison bars shall not ring in the ears of those innocent of crime.

MISSING TELLER SEEN IN DETROIT?

Police There Think it was Banwell Who Acted Suspiciously at Waldorf Hotel

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 14.—The Detroit police believe that E. S. Banwell, the paying teller of the Crown Bank of Toronto, was in Detroit for three days before the description of the man reached the hotel men and police in this city, and that he was accompanied by the Erindale young woman. Four days ago a young man and woman, each carrying a valise and acting rather nervous, registered at the Waldorf Hotel on Woodward Ave. The young man said they might not remain more than one day. The next day the woman left, taking one valise with her. After an absence of a few hours the man returned and re-registered, but under a different name. The discrepancy in names was not noticed at the time by the hotel people. Monday afternoon the man paid his bill and said he was going to Grand Rapids. That night the local police received a description of the man wanted in Toronto.

Those about the Waldorf who saw the young man who registered there declare that he was Banwell.

DON'TS ON NAMES.

Don't name a girl Violet when her disposition may be that of a tiger lily.

Don't hamper a boy with a name that will prove a heavy handicap in life.

Don't name a baby after a hero unless the hero has been dead several years.

Don't name a girl after a flower. Think of an old woman called Pansy or Daisy!

Don't tack a fancy name on a kid. It makes him a target for his companions.

Don't name a child after a relative from whom you have "expectations." The relative may yet marry.

Don't forget that the man with the common name of William is more likely to write checks than one labeled Percy.

Dog Tried, Convicted and Hanged.

William Chambers, the famous English publisher, once related an extraordinary story of a sheep thief hanged at Peebles and buried at crossroads with a stake through his body. The remarkable feature of the case was that the thief's dog was tried for aiding and abetting in the crime, convicted, hanged and buried along with its master. It was proved at the trial that the man when out with the animal used to indicate to it some particular flock of sheep he wanted. After reaching home the dog returned to the place, rounded up the sheep and by devious ways, and only after dark, drove them home. There they were kept for some days and their owners' marks destroyed or "faked." They were then graded with others legitimately purchased and driven to the English markets.

Don't Be a Cheese.

The word cheese was formerly written chiese and is of Turkish origin. A Turkish interpreter, or chiaus, in London in 1609 swindled some merchants with whom he had dealings out of a large sum of money, and thenceforth a chiaus became the popular name for a thief.

Ben Jonson in the "Alchymist" makes use of the word in its original form:

Dapper—What do you think of me—that I am a chiaus?

Face—What's that?

Dapper—The Turk who was here—no one would say, do you think I am a Turk?—London Standard.

Why the Ocean Doesn't Freeze.

If the ocean did not have salt it would freeze somewhat more readily than it does now, but there would be no very marked difference.

The ocean is prevented from freezing not so much by its salt as by its size and by its motion. On account of its size, large portions of it extend into warm climates, and by reason of its great depth it is a vast storehouse of heat. Its currents distribute much warm water among the cold.

BANK INCREASES DIVIDEND

The Nova Scotia Jumps Rate From 10 to 11 Per Cent

Montreal, December 15.—Things seem ot be booming in Canadian banking circles these days, and increased capital and increased dividends are coming rapidly.

The Bank of Nova Scotia, which has just increased its capital to $2,500,000, now announces a half-yearly dividend of 5 1-2 per cent.

The dividend has hitherto been at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum.

Possibly it is the intention of the directors to pay only 10 1-2 per cent., although the bank could pay 11 with ease.

It earned 28.08 per cent. in 1904, 20.50 per cent. in 1903, and 21.51 per cent. in 1902.

The Nova Scotia paid a 9 per cent. dividend up to 1902, when it advanced the rate to 9 1-2. The year following the dividend was increased to 10.

A PAGAN MYTH.

It Linked May and Matrimony With Unhappiness and Misfortune.

The pagans had a myth that "only bad women marry in May." They had another—that if the marriage did take place the couple would live most unhappily, and children born of the marriage—if it was not hopelessly rendered barren by thus slapping the fates in the face—would be deformed or imbecile. With prizes like that in prospect it is not much wonder that the ignorant and superstitious taboo May marriages, but there is no excuse yet for this idiosyncrasy of thinking people—at least no sensible one.

Ovid was a firm believer in the superstition and said that no widow or young girl would marry in May unless she wished to invite the displeasure of the gods and that the imprudent woman who braved their wrath would fill an early grave. Ovid pinned his faith to rosy June, the birth month of June, and when he got ready to launch his daughter on the matrimonial sea he studied the stars and all the superstitions to make sure that he would not run upon Scylla in steering off Charybdis.

Resolved to match the girl, he tried to find

What days unprosperous were, what moons were kind.

After June's sacred idea his fancy strayed—

Good to the man and happy to the maid.

The Yankee Army Sharply Criticized

Expert Officer Sarcastically Draws Attention to Defects---U. S. Military Policy Alarmingly Bad.

New York, December 15. — Praising the military organization under a monarch as a model system and holding up to sharp criticism the American army and its democratic methods, Lieut.-Col James Pettit, 30th U. S. Infantry, delivered a radical and startling address before the Military Service Institution of the United States on Governor's Island.

He said the United States military policy was so bad that the safety of the country is due solely to the watchful care of Providence. He made many sarcastic comments on the army, proposing a larger standing army with a reserve of well trained militia and men who have formerly served in the regular army.

His ideas were received with applause by major-generals and other officers of high standing in the army.

That a man who is still an active officer of the army should be permitted to make such severe comments on the discipline and system of which he is a part was discussed widely after his speech. Pettit has a reputation as a writer on military affairs, and has been assigned to supervise the training of the militia in the district of Columbia.

[illegible] in 1905 and then burned the depot to hide the theft. He escaped from Ottawa, Kansas, in a sensational manner some time ago, after being convicted of arson and robbery.

A HEAVY SENTENCE

Berlin Judge Gives 19-Year-Old Highwayman a Salutary Lesson

Berlin, Dec. 14.—County Judge Chisholm yesterday imposed the heaviest sentence of his career on Lorraine Smith, of Galt, a young desperado, who was up before him for sentence on six charges. For holding up Grocer Hillock, of Galt, and shooting at him with a revolver a few weeks ago, Smith, who is only 19, was sent to Kingston Penitentiary for 10 years. On each of two charges of theft, one at Berlin, and one at Waterloo, he was sentenced to 2½ years in the same place, to run concurrently with the other term. Sentence is suspended for three offences committed over a year ago.

His Honor declared Smith to be a defective, incorrigible, criminal, no better than a beast, and a danger to society. He hoped Smith would not be let out before he has served his sentence.

SOUTH AMERICAN JAGUARS

The Only Animals That Will Purposely Attack Alligators.

The most interesting thing about crocodiles and alligators, declares the author of "The Romance of the Animal World," is the way they get their food. This they do mostly and by preference in the water, but they have also a habit of lying in wait upon the mud of river banks until some animal approaches sufficiently near to be within their reach.

Lying sunk in the mud and of the color of mud themselves, they may well be mistaken for a log. A wild pig or some other animal fond of rooting in the mud sees the long, shapeless object, but is not disturbed by it as he roots happily among the reed beds. He looks up suddenly to find that the log has moved. One end of it, the longest, thinnest end, the tail, is gliding away [illegible] it flies back and meets the body of the pig with a tremendous sidewise blow, and the poor pig falls in a heap.

With a sudden swift rush the alligator is upon him, and, seizing the body by the skin, which it holds puckered up between its front teeth, it shakes it furiously, as a terrier would a rat, and then half drags, half pushes, it before it as it crawls through the mud to the water's edge.

There is only one wild animal, says the author, that will purposely attack an alligator, and that is the jaguar of South America. The jaguar springs on the back of the alligator and with all his might tears at the roots of the reptile's tail. This possibly is with the idea of paralyzing that member, thus rendering it incapable of those mighty sweeps from side to side which are more to be feared than even the great armed jaws.

The fear of both these weapons may deter the jaguar from clawing the throat of the saurian, for were he to be shaken off in the latter struggles he would be more exposed to either than if he fell farther back.

Instances of the jaguar's success in destroying the alligator are given by various observers.

Famous Criminal Caught at Panama and Shipped to New York

Colon, Dec. 14.—On board the Panama steamship Havana, which sailed yesterday for New York, were Mr. Price, a special agent of the Santa Fe Railroad, and Matthew Kenny, a detective of Kansas City, having in charge a man named Fuller, who for the past eight months has been station agent and postmaster at Pedro Miguel, in the canal zone, but who, it is now alleged, is a well-known among other aliases is known as Armstrong, Letts, and McGee, but that his right name is Letts. It is alleged that he already has been convicted of larceny, burglary, and arson, and that he has escaped from prison three times. It is further alleged that he has been accused of attempted murder, bigamy, and forgery. Fuller, it is said, married his third wife, Anna Lassere, of St. Louis, at Cristobal a month ago.

A despatch from Kansas City, Dec. 11, reported the arrest at Panama of Mc. M. Letts, former station agent for the Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fe Railroad at Princeton, Kansas. Letts is charged with stealing $70,000 worth

Peterboro Shovel and Tool Co., Getting New Rolls, Which Will Double Capacity

One local industry that is fast pushing to the front and making its mark in its successful end of the industrial world, is the Peterboro Shovel and Tool Company. This concern, whilst only in its infancy, is to-day turning out 50 dozen shovels a day. The company is now having some fine new rolls cast by the William Hamilton Mfg. Co. When these rolls are installed, which will be accomplished in about a week's time, the capacity of the works will be doubled. Many men skilled in this branch of manufacturing industry, brought specially from Pittsburg, Pa., are now working at this factory.

CONSERVATIVE TO MEET

West Peterboro Conservative Assn. to Meet Tuesday Evening

The annual meeting of the West Peterboro Liberal-Conservative Association will be held in the rooms of the Young Conservative Club, George street, on Tuesday evening next, Dec. 19th, at eight o'clock. President J. J. Lynch will occupy the chair.

Reports will be presented and officers elected for the ensuing year.

It is hoped there will be a large attendance, as every Conservative, young and old, who takes an interest in the welfare and work of his party should make it a point to be present next Tuesday night.

DISAGREE AS TO A LEADER

Younger Element Oppose Monk's Plan for Executive to Lead

Montreal, Dec. 14.—The critical point in the Conservative convention being held in this city was reached yesterday, when the question of the appointment of a new Provincial leader was taken up. The entire elderly element, headed by Mr. F. D. Monk, the Federal leader, were adverse to the appointment of any leader to succeed Hon. Mr. Flynn, holding that better results would be obtained by the party of the Province being run by an executive committee composed of a group of leaders. The entire younger element, which seemed to be in the majority, were opposed to any such project, their contention being that under present conditions there would have to be some head who might be appealed to on all occasions, and who should decide exactly what policy should be followed.

To this Mr. Monk replied that the executive might act only temporarily and some future occasion might reveal just who should be named leader. This contention met with little favor. A final decision is not looked for till late in the day, but a number of the younger element seem determined to try to carry their plan through and have Hon. T. Chapais chosen Provincial leader.

YOU CAN SCRATCH

Out the blot which defiles the clean, white page of a ledger, but you can't scratch out the poisons that defile the blood. It seems rather that you scratch them in, and the irritation grows worse with each new attempt to relieve it. There is only one thing to do in such a case, and that is to entirely cleanse the blood from the infecting poison.

People who have suffered from diseases caused by impure blood, or blood poisoning, have found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery a certain and enduring cure. Lotions and liniments may alleviate, but they cannot cure. The disease is in the blood, and the cure must be in the blood also. "Golden Medical Discovery" eradicates from the blood the impurities and poisons which breed and feed disease. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and so increases the supply of pure, rich blood, which, nourishing each organ, builds up the whole body in health and strength.

The cures effected by "Golden Medical Discovery" are positive and permanent. In many cases of disease, such as eczema, tetter, pimples, eruptions and rheumatism, an effectual cure has been found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, after all other medicines and means had failed to help or heal.

Sometimes a dealer tempted by the larger profits paid by less meritorious medicines will offer the customer a substitute in place of "Golden Medical Discovery" claiming that he knows it to be "just as good." There is nothing gained by trading one thing for another which is only "just as good." There is everything to risk in trading the "Discovery" with a world's record of cures for a substitute with nothing but the unsupported claim of an interested dealer behind it. If you are sick you want to be cured. That's why you want "Golden Medical Discovery" and nothing else.

There is no alcohol in the "Discovery," and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

SUFFERED HORRORS.

"William Fenton, Esq., of Redoak, Montgomery Co., Iowa, writes: 'I consider your 'Golden Medical Discovery' one of the best medicines on the face of the earth. While in the south-west, fifteen years ago, I got poisoned with poison ivy. The poison rolled up my blood and the horrors I suffered cannot be told in words. I thought I would go crazy. I could do nothing for relief. I would go to sleep scratching, and would wake up in the morning and find myself scratching. I consulted for eight months. Had not been for 'Golden Medical Discovery' I would be scratching yet. I tried different kinds of medicines, tried different doctors, but all the relief they could give me was to make my poison look brighter.

"I then began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Took only bottles without any relief. Kept on taking it. I took in all nine bottles and I got entirely cured. I can say that if people would take your medicine instead of dosing with some of the quacks that infest the land and larger towns, disease would flee like chaff before the wind."

NO BENEFIT FROM DOCTORS.

"For about one year and a half my face was very badly broken out," writes Miss Carrie Adams, of 126 West Main Street, Battlecreek, Michigan. "I spend a great deal of money with doctors and for different kinds of medicine, but received no benefit. At last I read one of your advertisements in a paper, and obtained a bottle of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Before I had taken one bottle of this medicine I noticed a change, and after taking three bottles I was entirely cured. I can well recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to any one similarly afflicted."

FREE. On receipt of stamps to defray expense on customs and mailing only, we will send Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, containing 1008 pages. This book will prove a constant friend and wise counselor to every man and woman. It deals with the great and grave questions of human origin and reproduction in plain English. Send 21 one-cent stamps for book in paper covers, or 50 stamps in cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Pale and Anxious

Your Countenance Indicates the Body's Awful Struggle for Health.

Impossible to work or think clearly when there is no reserve of vigor, no nourishment in the blood, no supply of nerve energy.

The life of the half-sick man is pitiful, in fact, almost criminal, when bounding strength is so quickly derived from Ferrozone.

This nutritive tonic is guaranteed to strengthen all men, women and children. Weak organs get new force, vital energy is generated. Muscle and fat are added, healthy color is restored and the blood fairly tingles with new-found life.

Read the evidence of Jno. Carter, of 111 King St. East, Toronto, who says: "After a severe attack of Grippe my health was almost shattered. I suffered constantly from nervousness and dyspepsia. At night I would waken with terrible palpitation and heart pains. Work became a great effort. At last in the morning I was so tired and weak I could hardly work another minute.

"Then came a bad attack of rheumatism which laid me up in bed. I could scarcely lift the weight of a pound and to stoop or bend was impossible. My druggist recommended Ferrozone, and he knew what he was talking about, for it rebuilt my strength, gave me abundant appetite, better blood, and new nerve energy. The rheumatism has disappeared. I weigh more, feel refreshed and vigorous, and am able to work ten hours a day. Ferrozone did it all."

You will be steadied, toned and strengthened for all time to come with Ferrozone. Get the genuine in tec boxes or six for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., or Kingston, Ont.

UNION LABEL

PETERBORO, DECEMBER 16 1905

"SCANDAL OF CHRISTENDOM."

The interchurch conference in New York was a notable affair. Those who organized it were moved thereto by a praiseworthy ambition to do away with "the scandal of Christendom"—the separation of the Christian church into unnumerable sects. Men have long dreamed of a united church, where non-essential causes of schism shall be laid aside, and people shall worship together in one great religious family. Such conferences help to establish a friendly feeling between the sects. Do they do anything more?

The final object appears to be defeated at the very start, since the Roman Catholic Church is not asked to participate. Next, the Unitarians were barred, on the ground that they did not believe in Christ's supernatural origin, and were therefore not Christians at all. Next came the Universalists, who received no invitation because they rejected the doctrine of eternal punishment. That alone was sufficient to keep them out of an "evangelical" alliance.

This would seem to be a long start toward unity. Further schisms are likely to occur almost any moment. The Protestant Episcopal Church has remained aloof from several such conferences, refusing to admit the validity of any non-Apostolic-succession ministry. The Baptists have had times boiled on the question of union, maintaining that those who had not been baptized by immersion were really not church members at all.

And so become each sect more strict, tighter and more exclusive in its religious views than to anything else, after a towards combination have ever been in vain. Everyone is willing to throw away non-essential doctrines for the sake of peace—but nobody can agree as to what is "non-essential."

Perhaps, after all, it is better that there should be many sects. The more there are, the more nearly can every man be satisfied.

AN OPEN EVENING

Interesting Exercises at Y. W. C. A. in Physical Culture

The physical culture classes at the Y.W.C.A. last night gave a very interesting exhibition in the gymnasium of that popular and worthy institution.

Those who were favored with an invitation and were present, thoroughly enjoyed the proceedings. Miss Adams, the director, has reason to feel proud of her pupils, who showed wonderful skill and connection of the various movements and exercises performed. The development of muscle was apparent, and the bright faces, pink with health, told the story of the benefits which the pupils were receiving at the hands of Miss Adams.

The exercises were interspersed with a vocal solo, by Mrs. E. Eardley-Wilmot, which was, as usual, splendidly rendered, and a violin solo by Mr. John Markle, which was also well rendered.

THAT COSTLY TWO DOLLARS

Prominent Lawyer Assures The Times' $100 Will not Cover Expenses

Yesterday The Times was called up by one of Peterboro's most prominent lawyers and influential citizens, in reference to a letter appearing in Friday's issue.

This letter took exception to the seemingly ridiculous abuse of legal privileges whereby a local lawyer puts the county to an expense of some $40, to appeal a case in which a fine of $2 had been imposed.

Our informant of yesterday, assured us that the estimate of our correspondent, viz., is as ridiculous as was the expensive appeal. He assured us further that this $2 fine appealed, will cost the county from $100 to $110, of which the city will have to pay one third.

He is strenuously of the opinion that legislation should be introduced to prevent men of the legal profession running their pockets in such pleasure cases and running municipalities head long into debt over cases, that as in the Harris-O'Brien one, are sustained. This $100 or $110 does not, of course include lawyers fees, and our informant thinks that even to gain a fat fee, lawyers should not recklessly load debt onto the city or county.

HOCKEY.

CURLING.

The first game of the season was played by the curlers on Simcoe street rink, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Hodie Waddell with Mr. Kerr, vice, skipped a rink against Mr. H. Neil's sturdy men. Mr. Neil's vice, being Mr. D. Hall. The ice was in fine condition and rinks were duly expanded by yells of "Sweep," "In turn," etc. The enthusiastic workers of the brooms for lack of lights not yet fixed this year, played until handkerchiefs had to be used, in the fast gathering darkness, to locate the stones. The result of the opening game was Neil's rink 9, Waddell's 8.

THE TURF.

The Peterboro Turf Club yesterday laid out a track on the Little Lake for purposes of getting local horses trained for the eastern circuit next January. This will enable horses to learn to keep their footing on ice or a snow track. Both the Little Lake and the Driving Park tracks are in splendid condition. Mr. H. A. Cook yesterday worked his string of horses now in training on the ice, having present "Miss Paisley," "The Jap," "Expelled." The Jap was the first Peterboro horse to exercise on the lake this winter. Great expectations are laid out by those in the know for these three horses.

• • • •

Last night Mr. Cook forwarded the entries of the three horses named to Ottawa, for the races there.

• • • •

By the way, the Toronto papers recently stated, their intelligence being, in good faith, copied by the local papers, that Mr. Cook had been expelled by the National Trotting Association. We are pleased to state here that this not only untrue, but a great injustice to this well-known Peterboro horseman. The latest issue of the Buffalo Horse World, a recognized authority, gives a list of those expelled the past season, but Mr. Cook's name is not included as being either expelled or suspended. It is only fair to this ardent sportsman to correct this injustice.

THE DOCK ASSURED

Ministers Promise to Give Dock Favorable Consideration

As noted in yesterday's issue the Peterboro Deputation, interviewing the Ministers of Railways and Canals and Public Works, Wednesday, as to a dock, along the river front from Hunter street to the C.P.R. bridges, met with a favorable response.

The deputation returned yesterday morning, and expressed themselves as satisfied with the result of the trip. From the manner in which the Minister of Public Works expressed himself the deputation considered that he was prepared to consider it favorably. The prospects, according to the members of the deputation seem to be bright for the dock as proposed.

They were introduced to the Ministers by Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., who explained the object of their call.

Mr. Miles Hamilton's Promotion

We trust that the report is true, as Mr. Hamilton is one of the most popular young men of this city, and a gentleman well qualified for the position named.

SCOTT HAS SIXTEEN SEATS

Liberals Almost Sure of a Good Working Majority in Saskatchewan

Winnipeg, Dec. 16.—Returns from a number of the constituencies in Saskatchewan are yet incomplete and indefinite, but enough is known to vouch safe 16 seats to the Government, thus assuring a good working majority in the House of 25. A noteworthy feature of the election by returns received is the strong endorsation of Liberal candidates by rural electors. Thus, Liberal prospects grow brighter as the remote polls come in, all late returns almost invariably being favorable, in several seats, like Kinistino and Cannington, gradually wearing down big Opposition majorities and converting them into Liberal victories, or making the result doubtful. This was the case especially in Wolseley and Moosomin, where Opposition candidates are elected by small majorities. It is not improbable that when the first Legislature divides Premier Scott will have a following of 16 or both Regina city and Moose Jaw city are placed in the doubtful column until the courts have finally passed upon the contested ballots.

THE DRUMMER BOY

One of California's Richest Mines Now Placing Limited Amount of Stock

Those of our readers or the public in general, who are seeking a good investment for capital, in large or small amounts, would do well to carefully read the announcement in another column of this issue, wherein the Drummer Boy Gold Mining Co. is offering their stock for sale.

There are two kinds of mining stock open for investment, that of a prospect, where money is required for experimental purposes, and the more conservative class, where the mine in question has been opened up and proven a success.

The Drummer Boy Mine, in Siskiyou County, belongs to the latter class. This property consists of eight claims, 600 by 1500 feet each, making 160 acres; they also have a mill site of some five acres and thirty inches of water.

The title to their property is regularly filed with the Recorder of Siskiyou county, Cal.

The Drummer Boy Mine has already been developed by 1000 feet of tunnels, which has produced 25000 tons of ore for extraction and treatment. This ore can be milled for $1 per ton.

Rapid work is being made on construction of their stamp mill, which will soon be completed. When completed, within 60 days, the output will be $50,000 per month.

This company is almost a close corporation. The capital stock is $500,000, divided into shares of $1 each. The outstanding stock, exclusive of that held by the controlling interests will not exceed $15,000. The price of shares will be advanced shortly after January 1st.

One open cut of 50 feet, 30 feet perpendicular height from upper tunnel, gave ore assays of $200 to $700 per ton.

For full particulars write at once to Drummer Boy Gold Mining Company, 407-410 Emma Spreckels Building, San Francisco, Cal.

Dissolution January 8

London, Dec. 16.—The new Cabinet held its first meeting at noon yesterday to discuss the immediate program of the Government, and parties early to fix a date in January for the dissolution of Parliament, preparatory to a general election. CUBAN MINISTER TO THE U. S.
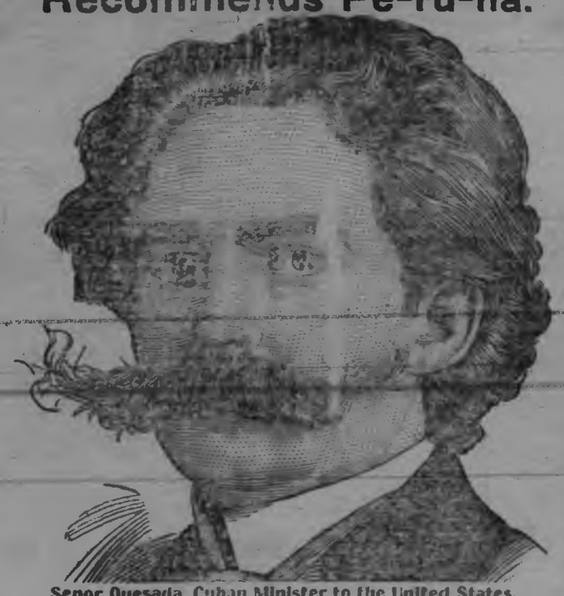
Recommends Pe-ru-na.



Senor Quesada, Cuban Minister to the United States.

Senor Quesada, Cuban Minister to the United States, is an orator born. In an article in The Outlook for July 1898, by George Kennan, who heard Quesada speak at the Esteban Theater, Mantanzas, Cuba, he said: "I have seen many audiences under the spell of eloquent speech and in the grip of strong emotional excitement; but I have rarely witnessed such a scene as at the close of Quesada's eulogy upon the dead patriot, Marti." In a letter to The Peruna Medicine Company, written from Washington, D. C., Senor Quesada says:

"Peruna I can recommend as a very good medicine. It is an excellent strengthening tonic, and it is also an efficacious cure for the almost universal complaint of catarrh."—Gonzalo De Quesada.

Congressman J. H. Bankhead, of Alabama, one of the most influential members of the House of Representatives, in a letter written from Washington, D. C., gives his endorsement to the great catarrh remedy, Peruna, in the following words:

"Your Peruna is one of the best medicines I ever tried, and no family should be without your remarkable remedy. As a tonic and catarrh cure I know of nothing better."—J. H. Bankhead.

There is but a single medicine which is a radical specific for catarrh. It is Peruna, which has stood a half century test and cured thousands of cases.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

T. Barrie & Co.

Mr. Thos. Barrie, whose splendid emporium is such an ornament to our leading thoroughfare, is an enthusiast in his business. What Mr. Barrie can not know about raw furs, their qualities and manufacture would not take long to tell. One great secret of the success that the firm of T. Barrie & Co. have met with is that all their fur goods, whether capes, capes, coats, or other garments are made on the premises and under personal supervision of Mr. Barrie. "From trapper to wearer," is the motto of this large Peterboro industry. This is a point well worth consideration by those spending large sums in fur goods in buying from Barrie one knows that the firm making the article, has personally inspected the raw fur, knows its adaptability to the particular use put, and has their credit at stake in the purchaser's opinion after wearing the goods. Mr. Barrie is not only one of Peterboro's most enterprising and ambitious business men, but places great weight on the good name of his firm. This good name is ever upheld by those buying furs from Messrs. T. Barrie & Co.

THE RINK OPENED

Large and Delighted Crowd Attend the Opening

A large and well pleased crowd gathered last night at the new Jackson Park Rink. This was the formal opening of what promises to be Peterboro's most popular place of winter amusement. The 57th Regt. Band was in attendance and discoursed sweet and appropriate music during the evening. As was customary during the popular moving picture entertainments last summer, the ice accommodation last night was first class, everything being well attended to, and the large crowd handled without a hitch. The ice last night was all that could be desired, and many complimentary remarks were heard as to the splendid facilities provided for patrons of this rink.

THE BANK OF OTTAWA

Encouraging Report at Meeting of Shareholders

Now that the Bank of Ottawa has opened a branch in this city, our readers will note with interest that the 39th annual report just issued, is a most satisfactory one in every way.

The paid-up capital on the 30th of Nov. 1905, was $2,500,000, whilst the reserve fund and undivided profits were $2,644,000, over 100 per cent. of the capital, which is a sufficient guarantee of the strength of the bank.

The assets of the bank are now nearly $24,000,000.

The Bank of Ottawa is moving with events, and the immense influx of population into Canada, has been met by the establishing of a number of branches in the west.

As is known by our readers, since the new branch of this bank was opened some months ago, with Mr. A. A. Hollingshead, as local manager, the Peterboro branch has steadily been gaining patronage, and there are not a few who prophesy that the Bank of Ottawa, will soon be one of our leading local financial institutions.

Mr. George Burn, general manager, and the directors have every reason for congratulation over the grand showing of the bank last year.

Peterboro has an attraction for her, as evidenced by her many visits.

THE HORSESHOE STORE

Messrs. H. LeBrun & Company's Splendid Establishment

Among Peterboro's most successful and reliable business concerns, Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co., are easily in the foremost rank. This large and highly rated clothing and gents' furnishing establishments, was organized nearly 40 years ago by its present head, Mr. Harry LeBrun. Those of our older citizens will remember that during the life of a generation, Mr. LeBrun has successfully carried on this business, through both prosperous and lean times.

For the continued prosperity of Mr. LeBrun's business, both when founded by present proprietor, and when started later on, Mr. Jos. Lloyd entered the firm, there are large leading reasons, personal popularity, merits in handling only the highest grade of every class of goods, and perfect fairness kept with everybody, in every matter of business.

Messrs. LeBrun & Co. have on complete an assortment of every line handled in their trade, as has any shop of the kind in Canada. In their cosy establishment can be found goods cheap in price, but of best wearing quality suitable to purses not over plethoric, as well as highest grade tweeds, gloves, ties and other lines demanded by the most exacting of the citizen. One marked feature in Messrs. LeBrun & Co's establishment is the universal courtesy shown to all classes of the community. The poor man paying ten cents for a pair of shoes, is treated as courteously as the rich man who pays $5.

The emblem adopted by Mr. LeBrun, the golden horse shoe has proven the truth of the old superstition regarding lucky shoes, as this business has steadily grown from the first to now being the leading clothing establishment in Peterboro. In so large an establishment, buying in tremendous quantities, thus saving heavy discounts, it is but natural that low prices rule on all lines.

MRS. JAS. HOWDEN GONE

Old and Respected Resident of Cavan Township Expired Yesterday

The many friends, in this city and county of Mrs. Jas. Howden, will regret to learn of her death, which occurred yesterday morning at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Jos F. Staples, Ida.

Mrs. Howden, who was 85 years of age, has been suffering with pneumonia which caused her death.

The deceased was born in Ireland in 1820, but came to Canada in 1841. She was married in 1849 to Mr. Jas. Howden, of Cavan, who died in 1879. Eight children survive. They are, Mrs. Thomas Morrow, of Peterboro, Mrs. A Walsh, of Perrytown; Mrs. J A. Stacey, of Peterboro; Mrs. Jos. F. Staples, of Ida, and Mrs. C. Lowes, of Drayton. The sons are Richard of Cavan; John and Robert who reside on the homestead.

The late Mrs. Howden, is also survived by one brother, Edward Swanston, living at Moosomin, Sask. She was a life-long member of the Methodist Church.

MR. HOLLINGSHEAD HOST

Local Banker Entertains Peterboro Rugby Club, Champions

The members of the Peterboro Rugby Club, intermediate champions of the O.R.F.U., and of last year's senior O.I.A.A. team, were the guests of Mr. A. A. Hollingshead, at an enjoyable banquet at McCallum's Thursday night. There were present Messrs. W. Crowley, W. H. Sims, A. Gillespie, A. H. Malbern, W. K. Meagher, Eugene Hurtubise, K. Dillon, H. Craig, J. A. Clough, P. Gilbert, A. M. Regan, G. McDonald, A. H. Quinlan, E. Fitzpatrick, R. S. Hall, W. E. Wasson, R. M. Glover, H. Morgan, C. G. Graham, W. Cavanagh, R. F. Mc. Williams.

Mr. Crowley occupied the chair, and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

Mayor May Call Meeting.

It was rumored yesterday that several Peterboro investors in the mortgaged York County Loan and Savings Co. will request the Mayor to call a public meeting of those interested. It is estimated that there are over 125 citizens in Peterboro interested in this concern, who do not know quite where they are at. One leading citizen has addressed a letter to the Ontario Government, urging that some action be taken to safeguard the interests of the shareholders, the majority of whom are poor people.

Mayor Best After Peterboro Interests

Mayor Best, who is in Ottawa on Thursday, with his usual regard for Peterboro's interests, interviewed the Minister of Railways and Canals in reference to the lease of dam No. 4, south of Lakefield on the Otonabee river, for the purpose of developing power. He asked if the city would be able to procure a lease from the Government. Hon. Mr. Emmerson said that the question of the power along this canal was now being considered; and that he could not say whether or not the Government would be prepared to lease the power to anyone, but promised to give it to the municipality in preference to a private individual.

Powers is unable, as he says, to work, and without aid, as his Worship, obliged John with the necessary document. He will remain in jail until the little birdlets warble among the trees.

THE CHUKCHEES.

They Live in Siberia and Have a Mania For Suicide.

A Russian correspondent was talking about Siberia.

"In that strange land," he said, "the strangest thing is the suicidal tendency of the Chukchees. Among the Chukchees, actually, suicide is one of the most common forms of death.

"The Chukchees live in northeastern Siberia. They are small and copper colored. They dress in skins and ride reindeer. Tallow and raw kidney are their chief delicacies. In every Chukchee house hangs a death coat.

"A Chukchee doesn't kill himself by his own hand. He appoints his nearest relatives—his wife, son or daughter—to do the deed. And the delegate never rebels, never declines this sad and horrible task.

"Innumerable are the causes of suicide—jealousy, unrequited love, an incurable disease, melancholy, poverty, and so on.

"I knew a man who was prosperous and apparently happy. Suddenly a desire for death seized him. 'In three moons,' he said, 'I will go home to my fathers.' And he calmly settled his affairs and at the appointed time bade his wife to knot a cord about his throat and his two sons to pull upon the cord till he should be strangled. He died, they told me, joking.

"The death coat which hangs in every Chukchee house has a hood. It is for use in suicide. The hood hides the facial contortions of the dying.

"There are Chukchee families wherein suicide is hereditary, wherein it is a point of honor for the sons to kill themselves, a natural death being regarded in such families as disgraceful and scandalous, a sign of the most unpardonable cowardice.

"The Chukchees, despite their suicidal tendency, are a happy and healthy people, moral, truthful, brave and temperate."

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

You can't spend any time hating people if you want to go forward.

After a man has worked hard to get a thing he has to fight hard to keep it.

No one loves a crying baby, and the same is true of people who are grown up.

While your friends promise you big things, the "if" they put in the promise is bigger.

All your troubles are exaggerated, including the uneasiness that conscience causes.

When friends urge you to come and see them "any time" it requires some figuring to find but just when that time is.

Decisions after mature reflections are so often wrong that greater respect should be paid the decisions of a penny coming down heads or tails.

Old Time Football.

Football has never been a very gentle game, to judge from what Master Stubbes says about it in his "Anatomie of Abuses," published in 1583: "For, as concerning football playing, I protest unto you it may rather be called a friendly kinde of fight than a play of recreation, a bloody and murthering practice than a sport or pastime, for dooth not every one lye in waight for his adversarie, seeking to overthrow him and picke him on his neck, sometimes on the plaine ground, but also upon hard stones, pavements, or quick-set hedges, sometimes upon ditches, that he may fall into the water, or at the least wise into some filthie place, and though he be on hard stones, so that by this meanes sometimes their necks are broken, sometimes their backs, sometimes their legs, sometimes their armes, sometimes one part thrust out of joynt, sometimes another; sometimes the noses gush out with blood; sometimes their eyes start out."

All Wabbly In Their Walk.

"Nobody in New York walks straight," said the gray headed citizen of the metropolis. "Watch a score of pedestrians on the sidewalk, and not one of them sticks to a straight path. Those deviations are not always due to the crowded condition of the pavement either. During the rush hours a man is supposed to dodge this way and that in his efforts to make progress, but when given a clear road there is no excuse for so much sidetracking. Yet no matter how favorable the conditions the New Yorker signags just the same. He might have a stretch of sidewalk a block long all to himself and be perfectly sober, yet in that distance he would veer from curb to stoop line and back again several times."

A Queer Recipe.

In an old black letter translation of Albertus Magnus the donkey figures in the following extraordinary recipe:

"Take an Adder's skin, and Auri pigmentum, and greeke pitch of Reupiriticum, and the waxe of newe Bees, and the fat or grease of an Asse, and breake them all, and put them all in a dull seething pot full of water, and make it to seeth at a glowe fire, and after let it waxe cold, and make a taper, and every man that shall see light of it shall sleepe headlesse."

Exclusive.

Clerk—Now, this, ma'am, is the most popular book of the day. Everybody is reading it. Mrs. Nuritch—I don't want nothin' that everybody reads. Show me somethin' more exclusive.

Good Reason.

"Do you owe Bilker money?"

"No."

"Why do you avoid meeting him?"

"Don't want him to owe me money."

The Right Ring.

Mr. Gusher—Darling! You refuse me a kiss? Has not my avowal the ring of true love about it? Miss Cute—Yes, dear, but my finger hasn't.

GOLD IN THE NEVADA DESERT

Eighteen months ago, where now stands the City of Goldfield, with its ten thousand inhabitants, its metropolitan conveniences and all that goes to make a flourishing, active, progressive, wide-awake town, there was nothing but a wilderness. Tonopah, then beginning to attract the attention of the mining world by its phenomenal rich deposits, was 60 miles distant from the nearest railroad point and stood on the southerlymost border of the then new territory, while all that vast section to the south, almost to the Colorado River, embracing now what is known as the Goldfield, Lida, Rhyolite, Bullfrog, Kawich Tokop and many other small camps was "no man's land"—a forbidden wilderness. East to Tybo and Reville and west to the California line the same conditions prevailed. Rapidly and persistently the border line of the unknown has been pushed back until now only the dreary reaches of Death Valley remain impregnable to the assaults of the sturdy prospector. The burros and packs followed by the handy and enterprising freighter, the jerky and the concord coach, have even given away to the high power auto and palace car. Eighteen months ago the journey from civilization to this new mining country was considered a serious undertaking; today, twenty-four hours' travel in a luxuriously equipped train, takes you from the Pacific Coast to Goldfield and half way through the desert. The completion of the railroad to Goldfield has brought that mining country to the South and East into intimate and profitable connections with the few terminuses, and now with the road which is under construction from Los Vegas to Bullfrog, and with the extension of the present road from Goldfield to Bullfrog, it will bring about a great reduction in the transportation of ore, and it is considered by conservative mining men that one of the greatest booms that was ever known will take place in this district within the next eighteen months. Considerable rich bodies of ore are being uncovered almost daily in all sections of this desert. The most wonderful deposit of ore discovered is in what is known as the Montgomery-Shoshone property, in the Bullfrog District, as recent reports show: Here is a block of 150 x 150 x 200 feet; 5,350,000 cubic feet, 200,000 tons; $20,250,000. It is the opinion of the management of the Montgomery-Shoshone Mine that all of the ore exposed will average up to $75 a ton. If that is true, there is $20,250,000 worth of ore in sight in sight in the mine. If the ore averages only $40, there is $15,600,000 in sight in the mine; if the ore averages only $20, there is $7,800,000 in sight. These calculations are made on a basis of 15 cubic feet of ore to the ton. This is wonderful when you take into consideration that the first pick was struck in their ground less than fourteen months ago. From recent shipments this mine received returns of $1,150 per ton for first class ore, and $263 for second class ore, and from recent tests it has been demonstrated that the vast deposits of free milling ore can be worked economically in the district and with a high percentage of saving by the ordinary method of panamalgamation and cyncynniding and that five dollar ore will be eventually treated at a profit.

The ore-bearing formation of the camp is universally a rhyolite, probably the oldest rock in the district. This is cut in a general northeasterly and southwesterly direction by series of quartz veins of varying thicknesses.

Among the mines attracting particular attention at the present time is the Dores-Montgomery Mining Company's property of Bullfrog, home office 604 Crossley Building, San Francisco, California. This company's property is 1,800 feet southwest of the Montgomery-Shoshone. They did not commence work on their ground until several months after the Montgomery-Shoshone began developing. The result is, they have profited by the experience of the Shoshone's work and today the Dores-Montgomery Mining Company has such indications as not only leads them to believe, but some of the best mining experts on the Pacific Coast say they are going to have a property that will equal any in the district. They now have one tunnel 64 feet, another 128 feet, and in all of their work they have passed through exactly the same formation as the Montgomery-Shoshone did in their first work, and they now expect to strike the same rich ore as their neighbor by sinking the shafts, which they commenced on the 20th day of November, this year, and sixty days' work should put them into shipping rock, and once they are to this point, their stock will jump to several times its present value.

This company has 80 acres of ground and they believe the most of it carries rich values. This company is offering a limited amount of stock at 25 cents per share for future development work. They, however, reserve the right to withdraw all stock from the market, or raise the price at any hour.

Poor men discover mines; rich men buy them out or get control of the stock and freeze them out. Rare is it that the discoverer of a rich property ever developes it for himself.

In the case of the Dores-Montgomery Mining Company, they have resolved not to lose what they, after so many years, have wrought from the earth. Therefore, after carefully incorporating, they have decided that there was safety in numbers, and it is seeking the small investor in order to spread the stock as much as possible, and it asks of you, is hold on as you would to an endowment policy. This is an opportunity you never had before.

C. H. Schwab offered three millions while was refused, for the Montgomery-Shoshone Mine, this company's neighbor, and should they strike a property only one-half as good, your stock would be worth several times what you now can purchase it for.

The officers and directors of this company, all of whom are well-known in business and professional circles, each devotes a large share of his time to the company's interests and in no case are they drawing any salary for their services, and will not, until the property is on a dividend paying basis. They expect to build up a property second to none and desire the fullest investigation of their proposition.

MEN OF MUSCLE.

Records Who Performed Some Wonderful Feats of Strength.

Augustus the Strong of Saxony in his playful moods would seize a couple of courtiers, one in each hand, and hold them out at arm's length. He would twist stout iron bars around their necks for collars and straighten horseshoes with a wrench of his muscular fingers, while on one occasion, when the horse of one of his attendants refused to budge, he put his herculean shoulders under it and walked away with horse and rider together.

George Castriot, prince of Albania, wielded such a powerful sword that he could sever a bull's head at a single stroke, while once, for a wager, he walked off with ten of his courtiers standing on a platform. Charlemagne, who was reputed to be the strongest man of his time, was able to snap the strongest horseshoe between the fingers of one hand, and Don Sebastian merely by the pressure of his knees could make his charger groan with pain.

Peter the Great of Russia so developed and hardened his naturally strong muscles by years of work as a blacksmith and a carpenter that he became the strongest man in his dominions. He had but one formidable rival in a country blacksmith, whose boast it was that he was the only man in Russia who could lift an anvil from the ground.

When this boast came to the ears of Peter he set out incognito with a single companion and challenged the blacksmith to a trial of strength. Without a word the latter seized his ponderous anvil with both hands and, straining his mighty muscles almost to bursting point, raised it a foot from the ground. When Peter's turn came he, too, raised the anvil higher and higher until, to his rival's consternation, he placed it on his shoulder, and walked out of the smithy with it. So startled was the blacksmith by this exhibition of strength that he rushed away to summon the villagers to "come and see the evil one, who had run away with his anvil."

Peter had a worthy successor in Alexander III., father of the present czar, whose phenomenal strength earned for him the title of the "Russian Samson." Amazing stories are told of Alexander's muscular powers—how he could burst open the stoutest barred doors by a push of his great shoulders, crumple up coins in his hand as if they were leather instead of tough metal, snap iron bars across his knees, tear a whole pack of cards in two and with a few movements of his powerful hands convert a pewter tankard into a bouquet holder.

Nor must we forget that amazonian queen of Poland, Cymburga, who used to crack nuts with her fingers, and when she was training her fruit trees would hammer the nails into the wall with her clinched fist.

The Meanest Man.

A well to do Chicago real estate owner went into a hardware store in that city and asked the proprietor for a pound of nails. The small package was made up and the price, a nickel, handed to the merchant, when the customer asked if the purchase could be sent to his house, which was in a distant part of the city. The merchant assented and, calling an errand boy, handed him the parcel, with the nickel he had just received for it, and said:

"Here, Johnny; take the car and take this parcel out to Mr. Blank's house."

"What!" said the customer. "Are you going to give the boy the nickel to take the parcel out?"

"Why, certainly," said the merchant. "I wouldn't think of asking him to walk so far."

"Well," said the meanest man in Chicago, "if you would just as soon give me the 5 cents I will take it out myself!"

Chemists' Odd Jobs.

"Mankind is suspicious," said a chemist of the board of health. "Only last week a wealthy clergyman sent me a piece of pie for analysis. He suspected that his daughter, a beautiful and good girl, wanted to put him out of the way. The pie contained, of course, none but the usual ingredients.

"Some people send me pickles, sauces, plackings—profitable and widely advertised compositions that they want to learn how to duplicate and vend themselves.

"There isn't a well known patent medicine that hasn't been submitted to me for analysis twenty or thirty times."

Ready For the Cholera.

Some years ago there was an outbreak of cholera in France, and instructions were forwarded to the mayor of a certain village to take all necessary precautions, as the epidemic was rapidly spreading. At first the worthy magistrate did not know what to do. After awhile, however, he reported that he was ready to receive the dread visitor. Upon inquiry being made it was discovered that by his orders a sufficient number of graves had been dug in the local cemetery to bury the entire parish if required.

Followed Orders.

"Confound it!" exclaimed Jackson. "What a stupid fellow that jeweler is!"

"How so?" inquired his friend.

"Why, I told him the other day that I wanted engraved on the engagement ring the letters 'From A. to Z.'—'From Arthur to Zenobia,' you know—and the idiot went and put in the whole alphabet!"

Sure to Fetch Him.

Husband—I have a horror of being buried alive, Jane! Wife—Don't worry. Before you've been dead an hour I'll buy a $40 hat, and if you are alive you'll kick.

It is a pity that opportunity does so much traveling incog.—Puck.

Do You Want an Investment That Will Pay You Fifty Per Cent Per Annum?

Fr. Raschaupt, the great Geologist, Mining Engineer and Chemist, has made an exhaustive examination of the properties of near the HOUSTON RIVER, LOUISIANA, in CALCASIEU PARISH, and over his own signature has reported that the lands of The Union Oil and Sulphur Co. have under them large quantities of oil. As real valuable deposits are always overlain, he says, by a considerable thickness of sediments, and such is the case here, which show no outcropping and hence no seeping, it is clear that such primary oil deposits, particularly in the best included in our tracts, are by far more valuable than the secondary ones, because they are by far less subjected to variations.

The Union Oil and Sulphur Company

Professor Raschaupt gives a long scientific and technical description of the property and from its geological formation and position proves the existence of oil in large quantities. He says: "I therefore have the greatest confidence that your land tracts lying in the before mentioned 'oil belt' will cover one of the most productive and extended oil basins."

The officers of the company are the ones who put in the money to make all the tests and to buy the ground; and now that we know, we have oil, we ask you to put your money in our hands and we will [illegible]

GUARANTEE TO YOU HONEST TREATMENT, HONEST REPORTS AND HONEST RETURNS

The books of the company are open for inspection and the officers of the company refer you to any bank or wholesale house, or to Dunn or Bradstreet Agencies.

Investigate the officers and directors; ascertain if they have the ability to correctly judge the probabilities of their own enterprises. It's the MEN BEHIND THAT COUNT.

We are within 400 yards of the tracks of the Kansas City and Southern Railway. We own all the land around our well and have leased large tracts besides. The Houston River runs alongside our property, so that our shipping facilities are the very best.

THE UNION OIL AND SULPHUR CO. was organized under the laws of South Dakota, with a capital stock of $750,000.00, the shares being $1.00 each.

After the organization of the company we began to search farther for evidence of sulphur and we have a piece of land today that will from all evidence produce as much sulphur as the famous mine near our land, this is producing today about thirty-five (35) cars a day with a profit of $1,000 a car and we want to say to you that this famous mine is the wonder of the world and is paying the enormous monthly dividends of 100 per cent., and they are now increasing their capacity to try and meet the demands, and we feel confident (that as soon as we can develop our sulphur property) we will be able to do the same; we knew we had the oil and we also knew that it would take less to develop it and that oil would pay for the sulphur plant as soon as we were able to begin the sale of the oil and this we think, we will be able to do within a short time, and we want to say to you right here, that as soon as we begin the sale of oil there is no more stock for sale, for this company will then be self-sustaining.

We began the drilling on our property on July 4th, 1904, we have a well that is 2,544 feet and 8 inches deep, and has five distinct showings of oil; this well has a pressure of 190 pounds, which ought to give us a flow of about 2,000 barels a day as soon as we get the strainer on and the tanks built; this takes time and money and that is why we are selling this allotment of stock. Everything points to a high grade of oil and if this is what they all think it is, we can say to you that you will make the best investment of your life when you buy some of our stock.

A PLAIN TALK WITH INVESTORS

What, think you, is the earning power of money? Can it with safety earn more than five per cent? Let raw facts answer. The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company pays 40 per cent.; the Union Trust Company, 47 per cent.; the Central Truet Company, 60 per cent.; Fifth Avenue Bank, 100 per cent., and the Chemical National Bank 180 per cent.

Are these institutions "get-rich-quick" concerns? Are their dividends REAL or FICTITIOUS?

PERSONAL TO TH READER

Is our proposition worthy of your consideration? In buying the stock of this company are you buying only paper? Certainly not! This company is formed on a business basis; is conducted for profit to the stockholders, and you share just in proportion to the amount you hold.

STOCK

The cost of stock in The Union Oil and Sulphur Co., is now forty cents per share, but will soon jump to par. Please note in this connection that when your stock reaches par you have made more on your investment than money loaned at 5 per cent. for forty years. You should also remember that the quarterly dividends to be paid after the well is in successful operation will also be estimated on the par value of the stock, and not on the price paid for it time of purchase.

PAR VALUE

We feel confident that within one year our stock will be at or above par, for we could today contract the entire anticipated output of our wells at such alarming figures that would guarantee an annual dividend of 30 per cent. on a basis of five wells to the acre.

The Lust of Hate

BY GUY BOOTHBY

until a quarter past twelve o'clock, when he hailed a passing hansom and bade the man drive him home. This order was given in the hearing of one of the Club servants, whose evidence should prove of importance later on. From the time he left the Club until half-past one o'clock nothing more was seen of the unfortunate gentleman. Then Police-Sergeant Macoinochie, while passing along Piccadilly, discovered a man lying in the centre of the road almost opposite the gates of the Royal Academy. Calling the constable on the beat to his assistance, he carried the body to the nearest gas lamp and examined it. To his horror he recognised Major-General Brackington, with whose features he was well acquainted. Life, however, was extinct. Though convinced of this fact, he nevertheless obtained a cab and drove straightway to Charing Cross Hospital, where his suspicions were confirmed. One singular circumstance was then discovered—with the exception of the left eyebrow, which had been cut completely away, evidently with some exceedingly sharp instrument, there was not a wound of any sort or description upon the body. Death, so the medical authorities asserted, had been caused by an overdose of some anaesthetic, though how administrated it was impossible to say. The police are now engaged endeavouring to discover the cabman, whom it is stated, the Club servant feels sure he can identify."

With a feeling of interest, for which I could not at all account, seeing that both the victim and the cabman, whom the police seemed determined to associate with the crime, were quite unknown to me, I re-read the paragraph, and then went in to breakfast. While I was eating I turned the page of the paper, and propping it against the cruet stand, scanned the fashionable intelligence. Sandwiched in between the news of the betrothal of the eldest son of a duke, and demise of a well-known actress, was a paragraph which stirred me to the depths of my being. It ran as follows:—

"It is stated on reliable authority that Mr. Richard Bartrand, the well-known Australian millionaire, has purchased from the executors of the late Earl of Mount Chennington the magnificent property known as Chennington Castle in Shropshire, including several farms, with excellent fishing and shooting."

I crushed the paper up and threw it angrily away from me. So he was going to pose as a county magnate, was he—this swindler and liar!—and upon the wealth he has filched from me? If he had been before me then, I think I could have found it in my heart to kill him where he stood, regardless of the consequences.

After breakfast I went for another walk, this time in a westerly direction. As I passed along the crowded pavements I thought of the bad luck which had attended me all my life. From my earliest infancy the world seemed to have prospered that I had taken in hand. As a boy I was notorious for my ill-luck at games; as a man good fortune was always conspicuously absent from my business ventures; and when at last a chance for making up for it did come in my way, success was stolen from me just as I was about to grasp it.

Turning into Pall Mall, I made my way in the direction of St. James' Street, intending to turn thence into Piccadilly. As I passed the Minerva Club the door swung open, and to my astonishment my eldest brother, who had succeeded to the baronetcy and estates on my father's death, came down the steps. That he recognised me there could be no doubt. He could not have helped seeing me even if he had wished to do so, and for a moment, I felt certain, he did not know what to do. He and I had never been on good terms, and when I realised that, in spite of my many years' absence from home, he was not inclined to offer me a welcome, I made as if I would pass on. He, however, hastened after me, and caught me before I could turn the corner.

"Gilbert," he said, holding out his hand, but speaking without either emotion or surprise, "this is very unexpected. I had no notion you were in England. How long is it since you arrived?"

"I reached London yesterday," I answered, with a corresponding coolness, as I took his hand. For, as I have said, there was that in his face which betrayed no pleasure at seeing me.

He was silent for half a minute or so, and I could see that he was wondering how he could best get rid of me.

"You have heard of our father's death, I suppose?" he said at last.

"I learnt the news in Sydney," I replied. "I have also received the five thousand pounds he left me."

He made no comment upon the smallness of the amount in proportion to the large sums received by himself and the rest of the family, nor did he refer in any other way to our parent's decease. Any one watching us might have been excused had they taken us for casual acquaintances, so cool and distant were we with one another. Presently I enquired, for politeness sake, after his wife, who the daughter of the Marquis of Belgravia, and whom I had, so far, never seen.

"Ethelberta unfortunately is not very well at present," he answered. "Sir James Peckleton has ordered her complete rest and quiet, and I regret, for that reason, I shall not be able to see as much of you as I otherwise should have hoped to do. Is it your intention to remain very long in England?"

"I have no notion," I replied, truthfully. "I may be here a week—a year—or for the rest of my life. But you need not be afraid, I shall not force my society upon you. From your cordial welcome home, I gather that the less you see of me the more you will appreciate the relationship we bear to one another. Good morning."

Without more words I turned upon my heel and strolled on down the street, leaving him looking very uncomfortable upon the pavement. There and then I registered a vow that come what might, I would have no more to do with my own family.

Leaving Pall Mall behind me, I turned up St. James' Street and made my way into Piccadilly. In spite of the slippery roads, the streets were well filled with carriages, and almost opposite Burlington House I noticed a stylish brougham drawn up beside the footpath. Just as I reached it the owner left the shop before which it was standing, and crossed the pavement towards it. Notwithstanding the expensive fur coat he wore, the highly polished top hat, and his stylish appearance generally, I knew him at once for Bartrand, my greatest enemy on earth. He did not see me, for which I could not help feeling thankful; but I had seen him, and the remembrance of his face haunted me for the rest of my walk. The brougham, the horses,

PETERBORO BROKERAGE CO., Fiscal Agents

It Will Pay You to Read and Investigate this Proposition.

Custer, Idaho, November 15, 1900.

To the Stock Holders of The Ozarna Mining Co.:—

We have steadily continued the development of our properties since last advising you June 20th. At that time we had no plant erected or contracted for, but now I am pleased to report that we have secured a Ten Stamp Mill, together with Boarding House, Assay Office and all other necessary buildings, originally costing $15,000.00, hence you will know that we have been making great progress, and are rapidly approaching a productive stage, but as we have a final payment to make on this Mill, we will not withdraw our stock from the market until this money is raised. We are now making preparations so that by early spring we can start our Mill for a long and continuous run. You will be advised later on as to the date when we will start so that you can be present if possible.

In addition to this Mill, which is now erected, with all machinery in place and in perfect running order, we have secured the machinery for an other Ten Stamp Mill, consisting of Battery, Seventy-five Horse Power Engine, two Forty Horse Power Boilers, and all other necessary machinery which we expect to install in the Mill now already equipped, which will increase the capacity of our plant from 750 to 1500 tons a month, which means a great saving in the cost of reducing our ores, as it takes about the same labor to operate a Ten Stamp Mill as a Twenty Stamp Mill, the only additional expenses necessary to operate the larger Mill is a little additional fuel. In addition to above machinery we have also purchased an Ingersoll Air Compressor for use in the Mines, at a cost of $1200.00.

We are assured funds to complete our payment on the Ten Stamp Mill and for other purposes, and never having any brokers to place our stock, we have had no commissions to pay, hence we have financed the Company for a less sum than is usually required. We have no debts and will pay no salaries until after the Mill goes into commission.

I also beg to advise you that we expect to take over the control of the Corwin Mining Company, at an early date, giving a part of our stock in payment therefore. This will give us an additional eighty acres of Mineral Land, twenty acres of which is the Black Mine. This Mine has produced $200,000.00 net, and has one mile of developments, costing over $70,000.00, and an additional sum of $10,137.00 has been expended in developments this and last summer. Our Mill is on this group and is adjoined by "The Lucky Boy Mine," which has produced $1,000,000, and by "The Badger Group," which has paid $500,000 on a capital of $1200.00.

The time is rapidly approaching when THE OZARNA COMPANY WILL BE ONE OF THE STEADY PRODUCERS, and I urge each of the stock holders to buy all the stock that he or she can pay for while it can be had at the exceedingly low price of 10 cents a share. The officers are increasing their holdings and we want to give all the stock holders an equal chance with us. I have just put $1,000.00 more cash into the Company's Treasury for stock at 10 cents a share, the same that you will pay if you take advantage of this opportunity NOW.

I trust that you will be pleased with this report and with the efforts that are being made by your officers for the interests of each stock holder.

REGINALD CORYELL, Manager Ozarna Gold Mining Company.

To the readers of "The Times":—

The above report has been sent out to all our stock holders, and the allotment of stock for sale at 10 cents a share is being rapidly taken, for the ore that we are now taking out averages over $97.00 a ton and, with our Twenty Stamp Mill in operation, our earnings will not be less than $30,000.00 net per month, which will enable us to pay at least 100 per cent. (ten times the present cost) in dividends within six months from the time we put the Mill in commission. For immediate acceptance only, I can offer this stock for 10 cents a share cash, or one-quarter of the amount with order and a like amount in 30, 60 and 90 days. Make all orders payable to the undersigned, or remit through the NATIONAL BANK OF DELPHOS.

W. B. FLODING, Vice-President Ozarna Mining Company. Delphos, Ohio, U. S. A.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES' REPORTERS.

The Statutory Meeting.

Yesterday the Municipal Councils held their statutory meetings throughout the Province.

Local Option.

It has been estimated by those who have gone into the matter carefully that on January 1st, 1906, over fifty municipalities in Ontario, including the Township of Dummer and Village of Lakefield, will vote on a local option prohibition bylaw. The subject is one that calls forth general public interest and discussion.

To Change the Law.

In view of the refusal of many [illegible] Bylaws when requested to do so by petition, the temperance people of Prince Edward County will ask the Government to change the law, so that the clerk of the municipality will issue his writ for an election on a properly signed petition being given him, and if a majority favors the bylaw he shall declare its passage.

Mayor May Call Meeting.

It was rumored yesterday that several Peterboro investors in the moribund York County Loan and Savings Co. will request the Mayor to call a public meeting of those interested. It is estimated that there are over 125 citizens in Peterboro interested in this concern, who do not know quite where they are at. One leading citizen has addressed a letter to the Ontario Government, urging that some action be taken to safeguard the interests of the shareholders, the majority of whom are poor people.

Nolgen was a tenant and is supposed to have assisted in the murder to avoid paying of a debt.

Harrison, at the conclusion of which the National Anthem was sung and the meeting closed.

REFUSED TO TAKE PART.

A St. Catharines Audience Hissed and Hooted English Company

St. Catharines, Dec. 14.—The four members of the English company, consisting of Mladame Beatrice Langley, violinist; Miss Myrtle Moggy, pianist, Miss Hope Morgan, contralto and Stanley Adams, baritone, refused to give their program at the Veterans' Association's annual concert at the opera house last evening, if Lenny Kenney and Bert Harvey, two Toronto comedians and comic singers, were allowed to take part. Messrs. Harvey and Kenney were down for several comic songs. The Veteran's letter telling the English people about the addition of the comedians to the program, failed to reach them, and they got a surprise when they saw the names on the program on arriving at the Grand.

It was finally decided, after quite a long delay, to give the program without the Toronto men, but the "gods" received the announcement by Chairman O'Donnell with exceedingly bad grace. The "gods" and even some people downstairs displayed their indignation all through the evening, hissing and hooting the Old Country people when they appeared on the stage.

After the musicians had gone through their parts of the program, Mayor Sweet announced that the committee would give their's a Thos. did, and were given a great reception.

The English musicians, in excuse for their action, declared that they had never before performed alongside of comedians, and they never intended to. Their action has created a great deal of indignation here.

A Sharp Horse Deal.

The Orono News says: Farmers who do not profess to be up to all the "tricks of the trade" should be careful in dealing with strangers. Mr. Solomon Hamm, one of our most reputable farmers, learned this fact Monday afternoon last to his cost, as he stands to lose a valuable horse by a deal which he had with a couple of sharpers who are said to hail from Bowmanville. Mr. Hamm, not knowing strangers at the foot of the village and was stumped for a trade, but as everybody knows that is not his style—he is no trading character. When they found he would not trade they bought the horse from Mr. Hamm for $150.00, paying $5 to bind the bargain. They then took the harness off of one of their own horses and hitched in Mr. Hamm's, explaining that they would drive to the latter's place and, after this trial of the horse, pay the balance of the money. Mr. Hamm, under the impression everything was all right, hitched in their horse and led them up into the village, when on looking around he found that the strangers had turned and were driving rapidly in the opposite direction. He followed, but as darkness was setting in lost sight of them as they neared Bowmanville. Their plea, of course, is that it was a trade, and as they are two to one they hope to beat him out. Mr. Hamm, however, has sworn out a warrant for their arrest, and the case will likely come before P. M. Horsey. $5 would be a good price for the old skate of a horse they left with Mr. Hamm.

The New-York Daily Tribune.

Of course, a great deal depends on your own taste in the matter of newspapers. If you want a publication that serves up so much gore and so many thrills in every issue, it is money thrown away to buy The Tribune. If, however, you are looking for a daily history of the world, carefully collated and sifted and presented in the most attractive form that the facts and the laws of good taste will permit, you cannot make any mistake in reading The Tribune every day. The Daily Tribune is more than a continuous history. It contains special articles on nearly every subject which is supposed to interest intelligent and clean-minded people, to say nothing of the illuminating and instructive editorial articles and reviews of books, music and drama. Just by way of experiment, why don't you invest $1 and get The Daily and Sunday Tribune by mail for a month? With The Sunday Tribune goes a handsome Illustrated Supplement and a Magazine, with colored covers, equal to anything sold for ten cents.

A Hint to Farmers.

Every farmer in Canada should read the Family Herald & Weekly Star of Montreal. It is without exception the best Family and Farm paper on this continent, and costs but one dollar a year, including their most beautiful picture, "Queen Alexandra, Her Grandchildren and Dogs." It is the biggest dollar's worth offered this season, and no farmer should overlook it. The Farmer's Manual & Veterinary Guide issued by the same paper should also be in the hands of every farmer. Particulars may be had at this office or by writing direct to the Family Herald & Weekly Star, Montreal. No enterprising farmer should be without it. It is recommended by the best authorities. Samples can be seen at this office.

THE LICENSE QUESTION

Correspondent Explains People Hanging Round Hotels Sunday.

[To the Editor of The Times.]

Dear Sir,—One argument that seems to be used by the Ministerial Association, or those pulling the wires which influence them, is that on Sundays people are frequently seen hanging about the different hotels; this has been noted particularly about some of the hotels on Hunter street. These gentlemen, because on Sunday morning, just about the time the Protestant churches are assembling or discharging their congregations, the worshippers going to or coming from service see many people standing in or about these hotels or their yards. Now, the immediate conclusion is reached that these people are waiting to get drink. This is an unfair and unfounded idea. The Roman Catholic church has several masses every Sunday morning. These are attended by hundreds of farmers and their families. Fully 98 per cent. of the people seen round these hotels are members of families waiting whilst other members are putting away or hitching up their teams. It is unfair and unjust to jump to unfounded conclusions. Yours truly,

FAIR PLAY.

A Lawson Anniversary

Boston, December 15.—It was a year ago yesterday that T. W. Lawson, in a half page advertisement, gave "warning" to the public to sell Amalgamated and buy Copper Range.

Amalgamated was to sell at 93, and Copper Range was to be worth $300 "by 1906." On that day 316,800 shares of Amalgamated were to be sold in the New York Stock Exchange, and the price fell from 71 1-4 to 61 1-8, and closed at the low point.

Copper Range on the date of his advertisement, December 13, 1904, was sold in Boston from 70 1-4 down to 66, at which it closed, off 4 5-8 compared with the previous day.

Amalgamated sold today at 109 1-2, and Copper Range is several miles from 300.

An Alleged Ottawa Combine

Ottawa, December 15. — Mr. P. D. O'Connor, a local plumber, says he intends to institute proceedings to show that a plumbers' combine exists in this city. He says it was organized in June last, and that he was a member of it, but dropped out because he could not agree to certain conditions made.

Pastors Shun Labor Unions

Indianapolis, December 14. — By an overwhelming vote the Methodist Ministers' Association of this city today declared it would have nothing to do [illegible] labor unions. The matter came up [illegible] after what might be the sympathies of the ministers with the laboring classes, and the proposition of the Central Labor Union that the ministers appoint some one to represent them in the union meetings was rejected.

Will Be Hanged This Morning

Ottawa, December 15.—Joseph Bennett, the Indian, will be hanged today, (Friday) for the murder of Betsy Jacobs, near Brantford. His case was carefully considered by the Minister of Justice, and the Cabinet had the facts before them. The only possible extenuating circumstance was that Bennett was intoxicated when he committed the crime, but drunkenness is not recognized by law as an excuse for murder, and so the Cabinet decided that they could not interfere. The sentence of the court, therefore, will be carried out.

Dog Lost.

From the city, a beagle bitch, black, tan and white. Information leading to its recovery will be suitably rewarded. Anyone having her in his possession after this date will be prosecuted. Address information to H. C. Wood.

BANKER AVENGER.

If a man should charge boldly enough in his path one, he would quickly crush it beneath his hard hoofed foot and think the poisonous fangs harmless. He would not step out of the way and temporize with the dangerous reptile. And yet how many people are there who temporize with a still more deadly enemy—consumption. Like a serpent it creeps, it glides along almost unnoticed. First a cold, or sore throat, then a slight cough, then catarrh, then bronchitis, then bleeding from the lungs and finally death. The way to crush out the threatening evil is to fortify the system and purify the blood with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Every weakness and abnormal condition that precedes consumption is cured by this non-alcoholic remedy. At the first signs of derangement of stomach, liver and blood, look out! It is only a question of time until the lungs will be attacked through the impure blood, and then the danger will be most deadly.

It should be known to every sick person that Dr. R. V. Pierce will give carefully considered, honorable, professional advice by mail to all who write him at Buffalo, N. Y. No charge or fee of any nature is asked.

Mr. Moses Horner, of Stahlstown, Penn'a, writes: "Last fall I took a severe cold (the result of rot fest) and this brought on catarrh and bronchitis which lasted all winter. I used three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and two or three vials of the "Pleasant Pellets," also one package of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. I am now cured. Many thanks to you."

An honest dealer will not try to persuade you to take a worthless substitute in place of the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the sake of a little added profit.

Revolutionary Party May Lose Its Game

And Russia Her Liberty If They Proceed to Extremes--Witte Looked Upon as a "Mere Opportunist."

[Special to The Times.]

London, December 18.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Associated Press wires that public opinion in the Russian capital strongly inclines to the belief that the "Government has entered upon the fatal path of reaction." The arrests of the head of the powerful workmen's council and of his more influential associates, the interference with certain public meetings, the seizure and destruction by the police of whole editions of liberal newspapers, the talk about mobilizing the Cossacks and using them when the ordinary troops are suspected of disaffection—these are among the alarming symptoms named by the critics of the Government.

Of course, if this is correct, the fall of Witte's reform cabinet is a foregone conclusion. The radical and revolutionary forces have looked upon the premier as a "mere opportunist," but he is too far advanced for the reactionary elements, and if these have persuaded the Czar that coercion and repression must once more be resorted to Witte's position becomes untenable.

He appreciates this fact himself, and Dr. Dillon's interview with him is distinctly ominous. For the first time the energetic and hopeful premier speaks of the possibility of a definite suspension, or even repeal, of the "principles embodies in the manifesto" of October last, the manifesto which, in effect, ended the reign of autocracy and placed Russia among the constitutional powers of the world. Witte, it is true, takes occasion to say in the same interview that, without the active aid of society, the Government cannot successfully cope with revolution and anarchy, and that "all may be righted yet" if the intelligent and moderate classes will lose no further time and opportunities in coming to the rescue. But we have every reason to believe that the militant advisers of the Czar, the Trepoffs and Ignatieffs, are very far indeed from sharing Witte's doubts as to the potency of repression.

Another general strike, persistent defiance of the Government by the workmen and editors and the union of unions, and continued distrust and hostility toward the liberal cabinet on the part of the zemstvo workers are certain to bring about a dictatorship. And that, in view of the determination of the revolutionists to proceed to extremes, may mean what one of the generals says it does—"rivers of blood, in which the revolutionary party may lose its game and Russia her liberty."

THE CZAR MAY FLEE.

St. Petersburg, December 15.—The rumor gains currency that the Czar and members of his family and relatives are preparing to flee. The fact that a German fleet is constantly in close proximity to St. Petersburg, under orders, it is believed, to convey the royal family to a foreign port, should occasion require it, is taken as evidence that things are as bad as they can be.

Say There is No Combine.

Ottawa, December 17.—Several of the leading plumbing firms of the city absolutely deny that a combine or an association of any kind exists in this capital.

Canada Can Supply It.

London, Dec. 15.—The London Globe thinks E. B. Osborne, who read a paper on Canada before the Royal Colonial Institute on Wednesday evening, is a thoroughly competent authority, and that there is nothing fanciful in his conviction that by 1920 Western Canada "will be able to supply all the wheat required by the Mother Country.

"But," adds the Globe, "a large portion is certain to be diverted unless some fiscal inducement is offered rendering this sale in the English market more profitable to growers than sales anywhere else would be."

During the past eleven months, 521,387 head of cattle have been imported and slaughtered for food. Of this number over one-fourth came from Canada. Of 177,216 sheep imported Canada sent 27,354.

A GOOD WORK

Children's Aid Society Saving Many Boys From Crime.

One Friday a practical proof of the good work being done by the Children's Aid Society was in evidence. A bright little chap, 12 years of age, by name Albert Hall, was taken by the police, in a destitute condition, to the Shelter. Mr. William Henry, the efficient caretaker, on Saturday, told The Times that this little lad of 12 years has been twice in Manitoba. His mother was drowned some nine years ago at Bracebridge. This boy arrived in the city about two weeks ago from Cannington, where he lived with his stepfather, he claims whom, turned his out, giving him $5. This boy when he arrived here had sufficient funds to pay two weeks' board at a local hotel. Then being without friends, the police took him in charge. His whole wardrobe of this lad is what he wears on his back at present minute. Had not the Shelter taken him in their care, the boy's future might easily have turned out badly.

A WONDERFUL INVENTION

To Run Clocks Now By Wireless Electricity.

London, December 17.—Dr. Max Reithoffer, professor at the Vienna Technicah High School, who is considered an authority with reference to the wave theory, has, jointly with the court watchmaker, Karl Morawetz, submitted to the common council of that city a plan for an electric system of clocks run by wireless electricity. They propose to furnish the chronometric and electric apparatus, including clocks, to the city free of charge, and to make the trials. The city has only to furnish the current, the cable connections, etc., and give the use of suitable buildings. The common council has appropriated $600 for making experiments. If these should lead to the adoption of the project, Vienna would be the first city in the world having a system of electric clocks regulated by wireless connection.

EDISON PEEPS AT FUTURE.

SEES IMMINENT REVOLUTION IN WORLD OF ACTIVITY.

'Tis Inevitable That Some of the 300,000 Scientists Engaged in Research Should Discover Secret of Transmitting Electrical Power Directly

New York, December 15.—In the opinion of Thomas A. Edison, wonders are yet to be unfolded in the world of electricity.

"We are groping on the verge of another great epoch in the world's history," he said in an interview today at his laboratory in West Orange. "It would not surprise me any morning to wake up and learn that some one, some group of the 300,000 scientific men who are investigating all over the earth, has seized upon the secret of electricity by direct process, and begun another practical revolution in human affairs.

"It can be done. It will be done. I expect to see it before I die.

"The first great change in the production of electricity will abolish carrying coal for that purpose," he said. "Instead of digging gross material out of the earth, loading it on cars, and carrying it, say 500 miles, there to put it under a boiler and burn, and so get power, we shall set up plants at the mouths of mines, generate power there, and transmit it wherever it is needed by copper wire.

TO SHIP POWER INSTEAD OF COAL

"It is preposterous to keep on putting coal mines on wheels. It is too clumsy. It is too costly. There is no necessity for it.

"It is easier to carry molecular vibration by millions of waves a second than freight cars full of crude matter. We can ship 100,000 horse power over the wire quicker and more economically than we can send the equivalent in coal over a railroad track.

"We must eliminate the railroad altogether from this problem. What's the use of it? We don't want coal anyhow. It does us no good to look at it. What we want is the resultant of the utmost energy that can be produced. And there is no sense in carrying around millions of tons of raw material like coal when we can get a product delivered to us by wire.

SAVING WILL BE ONE-THIRD.

"Everything points to the fact that in the near future electricity will be produced for general consumption by great power houses at the mouths of coal pits. That is the logical and common sense outcome of present events.

"Now, the truth is that it will cost a third less to transport electrical power by wire than to carry it in the form of coal in railroad cars. Assume the price of coal to be $1 at the mouth of a mine, and assume the freight to be $1.00. Now, we can turn coal into electricity at the mine and convey it by wire by less than half of the cost of the freightage of coal.

"Electricity will take the place of horses. It will solve the vehicle and traffic problem of cities. My new electric storage battery itself will make electricity cheaper than horses. In the spring we will be ready to furnish [illegible] they take half the space of horse traffic but they will go twice as fast. They can be stored on upper floors by means of elevators. The saving of stable space in New York will cover at least $200,000,000 worth of property.

WATER POWER GOING TO WASTE.

"Not only will electric power be developed and distributed from coal mines in the future but all the water power in the world will be used for the production of electricity. That movement has begun and is advancing rapidly. In California, where men have nerve enough to overcome habit, they are transmitting electric power 275 miles by wire and running street cars and lighting cities by it. That is the sort of spirit that will wake the world up one of these days. I wish that spirit in California would spread everywhere."

Everything points towards the Ontario Hockey League having a most successful season before them. There will likely be seven teams in this league, viz.

Mr. Chris Graham, one of Peterboro's most enthusiastic advocates of this splendid winter sport, President of the league, occupied the chair at their annual meeting held last Friday night.

The representatives present were: M. Rosenberg, St. Paul's; E. Bellhanney, E. Downer, St. Andrew's; Ira Moore, Charlotte street; E. M. Best, George street; C. G. Graham, St. John's Although All Saints' and St. Luke's Guilds were not represented, they will be found in the league this season.

A most pleasing feature of the meeting was the announcement made by Mr. Graham, that he and Mr. Fred A. Clarke had decided to offer a handsome trophy for competition among the league teams. With this impetus the struggle this year should be a keen one, and the action of the two donors is thoroughly appreciated.

The election of officers was the first business transacted and resulted as follows:

Hon. Pres.—Fred Clarke.
Pres.—C. G. Graham.
Sec.-Treas.—Ira Moore.

Executive Committee—One representative from each Guild, to be chosen by the Guild.

The various guilds in the league will report at a future meeting as to where practice shall be held.

The Land of the Aztecs.

Who has not read of the glories and wonders of old Mexico! The days when Montezuma held gorgeous court in the ancient capital of Gran Tenochtitlan are departed, but they have left Mexico one of the most interesting countries in the world. Pictures qua ruins and relics, in a setting of flowers and sunshine, everywhere delight the fortunate visitor; each day's travel reveals fresh beauties. And out of this ruins a new Mexico is arising, a land of possibilities, abounding in resources of all kinds. In the peasants' hands the soil will yield five crops a year, metals and minerals in abundance. Our business men have here a splendid field for investment, and should see and judge the land for themselves. Leisurely investigation under sunny skies will be pleasant work, while the ladies will be delighted with their bargains in native work and precious stones.

An attractive itinerary, covering the whole of Mexico and the best of the Southern States, and including a visit to Cuba and New Orleans for "Mardi Gras," has been arranged for the Cuthbert House party tour, leaving Toronto early in February next. The special private train will contain every possible comfort and luxury, and the cuisine equal to that of a first-class hotel. A pleasant, smooth running trip is assured, the management having had long experience in this branch of travel. Canadian enterprise, when it is the best is worthy of your attention. Full particulars, with descriptive literature, upon application to E. M. Cuthbert, 25 Maitland street, Toronto, or C. B. Foster, District Passenger Agent, C.P. Ry., Toronto.

MR. HUNTER'S DEATH

Former Station Master of Whitby and Lindsay Railway Gone.

The Bobcaygeon Independent, referring to a gentleman known to [illegible] Old residents who remember the opening of the Whitby and Lindsay railway, and the days when the Whitby and Victoria lines had a joint station at Lindsay, will also remember J. D. Hunter, who was station-master, purchaser of wood, superintendent, despatcher, and generally it of the Whitby line. At the same time E. Brennan held a similar sort of position on the Victoria line, and if a special was needed Brennan could handle the throttle of an engine with skill and dexterity. Slaughnessy and Hays were never such railway li'e as Hunter and Brennan. They were full of business ability, and two more big-hearted, whole-souled fellows never lived. For the last twenty-five years Hunter has been freight agent for the Allan Line, and his popularity among the leading business men of the province has never changed. Saturday morning, John D. passed over the line, and his merry jest and happy greeting will be heard no more. He died at his residence in Toronto, and leaves a wife, four daughters and a son who will receive the sincere sympathy of everyone who knew him. The words of the old song Tom Bowling, aptly apply to John, and his host of friends will feel assured that while "his body lies under hatches, his soul has gone aloft."

THE YORK LOAN

Player Best will Hold Meeting of Shareholders To-day.

There has been no very general dissatisfaction over the York Loan Co. and rumors of what is not separated in speakers' words, by more than a thousand miles from Irish have been safely current, that the many citizens of Peterboro, who have placed their money with this moribund concern, have asked Mayor Best to hold a general meeting. The Mayor, with his usual regard for what affects Peterboro interests, complied with their request, and a meeting will be held this afternoon in the Council chamber at 3.30.

The Ontario Government has definitely decided that there should be an investigation into the affairs of the York County Loan Company. The form of the investigation will be an audit of the company's books by an independent and prominent auditor. Hon. J. J. Foy asked Mr. W. H. Cross, of the firm of Clarkson and Cross, to make the investigation, but Mr. Cross was unable to do so at once, owing to the press of business at the end of the year. Hon. Mr. Foy will at once seek to have some one else make it. He has since been in communication with other parties in connection with the matter. The investigator after going through the books of the company will make a report upon them to the attorney-general, which will be laid before the Government, and then in all probability made public. The nature of the report, will of course, decide what other steps to be taken.

Litigants can well afford to stay their hand until the examiner makes his report. Charges, insinuations and suspicions of all kinds have been circulated. It may turn out that many of these are without foundation. The investigation by a competent man, independent of the directors, and his report will give the shareholders positive information from an independent expert, and better enable the shareholders to calmly form an opinion as to what course had better be adopted by them with a view to realizing the most out of the assets of the company. It will also enable them to form a more mature opinion as to whether the proposed sale to another company is the best solution and one more in their interests than a sale of the assets by a liquidator under the Winding-up Act.

Castro Backs Down

New York, Dec. 16.—A Caracas despatch to the Herald, dated Thursday, says: President Castro withdrew on Wednesday not only the objectionable phrase by his counter protest, thus avoiding the necessity of answering the reply of France to the Venezuelan memorandum, which would have made a settlement impossible. This act is a confirmation of the advices received from Caracas in the line of a resumption of universal friendship.

MR. ROBT. WEIR'S DEATH

Peterboro Loses a Respected Citizen of 49 Years Standing.

Yesterday morning the city sustained a severe loss in the death of one of her oldest and most generally respected citizens, in the person of Mr. Robert Weir.

Mr. Weir's death was not altogether unexpected as he has been seriously ill for about a month. The late Mr. Weir was a native of Monaghan, Ireland, and had he lived until March 17th previous, would have been 76 years of age. He joined the Orange Order in 1852, and for 53 years has been a consistent and enthusiastic member of that Order. He has filled many prominent offices, having been District Master for seven years and also County Master for many years. He held the office of Grand Master of British America, and also Grand Master of Ontario East, R.B.K.

In religion the deceased was a member of the George street Methodist church, and in early life took an active part in Sunday school work, having been superintendent of the Bible Christian Sunday school for 25 years. Mr. Weir has filled responsible civic positions, having been a member of the Board of Education and the Town Council.

Mr. Weir has resided in Peterboro for over 40 years, having moved here in the early 60's, from Cobourg.

He was always a strong and consistent advocate of temperance, having taken a prominent part in every movement tending toward the abolition of the sale of liquor, and was a member of the Royal Templars. Mr Weir for many years carried on a merchant tailoring business. He leaves to mourn his loss a widow and six sons.

The funeral which will be under the management of the Orange Society, will be held from the family residence, 269 Monaghan street, on Tuesday, the 19th at 2.30 p.m., to the Little Lake cemetery.

Carnegie Makes an Offer.

New York, December 17.—Announcement was made at a dinner of the Union College Alumni Association here Saturday night, that Andrew Carnegie has offered to donate the sum of $100,000 for equipping the building to be devoted to electrical engineering at Schenectady, provided the college raises another $100,000 to endow the school. The building itself was presented to the college by the General Electric Company.

FOR GIVING REBATES.

Kansas City, Dec. 16.—Eleven indictments were returned by the Federal Grand Jury here yesterday against common carriers, railway officials, shippers, and freight agents, charging the giving of rebates and conspiracy to gain rebates.

York County Loan Company Assigns

A Rush of Writs Saturday Causes Surprising Move to Protect Shareholders.

Toronto, Dec. 16.—Crowded into a scheme at High Park. Patience on the part of the shareholders is counted on, because there will be no hasty sacrifice of the company's lands, and the York County Loan and Savings Company, Limited, made an assignment on Friday for the benefit of its creditors, and an order for liquidation was granted by Judge Teetzel at 12.30 o'clock noon Saturday. The National Trust Company have been appointed liquidator, and they immediately took possession of the assets. Judge Teetzel named Neil McLean as official referee to supervise the liquidation, that is to execute the commands of the court. The motion was first made Friday afternoon, and renewed Saturday, and the order was made with the consent of the company. The reason for the haste in making the assignment is given as because of many of the writs being returnable Monday. Hon. J. J. Foy, Attorney-General, stated yesterday the Government investigation would still proceed.

The winding-up proceedings check all litigation, and the interests of the shareholders are now in the hands of the liquidators, who have stated their determination to ask aid from the city and Toronto Railway Company to build up the new residential district.

GOVERNMENT CAN INQUIRE.

After a conference with W. E. Middleton, of the National Trust Co., at 12.30 o'clock noon Saturday. The Attorney-General Foy, who was first apprised of this new state of affairs by the press, made the following statement:

"I see no reason why the Government examiner and auditor should not still proceed with his examination and investigation, notwithstanding this winding up order. Any shareholder would have the right to investigate all the books and affairs of the company at his own expense, and the appointee of the Government may do the same. There are so many small shareholders throughout the province and other parts of the Dominion that they cannot be expected to do this.

"In my opinion the Government can properly do it for them. The work of the Government auditor will be no doubt embarrassed by the books and securities of the York Loan Company being in the hands of the provisional liquidators. I have no doubt the liquidators will facilitate the Government officer in every way in their power."

ARE GERMANS WORSE OFF THAN BRITISHERS?

Chamberlain Member of Parliament to Send Deputation of Workmen to See.

London, Dec. 16.—An interesting test is due to the outgrows of the present political situation and the rapidly approaching general election. One of the chief difficulties which Mr. C. A. Morning has had to contend with in his candidature for Gainsborough is a statement repeatedly made by Liberal orators and Liberals newspapers that German workingmen are far worse off under protection than the English workingmen are under free trade. To ensure his prospective constituents to arrive at the truth of their own accord, Mr. Morelng made the following offer;

"That six workingmen should be chosen from the town of Gainsborough to form a commission to investigate the question on the spot. I will make this offer without reference to politics, and will pay all expenses to go this trip to Germany with the above object in view."

Tried to Commit Suicide.

Hamilton, Dec. 16.—John Bailey, 72 years of age, tried to blow his brains out at his house on Cannon street this morning. Bailey's wife died nine months ago, and he made love to Mary Ann Newington, a widow whose husband died a year ago, but Bailey became tired of his bride, and had made arrangements to go to the House of Refuge to-day. His wife refused to let him take his trunks, and he shot himself. He will probably recover. Bailey has considerable money.

Mr. Mervin's Big Turkey.

Mr. John Mervin, the Hunter street meat market man is an expert on cattle stocking. He also knows a thing or two about turkeys. On Saturday he purchased a 35-lb bird from Mr. Jos. Kearney of Lakemore. This splendid bird attracted much attention from passers by, as it hung from its stage front.

Sheriffs Gave Her Whiskey.

Bellaire, N.Y., Dec. 16.—Mrs. Hattie Muscatine, who is on trial charged with killing her husband, took the witness stand again to-day.

It was brought out that the night she confessed to the deputy sheriffs she was given half a glass of whiskey and that the liquor affected her when she made the statements.

Mrs. Miranda Keech, a sister, and Mrs. Elizabeth Cameron, a sister-in-law, gave evidence to corroborate the prisoner's testimony as to threats of Muscatine to kill his wife.

Sending Warships.

New York, Dec. 16.—A St. Petersburg despatch to the Sun, dated December 15, says;

Warships have been sent to Riga from Libau to quell the rebellion there and to capture the town. This action was taken in response to an appeal for help from the Governor, who asked for a cruiser and two torpedo boats besides troops. He declared it was imperative that strong reinforcements be sent immediately.

Strathcona Is Ill.

London, Dec. 16.—The Canadian Associated Press has heard that Sir Thomas Barlow, the famous physician has prohibited Lord Strathcona to leave his house, but probably Lord Strathcona will sail on the Campania on the 23rd instant. Lord Strathcona's illness, the Canadian Association Press is informed, is not of a serious nature. His knee is slightly painful from a wrench it received.

Family Incinerated.

Red Lake Falls, Minn., Dec. 16.—Peter Martell, a blacksmith, his wife, two sons and a daughter were burned to death early to-day by a fire which destroyed their home.

Do You Want an Investment That Will Pay You Fifty Per Cent Per Annum?

Fr. Raschaupt, the great Geologist, Mining Engineer and Chemist, has made an exhaustive examination of the properties of near the HOUSTON RIVER, LOUISIANA, in CALCASIEU PARISH, and over his own signature has reported that the lands of The Union Oil and Sulphur Co. have under them large quantities of oil. As real valuable deposits are always overlain, he says, by a considerable thickness of sediments; and such is the case here, which shew no outcropping and hence no seeping, it is clear that such primary oil deposits, particularly in the best included in our tracts, are by far more valuable than the secondary ones, because they are by far less subjected to variations.

The Union Oil and Sulphur Company

Professor Raschaupt gives a long scientific and technical description of the property and from its geological formation and position proves the existence of oil in large quantities. He says: "I therefore have the greatest confidence that your land tracts lying in the before mentioned 'oil belt' will cover one of the most productive and extended oil basins."

The officers of the company are the ones who put in the money to make all the tests and to buy the ground; and now that we knew we have oil we ask you to put your money in our hands and we will

GUARANTEE TO YOU HONEST TREATMENT, HONEST REPORTS AND HONEST RETURNS

The books of the company are open for inspection and the officers of the company refer you to any bank or wholesale house, or to Dunn or Bradstreet Agencies.

Investigate the officers and directors; ascertain if they have the ability to correctly judge the probabilities of their own enterprise. It's the MEN BEHIND THAT COUNT.

We are within 400 yards of the tracks of the Kansas City and Southern Railway. We own all the land around our well and have leased large tracts besides. The Houston River runs alongside our property, so that our shipping facilities are the very best.

THE UNION OIL AND SULPHUR CO. was organized under the laws of South Dakota, with a capital stock of $750,000.00, the shares being $1.00 each.

After the organization of the company we began to search farther for evidence of sulphur and we have a piece of land today that will from all evidence produce as much sulphur as the famous mine near our land, this is producing today about thirty-five (35) cars a day with a profit of $1,000 a car and we want to say to you that this famous mine is the wonder of the world and is paying the enormous monthly dividends of 100 per cent., and they are now increasing their capacity to try and meet the demands, and we feel confident (that as soon as we can develop our sulphur property) we will be able to do the same; we knew we had the oil and we also knew that it would take less to develop it and that oil would pay for the sulphur plant as soon as we were able to begin the sale of the oil and this we think, we will be able to do within a short time, and we want to say to you right here, that as soon as we begin the sale of oil there is no more stock for sale, for this company will then be self-sustaining.

We began the drilling on our property on July 4th, 1904, we have a well that is 2,564 feet and 8 inches deep, and has five distinct showings of oil; this well has a pressure of 120 pounds, which ought to give us a flow of about 2,000 barels a day as soon as we get the strainer on and the tanks built; this takes time and money and that is why we are selling this allotment of stock. Everything points to a high grade of oil and if this is what they all think it is, we can say to you that you will make the best investment of your life when you buy some of our stock.

A PLAIN TALK WITH INVESTORS

What, think you, is the earning power of money? Can it with safety earn more than five per cent? Let raw facts answer. The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company pays 6 per cent.; the Union Trust Company, 6 per cent.; the Central Trust Company, 6 per cent.; Fifth Avenue Bank, 100 per cent., and the Chemical National Bank 100 per cent.

Are these institutions "get-rich-quick" concerns? Are their dividends REAL or FICTITIOUS?

PERSONAL TO THE READER

Is our proposition worthy of your consideration? Is buying the stock of this company are you buying only paper? Certainly not! This company is formed on a business basis; is conducted for profit to the stockholders, and you share just in proportion to the amount you hold.

STOCK

The cost of stock in The Union Oil and Sulphur Co., is now forty cents per share, but will soon jump to par. Please note in this connection that when your stock reaches par you have made more on your investment than money loaned at 6 per cent. for forty years. You should also remember that the quarterly dividends to be paid after the well is in successful operation will also be estimated on the par value of the stock, and not on the price paid for at time of purchase.

PAR VALUE

We feel confident that within one year our stock will be at or above par, for we could today contract the entire anticipated output of our wells at such alarming figures that would guarantee an annual dividend of 50 per cent. on a basis of five wells to the acre.

How Consumption Starts

Tired When You Waken--Languid All Day—Nerves Worn Out —Soap All Gone

Your limbs feel "draggy" and excessively weak. A night's sleep seldom brings satisfying rest. Continuous headaches, exhaustion and nervous sensations destroy your health. Soon every spark of vitality is used up. Then you catch tuberculosis.

Start to-day. Build up, get new nerve force, and overcome this process of decay. Use Ferrozone, which physicians consider the most vitalizing, uplifting tonic ever made.

Ferrozone cures because it can furnish the body with sufficient nutriment and building material.

Think of the instant effect—at once the appetite increases, delightful color in the cheeks proves that rich, red blood is being circulated. Tired muscles are invigorated, flesh and weight are added. Nerve force develops, and bounding, joyous health is firmly established.

This is certain—Ferrozone restores failing strength from any cause. The experience of Mr. Thos. Lowd, of Schreiber, Ont., proves this;

"Household worries and cares had about exhausted my strength. I was weak and miserable. My cheeks lacked the color of health, and occasionally I had spells of rheumatism. Then my appetite fell off, and nothing could tempt me to eat. Worn-out feelings, chills and despondency filled my very being. I became anaemic and dwindled down to a shadow. Consumption was very near. Ferrozone put strength in my body with a rush. It built me up, strong, virile and happy, and I have been well ever since."

Ferrozone cures sickness by curing the real cause—lack of blood and nerve tone. It keeps people at their best—fit, ready and anxious for work. In 50c. boxes only, six for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., and Kingston, Ont.

UNION LABEL

PETERBORO, DECEMBER 16 1905

FOR RECONSIDERATION OF THE "INDEMNITY GRAB"

Mr. R. L. Borden, speaking at Toronto [illegible] again to be in favor of the reconsideration of the entire indemnity and pension measure of last session which has so awakened the disgust of the country. It is true that he coupled with this declaration the assertion that he is still of the opinion that the increase in the indemnity should stand; but this is only to be expected after the common agreement of last session. All parties agreed to go for the increase together; and it is altogether likely that any retreat will be similarly unanimous and simultaneous.

At the same time, the Liberal-Conservative convention for Nova Scotia put itself squarely on record in favor of the total repeal of this "grab" legislation, and rightly demanded "that any future legislation on the same subject should be after the country had had an opportunity to canvass the matter in all its details, and should only be enacted with the publicity and deliberation that is due a matter involving so great a sum of the public money of Canada."

The recent session of the Quebec Conservative convention appears to have lost an opportunity in this connection. It, too, should have come out flat-footed against the "indemnity grab." A number of other most excellent resolutions were passed which cannot fail to command the respect of the country—such as those in favor of an Imperial preference and the uniform insolvency law—but a popular chord would have been struck had the universal indignation of the electorate at this conspiracy of last session, by which the Dominion was mortgaged many millions deep for the personal enrichment of a group of politicians, been roundly condemned.

Undoubtedly we are to have a reconsideration of this whole affair next session. As an increase of the indemnity is a measure which can only be carried by practical unanimity, any small group of determined men, pledged to decency, can cause its repeal. They will have to be as ready to fight in caucus as in open Parliament; for if they refuse to be cajoled or coerced in caucus; they will probably find every body in agreement with them on the floor of the Parliament. It is a "grab" which no mere majority dare venture either to perpetrate or to defend.

The Ministerial pension scheme should go at the same time. If the Ministers are not paid enough; then they should be given an increase frankly by adding it to their salaries, and not have the promise of a life pension held over their heads for five years to keep them docile. The interest to the Prime Minister ought not to be disturbed. It is doubtful whether he is yet getting as much as the demands upon a man in that position render necessary with a view to sustaining the dignity of the Dominion. But, in any case, the question should come up early in the session, and whatever measure is proposed ought to be before the country for a fair time before it is finally adopted.

JOSEPH BENNETT HANGED

Told Jail Officials He Was Innocent of the Crime.

Brantford, Dec. 16.—Joseph Bennett, the Indian, suffered the full penalty of the law by hanging yesterday morning at 8.15 o'clock.

The crime for which the Indian murderer Bennett died was a most brutal. On July 9 last, with her head badly bruised and the marks of a murderer's fingers on her throat, Betsy Jacobs, an Indian woman, about fifty years of age, living at one of the Oshweken reserves, in Brant county, was found in her lonely cottage. She was a cripple and unmarried. Bennett, who was a large powerful man, was at once suspected, a letter which he had received from the post office only the night before having been found beside the dead woman's body. Bennett skipped out, and, after a thrilling chase, lasting several days, was captured in a bush about fifty miles from the scene of the tragedy. There were no valuables in the Jacob's house, and Bennett's motive for committing murder remains unexplained. He had a bad record previously. Bennett was tried at the Brant Assizes on September 30, convicted of the murder, and sentenced by Judge Anglin to be hanged December 15.

Bennett walked perfectly steady to the drop, and so far as can be learned, made no confession. He told the jail officials he was innocent of the crime.

E. F. Hebden, General Manager.

Montreal, Dec. 16.—The directors of the Merchants' Bank of Canada, at a meeting held to-day, made the appointment of Mr. E. F. Hebden to be general manager of the bank. Since the retirement of Mr. Eyshe from the management of the bank, Mr. Hebden has been acting general manager, his appointment being deferred, owing to some of the directors believing it was still quite possible that the amalgamation of the Merchants' and Royal banks might yet be carried out. On making the announcement of the appointment, one of the directors stated that it meant that there was not any longer any possibility of the bank merger being put through. The banks will go ahead independent of each other, the Merchants' maintaining its present capital of $6,000,000, while the Royal, in the near future, would likely increase its capital in order to be able to handle a largely increased business.

even the obsequious servants, should have been mine. I was the just, lawful owner of them all.

After dinner that evening I was sitting in the smoking room looking into the fire, and, as usual, brooding over my unfortunate career, when an elderly gentleman, seated in an armchair opposite me, laid his paper on his knee and addressed me.

"It's a very strange thing about these murders," he said, shaking his head. "I don't understand it at all. Major-General Brackington last night, and now Lord Beryworth this morning."

"Do you mean to say there has been another murder of the same kind today?" I enquired, with a little shudder as I thought how nearly his subject coincided with the idea in my own head.

"I do," he answered. "The facts of the case are as follows:—At eleven o'clock this morning the peer in question, who, you must remember, was for many years Governor of one of the Australian capitals, walked down the Strand in company with the Duke of Garth and Sir Charles Mandervan. Reaching Norfolk Street he bade his friends 'good-bye,' and left them. From that time until a quarter past one o'clock, when some children went in to play in Dahlia Court, Camden Town, and found the body of an elderly gentleman lying upon the ground in a peculiar position, he was not seen again. Frightened at their discovery, the youngsters ran out and informed the policeman on the beat, who returned with them to the spot indicated. When he got there he discovered that life had been extinct for some time."

"But what reason have the authorities for connecting this case with that of Major-General Brackington?"

"Well, in the first place, on account of the similarity in the victims' ranks; and in the second, because the same extraordinary anæsthetic seems to have been the agent in both cases; and thirdly, for the reason that the same peculiar mutilation was practised. When Lord Beryworth was found, his left eyebrow had been cut completely away. Strange, is it not?"

"Horrible, I call it," I answered with a shudder. "It is to be hoped the police will soon run the murderer to earth."

If I had only known what I do now I wonder if I should have uttered that sentiment with so much fervour? I very much doubt it.

The following evening, for some reason or another, certainly not any desire for enjoyment, I visited a theatre. The name or nature of the piece performed I cannot now remember. I only know that I sat in the pit, in the front row, somewhere about the middle, and that I was so hemmed in by the time the curtain went up, that I could not move hand or foot. After the little introductory piece was finished the more expensive parts of the house began to fill, and, seated as I was, I had a bitter sort of envy the gaiety and enjoyment of those before me. My own life seemed one perpetually unpleasant dream, in which I had to watch the happiness of the world and yet take no share in it myself. But unhappy as I thought myself then, my cup of sorrow was as yet far from being full. Fate had arranged that it should be filled to overflowing.

Five minutes before the curtain rose on the play of the evening, there was a stir in on of the principal boxes on the prompt side of the house, and a moment later two ladies and three gentlemen entered. Who the ladies and two of the gentlemen were I had no notion; the third man, however, I had no difficulty in recognizing, he was Bartrand. As I saw him a tremor ran through me, and every inch of my body quivered under the intensity of my emotion. For the rest of the evening I paid no attention to the play, but sat watching my enemy, and writhing with fury every time he he stooped to speak to those with whom he sat, or to glance supercilliously round the house. On his shirt front he wore an enormous diamond, which sparkled and glittered like an evil eye. So much did it fascinate me that I could not withdraw my eyes from it, and as I watched I felt my hands twitching to be about its owner's throat.

When the play came to an end, and the audience began to file out of the theatre into the street, I hastend to the front to see my enemy emerge. He was standing on the steps, with his friends, putting on his gloves, while he waited for his carriage to come up. I remained in the crowd, and watched him as a cat watches a bird. Presently a magnificent landau, drawn by the same beautiful pair of thoroughbred horses I had seen in the morning, drew up before the portico. The footman opened the door, and the man I hated with such a deadly fervour escorted his friends across the pavement and, having placed them inside, got in himself. As the vehicle rolled away the bitterest curse my brain could frame followed it. Oh, if only I could have found some way of revenging myself upon him, how gladly I would have seized upon it.

Leaving the theatre I strolled down the street, not caring very much where I went. A little snow was falling, and the air was bitterly cold. I passed along the Strand, and not feeling at all like bed, turned off to my left hand, and made my way towards Oxford Street. I was still thinking of Bartrand, and it seemed to me that, as I thought, my hatred became more and more intense. The very idea of living in the same city with him, of breathing the same air, of seeing the same sights and meeting the same people was hideously repulsive to me. I wanted him out of the world, but I wanted to do the deed myself, to punish him with my own hand; I wanted to see him lying before me with his sightless eyes turned up to the skies, and his blood crimsoning the snow, and to be able to assure myself that at last he was dead, and that I, the man he had wronged, had killed him. What would it matter? Supposing I were hung for his murder! To have punished him would surely have been worth that. At any rate I should have been content.

When I reached Oxford Street I again turned to my left hand, and walked along the pavement as far as the Tottenham Court Road, thence down the Charing Cross Road into Shaftesbury Avenue. By this time the snow was falling thick and fast. Poor homeless wretches were crouched in every sheltered corner, and once a tall man, thin and ragged as a scarecrow, rose from a doorway, where he had been huddled up beside a woman, and hurried after me.

The Company's Offer to Discriminating Investors.

The management is assured that $15,000 will be sufficient to complete the improvements necessary to place the mine on a substantial producing and dividend paying basis. Therefore the directorate has authorized the sale of 15,000 shares of the capital stock at par. The improvements under way include the construction of a mill and concentrating plant, boarding and bunk houses for the miners employed and the installation of machinery required for the testment of the output of the mine. With dividends assured and a certainty of a sharp advance in the price of this security it is stated with emphasis that no more attractive opportunity for investments could be placed before the public. Custer, Idaho, November 15, 1905.

To the Stock Holders of The Oxarna Mining Co.:—

We have steadily continued the development of our properties since last advising you June 25th. At that time we had no plant erected or contracted for, but now I am pleased to report that we have secured a Ten Stamp Mill, together with Boarding House, Assay Office and all other necessary buildings, originally costing $15,000.00, hence you will know that we have been making great progress, and are rapidly approaching a productive stage, but as we have a final payment to make on this Mill, we will not withdraw our stock from the market until this money is raised. We are now making preparations so that by early spring we can start our Mill for a long and continuous run. You will be advised later on as to the date when we will start so that you can be present if possible.

In addition to this Mill, which is now erected, with all machinery in place and in perfect running order, we have secured the machinery for an other Ten Stamp Mill, consisting of Battery, Seventy-five Horse Power Engine, two Forty Horse Power Boilers, and all other necessary machinery which we expect to install in the Mill now already equipped, which means a great saving in the cost of reducing our ores, as it takes about the same labor to operate a Ten Stamp Mill as it does to operate a Twenty Stamp Mill, about the only additional expenses necessary to operate the larger Mill is a little additional fuel. In addition to above machinery we have also purchased an Ingersoll Air Compressor for use in the Mines, at a cost of $1200.00.

We are assured funds to complete our payment on the Ten Stamp Mill and for other purposes, and never having any brokers to place our stock, we have had no commissions to pay, hence we have financed the Company for a less sum than is usually required. We have no debts and will pay no salaries until after the Mill goes into commission.

I also beg to advise you that we expect to take over the control of the stock of the Corning Mining Company, at an early date, giving a part of our stock in payment therefore. This will give us an additional eighty acres of Mineral Land, twenty acres of which is the Black Mine. This Mine has produced $100,000.00 net, and has one mile of developments, costing over $70,000.00, and an additional sum of $10,127.00 has been expended in developments this and last summer. Our Mill is on this group and is adjoined by "The Lucky Boy Mine," which has produced $1,000,000, and by "The Badger Group," which has paid $500,000.00 on a capital of $120.00.

The time is rapidly approaching when THE OXARNA COMPANY WILL BE ONE OF THE STEADY PRODUCERS, and I urge each of the stock holders to buy all the stock that he or she can pay for while it can be had at the exceedingly low price of 10 cents a share. The officers are increasing their holdings and we want to give all the stock holders an equal chance with us. I have just put $1,000.00 more cash into the Company's Treasury for stock at 10 cents a share, the same that you will pay if you take advantage of this opportunity NOW.

I trust that you will be pleased with this report and with the efforts that are being made by your officers for the interests of each stock holder.

REGINALD CORYELL, Manager Oxarna Gold Mining Company.

To the readers of "The Times":—

The above report has been sent out to all our stock holders, and the allotment of stock for sale at 10 cents a share is being rapidly taken, for the ore that we are now taking out averages over $67.00 a ton and, with our Twenty Stamp Mill in operation, our earnings will not be less than $30,000.00 net per month, which will enable us to pay at least 100 per cent. (ten times the present cost) in dividends within six months from the time we put the Mill in commission. For immediate acceptance only, I can offer this stock for 10 cents a share cash, or one-quarter of the amount with order and a like amount in 30, 60 and 90 days. Make all orders payable to the undersigned, or remit through the NATIONAL BANK OF DELPHOS.

Pickpockets at Work.

It seems that in attaining the dignity of full-fledged citydom, Peterboro has also become a victim of some of the unsavoriable features of cities. On Saturday, a lady had her purse, containing a sum of money, stolen from a lady's bag she carried on her arm. The police will doubtless keep a sharp lookout for these light fingered gentry, and if caught they will likely get scope sentences.

POLICE COURT NEWS

No police court was held on Saturday. On Sunday evening P.C. McGinty, saw a crowd of boys gathered round a drunk on Hunter street. This man had dallied with treasherous red-eye until he got one in the solar plexus, so to say, from his alcholic burden. The man, who worked in a Simcoe street shop formerly, spent the quiet Sabbath hours in solitary meditation stretched out on a hard elm-plank in cell No. 2 at the Hotel des Cops. His case will be tried this morning.

TRINITY COLLEGE FUNDS

Rev. Mr. Roy Makes Strong Appeal to St. John's Church.

At both services in St. John's church yesterday, Rev. Mr. Roy, of Trinity College, Toronto, preached. The rev gentleman, who is now on a tour in the interests of Trinity College, the leading university under Church of England control in Canada, is in Peterboro trying to raise money towards the endowment fund of the College. Mr. Roy made a strong appeal for aid from churchmen, and gave the encouraging news that five graduates of the college have promised if a certain sum is raised by public subscription, they will personally augment the amount by $125,000, i.e., by a personal subscription of $25,000 each. Mr. Roy noted that the past year the university had run some $9,000 behind. It is altogether probable that his visit to Peterboro, will result in a large sum being raised here, as there are not only many graduates of Trinity living in Peterboro, but churchmen in general, take a deep interest in the future of Trinity College. Mr. Roy has already had great success in his tour, having already raised over $220,000.

A JAG VERSELET

New Version of Old Song Worth Remembering by Tipplers.

From an Indian Territory exchange, comes a jingling little couplet that should be read by those citizens who tarry long with the seductive booze. It runs thusly;

"Sang a song of jagets, a fellow full of rye, four and twenty serpents dancing in his eye; when his eyes were opened he shouted for his life. Wasn't it a pretty shame to go home his wife? His hat was in the parlor, underneath the chair; his boots were in the hallway, his coat was on a chair, his trousers in the kitchen, his collar on a shelf, but he hadn't any notion where he was himself; when the morn was breaking, some one heard him call—his head was an awful ache, and he wished that he was dead."

To which our Spukaperian editor adds;

"When he went to business his wheels were buzzing well; Then his boss said "William you look as tough as, ——, well he had to bluff it so standing very stiff, remarked in trembling accents, "Yes, sir, I'm feeling rather ill. A brother of my lodge, was taken ill last night, I've sat beside his bedside, from eve till morning light!" The boss, without a quiver, remembering days of yore, said "William it's a good one, but don't spring it any more."

Peterboro Goods Being Pushed.

Today Mr. A. Rountree, the George street grocer, is shipping several large orders in groceries and liquors to Port Arthur, Fort William and Cobalt. Peterboro is rapidly forging to the front when her grocers are called on to send goods to such a distance.

Whilst not mentioning the name of consignees, we might note that these western orders contain sundry orders of "Elderick Dhu" whiskey, empty enclosed in turkeys from which the Departments of the Interior, have been removed.

Peterboro's Still Market Prices.

Turkeys, ducks and chickens brought ridiculously high prices at Saturday's market. This too, in the face of a large supply! A jocular citizen, who paid about 10 cents a mouthful for two undersized chickens, was heard to remark that the city should extinguish the market building fires, and farmers would sell at reasonable rates sooner than sit round and get cold. Those having turkeys and other poultry for sale on Saturday did not seem to know where the limit of price rested.

"COMPLETELY DISCOURAGED"

Is the feeling and plaint of women who are "run-down" so low that work drags, head aches, back aches, hands tremble, voice quivers, little things annoy and "everything goes wrong."

Look the other way just a minute and see what Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has done for more than a half-million women in the last thirty years.

What it has done for others it can do for you.

Believing that alcoholic, stimulating medicines were doing much harm, Doctor R. V. Pierce turned his investigating mind upon the problem of producing a remedy for the use of weak and suffering women that should be free from alcohol and at the same time EFFECTIVE AND SAFE.

Nature has provided abundantly for such needs and Dr. Pierce found in native medicinal plants such as the roots of GOLDEN SEAL, BLACK COHOSH, UNICORN and BLUE COHOSH, the needed medicinal properties which by peculiar processes strictly his own, without the use of alcohol, he has extracted, preserved and combined in exact proportions so there from will be the best effect. Thus compounded into "FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION" is a remedy for the pains and drains, weaknesses and inflammation of the uterine system that has won world-wide fame by curing more than ninety-nine out of every hundred who have used it properly.

In taking this you will know what you take and take what you know to be good.

If in any doubt as to what is best for you, write and ask advice of Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y., and reliable medical advice will be sent you by return mail in securely sealed envelope. All correspondence free and strictly confidential.

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the favorite family laxative. One "Pellet" a laxative, two "Pellets" a cathartic dose.

All shareholders are requested to be present.

HENRY BEST, Mayor.

Mr. Mulholland's Gift.

Referring to a gentleman widely known in this city, the Port Hope says; Mr. R. Mulholland, father of our hardware merchant Mr. R. A. Mulholland, has placed $10,000 at the disposal of the Trustees of the Toronto Free Hospital for Consumptives, for the erection of a commodious cottage, so as to make it possible to admit at least a limited number of patients in the advance stages of consumption from outside the city of Toronto. These will be admitted under arrangements with municipalities or friends who are willing to contribute just the bare cost of maintenance. This offer is indeed a very generous one and is much appreciated.

Ink at the Market Scales.

Mr. John Johnston, lately of North Monaghan, got a scare on Saturday. Not only was he startled, but he put an involuntary freeze on Mr. Brown's office at the weight scales. Mr. Johnston, was thawing out a frozen bottle of ink. The bottle was on the stove, but unfortunately the cork was not removed. When the frozen ink began to thaw there was a sudden explosion. Those present in the office will now get busy removing ink stains. The ceiling looks like there had been a dynamite explosion in an ink factory.

SIN'S CONSEQUENCES

Innocent Indulgence Often Brings Trouble—Simple Means of Escape.

The consequences of violating physical law are often as unpleasant as the breaking of a moral rule. The innocent indulgence of over-eating brings consequences that amount to real suffering. Indigestion is not natural; it is not right; it should not be. We offer a means of escape in Mi-o-na tablets that is simple and practical.

JAPANESE TROOPS FORCED TERMS

Negotiations of Marquis Ito with Corean Emperor Backed by Force.

PRIME MINISTER IS EXILED

He Attempted to Escape During Conference, But Was Promptly Captured.

Victoria, B.C., December 18.—There is an element of grim humor about the conclusion of the Japanese-Korean agreement at Seoul, even as told by the Japanese papers in the just-arrived mail. The agreement was dictated by Marquis Ito and its execution forced by the presence of Japanese troops and police. The Korean Prime Minister, Han Kin-kwa, who attempted to escape during the conference, was apprehended by the Japanese police about the palace, and sentenced to three years' exile on account of his "misdemeanor." The convention, by which all diplomatic functions of the Korean Government are entrusted to Japan, was signed on November 18 by the Korean Minister of Foreign Affairs, and by Japanese Minister Hayashi. Its main points of which the first and second articles are conceded by Japan at the request of the Korean Government, are as follows:

1. The dignity of the Korean Imperial family shall be maintained.

2. A Japanese Governor-General, attached to the Korean court, shall be appointed to control the national administration.

3. The Korean diplomatic rights shall be vested in Japan. Japan shall when she recognizes that the development of that country makes Korea sufficiently reliable to preserve the Korean independence, return the diplomatic rights of Korea.

4. A Japanese Superintendent of Customs shall be appointed for all the customs in the open port.

5. Korea is forbidden to establish any international relations with other countries without the consent of Japan.

During the conference all the Korean Ministers hesitated to give their assent to the Japanese proposals. The Minister of Education finally announced that there was no way but to put reliance in Japan. The Minister of Foreign Affairs also proposed that if the Emperor gave his Imperial assent, the Ministers would sign the convention. Thus the new agreement was concluded.

MANY FLEE FROM TROUBLED RUSSIA

Five Hundred Refugees Come to Land of Freedom and Tell of Massacres.

MOBS LED BY THE POLICE

Jews Describe Horrible Scenes of Slaughter Following the Czar's Manifesto.

New York, December 16.—Five hundred Russian refugees, many of them eyewitnesses of the massacres in Odessa and other Russian cities, disembarked here today from the steamship Patricia and Chemnitz. Some of them told graphic and pitiful stories of their experiences.

Jews who had lain hidden in Odessa housed while mobs searched for them, Russian workmen of the Christian faith, strikers from the railroads, a newspaper reporter and Germans who long had lived in Russia joined today at Ellis Island immigration station in declaring that they had been attacked irrespective of religion, that their assailants were led by police disguised in citizens' clothing and that the massacres were the fierce persecution, but revolution.

SAD SCENES WITNESSED.

While telling their stories the men sometimes burst into tears, for perhaps of the entire number had left behind them wives and children who were either dead or defenceless in Russian cities.

There were three Jews from Odessa, all of whom, six weeks ago, on the day the Czar proclaimed Russia's constitution, were forced into hiding to save their lives. All three are men over 30, intelligent and of fine physique. One of them, Abraham Chanoch, an Odessa tinsmith, who hesitated about describing the Odessa massacres, was offered money for his story. He threw back his head and explained:

"I won't take money. Thank God, I still have $8, and that is enough." Then, without further urging, he told what he saw of the Odessa massacre, from its beginning, when two rival parades, which were celebrating the new constitution, met and began to fight.

CHILDREN ARE SLAUGHTERED.

He told how the little children were thrown out of high windows, how Russian Christians patrolled the streets in large bands, protecting Jews, while other bands of men pillaged and murdered. Workmen and students, he said, led the peace parties, while disguised police usually led the hoodlums. After the first two days he and two companions escaped from the city.

Two refugees from western Russia said that there the Jew killing was started by emptying the jails of prisoners, who attacked the Jews and stole from them. A man from the Province of Kroyno asserted that the police themselves read in the Emperor's proclamation of a constitution an order to kill all Jews, and carried this lie through the streets.

A Russian newspaper man named Chechkowitz, from the Province of Vilna, who received two bullet holes in his hat, as he boarded a train bound for the border, described the working of the society for self-defense known as the "unterfolk," and the last battle in which he, as a member of this society, participated.

MANCHESTER SUFFERING.

The Germans most of whom had enough money saved to bring their families along with them, pointed to their children, with pinched faces and shoulders rounded already from work or privation, as their reason for leaving Russia.

All the stories agreed that the Emperor's manifesto of a constitution and the festivities on the day that Count Witte stepped into power were made the pretext for riots.

Soloman Mogenik, a Jewish candy-maker of Odessa, described the terrible scenes that followed the proclamation of the manifesto in that city. He said mobs sought out Jews, using revolvers, knives, stone slabs red with blood, which were used for crushing their victims, iron bars and clubs for the slaughter. For two days, he said, the streets were battlefields. The bodies of the dead were mutilated.

CHILDREN COST FAR TOO MUCH

Club Women Take Issue on Subject of Race Suicide.

POPULAR AMONG WOMEN

To Restrict the Number of Children to a Family.

Chicago, December 19.—Speaking for the 25,000 women of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Selena Frake, president of the State Federation, today voiced sentiments directly opposed to those of President Roosevelt in the matter of race suicide. Mrs. Frake was pressed for the proposal of a club woman baby census to refute by figures the assertions of Grover Cleveland that club women do not make good mothers, and accusations of race suicide.

Mrs. Frake assumed the position that if there was an effort to control the number of children in American families the burden of blame must fall as much upon the fathers as the mothers. Mrs. Frake declares that to seek to avoid the responsibilities of parenthood in America today is the natural part of American women and men.

"If people do not want to have children," said Mrs. Frake, "whose business is it but their own? Economic conditions in our country are not conducive to the growth of families, and American men and women have come to the conclusion it is not wise to have too many children. They know what it costs to raise large families. Men know that it costs about $4000 to send one of their sons through college and nearly as much to give a daughter a college education. To compete with others and make their way in the world, children need the college or university training."

FEWER BABES FOR IOWA.

Des Moines, Iowa, December 19.—The women members of the Shauncey Depew Club of Des Moines believe in race suicide, and are willing that mankind should know it. After an animated session yesterday afternoon it was unanimously announced that the sentiment of the club upon this question should henceforth be expressed in the motto: "Quality rather than quantity; fewer but better babies."

The subject for the afternoon meeting was: "Is the woman's club movement responsible for race suicide?" Nearly every speaker took the affirmative and argued its justification.

THE SAME ICE

Little Lake Will Supply Ice Per This Year.

The Board of Health met yesterday morning and discussed the ice supply of Peterboro.

As noted in former issues of The Times, samples of water taken from the various lakes handy to Peterboro, had been submitted for analysis to the Toronto authorities.

The three reports as received from John A. Amyot, the provincial analyst, are as follows:

Your specimen of water from the proposed ice supply, and arrived here on Nov. 4.

It shows colon bacilli, intestina, bacteria, in cc. cubic centimeter quantities. This means they are present in dangerous quantity. Water so infected should not be used for ice productions where the ice is to go into other food or drink. It is not surprising that this infection exists with the drainage into the lake that does take place. Without analysis this condition alone should condemn the source.

Dr. Bingham.

Dear Sir: Your specimen of Otonabee Lake water arrived Nov. 29. It shows neither chemical pollution nor dangerous bacteria infection.

Report on waters received from Dr. Bingham of Peterboro, on December 9.

Lake Katchewanooka — Chlorine in parts per million 1.5.

Clear Lake —Chlorine in parts per million 1.

Neither of these waters show either chemical pollution or infection with any harmful bacteria.

Mr. Allen, a local ice dealer addressed the meeting, and asked that the Board issue orders, that the ice be used for cooling purposes only. It is too late this year to put up sheds to store separate ice, one for cooling and one for drinking purposes.

The majority of the Board fell in with this idea and it was decided that for the next year, the ice men should put notices on all refrigerators forbidding the use of the ice for drinking purposes. The following motion was then passed and the board adjourned;

It was moved that ice from the Little Lake cut be used for cooling purposes only, and that the medical health officer prepare a notice of warning to users of ice from Little Lake that it must not be put into food or drink, and that the ice dealers be requested to have a copy of the notice put up on the refrigerator of each customer, and that the city solicitor be asked to prepare a by-law to cover this and with a penalty for its infraction. Carried.

The board then adjourned.

POLICE COURT NEWS

Ald Shaw was charged with being drunk in a public place Saturday evening, prisoner said he "had to admit" the soft impeachment. Another charge that of using grossly insulting language towards Mrs. Carney, was language towards Mrs. Carney was brought against Shaw. To this he pleaded not guilty. Mrs. Carney swore that Mr. Shaw, who boards with her, came in drunk, and in the morning got abusive. She took hold of him and shoved him out of the door. Afterwards, Shaw, came back for his clothes. On the street, Shaw in language, "good and loud," called her very foul names.

Mrs. Carney's evidence was corroborated by a lady living next door.

Shaw then went into the box, and gave an account of his doings, when he went home Friday night. Was sober and made no noise that night.

Shaw denied using the bad language alleged, saying "I don't see how these women have the nerve to accuse me of saying such things."

"Then," remarked the Magistrate, "you mean to say that these two ladies are deliberately committing perjury?" The prisoner seemed hazy about his movements on Saturday, saying he was arrested in Cavanagh's hotel. The story, however, told the Worship, Shaw had been arrested on Hunter street.

The Magistrate remarked "You must have taken a good deal of liquor, and, whilst you have a right to get drunk in private, you cannot get full in public." Fine and costs $4.60 to be paid forthwith. In default of possessing the needed shekels Shaw retired to the hill for 14 days.

A Hunter street boarding keeper was charged with selling liquor to John Strain, a man on the prescribed list.

Inspector Cochrane, the only witness deposed to having, on the 5th of April last, served a notice on the hotelkeeper, forbidding liquor to be sold to Strain. Cochrane said the notice served by him was not signed by either Mr. or Mrs. Strain, personally, but this original had been signed by Mrs. Strain. The law requires that the notice served, be signed by the original complainant. His Worship said "That ends the matter." By serving these unsigned notices, the inspector calls on the hotelkeeper, the case is thrown out, the hotelman smiles, justice frowns and every old thing is lovely. There was a similar charge against another hotelman. The same farce was enacted.

To save having a farce made of justice, and the city put to needless expense, it would be well for officers to spend a few minutes reading up the law under which they serve.

Mr. Cochrane tried hard to persuade his Worship, that he, the Magistrate, had told him an unsigned copy would suffice in such cases; this however, Mrs. Dunkin, had an application of Mr. Poussette appeared for the hotelmen, and Mr. Hall for the prosecution.

Confident That Fire Hall By-law will Carry

Representative Men So Expressed Themselves To The Fire, Water and Light Committee Last Night.

Representatives of the Manufacturers, and of the Retail Merchants' Association, met the Fire, Water & Light Committee of the City Council in the committee room last night, to discuss the new fire hall and improved fire protection by-law now before the ratepayers. Messrs. H. Lefroun and Robert Fair for the retailers, and Mr. T. F. Matthews for the city manufacturers, each expressed their strongest approval of the by-law, and their confidence in it being carried in January next by a substantial majority. It was felt that since the last voting on this measure our ratepayers have been educated up to the crying need of improved fire-fighting equipment, to meet the increased demands on our fire department by reason of the city's recent rapid growth, and will consequently mark their ballots with a big X in favor of the measure at the rapidly approaching municipal elections. The fact that this by-law will be voted on at the January elections was thought to be a strong factor in its favor, and Ald. Johnston and the Council were congratulated on their tenacity in adhering to a policy undoubtedly in the city's best interests.

The representative men present last night also voiced their respective parties' opinion that a new steam fire engine was an absolute necessity and they heartily endorsed every clause in the by-law, which was characterized as a measure calculated to secure for Peterboro, an improved commercial rating with the underwriters, and to preserve at least our present rating for household insurance, to say nothing of better security in general from the awful ravages of fire. No one present knew of any strong opposition to the by-law and all were convinced that the ratepayers on January 1st next will authorize the Council of 1906 to erect a new fire hall, and purchase another steam engine and other requisite fire-fighting appliances, all at a maximum expenditure of $25,000.

YESTERDAY'S MEETING.

Many Lady Investors in York Loan Co. Fleet.

A large crowd of excited investors in the moribund York Loan & Savings Co., on invitation of Mayor Beal, gathered yesterday afternoon in the council chamber. A very great majority of those present were ladies. The Mayor occupied the chair, and explained the object of the meeting.

It was decided, in view of the fact that only a small proportion of the shareholders could be present, to call another meeting of the shareholders Thursday night in the market hall at 8 o'clock, when further action can be taken.

It was stated that there were in Peterboro more than 1,200 shareholders in the company, and many necessarily were absent from this meeting.

The business transacted is embodied in the following motion;

Moved by G. E. Martin, seconded by Ald. Hatter that Mayor Beal, Ald. Hicks, E. H. D. Hall and T. Oglas de Lagiande be a committee appointed by this meeting of the shareholders of the York County Loan and Savings Company, to attend another meeting, and to take such other action as may be deemed necessary.

The meeting then adjourned until Thursday.

REVOLUTIONISTS GROWING BOLDER

Thus Far They Have Been Left Free to Create Panic

MANY BANKS ARE FAILING

Count Witte Continues to be Puzzle to Both Friends and Enemies.

St. Petersburg, December 18.—The revolutionists are hourly growing bolder being in sole possession of the telegraph and telephone lines. They spread grim stories of army rebellions, riots and massacres, and are responsible for the reports of the setting up of revolutionary government in the Baltic and Lithuanian provinces. Thus far they have been left free to create panics and weaken the authority of the ministry.

Many provincial banks have failed, and two banks in St. Petersburg have now closed their doors, while others are toppling. After six weeks without laws, the people have accustomed themselves to anarchy, though all business is wholly suspended. The government has promulgated laws in regard to strikes, and other matters, but it is unable to enforce them. The postal clerks, being easily replaced, are mostly men with families, and have returned to work, but the telegraph employes remain on strike, permitting no messages to pass except their own and those of the revolutionists.

Count Witte continues a puzzle to his friends and enemies alike. He goes on losing precious time talking, promising, and doing nothing. The Conservatives demand that the Douma be assembled immediately. The Revolutionists want a constituent assembly without delay and the Moderates want a constitution.

Count Witte tells the Conservatives that he needs time to disarm the Revolutionists. He tells the Revolutionists that he must have time to persuade the Czar to accede to their demands. He tells the Moderates that he needs time to elaborate a constitution. The propaganda of revolution by fire and sword has penetrated into every town and hamlet. Everywhere they are distributing firearms and plans for action.

The proceedings will be under the Dominion Winding-up Act, for the purpose of getting information regarding the assets immediately available.

Mr. Joseph Phillips, the manager of the York County Loan and Savings Company, will be asked to appear for examination under oath on Wednesday.

Open Flattery in Moscow.

Berlin, Dec. 18.—The Moscow correspondent of the Local Anzeiger telegraphs as follows from that city:

The ferment in the Moscow garrison over bad relations and numerous arrests reached to-day in an open meeting of the Russian Grenadier Regiment. The Grenadiers freed their arrested comrades by force, seized the arsenal with a number of arms and munitions and disposed of machine guns before the barracks.

Later the Grenadiers passed a series of enthusiastic and political demonstrations at the conclusion of the meeting was taken over by a committee of 50 elected by the regiment.

The men of the Astrakan Regiment and the Cossacks refused to move against the mutineers.

The telegraph and post services have been largely restored.

Do You Want an Investment That Will Pay You Fifty Per Cent Per Annum?

Dr. Raschaupt, the great Geologist, Mining Engineer and Chemist, has made an exhaustive examination of the properties of near the HOUSTON RIVER, LOUISIANA, in CALCASIEU PARISH, and over his own signature has reported that the lands of The Union Oil and Sulphur Co. have under them large quantities of oil. As real valuable deposits are always overlain, he says, by a considerable thickness of sediments, and such is the case here, which show no outcropping and hence no seepage. It is clear that such primary oil deposits, particularly in the best included in our tracts, are by far more valuable than the secondary ones, because they are by far less subjected to variations.

Professor Raschaupt gives a long scientific and technical description of the property and from its geological formation and position proves the existence of oil in large quantities. He says: "I therefore have the greatest confidence that your land tracts lying in the before mentioned 'oil belt' will cover one of the most productive and extended oil basins."

The officers of the company are the ones who put in the money to make all the tests and to buy the ground; and now that we know we have oil we ask you to put your money in our hands and we will

GUARANTEE TO YOU HONEST TREATMENT, HONEST REPORTS AND HONEST RETURNS

The books of the company are open for inspection and the officers of the company refer you to any bank or wholesale house, or to Dunn or Bradstreet Agencies.

Investigate the officers and directors; ascertain if they have the ability to correctly judge the probabilities of their own enterprise. It's the MEN BEHIND THAT COUNT.

We are within 400 yards of the tracks of the Kansas City and Southern Railway. We own all the land around our well and have leased large tracts besides. The Houston River runs alongside our property, so that our shipping facilities are the very best.

THE UNION OIL AND SULPHUR CO. was organized under the laws of South Dakota, with a capital stock of $750,000.00, the shares being $1.00 each.

After the organization of the company we began to search farther for evidence of sulphur and we have a piece of land today that will from all evidence produce as much sulphur as the famous mine near our land, this is producing today about thirty-five (35) cars a day with a profit of $1,000 a car and we want to say to you that this famous mine is the wonder of the world and is paying the enormous monthly dividends of 100 per cent., and they are now increasing their capacity to try and meet the demands, and we feel confident (that as soon as we can develop our sulphur property) we will be able to do the same; we knew we had the oil and we also knew that it would take less to develop it and that oil would pay for the sulphur plant as soon as we were able to begin the sale of the oil and this we think, we will be able to do within a short time, and we want to say to you right here, that as soon as we begin the sale of oil there is no more stock for sale, for this company will then be self-sustaining.

We began the drilling on our property on July 4th, 1904, we have a well that is 2,564 feet and 6 inches deep, and has five distinct showings of oil; this well has a pressure of 190 pounds, which ought to give us a flow of about 2,000 barels a day as soon as we get the strainer on and the tanks built; this takes time and money and that is why we are selling this allotment of stock. Everything points to a high grade of oil and if this is what they all think it is, we can say to you that you will make the best investment of your life when you buy some of our stock.

A PLAIN TALK WITH INVESTORS

What, think you, is the earning power of money? Can it with safety earn more than five per cent? Let raw facts answer. The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company pays 40 per cent.; the Union Trust Company, 47 per cent.; the Central Trust Company, 80 per cent.; Fifth Avenue Bank, 100 per cent., and the Chemical National Bank 150 per cent.

Are these institutions "get-rich-quick" concerns? Are their dividends REAL or FICTITIOUS?

PERSONAL TO TH READER

Is our proposition worthy of your consideration? In buying the stock of this company are you buying only paper? Certainly not! This company is formed on a business basis; is conducted for profit to the stockholders, and you share just in proportion to the amount you hold.

STOCK

The cost of stock in The Union Oil and Sulphur Co., is now forty cents per share, but will soon jump to par. Please note in this connection that when your stock reaches par you have made more on your investment than money loaned at 6 per cent. for forty years. You should also remember that the quarterly dividends to be paid after the well is in successful operation will also be estimated on the par value of the stock, and not on the price paid for at time of purchase.

PAR VALUE

We feel confident that within one year our stock will be at or above par, for we could today contract the entire anticipated output of our wells at such alarming figures that would guarantee an annual dividend of 20 per cent. on a basis of five wells to the acre.

The Scourge of Consumption

Thousands Are Dying—If Tired Languid or Run Down Get Protection Before Too Late

No child, man or woman is safe from consumption unless their blood is pure, rich and nourishing.

Allow the blood to become thin, and immediately the whole system grows weak. The lungs are deprived of resisting power and the ever-present tubercular bacilli develops.

The most positive protection against consumption is Ferrozone, which restores the blood to full strength. Weak organs are instantly strengthened. Worn-out tissues are rebuilt. New life is given to the lungs and all danger of consumption is destroyed.

Mrs. E. J. Richardson, Manotick, Ont., tells as follows of her enormous gain in health from Ferrozone: "For two years I was not well. I was thin and anaemic. Towards spring I fell into a condition of nervous exhaustion. A dead tired-ness crept over me like a load of lead. Housework of any kind I simply couldn't do. A bad cough developed that worried me greatly for I thought it might be tubercular. When I read that of Ferrozone I was convinced it was good. I took it regularly for eight weeks and the change in my condition was wonderful. My cheeks filled out and became clear and rosy. I gained eight pounds and now am strong and vigorous as possible."

Ferrozone feeds, nourishes and tones up the body—it sends the thrill and vim of robust health from head to foot—makes you feel better at once. Won't you use Ferrozone? Price 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., and Kingston, Ont.

THE FAMINE TRAGEDY.

Russia is a stage on which innumerable tragedies are being played. There are many of which the outside world know nothing. There are some of which it catches occasional brief and distressful glimpses when the telegraph is momentarily in working order, or when some refugee tells his tale of suffering and wrong.

A brief despatch from St. Petersburg makes brief mention of one of the great Russian tragedies of this year. It says that the distress from famine in the five provinces where the crops have failed is becoming acute, and that conditions are exceptionally bad in the Province of Orel, in the eastern central part of the empire. The marshals of the nobility in the province have requested that a special appeal for relief be made to the charity and humanity of Americans. They have heard that the harvests were good this year, and they remember that in 1891, when Russia was afflicted with famine, a shipload of wheat and corn was sent by Americans to feed the starving ones.

The situation today is worse in many respects than it was fourteen years ago. Then the government was able to do much toward giving relief. Now it is fighting the famine. It is putting down mutinies among soldiers and sailors. The city workingmen are organizing against it, and the peasants are in a state of half revolt. In addition to that the railroad systems are demoralized. It is feared that next month there will be another strike of railroad employes. If there should be one the shipment of provisions to the famine stricken districts will be no easy task.

The revolutionists who are laboring to undermine and overthrow the government must know that they are making it difficult, if not impossible, for it to relieve the starving peasants. Possibly they reason that it is better that some should starve than that the struggle to secure "liberty and equality" for all should be temporarily abandoned. The revolutionists will let nothing divert them from their purpose.

There is an alarming condition of strife or disorder in nearly all the agricultural districts. The peasants are refusing to pay their taxes and resisting attempts to enforce their collection. Agrarian outrages continue. Unless order can be restored soon there is reason to fear that agricultural distress throughout the empire will be more acute a year hence than it is now. There is danger that chaos will prevail and industry be paralyzed in many provinces.

Claim Against the U. S.

Washington, Dec. 18. — President [illegible] the latest reports from the secretary of State regarding a German claim of Germany against the United States for $60,000, also the claim for damages on the Canadian Electric Light Company at Levis, Quebec, for damages to cables by the steamship Essex; also the claim of the Pacific Cable Company for damage to cables in Cabo during the Spanish-American war.

MOSCOW SOLDIERS REVOLT

Seized Arsenal and Prepare for Fight —Demand Control of Regiment.

Regina, Dec. 18.—It is still too soon to give a definite statement. The Leader (Liberal) claims sixteen seats, as usual, but it is basing its estimates on very slight grounds. To-day it appears Scott has thirteen seats, and Haultain nine. Three seats, Kinistino, Prince Albert District and Moose Jaw district are doubtful, and it is expected the two former at least will go for Haultain. It would not be a matter for surprise if final figures should show fourteen seats for Scott and eleven for Haultain. Just as much chance, however, if figures being thirteen and twelve respectively.

Great fights are now on in Regina City and Moose Jaw City held by Provincial Rights candidates and Prince Albert City, where Attorney-General Lamont has a small majority. Contested ballots are being adjusted today in these three cities, and the outcome is watched with the keenest interest.

Mr. Haultain is personally watching proceedings in Regina City.

BOTH HIS WIVES SOBBED

Evidently Disagree With Judge as to "Despoiler of Homes."

Niagara Falls, Dec. 18.—Wm. Geo. Locke pleaded guilty in police court this afternoon to the charge of bigamy and threw himself upon the mercy of the court.

In passing sentence the magistrate lectured him severely, calling him a reckless, heartless man, and the despoiler of two homes and a curse in the lives of two women.

He then directed that he should spend two years, less one day, at hard labor, in the Central Prison, Toronto.

The two wives of the prisoner sat side by side in court when sentence was passed, and sobbed in unison.

Jane Welsh Locke, the first wife, told of her marriage in 1890, when she was but 15 years of age, and the second wife, Caroline Kelsey Locke, told of her marriage to the prisoner on June 18, 1902, at the home of her sister in Buffalo, the Rev. L. E. Ford, a Baptist minister, performing the ceremony.

The women were not cross-questioned, as Locke pleaded guilty to their charges.

STRICTURE AND KIDNEY DISEASE CURED.

G. E. Walker.

"I had stricture for eleven years. It finally brought on Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. I had an uncomfortable shooting pain in the groin and feeling as though something was in the urethra. My back was weak and I could scarcely stoop over. Urine was full of sediment. Had a desire to urinate frequently. Family doctors, so-called specialists, patent medicines, electric belts, all failed. I was discouraged. I had spent hundreds of dollars in vain. Finally I consulted Drs. Kennedy & Kergan as the last resort. I had heard a great deal about them and concluded from the fact that they had been established over 25 years that they understood their business. I was delighted with the results. In one week I felt better and in four weeks was entirely cured. Have gained sixteen pounds in weight."

The Lust of Hate

BY GUY BOOTHBY

Author of "A Beautiful White Devil," "A Bid For Fortune," "The Marriage of Esther," "Dr. Nikola," Etc., Etc.

"Kind gentleman," he said in a voice that at any other time could not have failed to touch my heart, "for the love of God, I implore you to help me. I am starving, and so is my wife in the doorway yonder. We are dying of cold and hunger. We have not touched bite or sup for nearly forty-eight hours, and unless you can spare us the price of a night's lodging and a little food I assure you she will not see morning."

I stopped and faced him.

"What will you do for it?" I asked, with a note in my voice that frightened even myself. "I must have a bargain. If I give you money, what will you do for it?"

"Anything," the poor wretch replied. "Give me money, and I swear I will do anything you may like to ask me."

"Anything?" I cried. "That is a large word. Will you commit murder?"

I looked fixedly at him, and under the intensity of my gaze he half shrunk away from me.

"Murder?" he echoed faintly.

"Murder? Yes, murder," I cried, hysterically. "I want murder done. Nothing else will satisfy me. Kill me the man I'll show you, and you shall have all you want. Are you prepared to do so much to save your life?"

He wrung his hands and moaned. Then he pulled himself together.

"Yes, I'll do anything," he answered hoarsely. "Give me the money; let me have food first."

As he spoke his wife rose from the doorstep, and came swiftly across the snow towards us. She must have been a fine-looking woman in her day; now her face, with its ghastly, lead-colored complexion and dark, staring eyes was indescribably horrible. On her head she wore the ruins of a fashionable bonnet.

"Come away!" she cried, seizing the man fiercely by the arm. "Can't you see that you are talking to the Devil, and that he's luring your soul to hell? Come away, my husband, I say, and leave him! If we are to die, let us do it here in the clean snow like honest folk, not on the scaffold with ropes round our necks. There is your answer, Devil!"

As she said this she raised her right hand and struck me a blow full and fair upon the mouth. I felt the blood trickle down my lip.

"Take that, Devil," she shouted; "and now take your temptations elsewhere, for you've met your match here."

As if I were really the person she alluded to, I picked up my heels and ran down the street as hard as I could go, not heeding where I went, but only conscious that at last I had spoken my evil thoughts aloud. Was I awake, or was I dreaming? It all seemed like some horrible nightmare, and yet I could feel the hard pavement under my feet, and my face was cold as ice under the cutting wind.

Just as I reached Piccadilly Circus a clock somewhere in the neighborhood struck one. Then it dawned upon me that I had been walking for two hours. I stood for a moment by the big fountain, and then crossed the road, and was about to make my way down the continuation of Regent Street into Waterloo Place, when I heard the shrill sound of a policeman's whistle. Almost immediately I saw an officer on the other side of the road dash down the pavement. I followed him, intent upon finding out what had occasioned the call for assistance. Round into Jermyn Street sped the man ahead of me, and close at his heels I followed. For something like three minutes we continued our headlong career, and it was not until we had reached Bury Street that we sounded a halt. Here we discovered a group of men standing on the pavement watching another man, who was kneeling beside a body upon the ground. He was examining it with the assistance of his lantern.

"What's the matter, mate?" inquired the officer whom I had followed from Piccadilly. "What have you got there?"

"A chap I found lying in the road yonder," replied the policeman upon his knees. "Have a look at him, and then be off for a stretcher. I fancy he's dead; but, anyway, we'd best get him to the hospital as soon as maybe."

My guide knelt down, and turned his light full upon the victim's face. I peered over his shoulder in company with the other bystanders. The face we saw before us was the countenance of a gentleman, and also of a well-to-do member of society. He was clothed in evening dress, over which he wore a heavy and expensive fur coat. An opera hat lay in the gutter, where it had probably been blown by the wind, and an umbrella marked the spot where the body had been found in the center of the street. As far as could be gathered without examining it, there was no sign of blood about the corpse; one thing, however, was painfully evident—the left eyebrow had been severed from the face in toto. From the cleanness of the cut the operation must have been performed with an exceedingly sharp instrument. A more weird and ghastly sight than that snow-covered pavement, with the flakes falling thick and fast upon it, the greasy road, the oilskinned policemen, the curious bystanders, and the silent figure on the ground, could scarcely be imagined. I watched until the men I had followed returned with an ambulance stretcher, and then accompanied the mournful cortege a hundred yards or so on its way to the hospital. Then, being tired of the matter, I branched off the track, and prepared to make my way back to my hotel as fast as my legs would take me.

My thoughts were oppressed with what I had seen. There was a grim fascination about the recollection of the incident that haunted me continually, and which I could not dispel, try how I would. I pictured Bertrand lying in the snow exactly as I had seen the other, and fancied myself coming up and finding him. At that moment I was passing Charing Cross Railway Station. With the exception of a policeman saunteringly slowly along on the other side of the street, a drunken man staggering in the road, and a hansom cab approaching us from Trafalgar Square, I had the street to myself. London slept while the snow fell, and murder was being done in her public thoroughfares. The hansom came closer, and for some inscrutable reason I found myself beginning to take a personal interest in it. This interest became even greater when, with a spluttering and sliding of feet, the horse came to a sudden standstill alongside the footpath where I stood.

Gold Mining Company

The Company's Offer to Discriminating Investors.

The management is assured that $15,000 will be sufficient to complete the improvements necessary to place the mine on a substantial producing and dividend paying basis. Therefore the directorate has authorized the sale of 15,000 shares of the capital stock at par. The improvements under way include the construction of a mill and concentrating plant, boarding and bunk houses for the miners employed and the installation of machinery required for the treatment of the output of the mine. With dividends assured and a certainty of a sharp advance in the price of this security it is stated with emphasis that no more attractive opportunity for investments could be placed before the public. Custer, Idaho, November 15, 1905.

To the Stock Holders of The Ozarna Mining Co.:—

We have steadily continued the development of our properties since last advising you June 24th. At that time we had no plant erected or contracted for, but now I am pleased to report that we have secured a Ten Stamp Mill, together with Boarding House, Assay Office and all other necessary buildings, originally costing $15,000.00, hence you will know that we have been making great progress, and are rapidly approaching a productive stage, but as we have a final payment to make on this Mill, we will not withdraw our stock from the market until this money is raised. We are now making preparations so that by early spring we can start our Mill for a long and continuous run. You will be advised later on as to the date when we will start so that you can be present if possible.

In addition to this Mill, which is now erected, with all machinery in place and in perfect running order, we have secured the machinery for an other Ten Stamp Mill, consisting of Battery, Seventy-five Horse Power Engine, two Forty Horse Power Boilers, and all other necessary machinery which we expect to install in the Mill now already equipped, which will increase the capacity of our plant from 750 to 1500 tons a month, which means a great saving in the cost of reducing our ores, as it takes about the same labor to operate a Ten Stamp Mill as it does to operate a Twenty Stamp Mill, about the only additional expenses necessary to operate the larger Mill is a little additional fuel. In addition to above machinery we have also purchased an Ingersoll Air Compressor for use in the Mines, at a cost of $1200.00.

We are assured funds to complete our payment on the Ten Stamp Mill and for other purposes, and never having any brokers to place our stock, we have had no commissions to pay, hence we have financed the Company for a less sum than is usually required. We have no debts and will pay no salaries until after the Mill goes into commission.

I also beg to advise you that we expect to take over the control of the stock of the Corning Mining Company, at an early date, giving a part of our stock in payment therefore. This will give us an additional eighty acres of Mineral Land, twenty acres of which is the Black Mine. This Mine has produced $150,000.00 net, and has one mile of developments, costing over $70,000.00, and an additional sum of $10,187.00 has been expended in developments this and last summer. Our Mill is on this group and is adjoined by "The Lucky Boy Mine," which has produced $1,000,000, and by "The Badger Group," which has paid $500,000.00 on a capital of $1200.00.

The time is rapidly approaching when THE OZARNA COMPANY WILL BE ONE OF THE STEADY PRODUCERS, and I urge each of the stock holders to buy all the stock that he or she can pay for while it can be had at the exceedingly low price of 10 cents a share. The officers are increasing their holdings and we want to give all the stock holders an equal chance with us. I have just put $1,000.00 more cash into the Company's Treasury for stock at 10 cents a share, the same that you will pay if you take advantage of this opportunity NOW.

I trust that you will be pleased with this report and with the efforts that are being made by your officers for the interests of each stock holder.

REGINALD CORYELL, Manager Ozarna Gold Mining Company.

To the readers of "The Times":—

The above report has been sent out to all our stock holders, and the allotment of stock for sale at 10 cents a share is being rapidly taken, for the ore that we are now taking out averages over $67.00 a ton and, with our Twenty Stamp Mill in operation, our earnings will not be less than $30,000.00 net per month, which will enable us to pay at least 100 per cent. (ten times the present cost) in dividends within six months from the time we put the Mill in commission. For immediate acceptance only, I can offer this stock for 10 cents a share cash, or one-quarter of the amount with order and a like amount in 30, 60 and 90 days. Make all orders payable to the undersigned, or remit through the NATIONAL BANK OF DELPHOS.

As the store is devoted almost wholly to gents' furnishings, customers can depend upon getting a grand assortment to choose from. FALL CATARRH

A great many people suffer more with catarrh during the fall months than at any other season of the year, the change in weather seeming to have a bad effect upon the disease.

Some of the cures made by Hyomei seem marvelous, when one remembers that the patient had suffered from catarrh since childhood, and that for years they had been unable to get a good night's sleep on account of the disagreeable tickling and dropping at the back of the throat caused by this offensive disease. A few day's treatment with Hyomei brought quick relief, and its continued use made a complete and lasting cure.

By breathing Hyomei through the pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, all the air passages of the lungs and throat are filled with the balm with Nature's remedies for the cure of catarrh. All disease germs are killed, and the irritated mucous membrane is healed.

The complete outfit costs but $1.00, extra bottles, 50 cents. Compare this small expense with the fees charged by specialists.

If you cannot obtain Hyomei of your dealer, it will be forwarded by mail, postage paid, on receipt of price. Write today for consultation blank that will entitle you to services of our medical department without charge. The R. T. Booth Company, Hyomei Building, Ithaca, N. Y.

THE WEAK SPOT.

When a boiler explodes carrying death and destruction with it, every body says "Why: we thought it was strong enough. It must have had a weak spot somewhere!" When a man who has the outward appearance of being sound and strong suddenly falls a prey to disease, his friends exclaim: "why we thought he was all right—he must have had a weak spot somewhere."

The fact is, almost everybody has a weak spot somewhere. Death and disease are always looking for weak spots. If your stomach or your liver won't do its proper work, if your body fails to get its full nourishment from the food you eat, and your brain loses part of the sleep it ought to have, no matter how big your frame and muscular your limbs may be, you will often feel disease will find the weak spot, and sooner or later will give way.

"Three years ago this spring I was attacked with severe dyspepsia," writes Mr. W. A. Cole, of 262 West Madison St., Rantoul, Ill. "I was treated by two different physicians, but found no relief. I was afraid to go to the table to eat, as the food would distress me so much. I was suffering for nearly a year and failing off in weight from 158 pounds to 118 pounds. I commenced taking Golden Medical Discovery,' before I had taken one bottle I began to feel relief, and by the time I had taken eight bottles, and now I am as well as ever, can eat anything I want, and feel good. Am weighing 158 pounds, and feel fine all the time. My friends were surprised to notice such a quick change in me after seeing me suffer so long. Several said they never expected to see me get well. I have not had to take any medicine for stomach trouble since. I cannot say enough in praise of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.'"

This glorious "Discovery" gives the stomach and liver power to do their natural work regularly and completely. It makes healthy blood and steady nerves. It helps the weak spots, making them sound and strong.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Golden Medical Discovery" whenever a laxative is required.

BISHOP OF TORONTO

Issues Christmas Pastoral to Churches of England.

Toronto, December 12, 1905.

Beloved Brethren,—Spared by the good Providence of God to greet you once again as your Bishop on our great Christmas Festival, I take the opportunity to remind you of all the blessings which flow to us from the wondrous event therein commemorated—the Incarnation of the Son of God in our flesh. These blessings enter into every relationship of our earthly life; they are of every kind, religious and spiritual; national and individual, social and domestic. All that we enjoy of these comes to us through the lifting of our fallen nature into participation with the Divine nature by Christ taking His manhood into God.

Great cause have we to rejoice and be glad at this season when we count up the blessings which have been showered upon us in such abundance; the unprecedented prosperity of our country, the increase of wealth and profusion of harvests, diffusing plenty throughout the land; enjoyment of peace and liberty, the prevalence of brotherly charity and goodwill; the rich provision and free exercise of spiritual privileges in the means of grace. Surely, my people have been more highly favored with those gifts that go to make a nation great and happy than are we of Canada at this time.

Such mercies call for a grateful acknowledgment of their source in the goodness of God, who in the gift of His Son has with Him freely given us all things, and for a return from a willing mind of generous offerings for the relief of those who need and for the furtherance of Christ's Kingdom of peace on earth.

Especially I invite you, dear brethren, to mark your sense of indebtedness to the Gospel of glad tidings heralded on that happy morning of the Nativity, by making a special thank-offering to your pastor commissioned to minister it to you, that his heart may be cheered by your bounty, and he and his family be made partakers of your feast-keeping.

That you and your households may enjoy at this holy season the richest blessings, temporal and spiritual, which the birth of a Saviour into the world brought down from heaven, is the earnest prayer of, Your faithful friend and Bishop,

Conservatives Meet And Elect Officers

Good Rally of West Peterboro Conservatives in Young Conservative Club Rooms Last Night.

Last night the Young Conservative Club's spacious rooms were crowded with a representative gathering of politicians of that faith.

This was the annual meeting for transaction of general business, and election of officers for the ensuing year.

Among those present were noted Messrs. Jas. Stevenson, ex-M.P., Jas. Kendry, ex-M.P., H. LeBrun, H. Phelan, Geo. Bennet, R. E. Layfield, President of the Young Conservative Club, J. J. Lynch, President of the West Peterboro Conservative Association; W. Brundrett, 1st vice president, F. H. Dobbin, secretary of the West Peterboro Conservative Association; Col. Miller, W. Butler, T. H. Hooper, J. Edgar, treasurer of the Y.C. Club; W. Murphy, Chas. Stapleton, Mr Willoughby, T. Stechings, John Green, Dr. Poole, W. S. Robinson, J. McClelland, Dr. Coughlin, E. Green, Van. Blaricom, Frank Adams, C. Rutherford, J. Craig, J. Watt, W. Kampt, J. Baptie, J. Brownlee, Peter Gardiner, F. Miller, W. Coons, Bartlett, Edgar, D. H. Barritt, Dr. Greer, and some two hundred others.

Mr. J. J. Lynch, President of the Liberal-Conservative Association, occupied the chair, with Mr. Stevenson on his left. The chairman explained that the meeting was something new, but it was provided in this by-laws that an annual meeting should be held to elect officers. The object of the last meeting was to elect officers.

Mr. Dobbin, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting, held 20th Oct. inst. Mr. Doobin read a telegram from Mr. Bradburn, regretting his inability to be present, being unavoidably detained in Toronto. The recently passed by-laws were read. The by-laws found no objectors.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The chairman explained that the next order of business was election of officers, which resulted as follows:

Lieut-Col. Miller took great pleasure in re-nominating the president, the gentleman, Mr. Lynch, as succeeding candidate. He remembered how Mr. Lynch's father stood in the front ranks of the Conservative party through thick and thin. Mr. Kendry seconded the nomination.

Mr. Wilson suggested that, as is customary, three scrutineers be appointed. Messrs. Phelan, Robinson and Layfield, were nominated as scrutineers.

Mr. J. J. Lynch was nominated unanimously, as president for the ensuing year. Mr. Lynch in appropriate words, expressed his thanks.

Mr. W. Butler nominated Mr. Kendry as 1st vice president. This was seconded in kindly words by Mr. Layfield. Carried unanimously.

Mr. Kendry, in a few well-chosen words, returned thanks, but referred that a younger man be appointed, so as to get the young men to the front.

The meeting, however decided on Mr. Kendry's nomination. This was voted by Mr. John Green, who referred to Mr. Kendry's past services. He nominated Col. Miller as 2nd vice president. Mr. Stapleton seconded this nomination. Mr. Kendry endorsed the nomination.

Colonel Miller, with due bashfulness, thanked those present, saying "We old chaps can toddle along, but look out for the 'bus boys!" He thanked those present for the honor done him. Would always do what he could for the Conservative party, who have always given clean government. They have carried out every plank in their platform. Col. Miller was elected unanimously.

Mr. Wilson nominated Mr. Brundrette as 3rd vice president. This was seconded by Mr. Waddell. Mr. Brundrette suggested that a member from the county be named. His suggestion however, was overruled.

Chairman for 1st Ward—Mr. J. Wilson.

Chairman for No. 2 Ward—W. H. Lytle, unanimously elected.

Chairman for No. 3 Ward — Mr. Jas. Metherel, unanimously elected.

Chairman for No. 4 Ward—Mr. W. H. Hill, carpenter, elected unanimously.

Chairman for No. 5 Ward — Mr. Adams, elected unanimously.

The chairman for the various townships was next brought before the meeting. Considerable discussion arose as to the advisability of last night's meeting appointing chairmen or vice presidents for the townships. Mr. Robinson spoke strongly against the meeting nominating officers for the county. Mr. Kendry explained that the county did not elect officers themselves when wanted. He agreed with Mr. Robinson in the main, but the association has to do the best they can in the interests of the party.

Mr. Green agreed with Mr. Kendry and thought the townships should appoint their own officers. Mr. Layfield gave his experience in electioneering, and thought the meeting should not appoint their officers for them. He suggested that the secretary should write the proper men in the townships to name their own officers.

It was decided to instruct the secretary to communicate with proper parties in the county about this matter.

Mr. Geo. Bennett thought if this meeting did not appoint officers none would be appointed. Mr. Kendry agreed with Mr. Layfield's and Mr. Robinson's arguments.

The notice of this meeting will be furnished in to-morrow's issue.

THE YORK LOAN

Attempts Made to Upset Judge Teetzel's Winding up Decision.

A despatch received yesterday from Toronto anent The York Loan Co., in which over 1000 Peterboro citizens are interested, says;

An attempt to upset Judge Teetzel's winding-up order in the case of the York Loan Co., was made before Chief Justice Meredith in single court this morning.

Mr. James Bicknell, K.C., for a number of outside shareholders, made the application arguing that the company, having a provincial charter, could not come under the Dominion Winding-up Act; secondly, that the company was not insolvent and that the shareholders as such were not creditors.

Chief Justice Meredith refused leave to appeal against the Winding-up order on the point of insolvency. On the point as to the jurisdiction of the Dominion Winding-up Acts, he granted leave to appeal to the court of appeal with the proviso, however, that the liquidation proceedings should not be stayed unless so ordered by the Court of Appeal.

AWFUL STORY OF JEWISH REFUGEE

Woman Tells of Horrors of Russian Massacres.

IS ALMOST BEYOND BELIEF

Mrs. Johanna Stein Reaches Chicago From Czar's Land.

Chicago, December 19.—Her hair prematurely gray, her face lined with suffering, Mrs. Johanna Stein, the first [illegible] to reach this country from the Russian massacres, arrived in Chicago, reached the city yesterday afternoon. She and her two children went unscathed through the horrors of a massacre November 1 at Kremenzug, near Odessa. One hundred and fifty Jews were killed and many more wounded.

Mrs. Stein and her children were hidden for hours under a feather bed in an attic, while the rioters went through their quarter of the city, pillaging, slaying, burning and ravaging.

While Mrs. Stein was telling her story at the home her husband has prepared for her at 524 South Union street, the Hebrew Emigration Aid Society was organized at Columbia hall, Twelfth and Halsted streets. There was $3,500 raised for the assistance of needy Jewish emigrants from Russia. It was announced that the first of 50,000 Jewish refugees would arive in Chicago and other parts of the west next week.

WOMAN AGES UNDER STRAIN.

Mrs. Stein is 30 years old, and except for her distressed appearance would be a comely woman. Her son and daughter, who accompanied her, are 7 and 5 years old, respectively. Her husband is Joseph Stein, who came to Chicago six months ago. He is a bricklayer, belongs to the union, and makes $5 a day. The greatest wage he ever received in Russia was $1 a day.

"It all seems a horrible dream," said Mrs. Stein, through an interpreter. "When I received my husband's letter containing our passage money to America, I was filled with joy. Every day we expected to be killed. Kremenzug has 70,000 people. Most of them are Jews, but they are not allowed to protect themselves. They are at the mercy of the police and the rabble.

"There is a band that is composed of Russians and Jews. It is a revolutionary society and it is supposed to protect the poorer class of Jews, but it does not. When the proclamation of Russian freedom came there was great rejoicing among the Jews. A meeting was called of the band at the town hall. The Jews were told to attend or they would be killed. Then the chief of police, Ivanoff, warned them against speeches criticizing the government, but they laughed at him. They were reckless and did not fear.

POLICE ARRANGE FOR MASSACRE.

"Inflammatory speeches were made at the town hall meeting on November 1. The next day we learned that the chief of police had secretly arranged for a massacre of the Jews by the Black hundred,' composed of the rabble.

"The next day the massacre began. The Guervitz general store and Dalmkopf & Kaplan's jewelry store in Pavlosky street, where we lived, were broken open and pillaged. This was the beginning.

"The rioters were mad with vodka. They ran about singing and shouting and firing their revolvers. They smashed the windows with stones. Then they entered the houses and threw out furniture and breaking the windows.

WOMEN ARE TORTURED.

"Women had their clothing torn from them. Some of them were strung up by the wrists and whipped. Little children were thrown from the upper windows on the bayonets and swords of the brutes below. The hair and beards were torn from old men. Many men stabbed their wives and their daughters so they would not fall into the hands of the devils. Then the men threw themselves on the swords of the rioters. Those of them who were armed sold their lives dearly.

"I and my two children hid in the attic of our home under a feather bed. We could hear the screams for help all around us and could see the reflection of the fire. We were saved, how I do not know. The fiends were too busy to climb into the attic, perhaps."

Four days later, Mrs. Stein and her children started for Chicago.

MR. WEIR'S FUNERAL

Salvation Army Band Kindly Furnished Music Gratis.

Yesterday afternoon, about 3.30, a solemn cortege of deeply feeling mourners followed or accompanied in advance the last mortal remains of the late Robert Weir, one of Peterboro's oldest and best known citizens to the Little Lake cemetery. The long procession formed up in front of the late residence of Mr. Weir, one of Canada's most influential Orangemen.

The procession as it slowly wound its way down George street, passed between pavements crowded by citizens sincerely regretting the sad event of Mr. Weir's death.

The long line of mourners was headed by the Salvation Army band in full uniform. The band, some 25 strong, as they led the solemn procession down our principal thoroughfare played in perfect time a most effective funeral march.

Immediately after the band followed over one hundred members of the various Orange orders in the district, including representatives of Diamond L.O.L. No. 80, Peterboro; Nassau L.O.L. No 457, Lakefield Lodge Nos. 122 and 136, Col. Sanderson's Lodge, No. 221; Otonabee L.O.L. No. 178; Smith and Jubilee Lodge, No. 7, Prentice Boys. The Orangemen of Lodge No. 80 turned out in good numbers, attired, as did the others in appropriate mourning regalia. It was frequently noted by those lining the street, that their marching was in perfect time.

After L.O.L. No. 80, came the bearers, all members of the Orange Order, viz., Bros. J. B. McWilliams, P.C.M., J. W. Stewart, C.M., F. J. Moore, P.C.M., A. E. Young, D.M., Peterboro; John A. McWilliams, P.C.M., W. H. G. Armstrong, W.C.R.H.K. of B.N.A.

Then came the hearse containing the last remains of Mr. Weir. After the hearse came some eight or ten cabs containing personal friends and relatives of the deceased, and aged members of the Orange Order.

The long line of mourners was completed by numerous private conveyances. At the cemetery, the services were conducted by Rev. A. H. Brace, pastor of the Park street Baptist church, a member of the Order, and Rev. J. Whitelaw, of Omemee, chaplain of the Orange Grand Chapter o Ontario East.

One incident connected with yesterday's funeral deserving of notice, was the action of the Salvation Army band. Yesterday morning, some leading Orangemen, desirous of having appropriate music at the funeral, and unable to secure the services of the 57th Regt. Band, called upon the Salvation Army officers. Their requests was at once given favorable consideration. The fine band of this religious organization, turned out, some 25 strong without any charge being made for their services. This was a friendly act well worthi recognition by the public.

The floral tributes were numerous and most beautiful. They included wreaths from the Grand Chapter of British America, Royal Black Knights, Grand Lodge, Grand Black Lodge, Peterboro Orange Lodges, Royal Black Knights of Ireland Preceptory Peterboro, Royal Templars of Temperance, employes of the Trent Valley Canal office, Jordan Bros., and many others. The deceased wore on his breast the Past Grand Master's jewel.

THAT INVESTIGATION

Lift Lock Inquiry Continued Yesterday.

The lift lock enquiry goes merrily on. Witl Mr. Holgate presiding. On Monday afternoon, Mr. Frances, divisional engineer completed his evidence. This was principaly technical description of the lock already stale news to our readers. He said this lock, at joint 173 is eighty feet wide. He took that drain out as a safe-guard, not because there was any leak there. It is above that joint where the leak in the bottom of the canal has developed. There is still connection between the canal and the drain. The percolator must be around the puddled part. The water couldn't go through He had not examined the hole yet and did not know anyone who had. He had charge of the embankment. The material that went into the embankment was good.

Mr. Frances could not explain why the leak took place. "There must be something wrong," and that is the extent of Mr. Frances' knowledge. He could not explain why nine feet of water could go through twelve feet of earth. On account of the way the drain was taken out and filled, he was not surprised that a leak developed. Did not know at the time how the work could have been done differently. Admitted he was incapable of devising any plan to stop the leak. The work was done by order of Mr. Rogers under his, witness,' supervision; the fault was with the contractors. Thought Mr. Scriber was acquainted with the circumstances relative to the drain at 173.

As divisional engineer, he reported the contractors' action to Mr. Rogers, and the latter gentleman reported it to Mr. Scriber. Some of the filling behind the wing wall was done in the winter. The contractors carried out his instructions when it suited them. Had much difficulty with the contractors. Mr. Rogers was there several times a day, and Mr. Scriber several times during the year.

In reply to a question by Mr. Rogers, witness said, "There was no better way of building an embankment than by water," as adopted. Could not then give an estimate of cost of repairing leaks.

Mr. Spencer, assistant in the lift lock construction, gave evidence. He remembered the contractors making use of stone drains, which Mr. Rogers objected to. Thought Mr. Scriber had given them permission to use them.

Rebels Are Gaining The Upper Hand

Dragoons Who Charged Letts Defeated and Captured--Troops Elsewhere Badly Beaten --Victims Terribly Mutilated.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 20.—In spite of the statement that two army corps are being sent to the Baltic Provinces, it is learned that not much number of troops is available. The Government has sent two regiments from St. Petersburg, in reply to the [illegible] is considered too dangerous to deplete the garrison of the capital any further during the present crisis, and the Government can only await the arrival of the Cossacks and other troops, which are being hurried forward by General Linevitch from Manchuria. In the meantime, the Government's fear is that the rebellion, which is pushing forward to the Polish frontier, may arouse the Poles to an armed uprising.

TRIP-HAMMERS FOR THIEVES.

Reliable details regarding the establishment of the so-called republic at Kharkoff, in Southern Russia, have at last arrived. The workmen's socialistic organizations joined by 300 troops, took possession of the city, and, with the aid of a militia armed with pikes, revolvers, and axes, established a Government, or "Federated Council," as the Executive Committee was called. This council issued decrees which the authorities were perforce powerless to resist. The council turned off the electricity from the houses, on the ground that it only benefitted the rich, while allowing it to burn in the streets, where it benefitted the people, and declared war on the thieves, who had previously been terrorizing the city. When a robber was captured, he was placed under a trip-hammer, with the threat that if would be dropped unless he revealed the whereabouts of the booty. This usually was effective in each case, the recovered plunder was returned to its owners. Two notorious robbers were hanged in the public square.

REBELS VICTORIOUS.

Mitau, Dec. 20.—The troops, in order to avoid annihilation at the hands of the insurgents, have been forced to abandon the country districts, and to concentrate at Riga, Mitau, and Libau, where they actually are standing on the defensive, unable to make head against the insurgents. Several detachments have been defeated.

The garrison at Tukum, consisting of a squadron of dragoons and a company of infantry, not being able to depart in time, was set upon at night, and lost its commander, Lieut.-Col. Mueller, and 30 men. The insurgents, evading the sentinels, penetrated the town, and laid wire entanglements in front of the houses in which the wearied soldiers were quartered. Then they set fire to the houses, and the troops, rushing out, were shot down from the roofs or cut up in the narrow streets. The soldiers retreated in confusion, leaving their dead. The latter were horribly mutilated by the insurgents, who gouged out their eyes and cut off their ears and hands.

The insurgents, who form great bands, have a regular military organization, and are well armed with military rifles and bayonets.

DRAGOONS CAPTURED.

Walck, Province of Livonia, Dec. 19. —Details have been received here of a regular battle between the members of a company of dragoons who were escorting a wagon train, containing 20 German families, and an armed band of 4,000 Letts, near Roemershof.

The expedition was trying to escape to the southward, but the ammunition of the dragoons, as the result of the constant skirmishes, were running low, and it was decided to reach Riga. The expedition ran into a Lett camp which was strongly barricaded. The Letts opened fire, whereupon the dragoons charged, but were repulsed.

DOWIE RETIRES

The "Modern Elijah" Will Go to the Carribbean Sea for His Health

Chicago, Dec. 19.—John Alexander Dowie, head of the Christian Catholic Church in Zion, has given up his rule, and will soon leave for one of the islands of the Carribbean Sea, there to remain until spring, in hopes of regaining his health. Announcement of the abdication was made at Zion City yesterday by Overseer John G. Speicher. Control of the church has been placed in the hands of Overseer Speicher, Judge D. V. Barnes, and Deacon Alexander Granger.

"The finances of Zion City institutions will be reorganized immediately," said Overseer Speicher, in making the announcement at Shiloh Temple. "The change will not affect the ecclesiastical, educational, or political departments, but there will be a complete revolution in the industrial and financial methods."

Reorganization will be placed in the hands of C. J. Barnard, and will involve a separation of the various institutions which under the present plan have had their earnings and expenses pooled.

While on a trip to Mexico a few weeks ago, Dowie suffered a slight stroke of paralysis. From this he recovered, but his health since then has been poor, and he has found it necessary to give up work for the present. It is said his experts to resume his authority on his return. Under their reorganization plans the men of Zion City will be permitted to seek work in other cities when there is little to be performed in Zion.

Strict economy is being adopted in conducting affairs under the reorganization and the new leaders began by reducing the salaries of all managers of Zion City industries who have been receiving $25 or more a week.

EARLY CLOSING

Objections to Early Closing Previous to Christmas.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

At this time of the year, I think it very strange for a city, with a population of say 16,000, to close their respective places of business waiting for the old-time opportunity of keeping open on Saturday. I would say at this particular time of the year, merchants should keep open till nine, to give ease to the press of business on the Saturday previous to Christmas.

PURCHASER.

TO REINSTATE GEN. BULLER

MOVEMENT TO RECALL SIR REDVERS TO ACTIVE LIST OF ARMY.

Buller Bravely Suppressed Fact That He Was Wounded at Colenso

London, December 19. — The Court Journal refers to the movement for bringing about the recall of General Sir Redvers Buller to the active list, and says: "The following facts have we believe, never been made public: That Lord Roberts' plan of campaign was identical with that Sir Redvers Buller had decided upon had he been able to follow his own judgment; that he eventually attacked and relieved Ladysmith in spite of Lord Roberts' orders not again to attempt it; that the Minister whose duty it was to defend or condemn General Buller in the House of Commons never asked him one single question as to his operations, and when the documents concerning them were laid before the War Commission no pains were taken to get from him the full correspondence, but only certain copies of telegrams—which were incorrect in many instances—were given to the commission. It is also not generally known that if it had not been for Sir Redvers Buller's remonstrances Sir George White, after his first failures, would have been superseded. The Government afterwards made Sir George a Field Marshal, and bestowed upon him every decoration it was possible to give. Lastly, the public does not know, because the fact was suppressed by Sir Redvers, that during the action of Colenso he was struck on the upper part of the body by a shrapnel bullet, and as a result from breastbone to backbone was one huge bruise, which caused him acute agony for days. When the Government and every principal commander in South Africa, from Lord Roberts downwards, made mistakes, and we know that he who makes no mistakes makes nothing, it is only fair ofr the nation to insist that justice should be done to General Sir Redvere Buller."

POLICE COURT.

Only one case occupied his Worship's attention at yesterday morning's police court. A local shop-merchant was charged with keeping his shop open after legitimate hours, under the early closing by-law. The same proprietor was last week fined for a similar offence. The result of yesterday's trial was a fine of $2 with $3 costs. There must be money in shops.

TIREDNESS MEANS DANGER

Indicates Faulty Blood and Worn Out Nerves—Build Up or Total Collapse Will Surely Follow

When you're tired all day, bothered by trifles, exhausted with nervousness, be sure there is something wrong.

You need bracing up, need more nourishment in the blood, need a powerful medicine to vitalize the nerves and distribute force and staying power to all over-worked organs.

The most marvelous success is Ferrozone, a nourishing tonic so scientific as to be the admiration of every physician. Ferrozone performs wonders for people in poor health; acts directly on the blood, enriching it with strength and new life that is at once dispatched to all parts of the body. Ferrozone feeds the nerves and vital energies, supplies force, determination and joyous, buoyant spirits.

A case where there was lassitude and lack of strength is told by Mr. David Brown, of post-office box No. 80, Beaton, Ont.: "About a year ago my health commenced to fail. My blood had lost nearly all its cold. I felt worn-out and exhausted, weak as a little child. My face twitched. My limbs and arms commenced to lose their sense of feeling and finally my left side was perfectly numb. All my color left. My appetite ran down. Ferrozone was the first to give me any help. I improved with it very quickly. It toned up the blood and started circulation, so that the numbness gradually disappeared. My condition was perfectly cured by Ferrozone, and I have been well ever since. (Signed) "David Brown."

SPECIAL NOTICE.—To get satisfactory results be sure you get Ferrozone only. Fifty cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

PETERBORO, DECEMBER 0 1905

THE DIVORCE EVIL OF THE UNITED STATES.

Statistics have been gathered showing that the divorces in the United States from 1869 to 1901 aggregated 700,000, breaking up the homes of 1,400,000 men and women and depriving about four million children of home influences. If the same ratio were continued during the next thirty-four years, the number of divorces would be 30,000,000. The number of divorces granted in the United States during the year 1904 totaled about some hundred thousand. In striking contrast to this enormous total, the divorce granted in Great Britain during the same year aggregated only 906; in France 9,616; and in Canada 69.

These figures are startling. We are accustomed to refer to the frivolity of the French people, but the above figures show that the divorces in France, in 1904, amounted to only about one-fifth of those granted in the United States, in proportion to population, during the same year. In Great Britain, the divorces were not far from 1 per cent. of those granted in the United States, relative to population. In the Dominion of Canada the ratio was still less.

The United States has attained to the bad eminence of having a larger percentage of divorces than any nation on earth. Even if they admit that divorce laws have a considerable amount flexibility, it will hardly be denied that they have gone to an unwise extreme.

Rev. Morgan Dix, of Trinity Parish, N. Y., offers a radical but obviously rather impractical remedy for this growing evil. "Let the society people throughout the country," he says, "at once set their faces against this adulterous practice, and refuse to receive persons who married again while their original wives or husbands were living, and the whole disgusting tendency would be checked in twelve hours." Very likely the good doctor is right in supposing that society people might thus check the "disgusting tendency," if they would. If every thief would refrain from thieving, the disgusting tendency to take unwarranted possession of other people's property might thus be checked. But the trouble is that thieves refuse to stop the practice of thieving.

Admits Toronto is Catching Up.

Montreal, Dec. 19. — La Canada, which, along with a number of the Montreal papers, has been trying to show that Toronto papers have been away out in their statements that the Queen City is advancing more rapidly than Montreal, is out with a statement to-day that Montreal will have to wake up.

"It is all very well trying to dany it," says La Canada, "but Montreal will have to wake up. Toronto is progressing much faster than Montreal and is catching up to us in lines in which we had a "dividend and a few pegs ago."

Toronto Dec. 19.—E. St. George Banwell, the absconding Crown Bank teller, is still at large, and is still two good large, long jumps ahead of the agents of the law.

Advices to-day from the Pinkertons to the bank say that he left New York for St. Louis last Tuesday, and that since he boarded the train every trace of him has been lost. Though the St Louis police authorities and the Pinkerton agents there are on the alert, not the slightest clue to his movements in that city have been secured. While Banwell's golden hair would make him a conspicuous object anywhere and aid in his apprehension, a little hair dye cleverly applied would so change his personal appearance that he would be able to hoodwink a detective. His yellow hair is about his only personal peculiarity.

The young woman who fled with Banwell was with him when he left New York. That she is now Mrs. Banwell has been established almost beyond doubt by a letter received by a friend in the city. The latter says that they were married in Buffalo, [illegible] disclose a marriage under this names of Banwell-Hector. It is supposed that they were married under assumed names, in order to throw the police off the trail.

The city Detective Department has covered every city of over 200,000 population with circulars offering a reward for Banwell. Every city in seven countries with a population of over 100,000 has been notified, and every city on the continent with more than 10,000 population has been furnished with a complete description.

To Fight Still.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—John J. Hill, jr., who has led the fight of the Chicago Board of Trade against bucket shops for the last ten years, resigned his position yesterday with the announcement that he would devote his time hereafter to fighting the practice of trading in privileges, which now goes on daily in the smoking room of the Grain Exchange after the close of the regular session under the sanction of the directory. When trading in privileges was resumed last October under cover of a favorable decision by Judge Gary, Mr. Hill opposed it, but so much pressure was brought to bear on him by the market report committee that his activity in the matter was curbed. Mr. Hill now purposes to give up the position which has paid him $500 a month in order to have a free hand in suppressing the trade in privileges.

Toronto Woman Shot Herself.

Toronto, Dec. 19.—Ethel Winters, a young woman, who has been living for a couple of months with a man named Diddy, at 47 Chestnut street, shot herself yesterday afternoon, and died a few minutes later.

She had been drinking lately, and is said to have quarrelled with Diddy. She was employed as a waitress at Yet Lucy's, a Chinese restaurant on Queen street west, and was about 20 years of age.

Mrs. Pipher Dead.

Port Hope, Dec. 19.—The death at an early hour yesterday morning of Mrs. A. E. Pipher, wife of the superintendent of the Standard Ideal Sanitary Works, cast a gloom over the entire community. The deceased, who was thirty-seven years of age, was the youngest daughter of Mr. Hugh Hills of Blenheim, Ont., and the remains will be taken to Blenheim to-day for interment on Wednesday.

He was surprised at how the sores healed—I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been afflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, loss of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itchiness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend you, your treatment with all my heart. The Lust of Hate

BY GUY BOOTHBY

Author of "A Beautiful White Devil," "A Bid For Fortune," "The Marriage of Esther," "Dr. Nikola," Etc., Etc.

Next moment a man attired in a thick cloak threw open the apron and sprang out.

"Mr. Pennethorne, I believe?" he said, stopping me, and at the same time raising his hat.

"That is my name," I answered shortly, wondering how he knew me and what on earth he wanted. "What can I do for you?"

He signed to his driver to go, and then, turning to me, said, at the same time placing his gloved hand upon my arm in a confidential way:

"I am charmed to make your acquaintance. May I have the pleasure of walking a little way with you? I should be glad of your society, and I can then tell you my business."

His voice was soft and musical, and he spoke with a peculiar languor that was not without its charm. But as I could not understand what he wanted with me, I put the question to him as plainly as I could without being absolutely rude, and awaited his answer.

"I want the pleasure of your company at supper for one thing," he said. "And I want to be allowed to help you in a certain matter in which you are vitally interested, for another. The two taken together should, I think, induce you to give me your attention."

"But I don't know you," I blurted out. "To the best of my belief I have never set eyes on you before. What business, therefore, can you have with me?"

"You shall know all in good time," he answered. "In the meantime let me introduce myself. My name is Nikola. I am a doctor by profession, a scientist by choice. I have few friends in London, but those I have are the best that a man could desire. I spend my life in the way that pleases me most; that is to say, in the study of human nature. I have been watching you since you arrived in England, and have come to the conclusion that you are a man after my own heart. If you will sup with me as I propose, I don't doubt but that we shall agree admirably, and what is more to the point, perhaps, we shall be able to do each other services of inestimable value. I may say candidly that it lies in your power to furnish me with something I am in search of. I, on my part, will, in all probability, be able to put in your way what you most desire in the world."

I stopped in my walk and faced him. Owing to the broad brim of his hat, and the high collar of his cape, I could scarcely see his face. But his eyes rivetted my attention at once.

"And that is?" I said.

"Revenge," he answered, simply.

"Believe me, my dear Mr. Pennethorne, I am perfectly acquainted with your story. You have been wronged; you desire to avenge yourself upon [illegible] and if you will sup with me as I propose, I don't doubt but that I can put the power you seek into your hands. Do you agree?"

All my scruples vanished before that magic word revenge, and, strange as it may seem, without more ado I consented to his proposal. He walked into the road and, taking a whistle from his pocket, blew three staccato notes upon it. A moment later the hansom from which he had jumped to accost me appeared round a corner and came rapidly towards us. When it pulled up at the kerb, and the apron had been opened, this peculiar individual invited me to take my place in it, which I immediately did. He followed my example, and sat down beside me, and then, without any direction to the driver, we set off up the street.

For upwards of half-an-hour we drove on without stopping, but in which direction we were proceeding I could not for the life of me discover. The wheels were rubber-tired and made no noise upon the snow-strewn road; my companion scarcely spoke, and the only sound to be heard was the peculiar bumping noise made by the springs, the soft pad-pad of the horse's hoofs, and an occasional grunt of encouragement from the driver. At last is became evident that we were approaching our destination. The horse's pace slackened; I detected the sharp rings of his shoes on a paved crossing, and presently we passed under an archway and came to a standstill.

"Here we are at last, Mr. Pennethorne," said my mysterious conductor. "Allow me to lift the glass and open the apron."

He did so, and then we alighted. To my surprise we stood in a square courtyard, surrounded on all sides by lofty buildings. Behind the cab was a large archway, and at the further end of it the gate through which we had evidently entered. The houses were in total darkness, but the light of the cab lamps was sufficient to show me a door standing open on my left hand.

"I'm afraid you must be very cold, Mr. Pennethorne," said Nikola, for by that name I shall henceforth call him, as he alighted, "but if you will follow me I think I can promise that you shall soon be as warm as toast."

As he spoke he led the way across the courtyard towards the door I have just mentioned. When he reached it he struck a match and advanced into the building. The passage was a narrow one, and from its appearance, and that of the place generally, I surmised that the building had once been used as a factory of some kind. Half-way down the passage a narrow wooden staircase led up to the second floor, and in Indian file we ascended it. On reaching the first landing my guide opened a door which stood opposite him, and immediately a bright light illumined the passage.

"Enter, Mr. Pennethorne, and let me make you welcome to my poor abode," said Nikola, placing his hand upon my shoulder and gently pushing me before him.

I complied with his request, half expecting to find the room poorly furnished. To my surprise, however, it was [illegible]

I had ever seen. At least a dozen valuable pictures—I presume they must have been valuable, though personally I know but little about such things—decorated the walls; a large and quaintly-carved cabinet stood in one corner and held a multitude of china vases, bowls, plates, and other knick-knacks; a massive oak sideboard occupied a space along one wall and supported a quantity of silver plate; while the corresponding space upon the opposite wall was filled by a bookcase reaching to within a few inches of the ceiling, and crammed with works of every sort and description. A heavy pile carpet, so soft that our movements made no sound upon it, covered the floor; luxurious chairs and couches were scattered about here and there, while in an alcove at the further end was an ingenious apparatus for conducting chemical re-

Gold Mining Company

One of the most promising propositions ever placed before the Canadian investors.

The Company's Offer to Discriminating Investors.

The management is assured that $15,000 will be sufficient to complete the improvements necessary to place the mine on a substantial producing and dividend paying basis. Therefore the directorate has authorized the sale of 15,000 shares of the capital stock at par. The improvements under way include the construction of a mill and concentrating plant, boarding and bunk houses for the miners employed and the installation of machinery required for the teatment of the output of the mine. With dividends assured and a certainty of a sharp advance in the price of this security it is stated with emphasis that no more attractive opportunity for investments could be placed before the public. Custer, Idaho, November 15, 1905.

To the Stock Holders of The Oxarna Mining Co.:—

We have steadily continued the development of our properties since last advising you June 25th. At that time we had no plant erected or contracted for, but now I am pleased to report that we have secured a Ten Stamp Mill, together with Boarding House, Assay Office and all other necessary buildings, originally costing $15,000.00, hence you will know that we have been making great progress, and are rapidly approaching a productive stage, but as we have a final payment to make on this Mill, we will not withdraw our stock from the market until this money is raised. We are now making preparations so that by early spring we can start our Mill for a long and continuous run. You will be advised later on as to the date when we will start so that you can be present if possible.

In addition to this Mill, which is now erected, with all machinery in place and in perfect running order, we have secured the machinery for an other Ten Stamp Mill, consisting of Battery, Seventy-five Horse Power Engine, two Forty Horse Power Boilers, and all other necessary machinery which we expect to install in the Mill now already equipped, which will increase the capacity of our plant from 750 to 1500 tons a month, which means a great saving in the cost of reducing our ores, as it takes about the same labor to operate a Ten Stamp Mill as it does to operate a Twenty Stamp Mill, about the only additional expenses necessary to operate the larger Mill is a little additional fuel. In addition to above machinery we have also purchased an Ingersoll Air Compressor for use in the Mines, at a cost of $1200.00.

We are assured funds to complete our payment on the Ten Stamp Mill and for other purposes, and never having any brokers to place our stock, we have had no commissions to pay, hence we have financed the Company for a less sum than is usually required. We have no debts and will pay no salaries until after the Mill goes into commission.

I also beg to advise you that we expect to take over the control of the stock of the Corning Mining Company, at an early date, giving a part of our stock in payment therefore. This will give us an additional eighty acres of Mineral Land, twenty acres of which is the Black Mine. This Mine has produced $100,000.00 net, and has one mile of developments, costing over $70,000.00, and an additional sum of $10,187.00 has been expended in developments this and last summer. Our Mill is on this group and is adjoined by "The Lucky Boy Mine," which has produced $1,000,000, and by "The Badger Group," which has paid $500,000.00 on a capital of $1200.00.

The time is rapidly approaching when THE OXARNA COMPANY WILL BE ONE OF THE STEADY PRODUCERS, and I urge each of the stock holders to buy all the stock that he or she can pay for while it can be had at the exceedingly low price of 10 cents a share. The officers are increasing their holdings and we want to give all the stock holders an equal CHANCE WITH US. I have just put $1,000.00 more cash into the Company's Treasury for stock at 10 cents a share, the same that you will pay if you take advantage of this opportunity NOW.

I trust that you will be pleased with this report and with the efforts that are being made by your officers for the interests of each stock holder.

REGINALD CORYELL, Manager Oxarna Gold Mining Company.

To the readers of "The Times":—

The above report has been sent out to all our stock holders, and the allotment of stock for sale at 10 cents a share is being rapidly taken, for the ore that we are now taking out averages over $67.00 a ton and, with our Twenty Stamp Mill in operation, our earnings will not be less than $30,000.00 net per month, which will enable us to pay at least 100 per cent. (ten times the present cost) in dividends within six months from the time we put the Mill in commission. For immediate acceptance only, I can offer this stock for 10 cents a share cash, or one-quarter of the amount with order and a like amount in 30, 60 and 90 days. Make all orders payable to the undersigned, or remit through the NATIONAL BANK OF DELPHOS.

W. B. FLODING, Vice-President Oxarna Mining Company, Delphos, Ohio, U. S. A.

THE WEAK SPOT.

When a boiler explodes carrying death and destruction with it, every body says "Why! we thought it was strong enough. It must have had a weak spot somewhere!" When a man who has the outward appearance of being sound and strong suddenly falls a prey to disease, his friends exclaim: "why we thought he was all right, he must have had a weak spot somewhere."

The fact is, almost everybody has a weak spot somewhere. Death and disease are always looking for weak spots. If your stomach or your liver won't do its proper work, if your body fails to get its full nourishment from the food you eat, and your brain loses part of the sleep it ought to have, no matter how big your frame and muscular your limbs may be, you will give out; disease will find the weak spot, and nature will give way.

[illegible] was at the point of death. My friends thought I would not live through the night. I was treated by five different doctors, but the condition grew worse until I was induced to go to the hospital, where I was told that if I was discharged from it I could hardly expect to live. After suffering for nearly [illegible] Golden Medical Discovery.' Before I had taken all of one bottle I began to feel relief, and before I had taken eight bottles, and many I am as well as ever, can eat anything I want and I feel good. Am weighing 165 pounds and feel fine all the time. My friends were surprised to notice such a quick change in me, and many of them say they never expected to see me get well. I have not had to take any medicine for stomach trouble since. I cannot say enough in praise of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.'"

This glorious "Discovery" gives the stomach and liver power to do their natural work regularly and completely. It makes healthy blood and steady nerves. It helps the weak spots, making them sound and strong.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Golden Medical Discovery" whenever a laxative is required.

Heroes in Prison Garb Rescue Women

Prisoners on Blackwell's Island Face Death to Save Female Inmates from Burning Building.

New York, Dec. 21.—Men forgot that they were convicts and remembered only that they were men on Blackwell's Island early yesterday morning, when the male prisoners, marshalled by their keepers into a fire-fighting and liberating corps, broke from the flaming floors of the women's wards five hundred and ninety-four frantic women, and from the hospital beds 50 more.

Starting in the sewing-room of the workhouse, and from a cause which has not yet been definitely decided, the fire had reached a fierce blaze at two o'clock, when it was discovered. The fire engine on the island proved inadequate and a call for help was sent to the city department.

Seven engines were sent over but were not sufficient to save the women's workhouse from destruction.

FRANTIC WITH FRIGHT.

On the top floor of this building were cells for the women, and every one held one or two prisoners when the fire occurred. These women became frantic with fright and were soon choking with the dense smoke that filled all the halls and their cells.

That most of them did not perish is due to the recent installation of a system by which in emergencies every cell in a tier can be opened simultaneously with all the others.

When the extent an danger of the blaze became apparent, a wardman marshalled his regular ... ing force of employes and soon were at work. The flames spread so fast, however, that this force proved hopelessly inadequate. Then it was decided to trust to the male prisoners' sense of manhood, and they bore the test well.

Released from their cells and marshalled into small bodies they entered the burning building and went at the work of fire fighting and rescue with utter disregard of the danger to themselves. The flames were crackling all about them, but they plunged through the densest smoke and brought out in their arms the last of the women prisoners.

The fire was confined to the women's workhouse.

DAIRYMEN'S CONVENTION

Speakers who will Address Next Month's Great Meeting.

As our readers are aware the Western Ontario Dairymen's Association will meet in Peterboro during the three days, January 10th, 11th and 12th.

The assemblage which will take place in the Grand Opera House, will be one of the greatest advertisements that Peterboro has ever had, or could obtain.

The dairymen will hold three sessions daily, or nine sessions altogether. Addresses on subjects in connection with the dairying business will be given by the Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture for the Dominion, Hon. Nelson Monteith, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario; G. C. James, deputy minister of agriculture, Toronto; J. A. Ruddick, dairy commissioner, Ottawa; G. C. Creelman, president of O.A.C., Guelph; Prof. H. H. Dean, professor of dairy husbandry, Guelph; Dr. J. G. Rutherford, G. H. Grisdale, Ottawa; G. A. Putnam, superintendent farmers' institutes, Toronto; Dr. Connell, bacteriologist, Queen's University, Kingston; J. W. Mitchell, B.A., superintendent dairy school, Kingston; G.G. Publow, chief instructor dairy school, Kingston; G. H. Barr, instructor dairy school, Stratford; C. F. Whitley, Ottawa; Henry Glendinning, director, Manilla, Ontario, and others.

With speakers like the above the convention in January should be the best in the history of the association. Every one of the speakers is a specialist, and the majority of them are known to the farmers either personally or by reputation.

Mr. Gillespie, of White & Gillespie, the George street grocers, one of Ontario's most enthusiastic advocates of the dairying industry, assisted by local dairymen, is striving, and with great success to make next January's convention a record.

Prof. G. G. Publow, chief instructor, will give a report of the work of the staff of twenty-six instructors during the past season. A question drawer will be provided to receive questions submitted by any person attending the sessions and the answers will be given by the different professors and instructors.

Ladies are especially invited to attend all the sessions, but more particularly those held in the evening.

Arrangements have been completed with all railways, on production of a certificate, for return ticket at single fare.

Smallpox Now in Foxboro.

A Belleville despatch says:—Smallpox has obtained quite a foothold in Foxboro, a village five miles from this city. It was discovered on Saturday by Dr. Faulkner, medical health officer for Thurlow township. The cases number six, being all confined to two families. The houses of the families have been quarantined and everything possible is being done in the interests of public health. Foxboro schools and churches have been closed for the present.

POLICE COURT NEWS

At yesterday morning's police court, Jas. Hayes was before His Worship on a charge of vagrancy. James has now joined the yellow and black corps of the Scabitt Castle snow shovellers. James will for the space of one month draw city rations daily, and thus save 17 cents per pound for his Christmas turkey. A citizen, whose name for the sake of his friends is withheld, pleaded guilty to the charge of d. & d. He was allowed to go on promise of reform.

A young lad was in fear and trembling, before the court for stealing money from a relative. He was allowed to go with a warning.

Joe McMullen, believed to belong to the village of Lakefield, was arrested at noon yesterday on a charge of forging the name of Thomas Calvert to a check on the Ontario Bank for $21.05. McMullen had the check cashed in the city here, but the man who advanced the money grew suspicious. Calvert is a foreman in the employ of the Kelly Lumber Co., of Bridgenorth, and Mr. Mullen is supposed to be working under him. He will explain matters, whether satisfactorily or otherwise at this morning's police court.

HIGH PRAISES FOR OUR OWN COUNTRY

Sir Gilbert Points Out How Canada Has Improved

LEARNED MUCH FROM TRIP

Americans Who Go Over There Rapidly Become Naturalized.

London, December 20.—Sir Gilbert Parker, who is again in London, says: "My journey across Canada during the summer of 1905 was a revelation. Since 1890 Canada has emerged from practical isolation into open-eyed contact with outside interests—with markets in four of the seven seas. In 1891 the exports of home produce were valued at $80,000,000; today they are valued at $190,000,000. Then the shipping was valued at $30,000,000; today it is valued at $75,000,000. There were 7,000 miles of railway in operation in 1891; now there are 20,000 now. Two and a half million tons of freight were carried in 1891, while 10,000,000 tons of freight were carried in 1904. The earnings of the railways were $12,500,000 then; now they annually amount to $110,000,000. Paid up bank capital was $35,000,000 then, today it is $65,000,000. The deposits in the bank amounted to $55,000,000 then, at the present time they total $470,000,000. The deposits in the savings banks were $10,000,000 then; they are $57,500,000 now.

"It must be remembered that this increase in wealth has been made with a comparatively small increase in the population—not more than twenty-five per cent.—thus showing a successful application of energy in keeping with the spirit of British enterprise. During the time in question the manufacturing life of the country has developed from comparatively nothing. A natural balance is being acquired between agriculture and industry, which is a sure guarantee against lack of employment in Canada; on the other hand, there is a great and a continuous need for the unskilled worker—for the agricultural labour. What struck me most wherever I went in Canada was the complete absence of poverty such as it is known on this side of the water, and of senile old age.

"I did not find the so-called 'Americanization' of Canada going on to any extent. Canada is instinctively monarchical in the sense of supporting a democratic constitutional monarchy; its whole history makes for that particular national trend of thought. It may surprise many to learn that 95 per cent. of the United States people who have settled in Canada have already become Canadian citizens; have changed their allegiance and their flag. They can be naturalized in three years. I believe there is definite thought and purpose in Canada; Canada is a nation. With regard to the race question in Canada, I believe that it is settled forever. In conclusion, permit me to add that the Canadian is on the straight road to his destiny—national expansion under the British flag, and complete control of his own internal affairs, sharing at the same time in the general responsibilities of the Empire in which he belongs."

HOWELL CRITICIZED

Former Peterboro Man Alleged to Have Played Rough Hockey.

Referring to a former Peterboro man, a correspondent of the Toronto Star, sends them the appended news agent Howell, which will be hard to be believed here.

The correspondent, a professional player, says:

So far the hockey team here is doing well. We lost Saturday night, but it was a very rough game, and the American Soo did every kind of dirty work. Referee Elliott couldn't see it or didn't want to see Howell, the cover point of the American Soo team, deliberately skate down the ice and knock Lorne Campbell into the corner with an elbow check. Then Howell took his stick in both hands and jabbed Campbell as hard as he could in the head. He came within an ace of killing Campbell, who was out of business all night, and is still in a bad way. Mr. Elliott put Howell off for one minute for this. Of course he may not have seen it, but the puck was down that way.

NEXT YEAR'S COUNCIL

Deplorable Lack of Interest in Municipal Elections.

With the Peterboro municipal elections only a few days away, there is a most regrettable lack of interest being shown as regards candidates.

The selection of aldermen to control Peterboro's destinies during the next 12 months is a subject of great movement to every ratepayer, factory and business man in the city.

It is an open secret that the Council of last year was not, as a whole, altogether satisfactory. There is no doubt but what many gentlemen performing the duties of aldermen and Mayor—Chairman of aldermen, who devoted hundreds or hours of their time that might have been spent in well-earned rest, and all for no recompense, did as well as they could.

The position of alderman is at the best, a poorly remunerated one. The public gives little heed to the fact that mayor and councillors every week give up from one to several evenings of their time to the public weal.

In view of this fact, the public of Peterboro should, when suitable men offer their services, or show their names to be presented as candidates for the council, enthusiastically not only turn out to vote, but try, in their own interests to see that an intelligent, honest and economical body of men be placed in charge of Peterboro's civic government.

Public opinion, and individual action, should, for the good of Peterboro, and her future growth and prosperity, awaken and assert themselves until the municipal polls are closed.

Surely the guidance of the affairs of some 15,000 people, is worth as much individual, as well as collective, interest as one would give to a deal involving, say $50.

The Times, from now until the mayor and aldermen for next year are elected, will be pleased to receive intelligence, correspondence, or whatever may tend towards getting a good body of men to manage Peterboro's affairs during 1906.

NEW YORKERS BUY

Scollie Property, Discovered by Mr. T. H. Crowley Sold.

Mr. T. H. Crowley, the mineral expert and prospector, is again in the city, having come from Toronto. Mr. John Stayner, of Bancroft, the former owner of the property upon which Mr. Crowley made his rich additions find, accompanied him.

Mr. Crowley states that arrangements have been made with the New York capitalists to purchase the property, and he expects to start for Bancroft in the course of a few days to commence development work on the property.

Mr. Crowley further states he is interested in a property on which a rich deposit of red oxide exists. His faith in that district is great.

Liberal Briber Confessed, Fined $100

First Lifting of the Curtain upon the Corruption Practised by the Scott Machine in Saskatchewan.

Regina, Dec. 21.—The first story of the corruption practised in Saskatchewan by the Scott machine was published yesterday, when the unexpected appearance of Mike Voll of North Qu'Appelle, became known. Voll was arrested at Balcarres on the morning of election day, on the charge of having attempted to buy votes. It was alleged that he had paid one man $5 for his vote, and that the elector had promptly turned the money over to the Provincial Rights committee with the details of the case.

Voll was frightened by the prospect and his machine friends sent him up to Regina, with a letter to a prominent Liberal barrister, to whom he came for advice. He did not obtain any satisfaction from his interview, and decided to make a clean breast of the whole affair. He told the story of his election activity to a number of Provincial Rights men, and his signed statement was taken. It was indicated that a large amount of money was available for the purpose of "influencing" electors and enlightened electorate of Saskatchewan.

Estimates, based upon Voll's statement, ranged from $10,000 to $30,000 per constituency, and the total so placed at more than half a million dollars. Voll declared that the money with which he operated had been given to him by John Gillespie, president of the Liberal Association at Balcarres, in North Qu'Appelle, where the Minister of Agriculture, Hon. W. R. Motherwell, was a candidate. Gillespie was one of Motherwell's most active workers, and Voll was one of his most energetic assistants. He had had great experience in that line, and knew the constituency well. He has stated that Gillespie's instructions to him were to buy votes "as cheap as possible." He allowed a wad of bills, and declared that the Liberal organization had plenty of them. He pleaded guilty and was fined $100. His written confession is now in the hands of the Provincial Rights committee, and the whole story in that constituency on behalf of the coercion Government is expected to come out soon. Two other arrests have been made in the same connection.

MR. MENZIES MARRIED

Mr. W. G. Menzies, of Hicks & Co. Joins the Army of Benedicts.

A quiet, but prettily conducted wedding was celebrated yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. Edward Carr, 306 Aylmer street, when his niece, Miss R. Maud Moyse, daughter of the late Thos. Moyse, of Cobourg, was united in marriage to Mr. W. G. Menzies, son of Mr. W. Menzies, of the Examiner staff.

The residence was appropriately ornamented with pleasing floral decorations, etc. The bride entered the drawing room to the music of Mendelssohn's wedding march, performed by Mr. Armstrong, organist of St. Luke's.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. E. F. Torrance, pastor of St. Paul's. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Agnes Carr. The groomsman was Mr. Ed. Carr, nephew of the bride.

After the ceremony a recherche dejeuner was partaken of by those present. The wedding presents were of unusually beautiful character, showing the esteem in which both bride and groom are held.

The happy couple left by the 5.30 C.P.R. express last night for a bridal tour, which will include Toronto, Montreal, Buffalo and other places, and on their return will reside at 291 Rubidge street for the winter.

THE SMALLPOX SCARE

An item appeared in these columns recently, to the effect that the stage between Lakefield and Apsley had been discontinued on account of the prevalence of smallpox in the back country.

Mr. Kennedy, the stage driver, yesterday called up The Times by telephone and emphatically denied this rumor, saying that the stage had never lost a trip, and that the smallpox which prevailed so notoriously in Canada, was far removed from the stage route.

We are pleased to state, on reliable information, that the smallpox is now completely under control. We are very pleased to make the correction as to the Lakefield-Apsley stage route.

HEALTH FOR WOMEN

Mrs. Emma Daigle of Moncton N B., Sends an open Letter to All Sufferers.

Most women are tired when they wake up. Housework drags along with great difficulty. Nervousness is always present, headaches seldom depart, tears are ever ready to flow.

But there is a cure, a true specific for women's ills that restored a prominent lady in Moncton. Mrs. Daigle, who tells the following experience:

"About a year ago I had a serious sickness, sort of a general breakdown. My digestion failed entirely and I was able to eat but very little. I took violent stomach pains and suffered terribly from headaches. My doctor said it was "nerve exhaustion" and I might never be well. My troubles increased, for as I grew weaker I became subject to neuralgia and rheumatism. Sleep finally forsook me and I almost lost heart. Different medicines didn't help. Doctors couldn't do me any good. I was desperate when I heard of Ferrozone. The first box convinced me it was just what I needed. It toned up my stomach, gave me a splendid appetite and from my recovery seemed easier. Ferrozone increased my weight several pounds, has restored my nerves, given me a good color and strength such as I never had before. For the weak and sickly I can truthfully recommend Ferrozone." (Signed) Emma Daigle.

REMEMBER: No mere stimulant or alcoholic concoction can take the loss of the nerve and blood nourishment contained in Ferrozone. This true tonic always does what is claimed for it. Sold everywhere in 50c. boxes or six for $2.50. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

THE REIGN OF TERROR.

In current British monthlies, Dr. E J. Dillon and Prince Kropotkin have articles on the Russian revolution. They write from different points of view and only in part cover the same ground, but both dwell on the enormous extent of the upheaval that has already taken place. That the world is now witnessing "the" Russian revolution—not merely a preliminary turmoil, but the great revolution which has been predicted for generations, and which will be recalled in history for all time—is the opinion of both of them.

Taking as a test the sacrifice of human life, it is significant to note the figures they give. Dr. Dillon, in The Contemporary Review, does not hesitate to say of the uprising in Odessa that "there were more men, women and children killed in that one city in the course of a single week than in all France during the great revolution." Prince Kropotkin, in The Nineteenth Century, estimates that since January last 25,000 persons have been killed in Russia.

To both of them the Russian Reign of Terror is already vastly more terrible than the terror of the French revolution. The revolutionary tribunal at Paris, it is estimated, sent about 2,500 persons to the guillotine. Suppose as many more were beheaded in the provinces. Even making the most liberal allowances, the Russian figures are not approached. The significant difference is that the revolutionists executed their enemies in France, whereas in Russia the revolutionists are themselves for the greater part the victims.

Both of the writers mentioned believe that only the beginning of the horrors has been made. Prince Kropotkin fears "the bitterest of civil wars." Dr. Dillon speaks of "the risk of civil war" and fears that in a few weeks or months masses of the people may "sweep over the land, crushing to powder much that Russia would still fain preserve and still more than she can gratifiably spare." The one blames most the autocracy for its actions in the last few weeks, the other seems to blame most the liberal leaders. As Dr. Dillon says: "the glove has already been thrown down"—it matters not who threw it—"and if the masses pick it up and accept the challenge the words 'revolution' and 'jacquerie' will acquire a meaning almost specifically different from any they have yet had in the history of the blind rage and cruel frenzy of peoples."

Terrible as the prospect is, Prince Kropotkin's final word of hope should not be overlooked. "Autocracy," he holds, "has mortally wounded and will not revive. And other victories will follow."

RUN FOR HOUSE OF COMMONS

Four Canadians Contest Seats in the Mother of Parliaments.

London, Dec 19.—Among the candidates for Parliamentary honors at the forthcoming general election are four Canadians, Hamar Greenwood, the Liberal candidate for York city, Ins for his opponent J. G. Butcher, who was at the last election returned unopposed. York city is a strong Conservative stronghold, but there is a strong belief that Mr. Greenwood will be returned.

Foster Boulton, formerly of Toronto, is the Liberal candidate for North Hunt ingdon, and has for his opponent Mr. A. E. Fellowes, the late president of the Board of Agriculture. Mr. Fellowes' majority at the last election was 1,151, but it is thought that though the majority to overcome is large Mr. Boulton has a fighting chance.

H. F. Wyatt, well known in connection with the Navy League, is the Unionist candidate for Russcliffe division, Nottinghamshire, Wyatt's opponent is J. E. Ellis, who had a Radical majority last election of 446.

Dr. Duncine Dawson, son of Sir William Dawson, Canada, is the Conservative candidate for East Edinburg. Mr. McRae, Liberal, the present member, had a majority of 1, Splendid T. A. S. Irish Concert.

Irish night at the T.A.S. Monday evening was a grand success. The stage was appropriately decorated, and the program throughout, savored of fresh breezes straight from Erin's green isle. The T.A.S. band rendered two enthusiastically received numbers. Miss Annie Simms, in her excellent rendition of St. Patrick's Day, brought loud applause. Miss L. Callahan was loudly cheered for her song, "My Irish Molly O," Mr. Begley in his inimitable style, recited that old favorite "Shamus O'Brien," followed by "Kathleen Mavourneen," by Miss Mona O'Shea, in good voice and perfect expression. Mr. Dave Quinlan gave an excellent exhibition of the terpsichorean art, doing all kinds of fancy steps. Mr. Brown, in his clear tenor voice, gave "The Minstrel Boy," Father Kelley, gave a humorous sketch on "Irish Wit," that was universally appreciated. Taking the evening in full, it was enjoyable from start to when the proceedings ended with God Save the King.

CHURCHES TO TRY FEDERATION.

Five Hundred Chicago Ministers Appoint Committee to Draw Up Plan.

Chicago, Dec. 20. — Five hundred Chicago ministers met yesterday to consider steps toward church federation in this city. No definite action was taken looking toward the exclusion of the Unitarian denomination, which was barred on doctrinal grounds from the recent conference on church federation held in New York City, but the sentiment of the meeting was strongly in favor of exclusion.

Each of the speakers had been a delegate to the New York conference, and each referred to the action of that conference in terms of the warmest approbation.

The meeting was called by a joint committee representing the Ministerial Associations of the various denominations and the Central Department of the Y.M.C.A. A committee of four was appointed to reconstruct a plan for the church federation.

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS

The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it "is, in fact, the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and severer requirements of another generation."

We are of the opinion that this allegation means clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, has been thoroughly re-edited in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and severer requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.

It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition; and that in the future as in the past it will be the source of constant reference.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS.

Peter H. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me, guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many Specialists and Physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, went to Mt. Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kergan, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through my nerves. I was cured mentally, physically and sexually. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

searches. Supper was laid on the table in the centre, and when we had warmed ourselves at the fire that glowed in the grate, we sat down to it. As if to add still further to my surprise, when the silver covers of the dishes were lifted, everything was found to be smoking hot. How this had been managed I could not, tell, for our arrival at that particular moment could not have been foretold with any chance of certainty, and I had seen no servant enter the room. But I was very hungry, and as the supper before me was the best I had sat down to for years, you may suppose I was but little inclined to waste time on a matter of such trivial importance.

When we had finished and I had imbibed the better part of two bottles of Heidseck, which my host had assiduously pressed upon me, we left the table and ensconced ourselves in chairs on either side of the hearth. Then, for the first time, I was able to take thorough stock of my companion. He was a man of perhaps a little above middle height, broad shouldered, but slimly built. His elegant proportions, however, gave but a small idea of the enormous strength I afterwards discovered him to possess. His hair and eyes were black as night, his complexion was a dark olive hue, confirming that suspicion of foreign extraction which his name suggested, but of which his speech afforded no trace. He was attired in faultless evening dress, the dark color of which heightened the extraordinary pallor of his complexion.

"You have a queer home here, Dr. Nikola!" I said, as I accepted the cheroot he offered me.

"Perhaps it is a little out of the common," he answered, with one of his queer smiles; "but then that is easily accounted for. Unlike the general run of human beings, I am not gregarious. In other words, I am very much averse to what is called the society of my fellow man; I prefer, under most circumstances, to live alone. At times, of course, that is not possible. But the idea of living in a flat, shall we say, with perhaps a couple of families above me, as many on either side, and the same number below; or in an hotel or a boarding-house, in which I am compelled to eat my meals in company with half-a-hundred total strangers, is absolutely repulsive to me. I cannot bear it, and therefore I choose my abode elsewhere. A private dwelling-house I might, of course, take, but that would necessitate servants and other incumbrances; this building suits my purposes admirably. As you may have noticed, it was once a boot and shoe factory; but after the proprietor committed suicide by cutting his throat—which, by the way, he did in this very room—the business failed; and until I fell across it, it was supposed to be haunted, and, in consequence, has remained untenanted."

"But do you mean to say you live here alone?" I enquired, surprised at the queerness of the idea.

"In a certain sense, yes—in another, no. That is, I have a deaf and dumb Chinese servant who attends to my simple wants, and a cat who for years has never left me."

"You surprise me more and more!"

"And why? Considering that I know China better than you know that part of London situated, shall we say, between Blackfriars Bridge and Charing Cross, and have spent many years of my life here, the first should not astonish you. And as I am warmly attached to my cat, who has accompanied me in all my wanderings about the globe, I cannot see that you should be surprised at the other. Perhaps you would like to see both?"

As may be supposed, I jumped eagerly at the opportunity; and upon my saying so, Nikola pressed a knob in the wall at his side. He had hardly taken his finger away before my ear detected the shuffling of feet in the passage outside. Next moment the door opened, and in walked the most hideous man I have ever yet beheld in my life. In Australia I had met many queer specimens of the Chinese race, but never one whose countenance approached in repulsiveness that of the man Nikola employed as his servant. In stature he was taller than his master, possibly a couple or three inches above six feet, and broad in proportion. His eyes squinted inwardly, his face was wrinkled and seemed in every direction, his nose had plainly been split at some time or another, and I noticed that his left ear was missing from his head. He was dressed in his native costume, but when he turned round I noticed that his pigtail had been shorn off at the roots.

"You are evidently puzzled about something," said Nikola, who had been watching my face.

"I must confess I am," I answered. "It is this. If he is deaf and dumb, as you say, how did he hear the bell you rang, and also how do you communicate your orders to him?"

"This knob," replied Nikola, placing his finger on the bell-push, "releases a smaller shutter and reveals a disc that signifies that I desire his services. When I wish to give him instructions I speak to him in his own language, and he answers it. It is very simple."

"But you said just now that he is deaf and dumb," I cried, thinking I had caught him in an equivocation.

"So he is," replied my host, looking at me as he spoke, with an amused smile upon his face. "Quite deaf and dumb."

"Then how can you make him hear. And how does he reply?"

"As I say, by word of mouth. Allow me to explain. You argue that because the poor fellow has no tongue wherewith to speak, and his ears are incapable of hearing what you say to him, that it is impossible for him to carry on a conversation. So far as your meaning goes, your are right. But you must remember that, while no sound can come from his lips, it is still possible for the words to be framed. In that case our eyes take the place of our ears, and thus the difficulty is solved. The principle is a simple one, and a visit to any modern deaf and dumb school in London will show you its efficacy. Surely you are not going to ask me to believe you have not heard of the system before?"

"Of course I have heard of it," I answered, "but in this case the circumstances are so different."

"Simply because the man is a Chinaman—that is all. If his skin were white instead of yellow, and he wore English dress and parted his hair in the middle, you would find nothing extraordinary in it. At any rate, perpetual silence on the part of a servant and physical inability to tittle-tattle of the affairs one would wish kept a secret, is a luxury few men can boast."

"I agree with you; but how did the poor fellow come to lose his faculties?"

"To let you into that secret would necessitate the narration of a long and, I fear to you, uninteresting story. Suffice that he was the confidential servant of the Viceroy of Kweichow until he was detected in an amicable plot to assassinate his master with poisoned rice. He was at once condemned to die by ling-chi or the death of a thousand cuts, but by the exercise of a little influence which, fortunately for him, I was able to bring to bear, I managed to get him off."

"I wonder you care to have a man capable of concocting such a plot about you," I said.

The Drummer Boy Gold Mining Company

The Company's Offer to discriminating investors.

The management is assured that $15,000 will be sufficient to complete the improvements necessary to place the mine on a substantial producing and dividend paying basis. Therefore the directorate has authorized the sale of 15,000 shares of the capital stock at par. The improvements under way include the construction of a mill and concentrating plant, boarding and bunk houses for the miners employed and the installation of machinery required for the treatment of the output of the mine. With dividends assured and a certainty of a sharp advance in the price of this security it is stated with emphasis that no more attractive opportunity for investments could be placed before the public. Wire reservations and address all communications to the

Custer, Idaho, November 15, 1900.

To the Stock Holders of The Oxarna Mining Co.:—

We have steadily continued the development of our properties since last advising you June 15th. At that time we had no plant erected or contracted for, but now I am pleased to report that we have secured a Ten Stamp Mill, together with Boarding House, Assay Office and all other necessary buildings, originally costing $15,000.00, hence you will know that we have been making great progress, and are rapidly approaching a productive stage, but as we have a final payment to make on this Mill, we will not withdraw our stock from the market until this money is raised. We are now making preparations so that by early spring we can start our Mill for a long and continuous run. You will be advised later on as to the date when we will start so that you can be present if possible.

In addition to this Mill, which is now erected, with all machinery in place and in perfect running order, we have secured the machinery for another Ten Stamp Mill, consisting of Battery, Seventy-five Horse Power Engine, two Forty Horse Power Boilers, and all other necessary machinery which we expect to install in the Mill now already equipped, which will increase the capacity of our plant from 750 to 1500 tons a month, which means a great saving in the cost of reducing our ores, as it takes ABOUT the same labor to operate a Ten Stamp Mill as it does to operate a Twenty Stamp Mill, about the only additional expenses necessary to operate the larger Mill is a little additional fuel. In addition to above machinery we have also purchased an Ingersoll Air Compressor for use in the Mines, at a cost of $1200.00.

We are assured funds to complete our payment on the Ten Stamp Mill and for other purposes, and never having any brokers to place our stock, we have had no commissions to pay, hence we have financed the Company for a less sum than is usually required. We have no debts and will pay no salaries until after the Mill goes into commission.

I also beg to advise you that we expect to take over the control of the stock of the Corning Mining Company, at an early date, giving a part of our stock in payment therefore. This will give us an additional eighty acres of Mineral Land, twenty acres of which is the Black Mine. This Mine has produced $100,000.00 net, and has one mile of developments, costing over $70,000.00, and an additional sum of $10,157.00 has been expended in developments this and last summer. Our Mill is on this group and is adjoined by "The Lucky Boy Mine," which has produced $1,000,000, and by "The Badger Group," which has paid $400,000.00 on a capital of $1200.00.

The time is rapidly approaching when THE OXARNA COMPANY WILL BE ONE OF THE STEADY PRODUCERS, and I urge each of the stock holders to buy all the stock that he or she can pay for while it can be had at the exceedingly low price of 10 cents a share. The officers are increasing their holdings and we want to give all the stock holders an equal chance with us. I have just put $1,000.00 more cash into the Company's Treasury for stock at 10 cents a share, the same that you will pay if you take advantage of this opportunity NOW.

I trust that you will be pleased with this report and with the efforts that are being made by your officers for the interests of each stock holder.

REGINALD CORTELL, Manager Ozarna Gold Mining Company.

To the readers of "The Times":—

The above report has been sent out to all our stock holders, and the allotment of stock for sale at 10 cents a share is being rapidly taken, for the ore that we are now taking out averages over $67.00 a ton and, with our Twenty Stamp Mill in operation, our earnings will not be less than $30,000.00 net per month, which will enable us to pay at least 100 per cent. (ten times the present cost) in dividends within six months from the time we put the Mill in commission. For immediate acceptance only, I can offer this stock for 10 cents a share cash, or one-quarter of the amount with order and a like amount in 30, 60 and 90 days. Make all orders payable to the undersigned, or remit through the NATIONAL BANK OF DELPHOS.

W. B. FLODING, Vice-President Ozarna Mining Company,

Exhaustion All Gone!

To-day She is Buoyant With Health and Vital Energy Given by A Medicine Suited to the Female Sex

There is no medicine for health and strength that accomplishes so much as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. For womanly troubles they have no equal.

Miss Katie E. Emerson, one of Brockton's popular young ladies, in the following letter voices the conviction of hosts of her friends:

"Two months ago I was completely used up. I was weak and miserable. My strength was gone, and I had no appetite or energy left. What I needed was a blood purifier and systematic tonic which I found in Dr. Hamilton's Pills. To-day I am brimming over with spirits and virile good health that came from using Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

No one can over-estimate the true worth of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Their enormous curative power makes one marvel. You soon have richer blood, better appetite, clearer complexion, freedom from weakness and ill-health. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are sold everywhere 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1. By mail from N. C. The Cook boy was badly cut about the head and face, eight stitches being put in his tongue by Dr. Eastwood and Dr. Beasley. In addition to the injuries to his tongue, a bad gash over the eye was inflicted. It is feared that the sight may be impaired. This is a poor boy compared with a badly bruised arm.

HIS CHRISTMAS PRESENT

Ladies or Gentlemen Buying For Xmas Should Remember Talbot's

At this season of the year, many gray hairs are produced by worry over what to buy for the loved ones. When a man gets out to buy his Sunday girl a gift his thoughts, as a rule, resemble cream in a churn, but without the resultant butter. He could buy the gentlemen friends, their presents easily.

Or, the other hand a young lady, or wife, desirous of getting gifts for her male friends knows that a lace collar or silver buckled belt won't do.

Any lady in doubt what to get for her gentleman friend, should remember that Talbot's cigar store, 382 George street, has just what the doctor or common sense would prescribe. Talbot has elegant tobacco pouches, pipes from a 25-cent brier to a $10 meerschaum, and cigars in boxes, fancy boxes at that, ranging in contents from 10 cigars to 100. You can depend ladies upon pleasing him, if your call at Talbot's. If in doubt, Mr. Talbot will courteously show you what you want, but don't quite know you want. See Mr. Talbot's advertisement in Saturday and following issues of The Times.

The Land of the Aztecs.

Who has not read of the glories and wonders of old Mexico! The days when Montezuma held gorgeous court in the ancient capital of Gran Tenochtitlan are departed, but they have left Mexico one of the most interesting countries in the world. Picturesque ruins and relics, in a setting of flowers and sunshine everywhere delight the tourists visitor, each day's travel reveals fresh beauties. And out on the ruins a new Mexico is arising, a land of possibilities, abounding in resources of all kinds. Our business men have here a splendid field for investment, and should see and judge this land for themselves. Leisurely investigation under sunny skies will be pleasant work, while the ladies will be delighted with their bargains in native work and precious stones.

An attractive itinerary, covering the whole of Mexico and the best of the Southern States and including a visit to Cuba and New Orleans for "Mardi Gras," has been arranged for the Cuthbert Honeymoon tour, leaving Toronto early in February next. GAS NEWS

Information Taken From Dominion Blue Book Just Issued.

Under statement of gas expenditures and receipts, Thos. Rork is credited with a salary of $150 with collections amounting to $289.75.

Under the heading return of illuminating power and purity of gas during year ending June 30th, '05, the candle power in Peterboro gas runs from a maximum candle power of 20.40 to a minimum of 11.90. Out of 24 tests made, three were found to be below the standard.

Under statement of gas meters tested, the local company are credited with having had 245 meters tested. Out of these 62 were correct, 57 were fast and 124 slow; this looks as though the gas company were honest with customers.

Under the heading electric light companies, registered under electric light inspection act during the past times' year, the Peterboro Light & Power Company are credited with having 159 arc lamps, and 9,000 incandescent; the Ottawa L. & P. Co., are credited with 2,980 incandescent lamps. The Lindsay Light, Heat and Power Co., for comparison, are credited with 75 arc and 7,000 incandescent lamps.

It is only fair to state, in reference to the gas tests made, that the low candle power tests, are included in months before the present gas maker, Mr. John Hogan took charge of the works. Since that time the gas stands a good comparison with that of any city in Canada.

"What a difference in the suffering at time of childbirth when Dr. R. V. Pierce's medicines are used."

Says Miss Ella Jacobs, of Bangor (Allegan Co., Mich.), "I had used Dr. Pierce's medicines three years ago when I was confined, and had no suffering after baby was born. I thought I would use them my first time and I was not disappointed. Baby was a boy, weighing [illegible] pounds, and for some weeks after his birth I suffered severe pain. Last fall, following the advice of a friend, my husband bought me Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which I took during the winter, and in March I gave birth to a baby boy, weighing [illegible] lbs. I was only in labor two hours and was on my feet without help until thirty minutes before baby was born. My mother did and weighed 18 lbs. It was Dr. Pierce's medicine that saved me from suffering. I advise all women to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, also his 'Pleasant Pellets,' if necessary."

"The advice of a neighbor."

"Following the advice of a neighbor." What a weight of confirmatory evidence there is in those six words. The neighbor has tried it, proved its superior merit and recommended it. Mrs. Jacobs has also tried it and proved its wonderful properties and now she recommends it. Beside such testimony as this its maker's words are unimportant. Mrs. Jacobs' experience is a fact. Her neighbor's experience is a fact. The written experiences of 500,000 other women are facts. There is no theory about it. There can be no question about it. In every neighborhood in this broad land there are women who have been cured by the "Favorite Prescription." It has cured more cases of female complaint than all other medicines for women combined. It is the only medicine of its kind invented by a skilled specialist in medicine—a regularly graduated physician of more than forty years' actual experience.

American Boat Must Be Handed Back

Privy Council Agrees With Judge Hodgins That Tug Was In U. S. Waters--A Mild Rebuke to the Supreme Court.

London, Dec. 22.—Judgment was given by the Privy Council today reversing the decision of the Supreme Court of Canada, and restoring the judgment of Judge Hodgins of Toronto in the case of the seizure of the [illegible] evidence clearly showing the vessel was fishing within American waters at the time of the seizure by the cruiser Petrel, and say the Supreme Court appear merely to have assumed that the trial judge made a grave mistake as to the Petrel's course. It would have been easy to apply to that judge to know whether he had in fact made a mistake rather than to leave it to hazardous conjecture that he was misled by the printers' or shorthand writers' blunder.

The law lords conclude that "in the uncertain and unsatisfactory state of the evidence it is impossible not to observe that if upon the seizure [illegible] distance to place, no doubt could have remained as to whether the place of seizure was within Canadian waters. It may be that excuses given for not doing so are valid ones, but the excuse for not having the evidence will not supply the want of the evidence."

* * * *

The "Kitty D." was seized from the seizure of the Dunkirk, New York, fishing tug of that name for poaching on the Canadian side of Lake Erie in July, 1903. The trial judge, Mr. Justice Hodgins, ordered the restitution of the vessel to her owners on the ground that she was not fishing in Canadian waters on the day in question. The case was then appealed to the Supreme Court, Ottawa, where Judge Hodgins' judgment was reversed. Mr. W. M. German, M.P., on behalf of the "Kitty D" thereupon appealed to the Judicial Committee. The issue is entirely upon this point whether the tug was in Canadian waters when the Canadian cruiser Petrel took her in charge.

NOMINATION DAY

All Good Citizens Should Show Active Interest in To-day's Work

There is a too prevalent happy-go-lucky lack of interest taken in municipal government. To-day there will be nominated citizens some capable, others less qualified, to control the destinies of our young and growing city during the next twelve months.

It is distressing to think that citizens will blandly hold aloft from active participation in the nomination and election of those who will either advance or retard Peterboro's growth and prosperity. Citizens are too apt to sit calmly by their firesides and grumble at mistakes made by our city fathers. They will place men in charge of the revenues of a city spending hundreds of thousands of dollars, whom they would not choose for controlling a business involving, say, $5,000 a year.

As our aldermen are not paid for services involving many weary hours' work every week, and who are not usually judged by the good deeds they do during the year, but by one or two unintentional acts not meeting everybody's approval, it is difficult as a rule, to get the best men to run for aldermen.

It is in the interests of every ratepayers in this city, to do all in their power to get honest, intelligent men to stand for civic control, and when such are nominated, to loyally support them. It is in the public weal that all men qualified to act, who can spare the time, to give at least one year's time towards the good and prosperity of Peterboro. Our council does are men who, in standing for aldermen, are actuated by no hope of financial or other reward, but who simply devote much time and trouble in a comparatively thankless job.

The least the citizens of Peterboro can do is to carefully choose those best qualified to manage Peterboro's future affairs, and to see that such are elected. When such men are elected the public should not go out of their way to look for every petty point of vantage in which to roast those serving for nothing.

Our council of the past year, no doubt made some mistakes; what body of men is free from such charges? This year, let us select as good men as will permit their names to be used for aldermanic honors and loyally support them.

There are many of the old councillors about to retire from their arduous labors. Among the names mentioned as possible candidates are: Messrs. Thos. Kelly, W. H. Bradburn, Arthur J. McClellan, H. C. Winch, A. W. Greenman, G. Walter Green, James Finnis, Alfred Parker, R. F. McWilliams, J. H. Smith, C. H. Clement and others.

From ten to eleven o'clock in the forenoon nominations for mayor, water commissioners and the board of education will be received in the city council chamber.

From 12 to 1 o'clock will be the time for receiving proposals for aldermen.

City Clerk Armstrong is returning officer.

Election day this year will be on New Year's Day. Besides choosing members of the council, the board of education and the water commissioners, the ratepayers will vote on two important matters,—to borrow $25,000 by means of debentures to improve the fire protection of the city, erect a new hall, etc., and also the advisability of reducing the number of liquor licenses in the city.

It is generally conceded that Mayor Best will be accorded a second term in the civic chair without opposition.

SATISFACTORY HARNESS

Doris & Godfrey Make and Guarantee All Their Goods.

In these days of factory made harness, when a farmer or horse owner of any kind buys shoddy horse wear, it is a relief to know, where to get harness of all kinds that is guaranteed to wear and look well.

Messrs. Doris & Godfrey, corner of Hunter and Water streets, are two young men whose future lies in the results of their present work. These two young men, are both skilled harness makers, having learned every detail of their trade.

When one buys goods from them, he knows that they are "home made" and will wear.

Woman Jumps From a Window.

Toronto, Dec. 20.—A maiden lady boarding at a house in Jarvis street near Wilton avenue, threw herself from a second storey window at that address yesterday afternoon, and is at present in a very dangerous condition at the General Hospital.

The reason assigned by the neighbors was that someone had a pet poodle dog to which she was very much attached, and that grief over its loss led her to her rash deed.

THE PASTOR REMEMBERED

Rev. A. H. Brace Presented With Letter and Sum of Money.

A pleasing recognition of a pastor's work was in evidence when Rev. A. H. Brace, of the Park street Baptist church was presented with a handsome sum of money accompanied with a still more encouraging address by his parishioners. The presentation was made immediately after the service was over. The address was read by Deacon Gillespie and the presentation was made by Deacon Barrie. Mr. Brace taken completely by surprise, but made a suitable reply on behalf of himself and Mrs. Brace.

The address was as follows;

Peterboro, Dec. 20, 1905.

Dear Pastor, At this time of the year when the "joy bells are ringing in our hearts," and when so many deem it a privilege to bestow gifts upon those they love we desire to express our appreciation of your faithful service and untiring zeal in the Master's cause.

We rejoice with you in the fact that many who a year ago were in the gall of bitterness and bond of iniquity, through your faithful proclamation of the gospel are tonight rejoicing in a full and free salvation, and we are confidently looking forward to the year upon which we soon shall enter, D.V., praying that our heavenly Father may still more abundantly bless both pastor and people, and that we may become more like Him, who, when He was revilved revilved not again, and through our united efforts many who are still in the broad road that leads down to death may hear the voice of Jesus through your life, saying unto them, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest," and be safely gathered within the fold, and not only have their names on the pages of our church register, but "within the lamb's book of life." We therefore ask you to accept this gift, not so much for its intrinsic value, but as an expression of our gratitude to God for blessings received individually and as a church and now wishing yourself and Mrs. Brace, and every member of the family a very merry Christmas and happy New Year, we pray that you may be long spared to tell out the old, old story of Jesus and His love.

We wish to remain members of your flock in the Park street Baptist church.

There is a prospect that the Peterboro club may enter a team in the city league if one is formed. They have abundance of material, in addition to those who do not catch the senior team, there will be the majority of last year's juniors.

* * * *

Coulter is one of the most promising of the new men turning out with the Peterboro team, and should easily a place on the line-up.

* * * *

Only two teams were represented at the annual meeting of the City Hockey League Messrs. Wilson and Waterlator of the Suicide Club and Messrs. H Walkey and G. Maine of the Bankers were present, but none of last year's teams had representatives at the meeting. Pres. C. G. Graham and Secretary Ira Moore, of the Guild League were present.

After a little discussion it was on motion decided to adjourn until next Tuesday night, when it is hoped that some other teams may enter.

FITZ FAINTS.

O'Brien Wins the Championship in 13th Round.

The great fight of Wednesday night, a report of which was impossible to be obtained, in time for yesterday's issue, between the ex-World's Champion Robt. Fitzsimmons and Jack O'Brien, fight in San Francisco, resulted in the former being vanquished.

It was an open secret that Fitzsimmons' condition was not all that could be desired, so bets were, from the start in favor of the Philadelphia boy.

Both fighters had trained carefully and both were in fine condition. The fight was virtually for the heavyweight championship of the world, now that Jeffries has retired. Fitz weighed one hundred and fifty-eight, and O'Brien one hundred and sixty-five pounds.

Fitz said just before the fight—"I am better than when I fought Jeffries, and I feel I will win sure."

O'Brien expressed himself with his usual confidence, and declared he would stop Fitz long before the twentieth round. He said; "I can get away and chop him to death."

O'Brien's seconds were "Spider" Kelly, Chappie DeWolf, Willie Fitzgerald and Swanson Swede. Fitz was looked after by "Bull" Croll, Harry Olmster and Billy Battes.

After some minor preliminary bouts were pulled off, the big men appeared in the ring at 9.15. Fitz receiving a great ovation. O'Brien wore a bath robe, but old Fitz wore nothing but his ring costume, probably to show that he was in good shape. His flesh looked good, but he walked heavily like an old man.

Another despatch says: Robert Fitzsimmons collapsed at the close of the thirteenth round of his fight with Jack O'Brien of Philadelphia tonight. He had fought hard, but nature could no longer stand the strain, and after the gong had been sounded for the close of the thirteenth round he walked to his corner and sat in his chair. Then his head fell over on his breast, his whole body collapsed and he was unable to rise. Referee Graney ran in, caught him and awarded the fight to O'Brien. While pounded in the face and several times in jeopardy Fitz always managed to come to and resume the fight. Just at the close of the thirteenth round he landed on O'Brien's stomach, but the Philadelphian came back with a similar blow and followed with a left to the jaw. The gong rang for the close of the round, and Fitzsimmons walked to his corner. As he sat down he said to Graney, "Eddie, he hit me in the stomach, and it is all over." Then his head sank, and Bob Fitzsimmons was defeated.

Referee Graney said—"Fitzsimmons showed his class. O'Brien is a wonderful boxer, and the old man stood up and took his punishment. Occasionally he showed his old time form but his strength could not last."

Before Fitz left the ring he made a little speech in which he said he had done his best. He said he had fought his last fight.

A GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY

Rare Chance For Local Investors to Make Money

Now that money is plentiful and rates of interest consequently low, those seeking investment for private or trust funds are eagerly looking for a good opening to place their capital.

In another part of this issue may be seen the advertisement of the Union Oil and Sulphur Co., with head offices at Sioux Falls, Dak.

As is known to every intelligent reader, the greatest opportunities for wealth, and the largest fortunes possessed by the wealth of any generation in the world's history, owe their origen and continuance to oil.

The richest oil fields in the world are now being opened up in Louisiana. Calcasieu Parish, La., and more especially the lands north-west of Lake Charles, in that State; this district is considered by oil experts, chemists and geologists to be the seat or primary deposit of the greatest oil bearing lands in the world. Derricks are springing up that neighborhood like mushrooms in a well heaving bed. Pennsylvanian oil, brought from a distance of 200 feet below the surface, sells to-day about 80 cents per barrel;

The Southern Oil sells at $1.65.

The Union Oil & Sulphur Co., have acquired title to property five miles from the Great Sulphur Mine, and are connected with the Kansas City Southern Railway. The Houston River gives them cheap freight by boat to the Gulf of Mexico.

On the property a test well has been sunk which shows five distinct veins of oil.

Messrs. Thos. Patterson & Co., the well-known local Fiscal Agents, have a block of stock in this company for sale; for a limited time only this stock will be sold at 40 cents.

Now is the time to secure this stock which will soon be raised to par value, $1 per share.

An Important Sale.

On January 18th, Mr. J. H. Gardiner, Peterboro's popular and successful auctioneer, will conduct one of the most important sales of high grade stock that have been held for years. Mr. Gardiner has received instructions from Councillor Henry Staples, of Cavan, to sell by public auction, at the vendor's well-known farm in Cavan, his noted lot of thoroughbred and registered Clydesdale Short horns and other stock. As Mr. Staples is retiring from farming, this is a grand opportunity for all desiring to get high grade stock at a bargain.

"MY VALET"

A Modern Hospital For Clothes Wanting Attention.

There is no need these days for Peterboro batchelors to turn on the drafts on the coal stove and heat up a rusty iron to press out their Xmas attire. Married men need not worry their wives, who these days are elbow deep in mince meat and plum cake, by asking them to sew on buttons or repair clothes. "My Valet," Peterboro's most modern institution for the care of sick clothing, will attend to all these duties. "My Valet," upstairs just next to Long's lower store, has a staff of men fully qualified to press or mend your clothing. "My Valet," is practically what its title indicates. Experts in making old clothes, either ladies or gents' look like new. For convenience of ladies' consignors wanting to get their clothing pressed or made over, a lady assistant is continually on hand, and one who knows what is wanted. See their advt. in to-morrow's issue.

TEMPERANCE FAIR PLAY

Rev. Jas. Simpson Defends a Man Unjustly Fined $100.

A Halifax N.S., despatch says;

Halifax, N.S., Dec. 21.—Matters are quiet here by the sounding one at present. There has, however, been a rift in the clouds over on Prince Edward Island, where prohibition is supposed to be in force. The hollow mockery of the whole thing has been exposed by Rev. James Simpson, an Anglican clergyman, and a life-long temperance worker. As already pointed out in this correspondence, an amendment was made to the Act making treating liable to a fine of $100. During the visit of Prince Louis to Charlottetown, a poor man—a saloon keeper—was fined $100 for treating a friend, and while his trial was in progress, in the same building, the Prince was being treated by the Town Council. Rev Mr. Simpson could not stand such hypocrisy and class legislation, and he set the heather on fire by setting forth his views in letters to the newspapers and in sermons from his pulpit. The friends of the Act went for Mr. Simpson hard, and even the Attorney-General rushed into print to defend this legislation. But the reverend gentleman has held his ground and the authorities have not as yet collected that $100 fine.

Do You Want an Investment That Will Pay You Fifty Per Cent Per Annum?

Fr. Raschaupt, the great Geologist, Mining Engineer and Chemist, has made an exhaustive examination of the properties of near the HOUSTON RIVER, LOUISIANA, in CALCASIEU PARISH, and over his own signature has reported that the lands of The Union Oil and Sulphur Co. have under them large quantities of oil. As real valuable deposits are always overlain, he says, by a considerable thickness of sediments, and such is the case here, which show no outcropping and hence no seeping, it is clear that such primary oil deposits, particularly in the best included in our tracts, are by far more valuable than the secondary ones, because they are by far less subjected to variations.

The Union Oil and Sulphur Company

Professor Raschaupt gives a long scientific and technical description of the property and from its geological formation and position proves the existence of oil in large quantities. He says: "I therefore have the greatest confidence that your land tracts lying in the before mentioned 'oil belt' will cover one of the most productive and extended oil basins."

The officers of the company are the ones who put in the money to make all the tests and to buy the ground; and now that we know we have oil we ask you to put your money in our hands and we will

GUARANTEE TO YOU HONEST TREATMENT, HONEST REPORTS AND HONEST RETURNS

The books of the company are open for inspection and the officers of the company refer you to any bank of wholesale house, or to Dunn or Bradstreet Agencies.

Investigate the officers and directors; ascertain if they have the ability to correctly judge the probabilities of their own enterprise. He the MEN BEHIND THAT COUNT.

We are within 400 yards of the tracks of the Kansas City and Southern Railway. We own all the land around our well and have leased large tracts besides. The Houston River runs alongside our property, so that our shipping facilities are the very best.

THE UNION OIL AND SULPHUR CO. was organized under the laws of South Dakota, with a capital stock of $750,000.00, the shares being $1.00 each.

After the organization of the company we began to search farther for evidence of sulphur and we have a piece of land today that will from all evidence produce as much sulphur as the famous mine near our land, this is producing today about thirty-five (35) cars a day with a profit of $1,000 a car and we want to say to you that this famous mine is the wonder of the world and is paying the enormous monthly dividends of 150 per cent., and they are now increasing their capacity to try and meet the demands, and we feel confident (that as soon as we can develop our sulphur property) we will be able to do the same; we know we had the oil and we also knew that it would take less to develop it and that oil would pay for the sulphur plant as soon as we were able to begin the sale of the oil and this we think, we will be able to do within a short time, and we want to say to you right here, that as soon as we begin the sale of oil there is no more stock for sale, for this company will then be self-sustaining.

We began the drilling on our property on July 4th, 1904, we have a well that is 2,344 feet and 8 inches deep, and has five distinct showings of oil; this well has a pressure of 190 pounds, which ought to give us a flow of about 2,000 barels a day as soon as we get the strainer on and the tanks built; this takes time and money and that is why we are selling this allotment of stock. Everything points to a high grade of oil and if this is what they all think it is, we can say to you that you will make the best investment of your life when you buy some of our stock.

A PLAIN TALK WITH INVESTORS

What, think you, is the earning power of money? Can it with safety earn more than five per cent? Let raw facts answer. The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company pays 40 per cent.; the Union Trust Company, 47 per cent.; the Central Trust Company, 60 per cent.; Fifth Avenue Bank, 100 per cent., and the Chemical National Bank 150 per cent.

Are these institutions "get-rich-quick" concerns? Are their dividends REAL or FICTITIOUS?

PERSONAL TO THE READER

Is our proposition worthy of your consideration? In buying the stock of this company are you buying only paper? Certainly not! This company is formed on a business basis; is conducted for profit to the stockholders, and you share just in proportion to the amount you hold.

STOCK

The cost of stock in The Union Oil and Sulphur Co., is now forty cents per share, but will soon jump to par. Please note in this connection that when your stock reaches par you have made more on your investment than money loaned at 5 per cent. for forty years. You should also remember that the quarterly dividends to be paid after the well is in successful operation will also be estimated on the par value of the stock, and not on the price paid for at time of purchase.

PAR VALUE

We feel confident that within one year our stock will be at or above par, for we could today contract the entire anticipated output of our wells at such alarming figures that would guarantee an annual dividend of 30 per cent. on a basis of five wells to the acre.

Dual Telephones Not Desired in Peterboro

How the City was Induced to Grant a Franchise to a Second Company--A Few Facts Which Lead Us to Question the Desirability of a Dual System.

It is now considerably over a year and a half since the Council of the Town of Peterboro granted a franchise to the Canadian Machine Telephone Company, with the object of securing to the citizens of Peterboro certain substantial advantages.

The Times, having in remembrance the result of a dual system in Peterboro only a few years ago, expressed its disapproval of this action of the Council. We yield to none in our respect for the gentlemen financially interested in the Canadian Machine Telephone Company, whose public spirit we would not for a moment disparage. But the introduction of a dual telephone system is not a matter of sentiment, but a question of practical utility.

We think it is now fairly in order for the people of Peterboro to consider whether the results have justified the granting of this franchise, and whether the representations and promises upon which it was granted have been fairly fulfilled.

The franchise was granted to the Canadian Machine Telephone Company on the 21st of May, 1904. The first clause of the agreement stipulated that within twelve months the company should have a complete and efficient telephone system in operation in the Town of Peterboro. The date for the completion of the system was afterwards extended, at the request of the company, for six months. It might be contended that the existing installation of the company technically complies with the requirements of the agreement, but it is by no means what the people were led to expect.

It was represented that the company had already secured contracts with 400 subscribers to its local exchange, and absolute assurance was given that this number of subscribers would be receiving service before the 1st of January, 1906.

In obtaining the signatures of subscribers, the same assurance was given that an exchange at least as large as that of the Bell Telephone Company would be completed and in operation before the end of the then current year. There is no question whatever that had not this assurance been given and relied upon by the public, the company never would have obtained the number of signatures they did.

The public has a right to ask, has this confidence been justified by results?

The 1st of January, 1905, showed that, while considerable work had been done on the outside construction, the central office equipment had not begun to assume practical shape. Later came the six months' extension, which in turn has also expired. Now January, 1906 has almost arrived and the company has less than 50 telephones in service, the majority of these being either shareholders or officers of the company. Practically, therefore, the general public has not yet been served at all. The promises that were made, the glowing pictures of a revolution in the service, the expectations raised and upon which support was pledged, have been realized not at all.

The public having been well served in the meantime by the Bell Company there has been no complaint, but there are people who have seriously considered how far they are bound by the document they signed at the solicitation of the Machine Company. It is generally realized that few of them know exactly what they did sign or how far they may be bound by whatever contract the document contains. One thing is certain, few of them under existing circumstances would again commit themselves in the same way.

What is the practical position in Peterboro today?

We doubt if there is one telephone subscriber in Peterboro, who actually requires a telephone, who would disconnect himself from the Bell Telephone Company's service with the hope or expectation of being served by the Canadian Machine Telephone Company.

We doubt if there is a single subscriber, who actually requires a telephone, who now thinks that he could dispense with the Bell Company's service, even if the Machine Telephone Company had in complete operation an exchange such as was promised.

We do not think there is a single subscriber in Peterboro who, from experience of the experimental service which the Machine Company has given up to the present time, now expects that service to be an improvement upon the service given by the Bell Telephone Company.

We do not think there are any prospective users of the telephone service in Peterboro who would have any hesitancy in deciding that the connection which would have most practical value to them would be that of the Bell Telephone Company.

We doubt if there is now a single business man in Peterboro who expects any reduction in the cost of his telephone or any improvement in the service through the introduction of competition.

But we do know that there are many who feel that if the Canadian Machine Company's system is brought into practical operation it may compel them to pay for two services instead of one, without a single compensating advantage.

To complete a practical review of the situation, we must point out what the result has been upon the business and methods of the Bell Telephone Company in Peterborough.

We were confidently assured that the first result would be an almost immediate reduction in Bell rates. We believe we are safe in saying that without the expectation of such a reduction, not one in ten who signed the Canadian Machine Company's list would have done so. This first and most important expectation has not been realized; there have been some changes in the way of party line rates, but few of these have been taken. The great majority of telephone users are paying the same rates they were before competition was mooted.

Again it was expected that the steady increase which had been experienced in the Bell Company's exchange would immediately cease. Indeed, one of the promoters was so enthusiastic as to promise that there would be no dual system in Peterboro, because the Bell Company would be wiped out of existence. The actual result is that the increase in Bell Company subscribers in Peterboro during the years 1904 and 1905 has been greater than ever before in the history of the company in this place, keeping fully up to the steady increase in the percentage of growth elsewhere.

It is a fact, astonishing no doubt to many, but a fact which the public now recognize, that prospective competition in Peterboro has not affected the Bell Company here one iota, either in rates, in the increase of its business, or in the necessity of its connection to every business man.

The attempt at securing advantages to the public through the introduction of a competing telephone service has, therefore, been a failure on every count, and the position of The Times on this issue is fully justified by results. The effect of a mistaken policy, however, still remains in the possibility of a dual service, which will be a nuisance and a burden of expense.

All Thin, Pale Women

Can Learn the Cause of Their Nervous, Used-up Condition

With women, ill-health is usually traceable to nerve exhaustion. Feeling run-down and tired most of the time is nature's warning that more nerve-force is required.

You must build up, nourish the body, vitalize the nerves, get more fresh and blood.

It's the abundant nutriment and building material in Ferrozone that enables it to cure so many sick women. It increases the appetite, adds weight and strength, restores lost color and develops a surplus of energy and nerve force that defies sickness of any kind. There is living proof in Mrs. Daniel Ferguson, Jr., of Prescott, Ont. Read her statement:

"A year ago my health failed. I grew thin and exceedingly pale. At night it was difficult to obtain restful sleep. My appetite was variable and indigestion bothered me considerably. I became morose and suffered from heart palpitation. You could scarcely believe the benefit I derived in one week from Ferrozone. Color came back to my cheeks. My vitality and appetite increased, renewed nerve force and better spirits came also. Ferrozone did a world of good and made me well.

Remember this: No alcoholic stimulant can nourish and build up like Ferrozone. Fifty cents per box or six boxes for $2.50. At all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

WORKMEN'S PENSIONS IN FRANCE.

Separation of the church and state being, legally speaking, an accomplished fact in France, the legislative mind has turned very seriously to the difficult question of "universal" old-age pensions for the working classes. Several years ago a measure of this kind was rather vaguely promised by the groups of the extreme left. The moderates treated it as political claptrap, and the conservatives said it meant national bankruptcy and confiscation. Where, asked the latter, would the money be found for such a pension system? Could French industry assume so crushing a burden?

Opinion has greatly changed since then. A sweeping bill providing for pensions for all workmen and employes of French nationality who may reach the age of 60 is now under discussion in the chamber of deputies, and, strangely enough, the most conservative groups are as anxious to carry it as are the socialists. In principle the measure has been unanimously approved, and the current debates relate to financial features as well as to the numbers and categories to be included or excluded. Should servants be included? Should agricultural tenants receive the benefits of the system? Should pensions be paid the families of workmen who die before 60 but after contributing materially to the fund?

These and similar questions have been discussed, and a variety of "counter projects" even more liberal than the government bill has been considered and voted upon. The proposal in its present form is to assure an annual pension of 300 francs (60) to workmen in cities and 240 francs to those in the country. The employers, the workmen and the state are severally to pay a certain amount a year for each pensioner or probable pensioner on the roll.

The bill is regarded as a corollary of the new law which recognizes the right of every destitute citizen to state relief andassistance. It is better, it is urged, to pay pensions to self-respecting men than to multiply poorhouses and paupers. The state cannot permit actual starvation, and, since the dependent must be supported in some way, it is a fallacy to hold that the old-age pension scheme involves sacrifices that would not otherwise be incurred. Conservative papers like The Figaro say that the system will almost solve the social problem in France, and that, in addition, it will demonstrate to the masses that the socialists have no monopoly of good will and constructive social reform.

The adoption of this colossal scheme in France will probably tend to revive the old-age pension proposals which Chamberlain and other leading men vigorously advocated in England not many years ago.

Victoria, B. C., December 20.—Miss Corrine Walsh, aged eighteen, received a serious and probably fatal injury by fire while impersonating Santa Claus at a burlesque school closing entertainment. Cotton used to give a realistic snow effect to the costume, ignited from the Christmas tree candles. The fire was smothered with a rug.

WARSHIPS LAND MORE TROOPS.

Streets of Shanghai Filled with Rowdies and Further Trouble is Feared.

Shanghai, Dec. 20.—Armed guards and patrols are maintained here everywhere to cope with a possible renewal of the disturbances. The streets are filled with rowdies. The shops are open, but looting is greatly feared. The United States cruiser Baltimore will land a force to-day, and the British cruiser Diadem is sending 500 men ashore. Other warships are expected, and it is reported that German troops are coming here from Kiao Chau.

The Chinese newspapers say the rowdies proposed to take advantage of the mixed court dispute to attack and loot the foreign settlement.

Twenty Chinese were killed in yesterday's disorders and several whites injured. The Japanese were not molested, and in some cases fraternized with the mob.

Peter E. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and exposure in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, were an electric belt for three months, went to Mt. Clemens for seven treatments at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kergan, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through my nerves. I was cured mentally, physically and sexually. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

Author of "A Beautiful White Devil," "A Bid For Fortune," "The Marriage of Esther," "Dr. Nikola," Etc., Etc.

ceeds in doing me an injury, I invariably repay him in his own coin. Presume, for instance, that a man were to rob you of what you loved best, and considered most worth having, in the world—the affection of your wife, shall we say?—in that case, if you were a man of spirit you would feel justified in meting out to him the punishment he deserved, either in the shape of a duel, or severe personal chastisement. If he shot at you in any country but England, you would shoot at him. Eye for eye, and tooth for tooth, was the old Hebrew law, and whatever may be said against it, fundamentally it was a just one."

I thought of Bartrand, and wished I could apply the principle to him.

"I fear, however," continued Nikola, after a moment's pause, "that in personal matters the men of the present day are not so brave as they once were. They shelter themselves too much behind the law of the land. A man slanders you; instead of thrashing him you bring an action against him for libel, and claim damages in money. A man runs away with your wife; you proclaim your shame in open court, and take gold from your enemy for the affront he has put upon your honor. If a man thrashes you in a public place, you don't strike him back; on the contrary, you consult your solicitor, and take your case before a magistrate, who binds him over to keep the peace. If, after all is said and done, you look closely into the matter, what is crime? A very pliable term, I fancy. For instance, a duke may commit an offence, and escape scot free, when, for the same thing, only under a different name, a costermonger would be sent to gaol for five years. And vice versa. A subaltern in a crack regiment may run up tailors' bills—or any others, for that matter—for several thousands of pounds and decamp without paying a halfpenny of the money, never having intended to do so from the very beginning, while if a chimney sweep were to purloin a bunch of radishes from a tray outside a greengrocer's window, he would probably be sent to gaol for three months. And yet both are stealing, though I must confess society regards them with very different eyes. Let clergymen and other righteous men say what they will, the world in its heart rather admires the man who has the pluck to swindle, but he must do so on a big scale, and he must do so successfully, or he must pay the penalty of failure. Your own case, with which, as I said earlier, I am quite familiar, is one in point. Everyone who has heard of it, and who knows anything of the man, feels certain that Bartrand stole from you the information which has made him a millionaire he is. But does it make any difference in the world's treatment of him? None whatever. And why? Because he swindled successfully. In the same way they regard you as a very poor sort of fellow for submitting to his injustice."

"Curse him!"

"Exactly. But, you see, the fact remains. Bartrand has a house in Park Lane and a castle in Shropshire. The Duke of Glendower dined with him the night before last, and one of the members of the Cabinet will do so on Saturday next. Yesterday he purchased a racing stable and a stud, for which he paid twenty thousand pounds cash; while I am told that next year he intends building a yacht that shall be the finest craft of her class in British waters. It is settled that he is to be presented at the next levee, and already he is in the first swim of the fashionable world. If he can only win the Derby this year, there is nothing he might not aspire to. In ten years if his money lasts and he is still alive, he will be a peer of the realm—and founding a new family."

"He must not live as long. Oh, if I could only meet him face to face and repay him for his treachery!"

"And why not? What is there to prevent you? You can walk to his house any morning and ask to see him. If you give the butler a fictitious name and a tip he will admit you. Then, when you get into the library, you can state your grievance and, having done so, shoot him dead."

I uttered a little involuntary cry of anger. Deeply as I hated the man, it was not possible for me seriously to contemplate murdering him in cold blood. Besides—no, no; such a scheme could not be thought of for a moment.

"You don't like the idea?" said Nikola, with that easy nonchalance which characterised him. "Well, I don't wonder at it; it's a bizarre, to say the least of it. You would probably be caught and hanged, and hanging is an inartistic termination to the career of even an unsuccessful man. Besides, in that case, you would have lost your money and your life; he only his life, so that the balance would still be in his favor. No; what you want is something a little more subtle, a little more artistic. You want a scheme that will enable you to put him out of the way, and, at the same time, one that will place you in possession of the money that is really yours. Therefore it must be done without any eclandre. Now I don't doubt you would be surprised if I were to tell you that in the event of his death you would find yourself his sole heir."

"His sole heir?" I cried. "You must be mad to say such a thing."

"With due respect, no more mad than you are," said this extraordinary man. I have seen the will for myself—never mind how I managed it—and I know that what I say is correct. After all, it is very feasible. The man, for the reason that he has wronged you, hates you like poison, and while he lives you may be sure you will never see a penny of his fortune. But he is also superstitious, and believing, as he does, that he stands a chance of eternal punishment for swindling you as he did, he is going to endeavor to obtain a mitigation of his sentence by leaving you at his death what he has not been able to spend during his lifetime. If you do that, so much the worse for him; but I imagine he is willing to risk that."

I rose from my chair, this time thoroughly angered.

"Dr. Nikola," I said, "this is a subject upon which I feel very deeply. I have no desire to jest about it."

"And why? Because the poor devil desired to kill the man he hated, is it certain that he should wish to terminate the existence of his benefactor, for whom he has a great affection? Moreover, he is a really good cook, understands my likes and dislikes, never grumbles, and is quite conscious that if he left me he would never get another situation in the world. In the nineteenth century, when good servants are so difficult to procure, the man is worth a gold mine—a Wheel of Fortune, if you like."

"You would argue, then," I said, disregarding the latter part of his speech, "that if a man hates another he is justified in endeavoring to rid the world of him?"

"Necessarily it must depend entirely on the circumstances of the case," replied Nikola, leaning back in his chair and steadfastly regarding me. "When a man attempts to do, or sue-

Gold Mining Company

One of the most promising propositions ever placed before the Canadian investors.

The Company's Offer to Discriminating Investors.

The management is assured that $15,000 will be sufficient to complete the improvements necessary to place the mine on a substantial producing and dividend paying basis. Therefore the directorate has authorized the sale of 15,000 shares of the capital stock at par. The improvements under way include the construction of a mill and concentrating plant, boarding and bunk houses for the miners employed and the installation of machinery required for the treatment of the output of the mine. With dividends assured and a certainty of a sharp advance in the price of this security it is stated with emphasis that no more attractive opportunity for investments could be placed before the public. Custer, Idaho, November 15, 1905.

To the Stock Holders of The Oxarna Mining Co.:—

We have steadily continued the development of our properties since last advising you June 25th. At that time we had no plant erected or contracted for, but now I am pleased to report that we have secured a Ten Stamp Mill, together with Boarding House, Assay Office and all other necessary buildings, originally costing $15,000.00, hence you will know that we have been making great progress, and are rapidly approaching a productive stage, but as we have a final payment to make on this Mill, we will not withdraw our stock from the market until this money is raised. We are now making preparations so that by early spring we can start our Mill for a long and continuous run. You will be advised later on as to the date when we will start so that you can be present if possible.

In addition to this Mill, which is now erected, with all machinery in place and in perfect running order, two have secured the machinery for an other Ten Stamp Mill, consisting of Battery, Seventy-five Horse Power Engine, two Forty Horse Power Boilers, and all other necessary machinery which we expect to install in the Mill now already equipped, which will increase the capacity of our plant from 750 to 1500 tons a month, which means a great saving in the cost of reducing our ores, as it takes about the same labor to operate a Ten Stamp Mill as it does to operate a Twenty Stamp Mill, about the only additional expenses necessary to operate the larger Mill is a little additional fuel. In addition to above machinery we have also purchased an Ingersoll Air Compressor for use in the Mines, at a cost of $1200.00.

We are assured funds to complete our payment on the Ten Stamp Mill and for other purposes, and never having any brokers to place our stock, we have had no commissions to pay, hence we have financed the Company for a less sum than is usually required. We have no debts and will pay no salaries until after the Mill goes into commission.

I also beg to advise you that we expect to take over the control of the stock of the Corning Mining Company, at an early date, giving a part of our stock in payment therefore. This will give us an additional eighty acres of Mineral Land, twenty acres of which is the Black Mine. This Mine has produced $100,000.00 net, and has one mile of developments, costing over $70,000.00, and an additional sum of $10,187.00 has been expended in developments this and last summer. Our Mill is on this group and is adjoined by "The Lucky Boy Mine," which has produced $1,000,000, and by "The Badger Group," which has paid $500,000.00 on a capital of $1200.00.

The time is rapidly approaching when THE OXARNA COMPANY WILL BE ONE OF THE STEADY PRODUCERS, and I urge each of the stock holders to buy all the stock that he or she can pay for while it can be had at the exceedingly low price of 10 cents a share. The officers are increasing their holdings and we want to give all the stock holders an equal chance with us. I have just put $1,500.00 more cash into the Company's Treasury for stock at 10 cents a share, the same that you will pay if you take advantage of this opportunity NOW.

I trust that you will be pleased with this report and with the efforts that are being made by your officers for the interests of each stock holder.

REGINALD CORYELL, Manager Oxarna Gold Mining Company.

To the readers of "The Times":—

The above report has been sent out to all our stock holders, and the allotment of stock for sale at 10 cents a share is being rapidly taken, for the ore that we are now taking out averages over $67.00 a ton and, with our Twenty Stamp Mill in operation, our earnings will not be less than $30,000.00 net per month, which will enable us to pay at least 100 per cent. (ten times the present cost) in dividends within six months from the time we put the Mill in commission. For immediate acceptance only, I can offer this stock for 10 cents a share cash, or one-quarter of the amount with order and a like amount in 30, 60 and 90 days. Make all orders payable to the undersigned, or remit through the NATIONAL BANK OF DELPHOS.

GOOD XMAS WORK

The King's Daughters are Greatly Helping Peterboro's Poor.

At this generally joyous Christmas season, it is up to all of us to do what we can for our more unfortunate fellow citizens. In Peterboro hundreds of people, in many cases from sickness or other unavoidable causes, are debarred from celebrating the holiday season as they would like. To such people, "The King's Daughters" are a veritable God-send, as they bring comfort and consolation to many who would otherwise be neglected.

Yesterday officers of the guild began their good work of taking in donations for the poor in St. John's school room. It is to the credit of Peterboro's citizens that numerous subscriptions poured in yesterday. The King's Daughters from experience and organization are well able to know where such donations should be placed, and are deserving of support. Mr. Jas Bell will superintendent the distribution of the donations.

The officers of the Guild to whom much credit is due for their work in connection with the relief of Peterboro's poor are as follows:

Pres.—Miss A. Halliday.

The Land of the Aztecs.

Who has not read of the glories and wonders of old Mexico? The days when Montezuma held gorgeous court in the ancient capital of Gran Tenochtitlan are departed, but they have left Mexico one of the most interesting countries in the world. Pictures quc ruins and relics, in a setting of flowers and sunshine everywhere delight the fortunate visitor; each day's travel reveals fresh beauties. And out of the ruins a new Mexico is arising, a land of possibilities, abounding in resources of all kinds. In the peasants' hands the soil will yield five crops a year, metals and minerals in abundance. Our business men have here a splendid field for investment, and should see and judge the land for themselves. Leisurely investigation under sunny skies will be pleasant work, while the ladies will be delighted with their bargains in native work and precious stones.

An attractive 'Mineral,' covering the whole of Mexico and the best of the Southern States and including a visit to Cuba and New Orleans for "Mardi Gras," has been arranged for the Cuthbert House-party tour, leaving Toronto early in February next. The special private train will contain every possible comfort and luxury, and the cuisine equal to that of a first-class hotel. A pleasant, smooth running trip is assured, the management having had long experience in this branch of travel. Canadian enterprise, when it is the best, is worthy of your attention. Full particulars, with descriptive literature, upon application to E. M. Cuthbert, 25 Maitland street, Toronto, or C. B. Foster, District Passenger Agent, C.P. Ry., Toronto.

POLICE COURT NEWS

At yesterday morning's police court Jos. McMullen, who claims to have worked for the Kelly Lumber Co., of Bridgenorth, was charged with forging a cheque for $21.05. The cheque had the name of Thos. Doherty signed to it, and was a very bungling specimen of the forger's art. Doherty is foreman of the Kelly Lumber Co., hence the borrowed use of his name.

McMullen pleaded guilty to forging the cheque and claimed to have done it whilst under influence of liquor. A man named Lee cashed the cheque.

McMullen who claimed to be only 18 years of age, was asked where he had procured the liquor, alleged to be accountable for his felony. McMullen gave the names of two or three different hotels as being where he brought the grog. As McMullen is a well-convicted forger and also acknowledges to having been drunk it is improbable his statements as to individuals supplying him with liquor, will receive much weight.

McMullen was remanded for a week to enable the local police to investigate his former history.

A young man about town paid $2 for having enjoyed the hilarity of a big spree, and still another one was assessed $5 for the same pleasure (?) The extra $3 in his case being for disorderly as well as drunk.

Snowplowing Neglected.

Yesterday morning several residents of the north side either called in person or telephoned The Times about the miserable manner in which the party having the snow-plowing contract for that section of the city neglected his work. Our informants all stated that up to nine a.m. there was no evidence of a snow plough having passed along the sidewalks. The council should see that taxpayers are protected and have some means to the rear of the city. Two different gentlemen complained that they had, when coming to work, to walk through snow over their bootstops.

Deere Nominations.

The Times was given the information last night that Mr. M. Welsh, an enterprising and popular farmer in Deere, has acceded to the earnest solicitations of a large number of supporters to run for councillor this year, and will be duly nominated today. Mr. Welsh has been repeatedly urged to enter the municipal arena, and now that he has given his consent he has many friends who are expressing their confidence in his election.

"Following the advice of a neighbor." What a weight of confirmatory evidence there is in those six words. The neighbor had tried the "Favorite Prescription" and recommended it. Mrs. Jacobs has also tried it and proved its wonderful properties and now she recommends it. Beside such testimony as this his matter's words are unimportant. Mrs. Jacobs' experience is a fact. Her neighbor's experience is a fact. The written experiences of 500,000 other women are facts. There is no theory about it. There can be no question about it. In every neighborhood in this broad land there are women who have been cured by the "Favorite Prescription." It has cured more cases of female complaint than all other medicines for women combined. It is the only medicine of its kind invented by a skilled specialist in medicine—a regularly graduated physician of more than forty years' actual experience.

YESTERDAY'S SNOW

Street Railway Co. Experienced Difficulty in Keeping Schedule Time.

Yesterday morning, Peterboro's citizens awoke to the fact that about a foot of snow had fallen during the night, and that snow shovels were the order of the day. Those who have feared a green Christmas, with its concomitant ill-health and poor business, had cause for rejoicing.

The Radial Railway Co. experienced the greatest difficulty in keeping their tracks clear, and they deserve great credit for being able to run cars at all. The snow fell so fast and was so heavy that it was not the smallest matter in the world to fight through the drifts. The sweeper was out early and the company managed to get the early car through to the C.G.E., and also several to Jackson Park. After that traffic was practically tied up for a while, but the sweeper and graders soon had the lines clear and all cars running on time.

The C.P.R. trains made wonderfully good time considering the great obstruction.

New Signs on City Buildings.

Ald. Batten, under whose care, such civic improvements come, as chairman of the Property Committee, has had the signs on the city offices changed and re-lettered. The words "Peterboro Town Buildings' clerk's office," now reads "Peterboro Civic Buildings' Clerk's office." The letter is done in gold and gives the office a more citified appearance. The treasurer's office has also been changed from town treasurer to city treasurer. Here the lettering is white on a green back-ground.

PRIEST VISITED BY REPROACHFUL GHOST

Tells From the Altar Story of an Apparition in His Monastery.

SPOKE TO THE SPIRIT.

(Special Cable.)

Belfast, Dec. 23.

It is of rare occurrence that the theory of ghosts is sparely developed from the pulpit.

The Rev. Father Hubert, of the Passionist Church, Ardoyne, Belfast, in a course of sermons he has just been delivering upon spirit manifestations, has given remarkable accounts of ghosts that have appeared in the Ardoyne Monastery.

Three of the five Passionist fathers at Ardoyne, including Father Hubert, had, he declared, recently seen and recognized the apparition of a former member of the community who had died.

TWO GHOSTLY KNOCKS.

Father Hubert pointed out that he had recently been appointed to the position of rector of Ardoyne, and had come to take up his residence there.

One night, shortly after his arrival, just as he had retired to rest, there was a knock at his bedroom door. Then a similar knock was heard at the door of an adjacent room.

The priestly occupants of both rooms opened their doors. Before them was the figure of a Passionist Father restlessly pacing the corridor. For some time the ghost continued its perambulations. Then suddenly it melted into thin air.

On several other occasions the apparition appeared, and the manifestation was so convincing that the watchers were assured of the supernatural character of the visitation.

Full of curiosity, Father Hubert, in the presence of other Fathers, one night accosted the ghost.

APPARITION'S APPROACH

To their great astonishment, the apparition made answer — it was an answer of reproach.

Turning to Father Hubert, the ghostly visitant accused him (the preacher) of not fulfilling a promise made to the apparition in the flesh that Father Hubert would pray for him a certain number of times.

He (the preacher) said he had made that promise, but, unhappily, had overlooked it. This oversight had since been remedied, and since that time the apparition had not appeared.

Father Hubert told his amazed and interested hearers that he did not regard these visitations as alarming or sensational.

This was not the first, second or even third visitant from another world which had appeared at Ardoyne, and there was not a similar institution in the country which had not in its annals records of similar experiences.

He himself had seen and interviewed two other apparitions which were not those of clergymen, and he thought the reason there were not more of such manifestations was to be found in the fear and dread and nervousness they caused to the living.

Father Hubert has been called to Dublin to explain his story to his superiors.

PRINCE ESCAPES FROM DURANCE VILE

Heir to the Servian Throne Prisoner in Fortress for Insulting Tutor.

(Special Cable.)

Belgrade, Dec. 23.

The Crown Prince, who was ordered by the King to be confined in the fortress for ten days for grossly insulting his late tutor, Major Lavasseur, escaped from his guardians yesterday.

He was seen walking rapidly through the main street in the direction of the palace, followed by a breathless officer, whose clothing bore unmistakable evidence that he had acted a wall in pursuit of the more active Prince.

They entered the King's presence together, the Crown Prince protesting against his confinement. The King, who was considerably startled, ordered the Prince to be taken back to the fortress at once and place under a more vigilant guard.

The newspapers are demanding to know the details of the Crown Prince's offence meriting so severe a sentence. Some of them protest against the indignity put upon the State by the humiliation of its future ruler.

When the tutor went in full uniform to bid the Prince adieu before leaving for Paris, the Prince threw a waterbottle at his head and tore up some of the major's books. The Prince's dislike of the major is attributed to the fact that the tutor tried to keep his royal pupil closer to his studies than he liked.

MANY ASPIRANTS FOR PRESIDENT OF FRANCE

Senate and Chamber of Deputies of the Republic to Elect Loubet's Successor on January 16

By John N. Raphael.

(Special Cable.)

Paris, Dec. 23.

On January 16 next the National Assembly, composed of the members of the Senate and the members of the Chamber of Deputies, will meet at Versailles, under the chairmanship of M. Fallieres, the president of the Senate, and will elect a new President of the Republic for a term of seven years.

It is known that President Loubet will not be willing to take office for another term, and it is thought unlikely that he will yield to friendly pressure. His seven years of office, glorious and rich in results though they have been, have aged M. Loubet considerably, and he has told several of his intimates lately that he considers that he has earned a rest. It should not be forgotten, too, that M. Loubet will be 67 years old on the last day of this year—he was born on December 31, 1838—and that seven more years of office would take him well over the border-line of three-score years and ten.

The question of his successor is an easy one to answer—nine out of ten Frenchmen have a name ready for you now, but it is an extremely puzzling one to answer correctly. The one qualification necessary for the highest office in France is that he must be a Frenchman. He need be neither Deputy nor Senator, and although he has always been a man of known political opinions, he need not necessarily be a politician at all. M. Loubet, was president of the Senate, when in 1892, the National Assembly elected him to be President of the Republic; but although he had filled high office and had been actively engaged in politics for years, he was comparatively little known to the man in the street.

PARTY POLITICS.

As a matter of fact, this was very much in his favor, for the electoral body which chooses the President of the Republic is known to be averse to candidates who have made themselves prominent in party politics.

We may, I think, divide potential Presidents into three classes—candidates, dark horses and the unexpected. Of the last class, it is naturally impossible to speak. From the first two I will endeavor, within the limits of my powers of reasoned prophecy, to pick out the probable and the possible Presidents.

M. Falliéres, the president of the Senate, may be looked upon as first favorite, partly by reason of his office, and partly because he is known to be sound, known, too, not to be too ambitious and because he is distinctly decorative. M. Falliéres' election and this is a great point in his favor—would not be too displeasing to the reactionary party. He is a large land-owner, and is fond of entertaining members of the other nobility of Bourbon days. Flattered to also very popular, and the wife of a new President is not unsatisfactory of the first importance. Although President Loubet has outlived the feeling, Frenchmen have not forgotten the uproar which his election caused in 1892, and fears of anything of the same kind—fears of a repetition of the Auteuil race-course scandal, for instance—would be sufficient to do away with the chances of any Presidential candidate in this year of peace, 1905.

MAN OF EXPERIENCE.

Next in favor to M. Falliéres comes M. Leon Bourgeois. He has been president of the Chamber of Deputies, he has been Premier, and, perhaps most important point of all, he was a member of M. Loubet's Cabinet in 1892, and is known to have remained a close and intimate friend of the present President ever since. M. Bourgeois is 54, and for a man who is comparatively young, his years of office of one kind or another make a surprising total. Yet he has never pushed himself to the front, and the knowing politicians say that the difficulty which has always been experienced in persuading M. Bourgeois to accept office will tell heavily in his favor with the electors of the National Assembly. The main thing against M. Leon Bourgeois's chances of success is that he is a widower, but his chance is a very good one, all the same. Besides, it has been rumored that he intends marrying again.

M. Doumer, the president of the Chamber, and former Governor-of Indo-China, ranks third in the list of probable Presidents. He has been Minister of Finance and Minister of the Interior, and has a charming personality. But he is perhaps too active and pushing a man for the position, and his political opinions—he is a Radical Republican—are rather too clearly defined for those of a would-be President, who must, above all things, be politically neutral.

THE OUTSIDERS.

In the outsiders' class M. Berteaux has lost ground by his sensational resignation from his post of the War Office. He is a genial man and a rich one, and is very popular among his fellow-Deputies, but the Senators are said to distrust him.

M. Paul Deschanel had a very strong chance indeed in 1899, and had M. Loubet's Presidency ended then or thereabouts, M. Deschanel would certainly have been elected. Now, though not for any special reason, he has no chance whatever. It is one of those cases which give one a handle for a charge of fickleness against the French. M. Deschanel has simply dropped out of the running, and nobody, not even M. Deschanel himself, knows exactly why this has happened.

M. Combes' chances are extremely poor, but I may, before ending my list, mention M. Jean Dupuy, whose influence as the proprietor of Le Petit Parisien, is widespread, and who is known to have been canvassing. But with the important proviso of "M. X's" chance, the candidates between whom the odds may be said to be divided are MM. Falliéres and Leon Bourgeois. My personal opinion inclines toward the younger of the two.

PEASANT FOOLS GUARD AND SAVES HIS PIGS

By Clever Story to Customs Officer He Smuggles Animals Across Frontier.

(Special Cable.)

Berlin, Dec. 23.

A clever smuggling trick has been played on a customs officer on the Russo-German frontier. An innocent-looking peasant reported to the officer a plot for getting a large number of pigs across the frontier. The method, he said, would be to drive across at intervals of half an hour, three, six, twelve and 200 pigs, the smugglers arguing that if the first three lots could be sent over there would be no trouble with the 200.

The officer was naturally on the alert. In accordance with the peasant's statement, three pigs were driven over, then six, followed by twelve. All were allowed to pass, and preparations were made to receive the 200. But no more pigs appeared, and the twenty-

THREE BANK CLERKS FUGITIVES FROM PARIS

Swindle Priest and Women Out of $25,000 and Skip to England.

(Special Cable.)

Paris, Dec. 23.

Three bank clerks employed at the Rennes branch of the Credit Lyonnais have disappeared from the city, after defrauding customers to the extent of about $25,000.

All three are married, and a little while ago it was noticed, by a private detective in the employ of the Credit Lyonnais, that the wives of two of the clerks were spending money somewhat extravagantly. The bank inspector found such irregularities that the three clerks received notice on Thursday last that their services would be dispensed with at the end of the month.

On Wednesday, they did not arrive at the office, and on Thursday investigation resulted in the discovery that they had privately induced two customers, one a priest and the other a woman, to part with a sum of about $25,000 un-

HEREROS KILLED BY GERMAN TROOPS

Terrible Tale of Virtual Extermination of Natives of an African Colony.

(Special Cable.)

Berlin, Dec. 23.

A terrible picture of the war against the Hereros in German Southwest Africa is painted in the report of the headquarters staff which has been presented to the Reichstag.

It states that the Hereros in the northern provinces of the colony have been virtually exterminated.

They fled before the Kaiser's forces across the Omaheke desert, where they perished in thousands of hunger and thirst.

Rendered desperate by their sufferings, they dug holes in many places fifty and sixty feet deep in the hope of discovering water, and, finding none, lay down and died in the desert.

Hundreds of bodies were found strewn over the sand. In some instances the negroes in their despair had huddled together to die, and their bodies were found in great heaps.

A splendid record is ascribed to the German troops, who made progress against the enemy in the face of colossal difficulties.

Many detachments had to make forced marches of sixty miles over roads including sand dunes above 500 feet high.

The comparatively small results achieved by the operations extending over two years are attributed to difficulties connected with transport operations conducted in districts several hundred miles away from the nearest railway.

After defeating insurgents, the troops were repeatedly unable to follow up their victories owing to lack of supplies and ammunition at the critical moment.

It is noteworthy that the Germans adopted concentration camps, where many thousands of prisoners were incarcerated.

PRINCE HAS NARROW ESCAPE.

Duke of Saxe Coburg-Gotha Saved from Death by Dowager Duchess.

Paris, Dec. 23.—The Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, had a narrow escape from being killed a few days ago, while escorting the Dowager Duchess to the Gotha railway station, says the Herald's Berlin correspondent.

He and the Dowager Duchess were attempting to cross the railway line behind a train standing in the station, and did not notice the approach of an express train on the other set of metals.

The Dowager Duchess seized the Duke and pulled him back just in time to prevent him being killed.

HEALTHY BULGARIA.

LORD KITCHENER'S LOVE STORY.

Referring to the various rumors of the engagement of Lord Kitchener, M A P gives what it describes as the only authentic love-story of the hero of Khartoum. It was in his youth, but has never been told in print before. Away down the Bayswater Road, near Lancaster Gate, is a well-known fashionable church, the walls of which listened to the love-story told by the stern-faced soldier of to-day. The young officer's companion was a beautiful fair-haired girl. The two had grown up together, so to speak. Wiseacres had remarked the growing affection between the two. And the young man's persistent attendance on the beautiful debutante, who had been his playmate, but who had many other admirers. The lovely girl refused the young subaltern, and soon after married one of his rivals. Her brilliant beauty flashed over Indian society for a couple of seasons, but her marriage was unhappy, and the Divorce Court annulled it. London society has since been at her feet; and she was named [illegible] and [illegible] of "An Elephant's Love

GORGEOUS DISPLAY FOR FUTURE KING

Indian Chiefs Receive Prince of Wales in Tents With Sheen of Gold.

A GARDEN OF JEWELS.

(Special Cable.)

Lahore, Dec. 23.

The return visit of the Prince of Wales to the Maharajah of Patiala and other chiefs in their camp brought out immense regards of natives Hindus, Mahometans, and Afghans in holiday attire. Outside the camp were elephants, camels and chargers covered with trappings of gold and silver. The howdahs of the elephants were draped with cloth-of-gold, reaching almost to the ground, and so heavy that it hardly fell into folds. The tusks of the elephants were ornamented with thick gold rings, and the neckbands and bangles on the legs of the chargers were of massive gold.

The quadrants were laid out as elaborate gardens. In the Maharajah of Patiala's camp chrysanthemums in pots were placed in beds of charcoal and broken glass, over which small fountains played, seeming to stud the garden with jewels.

The vestibule of the durbar tent was flanked with palanquins of gold and silver and by tables covered with embroidered gold cloths, on which stood caskets studded with gems. Facing the entrance was a large square summer house of solid silver.

The Maharajah of Patiala received the Prince of Wales, who was in general's undress uniform, and escorted him to the dais, where he sat for a few moments on the throne, conversing with the Maharajah.

"Pan" was distributed, and the Prince then went to the camps of the other chiefs, where a similar procedure was observed.—Reuter.

PRIESTS TRY TO ROAST INDIAN BOY ALIVE

Were Offering Him as Sacrifice to Gods for Sacrilege of English Motorists.

London, Dec. 23.—A thrilling story of how the slide slipping of a motor car nearly resulted in a man being roasted alive is told in this week's Motoring illustrated by A. Mr. Ernest Esdaile.

The incident occurred in Dohta, a village on the road from Delhi to Bombay. The car was being driven slowly past a Jain temple amid the clanging of natives and the beating of tom-toms.

"At the entrance," writes Mr. Esdaile, "stand two priests, regarding us with no friendly visage. Bang! and our back tire has burst, a deep cut in the road has caught the wheel, too. In a moment we swerve around, and, horror! smash right into the temple door.

"Alas! we have committed sacrilege, and of the worst kind. We set to work to mend our tire, and just as we have finished a heart-rending, earpiercing shriek rang out from the temple inclosure.

"We rush in, brushing aside two juvenile priests, who try to stop our progress. A crowd of white-robed priests stand between us and the inner sanctuary. But the three of us are old football players, the priests are down like nine pins, we turn the curtain aside and stand for a moment rooted with horror.

"There on a rude altar our poor native motor boy is being literally roasted alive. Only a second's pause to take in the situation, and with a rush we are on them. Seizing the uplifted knife from the nearest fanatic, we cut the leather strings and lift the fainting sacrifice from the altar."

PRINCESS COMFORTS HUSBAND'S ASSASSIN

Pathetic Incident of Grand Duke Sergius' Murder is Related for First Time.

(Special Cable.)

St. Petersburg, Dec. 23.

At a meeting held last night to protest against capital punishment, V. V. Berenetamm, the barrister who defended Kolliaeff, the assassin of the Grand Duke Sergius, related the following story of the visit of the Grand Duchess Elizabeth to the assassin of her husband, in the words of Kolliaeff himself:

"I was told somebody wanted to see me. I went to the reception room and sat down in a corner. The door opened, and a lady in black entered. She took a seat beside me, and then knelt on the floor and put her head on my knees, whispering: 'I am his wife.' I asked whyshe had come to the murderer of her husband, but she brushed aside my question, asking, in turn, 'Can it be this was necessary?' I talked to her long and sincerely.

"'You must have suffered a great deal,' she said. 'But why did you not go and see him and tell him about the sufferings of the people?'

"'In order to see you,' I replied, 'I had to kill your husband.'

"At the close of our conversation she asked me if I was a believer. I answered that I had an abiding faith in the cause for which I offered my life. She asked if I ever prayed, and I answered that I had prayed in my soul for the success for my undertaking. She gave me an icon as a keepsake."

RUNNING UPSTAIRS NEW SPORT IN PARIS

(Special Cable.)

Paris, Dec. 23.

The race for the staircase championship is the most eccentric form of sport yet invented by Parisians.

It was brought off to-day up the 328 steps to the second platform of the Eiffel Tower. From 9 o'clock in the morning to 4 in the afternoon 300 competitors raced in turn. They included M Forestier, formerly amateur bicycle champion, MM. Orphe and Prevot, both famous runners, and Signor Volpati, the Italian walking champion. They wore running costume and string-soled shoes.

M Meune, who ascended in 3 minutes and 3 seconds, did the best time, but he was disqualified, and the championship of the stairs given to M. Forestier, whose time was 3 minutes and 12 seconds.

PARNELL IN PLOT TO KIDNAP VICEROY

William O'Brien Tells of Sensational Incident in Career of the Irish Leader

(Special Cable.)

London, Dec. 23.—The story of Mr. Parnell and Mr. O'Brien discussing a sensational plot to kidnap the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland from Dublin Castle is told by W. O'Brien, M.P., in his "Recollections," which was published recently by Messrs. Macmillan.

It happened in 1882-3, soon after the Phoenix Park murders. The royal Irish constabulary and the Dublin metropolitan police had agitated for higher pay, and 1,000 of them were virtually in revolt. A deputation from the police waited upon Mr. O'Brien to invite him to address a meeting of malcontents.

Then, he says, he thought of a plan to go to the meeting, excite the men to the highest possible pitch of excitement, and march the 1,000 constables upon Dublin Castle. Then to seize the Lord Lieutenant and his chief secretary, and, holding them as hostages, get possession of the wires and excite a revolt among the constabulary throughout the country to strengthen his party in its negotiations with the government.

Mr. O'Brien says he discussed this scheme with Mr. Parnell, and it was only abandoned because the Fenian party, through timidity and partly through jealousy of the parliamentary representatives, refused to take part in it.

WHOLESALE EMIGRATION.

Vienna, Dec. 23.—All the work in the village of Groesmamaras, near Arad, in Hungary, is being done by women, all the men having left home on the same day to emigrate, intending to send for their wives and families later. The [illegible] running [illegible] with [illegible]

CLIMBER LOST ON NEW ZEALAND PEAK

Wanders for Two Days Virtually Without Food or Shelter and Reaches Shelter Delirious.

(Special Cable.)

Wellington, N.Z., Dec. 23.

Mr. Turner, an English climber, is lying in a hospital at Wellington, suffering from the effects of a terrible exposure on Ngrauhoe Mountain.

He set out from a hut half way up the mountain, and reached the [illegible] after three hours' climbing over a difficult glacier.

A terrible gale came on, in which Mr. Turner's snow-goggles were blown away. He lost his way, and was compelled to spend two days on the mountain without shelter, and virtually without food.

BIG FORTUNE LEFT TO TRAVELING SALESMAN

Paris, Dec. 23.—A Paris commercial traveller named M. Louis de Boulge, aged twenty-eight, has just been left a fortune of $2,000,000 and the splendid chateau of Vivens.

It appears that the Marchioness de Vivens died recently, at the age of eighty-one. She had no near relatives, and her notary, after several days' investigation, discovered that the nearest heir was the traveller, a cousin three degrees removed.

It was necessary to show M. Boubee the written proof of his inheritance before he would believe the fortune had reverted to him.

HUNGARIANS VERGE ON OPEN REBELLION

(Special Cable).

Vienna, Dec. 23.

The Hungarian boycott of the government is having a serious effect on the naval and military efficiency of the Austro-Hungarian Empire.

At a meeting of the Common Council of Ministers yesterday the War Minister demanded money for the new field guns, which have been already approved by the delegations of the two countries, but the Hungarian Finance Minister declined to find Hungary's share of the cost.

The navy is in the same predicament, as money cannot be obtained to pay for the building of warships already on the stocks.

Feeling in Hungary toward Austria may be gauged by the action of a jury, which yesterday acquitted the authors of a brochure issued on the Emperor's last birthday, calling upon Hungarians, if necessity arose, to choose a Hohenzollern instead of a Hapsburg for king. The prisoners were charged with high treason and lese majeste.

SERENADES GRAVE OF HIS YOUNG WIFE

Residents of Swiss Village Terrified by Strains of Music in Lonely Cemetery.

(Special Cable.)

Geneva, Dec. 23.

Sounds of music coming from the cemetery in the middle of the night have terrified the inhabitants of the Swiss village of Bregens, near the Austrian frontier, for some days past.

Two gendarmes hid themselves last night behind a tombstone in order to investigate. They saw a young tradesman named Wolff climb over the cemetery wall, pull a violin from under his coat, and standing over a newly made grave, begin to play the "Bohemian Girl." They listened to the end, and then went up to the man, who said he had been playing over the tomb of his bride, who had died the week before. "It was the piece she liked best," he said to the gendarmes, who led him away for inquiry as to his sanity.

The Lust of Hate

BY GUY BOOTHBY

Author of "A Beautiful White Devil," "A Bid For Fortune," "The Marriage of Esther," "Dr. Nikola," Etc., Etc.

"I am not jesting, my friend, I assure you," returned Nikola, and, as he said so, he went to an escritoire in the corner. "In proof that what I say is the truth, here is a rough draft of his will, made yesterday. You are at liberty to peruse it if you care to do so, and as you are familiar with his writing, you can judge for yourself of its worth."

I took the paper from his hand and sat down with it in my chair again. It certainly was what he had described, and in it I was named as sole and undivided heir to all his vast wealth. As I read, my anger rose higher and higher. From this paper it was evident that the man knew he had swindled me, and it was also apparent that he was resolved to enjoy the fruits of his villainly throughout his life, and to leave me what he could not use when he died, and when I would, in all human probability, be too old to enjoy it. I glanced at the paper again, and then handed it back to Nikola, and waited for him to speak. He watched me attentively for a few seconds, and then said in a voice so soft and low that I could scarcely hear it—

"You see, if Bartrand were to be removed after he had signed that you would benefit at once."

I did not answer. Nikola waited for a few moments and then continued in the same low tone—

"You hate the man. He has wronged you deeply. He stole your secret while you were not in a position to defend yourself, and I think he would have killed you had he dared to do so. Now he is enjoying the fortune which should be yours. He is one of the richest men in the world—with your money. He is already a patron of sport, of the drama, and of art of every sort—with your money. If you attempt to dispute his possession, he will crush you like a worm. Now the question for your consideration is: Do you hate him sufficiently to take advantage of an opportunity to kill him if one should come in your way?"

He had roused my hate to such a pitch that before I could control myself I had hissed out "Yes!" He heard it, and when I was about to protest that I did not mean it, held up his hand to me to be silent.

"Listen to me," he said. "I tell you candidly that it is my power to help you. If you really wish to rid yourself of this man, I can arrange it for you in such a way that it will be impossible for any one to suspect you. The chance of detection is absolutely nil. You will be safe from the law as you are at this minute. And remember this, when you have rid yourself of him, his wealth will be yours to enjoy just as you please. Think of his money—think of the power it gives, think of the delight of knowing that you have punished the man who has wronged you so shamefully. Are you prepared to risk so much?"

My God! I can remember the horror of that moment even now. As I write these words I seem to feel again the throbbing of the pulses in my temples, the wild turmoil in my brain, the whirling mist before my eyes. In extenuation, I can only hope that I was, for the time being, insane. Shameful as it may be to say so, I knew that while Nikola was speaking, I hungered for that man's death as a starving cur craves for food.

"I don't want his money," I cried, as if in some small extenuation of the unutterable shame of my decision. "I only want to punish him—to be revenged upon him."

"You consent, then?" he said quietly, pulling his chair a little closer, and looking at me in a strange fashion.

As his eyes met mine all my own will seemed to leave me. I was powerless to say anything but "Yes, I consent."

Nikola rose to his feet instantly, and with an alertness that surprised me after his previous langnor.

"Very good," he said; "now that that is settled, we can get to business. If you will listen attentively, I will explain exactly how it is to be done."

CHAPTER III.

"There are three things to be borne in mind," said Nikola, when I had recovered myself a little: "the first is the dependent point, namely, that the man has to be, well, shall we call it, relieved of the responsibility of his existence! Secondly, the deed must be done at once; and, thirdly, it must be accomplished in such a manner that no suspicion is aroused against you. Now, to you who know the world, and England in particular, I need scarcely explain that there are very few ways in which this can be done. If you desire to follow the mele-dramatic course, you will decoy your enemy to an empty house and stab him there; in that case, however, there will, in all probability, be a tramp taking refuge in the coal cellar who will overhear you, the marks of blood on the floor will give evidence against you, and—what will be worse than all—there will be the body to dispose of. If that procedure does not meet your approval, you might follow him about night after night until you find an opportunity of effecting your purpose in some deserted thoroughfare; but then you must take into consideration the fact that there will always be the chance of his calling out, or in other ways attracting the attention of the neighborhood, or of someone coming round the corner before you have quite finished. A railway train has been tried repeatedly, but never with success; for there is an increased difficulty in getting rid of the body, while porters and ticket collectors have a peculiar memory for faces, and history shows that whatever care you may take you are bound to be discovered sooner or later. In his own house the man is as secure, or more so, than he would be in the Tower of London; and even if you did manage to reach him there, the betting would be something like a million to one that you would be detected. No; none of these things are worthy of our consideration. I came to this conclusion in another and similar case in which my assistance was invoked three months ago. If one wants to succeed in murder, as in anything else, one must endeavor to be original."

"For heaven's sake, man, choose your words less carefully!" I cried with a sudden fierceness for which I could not afterwards account. "You talk as if we were discussing an ordinary business transaction."

"And are we not?" he replied calmly, paying no attention to my outburst of temper. "I am inclined to think we are. You desire to revenge yourself upon a man who has wronged you. For a consideration I find you the means of doing it. You want—I supply. Surely supply and demand constitute the component parts of an ordinary business transaction?"

"You said nothing just now about a consideration. What is it to be?"

"We will discuss that directly."

"No, not directly. Now! I must know everything before I hear more of your plans."

"By all means let us discuss it then. Properly speaking, I suppose I should demand your soul as my price, and write the bond with a pen dipped in your blood. But, though you may doubt it, I am not Mephistopheles. My terms are fifty thousand pounds, to be paid within six months of your coming in to your money. I think you will admit that that is a small enough sum to charge for helping a man to obtain possession of nearly two millions. I don't doubt our friend Bartrand would pay three times as much to be allowed to remain on in Park Lane. What do you think?"

The mere mention of Bartrand's name roused me again to fury.

"You shall have the money," I cried. "And much good may it do you. Come what may, I will not touch a penny of it myself. I want to punish him, not to get his fortune. Now what is your scheme?"

"Pardon me, one thing at a time if you please."

He crossed to the escritoire standing in the corner of the room, and from a drawer took a sheet a paper. Having glanced at it he brought it to me with a pen and ink.

"Read it, and when you have done so, sign. We will then proceed to business."

I glanced at it, and discovered that it was a legally drawn up promise to pay Dr. Antonio Nikola fifty thousand pounds within six months of my succeeding to the property of Richard Bartrand, of Park Lane, London, and Chennington Castle, Shropshire, should such an event ever occur. Dipping the pen into the ink I signed what he had written, and then waited for him to continue. He folded up the paper with great deliberation, returned it to its place in the escritoire, and then seated himself opposite me again.

"Now I am with you hand and glove," he said with a faint smile upon his sallow face. "Listen to my arrangement. In considering the question of murder I have thought of house trains, street stabbings, poisonings, burnings, drowning, shipwreck, dynamite, and even electricity; and from practical experience I have arrived at the conclusion that the only sure way in which you can rid yourself of an enemy is to do the deed in a hansom cab."

"A hansom cab?" I cried. "You must be mad. How can that be safe at all?"

"Believe me, it is not only the safest but has been proved to be the most successful. I will explain more fully, then you will be able to judge of the beautiful simplicity of my plan for yourself. The cab I have constructed myself after weeks of labor, in this very house; it is downstairs now; if you will accompany me we will go and see it."

He rose from his chair, took up the lamp that stood upon the table, and signed to me to follow him. I did so, down the stairs by which he had ascended, and along the passage to a large room at the rear of the building. Folding doors opened from it into the yard, and, standing in the centre of this barn-like apartment, its shafts resting on an iron trestle, was a hansom cab of the latest pattern, fitted with all the most up-to-date improvements.

"Examine it," said Nikola, "and I think you will be compelled to admit that it is as beautiful a vehicle as any man could wish to ride in; get inside and try it for yourself."

While he held the lamp aloft I climbed in and seated myself upon the soft cushions. The inside was lined with Russia leather, and was in every way exquisitely fitted. A curious electric lamp of rather a cumbersome pattern, I thought, was fixed on the back in such a position as to be well above the rider's head. A match-box furnished the bottom of one window, and a cigar-cutter the other; the panels on either side of the apron were decorated with mirrors; the wheels were rubber tired, and each of the windows had small blinds of heavy stamped leather. Altogether it was most comfortable and complete.

"What do you think of it?" said Nikola, when I had finished, my scrutiny.

"It's exactly like any other hansom," I answered. "Except that it is finished in a more expensive style than the average cab, I don't see any difference at all."

"There you refer to it's chief charm," replied Nikola, with a grim chuckle. "If it were different in any way to the ordinary hansom, detection would be easy. As it is I am prepared to defy even an expert to discover the mechanism without pulling it to pieces."

"What is the mechanism, then, and what purpose does it serve?"

"I will explain."

He placed the lamp he held in his hand upon a bracket on the wall, and then approached the vehicle.

"In the first place examine these cushions," he said, pointing to the interior. "You have doubtless remarked their softness. If you study them closely you will observe that they are pneumatic. The only difference is that the air used is the strongest anaesthetic known to science. The glass in front, as you will observe now that I have lowered it, fits into a slot in the apron when the latter is closed, and then, by a simple process, the interior becomes air-tight. When this has been done the driver has but to press this knob, which at first sight would appear to be part of the nickel rein support, and a valve opens on either side of the interior—in the match box in the right window, in the cigar-cutter in the left; the gas escapes, fills the cab, and the result is—well, I will leave you to imagine the result for yourself."

"And then?" I muttered hoarsely, scarcely able to speak distinctly, so overcome was I by the horrible exactness and ingenuity of this murderous affair.

"Then the driver places his foot upon this treadle, which, you see, is made to look as if it works the iron support that upholds the vehicle when resting, the seat immediately revolves and the bottom turns over, thus allowing the body to drop through on to the road. Its very simplicity is its charm. Having carried out your plan you have but to find a deserted street, drive along it, depress the lever, and be rid of your fare when and where you please. By that time he will be far past calling out, and you can drive quietly home, conscious that your work is accomplished. Now what do you think of my invention!"

For a few moments I did not answer, but sat upon an upturned box close by, my head buried in my hands. The agony of that minute no man will ever understand. Shame for myself for listening, loathing of my demoniacal companion for tempting me, hatred of Bartrand, and desire for revenge, all struggled within me for the mastery. I could scarcely breathe; the air of that hateful room seemed to suffocate me. At last I rose to my feet, and as I did so another burst of fury seized me.

"Monster! Murderer!" I cried, turning like a madman on Nikola, who was testing the appliances of his awful invention with a smile of quiet satisfaction on his face. "Let me go, I will not succumb to your temptations. Show me the way out of this house, or I will kill you."

Sobs shook my being to its very core. A violent fit of hysteria had seized me, and under its influence I was not responsible for what I said or did.

Nikola turned from the cab as calmly as if it had been an ordinary hansom which he was examining with a view of purchase, and, concentrating his gaze upon me as he spoke, said quietly:

"My dear Pennethorne, you are exciting yourself. Pray endeavor to be calm. Believe me, ther is nothing to be gained by talking in that eccentric fashion. Sit down again and pull yourself together."

Unless she is a healthy mother. No woman can. If the baby has drained her vitality; if its care is a tax; if, in short, the baby is a burden instead of a blessing, how can she enjoy it? She loves it, but she cannot feed it. She yearns for it, but has not the strength to fondle it.

There is nothing more beautiful in the world than a healthy mother and her healthy child. The madonna is the highest reach of human art. In the serene strength which art gives to the typical mother and child there is distinct denial of suffering and weakness as a necessity of motherhood. But how few women are there to whom motherhood is naturally an abiding joy. In how many cases a woman dates her loss of health from the birth of her child! To all such suffering women Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes as a veritable god-send. It prepares the mother for her hour of trial, tranquilizes her nerves, encourages her appetite, and brings her restful sleep. It makes the baby's advent practically painless, and gives the mother abundant strength to nurse and nourish her child.

Every claim made for "Favorite Prescription" is supported by the testimonials of wives and mothers, thousands in number, and covering in their several experiences the whole range of womanly suffering. In a great number of cases after the utter failure of all doctors and medicines, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, tried as a last resort, has effected a perfect and permanent cure.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All womanly confidences held under the seal of strict professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription" and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

Between Life and Death.

"I think Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' the best medicines in the world," writes Mrs. Amelia Dougherty, of Kerrigan, Wayne Co., Mo. "My baby was born last summer. After baby came I became ill, had the best physician that could be got, and he diagnosed my case as uterine trouble leading to dropsy. Medicine seemed to do me no good; I lingered between life and death for quite a while, every day growing weaker, until I could not walk across the room. My friends were looking for me to die every day. A friend wrote and told me about Dr. R. V. Pierce, and I at once wrote to him for medical advice. He replied immediately, giving me full instructions as to what to do. I at once followed his advice, and when I had taken his medicine about a week I felt a good deal stronger. When I had taken it about one month I felt as strong as I do to-day. I took four bottles of each kind and two vials of 'Pleasant Pellets.' Many thanks for the medicine. It has cured me permanently."

Gained 40 Pounds.

"I am very glad to let other poor sufferers know what Dr. Pierce's medicines have done for me," writes Mrs. Edwin H. Gardner, of Beechwood, Norfolk Co., Mass., Box 70. "You know I wrote to you last summer. I read what your medicine had done for other people, so thought I would try it, and I found that it was a blessing to me and my family. I began in June and took six bottles of your medicine and three vials of 'Pellets.' I took your medicine a year when I had a ten pound girl. I had the easiest time I ever had with any of my three children. I have been very well since I took your medicine. I took three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' three of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and three vials of 'Pellets.' I had no appetite and could get out much without it distressing me before I took your 'Favorite Prescription' and I only weighed 125 pounds. Now I weigh 165 pounds."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets commend themselves as a family laxative. They are easy to take, effective in results, and their use does not beget the pill habit.

Re-Elected by Acclamation.

The old council of Smith, was re-elected yesterday by acclamation. They are; Robert N. Scott, reeve; and councillors, J. H. Garbutt, T. H. Graham, W. J. Northey and R. White.

Work of King's Daughters.

In our account of the good work done by the King's Daughters a typographical error was made, in giving the names of those distributing the goods to Peterboro's poor. The names of those so kindly acting should have been Miss Halliday, Miss Hugel and Mrs. Poole. The King's Daughters, this season, as in years gone by have accomplished a most commendable work. Many a home has, by their efforts, been made a scene of happiness at Christmas.

Awarded a Diploma.

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, Peterboro's enterprising sail, tent and awning manufacturers are in receipt of the following communication from Mr. J. O Orr, manager and secretary Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto;—"Dear Sir,—I am pleased to inform you that you have been awarded a diploma for your exhibit at this year's exhibition. Your exhibit was a very creditable one indeed."

The Market Building Blockade.

Yesterday the Douglas shoe store and McCallum's restaurant, were relieved from the quarantine they had been placed under by those fixing the market building roof. So much danger was caused the preceding day by the snow falling in heavy masses from the roof, these places of business were fenced off to prevent accidents. Some of the remarks passed by the proprietors of these places might well have been bottled and used for illuminating purposes.

Yesterday those having occasion to visit several of our local dispensaries of vital goods, had their hearing machines somewhat disturbed by a pronounced French color in conversation. A gang of men from the Rathbun camps, with their captain, Mr. Richault, are spending a few days in the city in honor of the Merry Xmas season. These men are all on good behavior, but enjoying their return to civilization to the full. They are a well-dressed orderly crowd of fellows but are having a good time, and singing O Roulez, Roulez, Roulez, atel

A GOOD SNOW

The Kyle Vaudeville Company Gives Splendid Entertainment at Grand Opera House Last Night.

The Grand Opera House was well filled last night by an appreciative audience, who were well entertained by the Kyle Vaudeville Co. They presented a fine, clean vaudeville bill, every number of which was thoroughly enjoyed. In fact the entertainment as provided by Mr. and Mrs. Kyle's company was the best seen in Peterboro in some time. Heading the bill and doing justice to that position were Mr. and Mrs. Kyle, who showed great versatility in the handling of two clever sketches, Mr. Kyle's "Tom O'Brien" in "A Touch of Nature," was a clever piece of acting, and Mrs. Kyle as the sweet Irish girl was all that could be desired; which together with the Simpson's sensational ladder act; Bean and Hamilton, barrel jumpers; Monte Simmons, monologist, and moving pictures rounded out a first-class entertainment.

Should a return engagement be played by this clever company, capacity business should follow.

MR. M'CARTHY EXPLAINS

Why the Snow was Not Removed From North Side.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—Kindly allow me space in the columns of your paper to explain why the snow was not removed from the sidewalks on Thursday morning, 21st inst. I was called away on Monday on urgent business, but before going asked a citizen of this ward to do this work should it be need, which he promised to do—the result was he did not do it. As soon as my son found out he would not do the work, he quickly hustled around and secured some one who did do the work as soon. In the meantime I was fourteen miles in the country, trying to make my way home through the snow with which this took me from nine o'clock in the morning till seven o'clock in the evening—my experience was awful. I hope this explanation will be satisfactory to those of this ward who experienced some difficulty in making their way through the snow for a few hours.

I remain yours truly,
A. M'CARTHY

MR. ANDERSON WATCHED

Foreman of C. G. E. Co's Pattern Dept. Presented With Gold Watch and Address.

A very pleasing ceremony took place yesterday evening about 7.30, when about 20 of the Canadian General Electric Company's foremen, gathered at the residence of Mr. T. G. Anderson, Cor. of Aylmer and Sherbrooke streets, to express, in tangible form, their regret at Mr. Anderson's withdrawal from his position as ably filled during the past three years of foreman of the C.G.E. Co., Pattern Department.

When the party arrived at Mr. Anderson's residence, he was taken completely by surprise, having had no intimation of his friends kindly action.

When the party entered the house, Ald. Tovey, foreman of the brass finishing department, in a few well-chosen words explained the reason for Mr. Anderson's little surprise party.

Mr. Tovey then read the following address.

Peterboro, Dec. 23, 1906.

Mr. T. G. Anderson:

Esteemed Friend,—It is with regret that we, your fellow foremen, in the Peterboro Works of the Canadian General Electric Co., learn of your intended departure from our midst.

During your residence among us we have always found you a genial and obliging companion, and we can assure you that the good feeling displayed has been, from the first, heartily reciprocated; and we hope that in your new field of labor, success may crown your efforts as it has in the past.

We feel that we cannot allow this opportunity to pass without expressing in a tangible way, our appreciation of your many good qualities.

From our association with you at work and at play we have learned that you are well worth watching.

We therefore ask you to accept this watch, assuring your that it is not for its intrinsic value that it is given, but as a small token to aid memory to revert to bygone days when you were in Peterboro, and surrounded by friends who now wish you many years of life's choicest blessings.

W. H Smith, G. J. Tovey, A. W. Patterson, F. A. Taylor, J. V. Gerrard, R. E. Harding, J. G. McWilson, R. Corbett, W. H. Robinson, E. E. Lord, J. E. Cunnamon, W. J. Lloyd, H. Coult, J. A. McWilliams, Geo. Perrott, A. E. Pust, T. Mollin, F. Derrick, W. A. Brundrett, M. Mowry, F. Pakenham, W. Gore, J. A. Perry, P. L. Allso, J. A. G. Gould, R. W Orson, A. Mallered, B. Watts, E. A. Ros, J. F. Morrison.

Mr. W. H. Smith, foreman of the brass foundry, then advanced and presented Mr. Anderson, on behalf of those present, with a handsome gold watch, suitably engraved. "To T. G. Anderson, from his associate foremen of the C.G.E. Co., Peterboro, Dec. 25th, 1906." The watch purchased from Mr Alex. Gibson, was most beautifully engraved, and a handsome time keeper.

Mr. Anderson, who, as noted was taken completely by surprise, and quite overcome by his emotions, rose and in a stirring reply to the address read. He expressed his regret at severing so many pleasant associations, and said he would always hold a warm spot in his heart for Peterboro men, particularly those of his fellow associates in the C.G.E. Co.

Mr. Anderson will leave Peterboro about the first of the new year, and will engage in business in Hamilton for himself. He intends carrying on a pattern making shop of his own.

RESULT WAS FATAL

Adam Hayes Dead From Sleighing Accident.

The Times regrets to say that the sleighriding accident, whereby Adam Hayes, the 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. S Hayes, Sherbrooke street, was, as noted in yesterday's issue, has resulted fatally. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hayes will extend their heartfelt sympathy on this sad occurrence.

The young fellow, a bright boy with many friends, was taken to the Nicholls Hospital, and died there on Thursday night.

The boy was sleigh-riding on the north side of Simcoe street, near the Cereal Co's mill. At the end of the pavement there is a drop of about 2 1-2 feet, beyond which the ground is bare. Whilst descending the hill at a high rate of speed, the sleigh jumped the pavement at the bottom, and striking the bare ground, threw the boy off with considerable force onto a frozen knoll. The sled struck him in the bowels, inflicting injuries which, said to say have resulted fatally.

The late Adam Hayes was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hayes, and was aged fifteen years and six months. He had lived in Peterboro about three years, coming here with his parents from Napanee. He was a student at the South Central school and was a favorite with his schoolmates. Three sisters survive. Mrs. Sharp, Deseronto; Mrs. Boiler and Miss Edith Hayes, city. The sympathy of the community will go out to the bereaved parents. The funeral will be held to-morrow.

THE MARKET ROOF

Thursday's Snow Storm Plays Havoc With Market.

Yesterday morning the local market room was in a nice (?) mess. The contractor having the job of placing the new metal roof on the city market building had not finished his job and the heavy snow fall of Thursday, melting under yesterday's warm weather, when thawed out, resulted in the walls and floor of this important public building being saturated with water.

It seems that the metal sheeting that should cover this roof had not been finished at the top of the gables, consequently water poured through, to the detriment of the building.

It seems further that those engaged, not this job alone included, can take their time over work done for the city. "Why was not this work done during suitable weather?" was the common enquiry of citizens yesterday.

POLICE COURT NEWS

P. C. McGinty last night, about 7 o'clock, ran in a man, arrested on the corner of Park and Charlotte streets. The man was drunk, and, on his way to going to prison, struck his head under the influence, to give his name. The party spending tonight in Hotel des Cope is evidently a Frenchman or of some nationality whose speech was difficult to understand. The owner of the grocery store, just across from Mr. C. H. Clementi's house, now occupied by Mr. Burnet, of the C.G.E. Co., stated that the prisoner threatened to stab him with a knife. Explanations will be in order at this morning's court.

"CONCERT" OF POWERS

HOW THE WILY TURK, SULTAN ABDUL HAMID, RECEIVES THEM.

Sullen Opposition Followed By the Usual "Backdown" Marks the Oriental Potentate — Method of Dealing With the Stronger Allies—Some Day He Will Have to Fight to Retain Headship of Mohammedanism.

The recent refusal of the Sultan of Turkey to accede to the demands of the powers for reform in Macedonia and the subsequent naval demonstration by the international fleet in Turkish waters, followed, of course, by the Sultan's usual "backdown," have been sufficiently engrossing to relegate the Russian situation to second place for a few days. Although every previous demand upon the Turkish ruler for reform has met with the same reception—sullen defiance at first, followed by a speedy and rather undignified compliance—it is, of course always within the realm of possibility that he may some time continue to be obstinate until something serious actually occurs.

It was also realised that in the recent trouble Abdul Hamid was able to assume a somewhat bolder front than had been possible for a long time. After the humiliation of Russia, his neighbor and arch enemy, by Japan and the internal commotions which have followed, and especially after the disclosure that the formidable Black Sea fleet of Russia was only a collection of junk manned by mutineers, a wondrous change came over the spirit of the oriental potentate's dream. He concluded that he might with safety openly defy the powers before whom he has been in the habit of assuming a cringing attitude. As for the concert of Europe, he meditated, let it continue to play for its own amusement.

For once in his life the Sultan faced his old enemy with an argument that carries a certain amount of force. Accused of being unkind to his Christian subjects, he retaliated by declaring that he had not treated them half as badly as the Czar's Christian subjects have treated the Russian Jews. This is an illogical way to reason, but the Sultan has found in it an argumentum ad hominem that nobody can deny.

Abdul Hamid, now in his sixty-third year, is one of the shrewdest and most capable politicians in the world. He has demonstrated that fact by the clever equilibrium which he has managed to preserve among the various rivalries of the so called European "concert." This has been an absolute necessity. If he had not been endowed with a remarkable capacity for intrigue and for reading men and playing them to suit his purposes he could not so long have maintained himself in his decidedly ticklish position. On account of the aloofness of the German Emperor in the demonstration it has been suspected that a portion of the Sultan's new found courage may be attributed to a secret understanding between Turkey and Germany.

But even though there has been no understanding between the Kaiser and the Sultan, the latter has the gratifying assurance that he may ignore Russia whenever he chooses. He also knows perfectly well that no other power, except Austria, has sufficient interest in Macedonia to fight for it. Austria, single handed, he can afford to defy. Since these recent demands for reform in Macedonia were instigated by the Czar, it must have been a bitter experience for him to be met with such a prompt refusal and to realise that he was without the power to enforce his wishes.

The scheme of the contemplated reform, which is purely financial in its nature, has been urged vigorously both by Russia and by Austria for a long time. At one time, just before the breaking out of the Russo-Japanese war, these two most interested powers had almost obtained the Sultan's consent to the measure. The scheme provides for the collection of taxes throughout nearly the whole of European Turkey by the local authorities under the supervision of the powers. The plan would be acceptable to the people themselves and would probably result in great gain for the Turkish treasury. As the matter is conducted at present the bulk of the taxes is stolen by the Turkish authorities appointed by the Sultan. A very small proportion of the annual levy ever reaches the national depository, and practically nothing is left for local needs. The Sultan knows that he is being robbed right and left by his greedy and dishonest collectors, and he has more than once made up his mind to institute some sort of reform on his own account. A year ago a private syndicate submitted a plan which met his approval, but it was combatted by the Ottoman bank with such force that it was rejected. Abdul Hamid is anxious for reform in this particular.

The Sultan regards the present attitude of the powers as a direct attack upon his sovereignty, a notice to relinquish his European holdings and betake himself to Asia. This, of course, he is not anxious to do. Owing to many contributing causes his position in regard to his own empire has been strengthened greatly within the past few years. For the first time in thirty years all interests within his jurisdiction seem to be united, and he is supreme. Two things that have contributed notably to his increased importance at home are his victory over the Greeks in 1896 and the Turkish escape from punishment for the massacre of the Armenians. Moslem courage has revived markedly, and the Sultan is now recognised as the leader of the faithful all over the world. There has been an active renaissance of Islamism since calamity settled upon Russia, and many of its adherents believe that a holy war against the infidels is close at hand. This sentiment is so strong among the followers of the prophet that the Sultan may in time be driven to assume the aggressive.

The time will arrive when the Sultan can no longer accede to the further demands of the powers and retain his position at the head of Mohammedanism. The European concert in its present state of disintegration is not the strong, almost invincible force that it has been for so many years. Germany seems to have lost interest in it, and Russia is enfeebled beyond immediate repair. A holy war would bleed Great Britain in India and Egypt, and France in Morocco and Algiers. The provinces under the protection of Russia would be subjected to invasion.

Sooner or later—and no one knows it better than Abdul Hamid—the Turks will be obliged to fight in order to maintain their supremacy in Macedonia. It is not at all strange that they should have looked upon the present as an excellent opportunity. With Russia disabled, Austria weakened by internal political differences, Germany indifferent, the Sultan, like the traditional worm, some time may turn.

As a further complication, Bulgaria declared that she was ready to take up the quarrel at a moment's notice. One of the most clearly defined duties of the powers in recent years has been to keep the Bulgarians from invading Macedonia. Left to themselves, the people of the principality and Danubian provinces would not wait long for a casus belli to turn up.

It must be remembered, however, that Abdul Hamid is not unused to foreign naval demonstrations in Turkish waters. Fleets of the powers, either singly or in combination, have made so many admonitory visits to the Dardanelles that the Sultan is accustomed to refer to them as "naval reviews." In 1901, when Turkey refused to fulfill her contract with a French company which had built docks at Constantinople, the authorities of the republic threatened to seize the customs of the island of Mitylene. In 1896 the powers blockaded the island of Crete until the Sultan granted an autonomous Government. In 1904 a squadron of American warships made a demonstration in the harbor of Smyrna, and the Sultan came to terms without delay.

SUBMARINE SIGNALING.

New System of Safeguarding Ships On the Great Seas.

The success of the recently invented system of submarine signaling has been such that the Cunard line has determined to place it on all of its ships. The Lucania was equipped with the signaling apparatus a short time ago, and her captain on landing in New York a few days since said: "Going into Liverpool, we got the first signal from a lighthouse ten miles away. The Lucania signals were also successful with the lightships on this side."

LISTENING WITH SUBMARINE BELL.

The system has been tested with remarkable success on the steamships of the North German Lloyd line and on many coastwise steamers.

It is destined to prove important in naval warfare, for it has been found that the system can be used to great advantage in enabling battleships and other armed vessels to detect the approach of torpedo boats. On merchant ships the submarine signaling apparatus is used for the purpose of detecting distant lighthouse bells and thus avoiding reefs and dangerous coasts. Water is an excellent medium for the transmission of sound. It carries it much more clearly than air and to greater distances. In water sound travels nearly four times as fast as in air. It was the late Elisha Gray who conceived the idea of utilizing these facts to warn vessels in storms and fogs. By letting down into the water a specially constructed transmitter similar to that of the telephone, only possessing more "ears," and by connecting this transmitter with an ordinary telephone receiver on the deck of a ship it was found possible to hear a bell under water for a distance of ten miles or more.

A Lack of Orphans.

The Irish duellist who lamented having "as pretty a challenge as ever was passed, but no one to whom to give it," was in the same trouble as the municipality of Paris. The city has a fine orphanage, liberally appointed and with an ample staff, but with no orphans. A Mme. Tamises left nearly a million and her villa at Orsay to be maintained as an orphanage for girls of the eighth arrondissement. The girls were to be provided with a dowry on leaving. Paris has searched the highways and byways of the district, and but two orphans have been found

Why the Ocean Doesn't Freeze.

If the ocean did not have salt it would freeze somewhat more readily than it does now, but there would be no very marked difference.

The ocean is prevented from freezing not so much by its salt as by its size and by its commotion. On account of its size large portions of it extend into warm climates at all seasons, and by reason of its great depth it is a vast storehouse of heat. Its currents distribute much warm water among the cold.

Autoists Are Lost.

Flagstaff, Arizona, Dec. 20.—A transcontinental automobile, carrying J. F. Megargee of New York, and David W. Fassett of Lansing, is lost in the deep snow in the mountains west of here, and the automobilists have not been heard from since Friday, when they left Williams for Flagstaff. A relief expedition, with food, blankets and shovels, started yesterday in the midst of a blinding snowstorm. Other parties are hunting for two other autos lost in the mountains.

YE OLDE POETS' CORNER, AT 34-6, LONG MILLGATE, MANCHESTER.

One of the Finest Bits of Old Manchester That Has Not Fallen a Victim to the Modern Builder—Favorite Corner of the Cotton City For Minor Poets and Writers With Occasional Greater Ones.

One of the finest bits of Old Manchester that has not yet fallen a victim to the builder is the house called Ye Olde Poets' Corner, at 34-6, Long Millgate. Formerly it was the Sun inn, a favorite house of call for minor poets and writers, and not infrequently the tavern offered a hospitable roof to literary people whose names are still remembered. Early in the last century Long Millgate stood at the top of the steep banks of the Irk, and consisted chiefly of taverns and tanneries. From Hunt's Bank bridge to Bed Bank—names then well known in the cotton city—the line was continuous, being pierced here and there by narrow courts and passages leading to the stream, one of which, by the Town mill, was called Mill-brow, and led to the wooden Mill bridge. This is now no more.

In the early forties William Earnshaw, the landlord of the Sun inn, out of compliment to his customers, changed the name of the hostelry to the Poets' Corner. On Jan. 7, 1843, a dinner was given to his guests, and the verses read on this occasion were afterwards published by the landlord in a small volume called "The Festive Wreath." Bamford, Prince, Swain, Elijah Ridings, Mrs. Linnaeus Banks, then Miss Isabella Varley, and some twenty other frequenters of the house contributed.

To Mrs. Linnaeus Banks, who holds a firm position in our literary annals, says Lloyds Weekly, must be credited "The Manchester Man," a book replete with memories of the old city before the massacre of Peterloo in 1819, when armed troopers rode roughshod over peaceful citizens. This is the story of a foundling adopted by humble but kindly folk, and the authoress makes the following reference, "At the first sound of fife and drum, Bess snatched up Jabez, and leaving house and batting-frame to take care of themselves, rushed along the street to the Sun inn corner, where Long Millgate turns at a sharp angle, the old Grammar School and the Chetham College gate standing at the outer bend of the elbow. That better to see she mounted the steps of the house next to the Sun and strained her eyes as the gay procession wound from the apple market, passed the handsome black and white frame house of the Grammar School's headmaster, and . . . marched under the ancient arched gateway between a double row of Bluecoat Boys."

The college, with its arch, is still there, but the inn was converted six years ago—a part into a curiosity shop, and in the other portion refreshments are supplied.

Governor of Jail for 40 Years

Kingston, Dec. 21.—To-day Mr. C. H. Corbett will have completed forty years of service as Governor of the county gaol here. He was appointed on Dec. 21st, 1865, by the late Sheriff Corbett, the sheriffs at that time having the appointment of all jail officials in their hands. The jail governor was then only eighteen years of age. He is the senior prison official in Ontario, and was reported upon by the late Inspector of Prisons Dr. Chamberlain, as superior to any man in the Province as a prison disciplinarian. Some years ago Mr. Corbett was mentioned in connection with the wardenship of the penitentiary here, when that institution was so badly in need of a head, but a political favorite received the appointment.

Her Scholarship

By ANNA WEBBLING

Copyright, 1905, by P. C. Eastment

Millie sat on the edge of the dock and looked up the road. Far up the dusty line, running between green fields, a toiling wagon spoke of passengers for the ferry, and she swung herself lightly into the launch and busied herself with starting the motor.

It was hard work for a girl, but something had to be done, and the Millie M. was her only resource. It had been fun, in her summer vacations, to play about the boat and help her father at the wheel, but now that he was ill she must take his work and every day, in fair weather or wet, make the hourly trips across the four mile stretch of water which lay between the two states.

Could she have finished her course at college she might have found some other way of supporting herself and her father, but there was an opportunity here to continue her studies, and when rheumatism had laid her father flat upon his back she had given up the last term and had come home to be both captain and engineer of the little ferry.

Between December and April the lake was frozen over, and if business was brisk this summer there might be a chance to take a half year. It would delay her graduation at least a year, perhaps two, but her chief duty was toward her father, who, since her babyhood, had striven so hard to replace that mother she had lost. He lavished upon her the affection a child naturally would expect from both parents.

When Captain Blake had been compelled to take to his bed his first thought was for his daughter, the second for the ferry line. If he gave it up some one else would start a line, and when he should be better he would find his means of livelihood gone.

But even at that he would not hear of Millie's giving up the term, and the girl settled the matter herself by calmly coming home and putting the launch in commission as soon as the ice went out.

It had been a busy season, for after hours the patrons of the big hotel on the bluff were wont to hire the boat for excursions, and the entries on the credit side of the bank book cheered Millie when at times it seemed that she, too, would have to give in.

There were eight in the party that waited to cross the lake, but only the strapping sheriff attracted her attention as he dropped into the launch and climbed over the partition separating the engines from the space reserved for passengers.

"Most ready to give in, Millie?" he asked as the girl made room for him on the seat beside her.

"Not yet," she answered as she reached for the wheel. "I won't let them say that I married you so as to be able to complete my course."

"I guess they know well enough that we have been engaged ever since I went into long trousers," he urged. "Besides, if you really love me you will not care what people say."

"Can't you understand how I feel?" she demanded. "I do love you, Dick, but they must not say that I married you just because you had the money I needed. They must realize that I married you because I wanted you. You have your spurs as sheriff to win; I have my diploma to work for. Then we can be married."

"And live happy ever after," he completed. "Just wait until I capture the Mayville bank robbers, and I'll win your consent in spite of you."

"Who are they?" she asked curiously.

He laid a slip of paper on the seat, but just then the last of the passengers settled themselves and the boat glided out into the lake, Millie's hands as steady upon the wheel as though the man she loved were not sitting beside her.

She thought no more of the paper until she came down to the dock after supper to get the launch ready for a trip down the lake with a party from the hotel. Then she glanced over the printed slip, offering an aggregate reward of $20,000 for the three men whose robbery of the Mayville bank was the latest of a daring series.

So engrossed did she become that she had to hurry at the last, and just as she looked up from her task, ready to pull out and run down to the hotel dock, she faced an exceedingly businesslike revolver held by a determined looking man.

"We want to cross the lake," he said roughly, "and you can't get across any too quick either."

"This boat is engaged for the evening," she said calmly, though her heart beat high as she realized that there were three in the party—the very men at whose portraits she had been looking.

"You bet it's engaged," was the rough response, "and you want to make a start mighty prompt."

Her quick ear caught the beat of hoofs down the road, and she sought to make a delay, but there was something in the leader's face that meant business, and, with no comment, she turned to the motor and the boat glided out into the lake.

At the direction of the leader she crowded on full speed, and soon the chug-chug of the explosions became a whir as the screw churned the water and the boat shot ahead.

From the talk oft she knew that the pursuers had taken to rowboats, but they had small chance against the Millie M., and the three men amused themselves by jeering at their pursuers.

Once across the lake Millie knew that they would have an opportunity to escape before the officers could be aroused, and the chance of Dick Davis getting the reward would be lost, since the arrest would be made in another state.

All at once an idea flashed through her brain, and she gave the wheel a twist. The men were quick to notice the maneuver, and the leader was at her side in an instant.

"If you're turning round," he declared, "you're going to run right straight into eternity."

"I gathered from your talk that you did not expect friends to meet you at the landing pier," she laughed. "As long as you insist upon being taken across I was heading for a point lower down. There is a small station there where you can take your train if you want one."

The leader lowered his pistol. "You've got sense," he declared admiringly. "Instead of having hysterics you know your business. You'll land us there and we'll make the passage money a hundred apiece. Pretty good pay, ain't it?"

Millie laughed an assent, though her heart was in her mouth. Just beyond was a sand bank, the only one in this part of the lake. At the speed the boat was going she could drive it into the mud so tightly that they could not work it off. This would give Dick a chance to catch up with them.

With eyes straining through the deepening gloom, she drove the boat ahead until, with a crash, it buried its nose in the soft, sticky mud. The shock threw the men to the bottom of the boat, and with a spring Millie possessed herself of the pistol.

"If you make a move I'll shoot!" she cried.

In spite of the warning, one of the men rose to his feet. With a courage born of desperation the girl pulled the trigger. With a yell, he fell heavily to the bottom of the boat, a bullet in his hip.

The shot was answered by one nearer the shore, and, backing toward the engine, Millie blew the whistle at intervals until two rowboats loomed up through the darkness, and Dick Davis sprang into the launch.

There was a short, sharp fight, but the captors were too many for the fugitives.

Millie fainted, and it was not until the launch had been towed and shoved from the mud that she revived, and with trembling hands headed once more for the home dock.

After the posse had been paid there was still $1,900 left, and by the end of the summer Dick Davis' brother had learned to run the launch and Millie Davis went back to college on what she laughingly explained to her husband was the "sheriff scholarship."

Dick had insisted upon her marriage before she went, and, somehow, that evening in the boat had showed her how much she needed him.

Hindoo Conception of Immortality.

Christians believe in the immortality of the soul, as do the Hindoos, but the contrast here is striking. Christians believe that God created man and that there was a time when we were not. Hindoos believe that the soul is uncreated and that it has already existed forever as it will continue to live forever. Christians suppose that at death the soul enters "an eternal state" where it will continue forever, but Hindoos think of death merely as an incident in the long chain of endless changes which go on without beginning or end, unless indeed in rare instances some one attain salvation. Salvation to the Christian means heaven, but to the educated Hindoo it means absorption in the Deity and the loss of our individual existence. Save as it finds this salvation, then, the soul goes on and on forever and exists in a vast variety of forms—on earth, in heaven, in hell, as god, devil, insect, animal, man, having all experiences and undergoing every possible form of happiness and woe, though on the whole suffering predominates.—Chautauquan.

Everything Limited.

The old farmer went to one end of the swaying coach to wash his hands. He could find only a few remnants of soap. "Boy," he drawled, "there don't seem to be much soap here?"

"No, sah," chuckled the porter. "You knew dis is de limited. Ebbything abohd am limited."

Then the old man tried to fill a glass from the water cooler. He could force out only a few drops.

"Where's the water, boy?"

"Not much water, sah. Dat am limited too."

Presently the porter brushed the old farmer down, and the latter handed him nine coppers.

"Why, boss," protested the porter, "yo' gib de porter on de udder train a quarter."

"I know that," chuckled the old farmer, "but you know this is the limited, and everything should be limited."—Chicago News.

The Rush of the Pintail.

The species of wild ducks known as pintails have a peculiar habit during the mating season of descending from a great altitude at an angle of about 45 degrees with the wings stiffly outspread and slightly curved downward. The bird is frequently so high that the noise produced by its passage through the air is heard for several seconds before the bird comes into sight. It descends like a meteor till within a few feet of the ground, when a slight change in the position of the wings sends the bird gliding away close to the ground several hundred yards without a stroke of the wings. The sound produced by this swift passage through the air can only be compared to the rushing of the wind through tree tops. At first it is like a murmur, then it rises to a hiss, and as the bird sweeps by it is almost a roar.

Hotel For Children.

Paris has an infants' crib where the babe about town may spend an idle afternoon, but London comes a good second with a hotel for children. This hotel is known as the Norland nurseries. Here in suits of two rooms the children of the well to do may find a town address while parents are traveling or enduring unamiable climates. The guests range from atoms of a month or so to veterans of eight or nine, and each three have a day and night nursery to themselves. There are six of these suits, providing accommodations for some eighteen children, and the cost varies according to the age of the children.

GOD HEARD PRAYER

Wish of Alcoholic Patient in New York Hospital is Instantly Gratified.

New York, December 20. — George Gulat, 60 years old, of No. 350 West Forty-first street, a patient in the alcoholic ward of Bellevue Hospital, walked up and down the ward today and appeared dependent. Suddenly he sat down on the side of his cot an exclaimed: "I wish to God I were dead."

Hardly had the words left his tongue than he fell back on his cot dead. This created consternation among the other inmates of the ward and it was some minutes before they could be quieted. The cause of death given in the report to the Coroner's office is chronic alcoholism.

To Protect French Interests.

Paris, Dec. 22.—A cruiser detached from the French squadron at Saigon, French Indo-China, is now proceeding to Shanghai. The officials here say this is a measure of precaution as no French interests have yet been molested.

An official despatch from Pekin this afternoon says that an imperial edict just issued, following energetic representations on the part of the foreign Ministers, promises to terminate the trouble at Shanghai.

She Can't Enjoy The Baby

Unless she is a healthy mother. No woman can. If the baby has drained her vitality; if its care is a tax; if, in short, the baby is a burden instead of a blessing, how can she enjoy it? She loves it, but she cannot feed it. She yearns for it, but has not the strength to fondle it.

There is nothing more beautiful in the world than a healthy mother and her healthy child. The madonna is the highest reach of human art. In the serene strength which art gives to the typical mother and child there is distinct denial of suffering and weakness as a necessity of motherhood. But how few women are there to whom motherhood is naturally an abiding joy. In how many cases a woman dates her loss of health from the birth of her child! To all such suffering women Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes as a veritable god-send. It prepares the mother for her hour of trial, tranquillizes her nerves, encourages her appetite, and brings her restful sleep. It makes the baby's advent practically painless, and gives the mother abundant strength to nurse and nourish her child.

Every claim made for "Favorite Prescription" is supported by the testimonials of wives and mothers, thousands in number, and covering in their several experiences the whole range of womanly suffering. In a great number of cases after the utter failure of all doctors and medicines, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, tried as a last resort, has effected a perfect and permanent cure.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All womanly confidences held under the seal of strict professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription," and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

Between Life and Death.

"I think Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' the best medicines in the world," writes Mrs. Amelia Dougherty, of Kenyon, Wayne Co., Mo. "My baby was born last summer. After baby came I became ill, had the best physician that could be had, and he diagnosed my case as uterine trouble and bearing down. Medicine seemed to do me no good; I despaired between life and death for a while, every day growing weaker, until I was not able to sit up in bed. My friends thought I would die any minute. A friend wrote and told me about Dr. R. V. Pierce, and I at once wrote to him for medical advice. He replied immediately, giving me full instructions as to what to do, all of which I followed implicitly, and when I had taken his medicine for a month I felt a good deal stronger. When I had taken it about one month I felt so strong as I do to-day. I took four bottles of each kind and two vials of 'Pleasant Pellets.' Many thanks for the medicine. It has saved me permanently."

Gained 40 Pounds.

"I am very glad to let other poor sufferers know what Dr. Pierce's medicines have done for me," writes Mrs. Edwin H. Gardner, of Smallwood, Norfolk Co., Mass., Box 76. "You know I wrote to you last summer. I read what your medicine had done for other people, so I said I would try it, and I found that it was a blessing to me and my family. I began to feel good after six bottles of your medicine, and three vials of 'Pellets.' I took your medicine a year when I had a nice ground girl. I had the easiest time I ever had with any of my three children. I have been very well since I took your medicine. I took three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' three of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and three vials of 'Pellets.' I had an appetite and could get out much without it distressing me before I took your 'Favorite Prescription' and I only weighed 125 pounds. Now I weigh 172 pounds."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets commend themselves as a family laxative. They are easy to take, effective in results, and their use does not beget the pill habit.

You Lack the Vigor, Courage and Staying Power that "Ferrozone" Can Supply

Night comes and it's hard to sleep. Morning dawns and the anxious, tired feeling is still there. Don't neglect this gradual decline; it can't cure itself. But by forming rich, pure blood, Ferrozone will quickly supply the nutriment and building material your system craves.

Instantly you are aware that some powerful force is building up your depleted energies. Day by day you feel braced, toned, strengthened. Search the world over and you won't find anything to tone up a weak system like Ferrozone. Physicians claim it is the most strengthening, uplifting medicine ever discovered.

No mere spells of tiredness, but bounding, joyful health when you take Ferrozone, of which Mrs. H. S. Gold, of Bowman, Man., speaks in the following words of praise:

"I state my case hoping I think it may assist other women to health. A year ago I was almost a wreck. I was pale and emaciated, suffering from nervousness, and hysteria. Little things going wrong in the house bothered me. The doctor advised different treatments but they didn't help. He said my low condition was due to weakness that might never be cured. Ferrozone had a peculiar grateful effect and built me up quickly. The ills I suffered from are cured. I am now strong and vigorous and was made so by Ferrozone."

Why not cast aside the claims of sickness and enter the bright, happy life of robust health. Let Ferrozone help you—let it cure you once and forever. Price 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

CANADIAN BRANCH PLANTS

The Detroit Free Press sees food for reflection in the fact that 122 of the leading business concerns of the United States have established branch plants in Canada, involving a financial loss to the United States of $50,000,000.

Part of this movement is due, as one Detroit contemporary remarks, to the tariff, which it mistakenly calls "retaliatory." Our tariff is but one-half that of the Republic. In no line has it been formed in retaliation, but all round for revenue with incidental protection to industries. Nor is this wholesale exodus due to "strained relations" of any kind due to an offensive attitude. Successive Dominion Governments have held out the hand in friendly overtures only to meet with rejection on the part of the United States. Every effort of American manufacturers to obtain tariff amendment in the direction of reciprocity has been "turned down" at Washington, which has excluded our agricultural products from American markets by a tariff wall twice as high as our own.

The American branch industries have been established here for several reasons apart from the tariff. One is the expansion of the Dominion which has widened the home markets; another, the abundance and cheapness of the raw materials which have been more or less exhausted in the United States; another, the absence of the labor problems which prevail across the lines. But the greatest of all is the fact that Canada is an integral part of the British Empire, which can be reached in its remotest lands with greater ease and facility than from the Republic.

BRITISH NAVAL ACTIVITY

The British Admiralty is keeping ships and men hustling these days. The policy of Sir John Fisher is to maintain an adequate striking force on a war footing at the most commanding strategic spots, for any possible emergency. He has also ordered that when the Atlantic fleet and the second cruiser squadron return to England for Christmas leave they are to be immediately replaced in their own waters by the channel fleet and the first cruiser squadron. Meanwhile arrangements are so complete at the home dockyards that at a danger notice the reserves can be fully mobilised. In February next a series of combined manoeuvres will be held. It is understood that the real purport of them is to test the effectiveness of the existing distribution of British naval forces in Europe.

Good Material For Next Year's Council

Mayor Best Re-elected by Acclamation--Mr. T. F. Matthews Re-elected by Acclamation For Water Works Commissioner--30 Candidates for Aldermen.

Just as the clock struck ten yesterday morning, City Clerk Armstrong made the usual announcement that was ready to receive nominations for mayor, water commissioners and Board of Education; when the announcement was made the entire audience consisted of one solitary reporter, representative shortly afterwards, by 10.15, a few people began to straggle in. His Worship Mayor Best, Mr. Thompson, G. Morrow, R. McWilliams, W. H. Moore, W. H. Hill, R. E. Wood, Ald. Johnston, Ald. Hall, J. L. Hughes, F. Matthews, J. J. McBain, T. Quartermaine, Pringle and others were present. About 10.30 the nominations began to pour in. They resulted as follows:

MAYOR.

Henry Best renominated for Mayor by W. H. Moore, seconded by Ald. McDonald.

WATER COMMISSIONERS.

T. F. Matthews, nominated by R. E. Wood.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

W. Pringle, nominated by R. F. McWilliams; W. H. Hill, by W. H. Moore; Dr. Burnham, by W. Pringle; Robert Neil, by W. J. Thompson; Dr. R. P. Boucher, by Adam Hall; W. G. Ferguson, by W. H. Hill; Peter Campbell, by J. J. McBain; E. A. Peck, by W. H. Moore; J. J. Hartley, by Adam Hall; John Crowe, by Adam Hall; M. A. Morrison, by M. N. Mitchell; Robt. Fair, by G. M. Rogers; J. L. Hughes, by W. H. Kelly; H. Morgan, by T. Quartermaine; J. J. McBain, by J. Stevenson; Jas. Stevenson, by J. L. Hughes; E. Ackerman, by M. W. Mitchell; D. W. Dumble, by Jas. Stevenson.

At 11 o'clock, City Clerk Armstrong declared the nominations, as above, closed, and, after reading the names of candidates, took the polling proceedings. Mr. G. M. Rogers moved that Mayor Best be elected by acclamation. His Worship expressed his satisfaction at being elected twice running by acclamation. He next referred to manufacturing industries, saying that several manufacturers had visited the city lately and were greatly pleased with what they saw. We are now looking to two or three places for factories.

Mr. F. Matthews, chairman of the Water Commissioners, thanked those present for his re-nomination. Had been on the Board since the town took over the works. He then read over a few figures showing that although householders' expenses for water had been reduced, the net profits had steadily increased. The property has steadily increased in value. The works cost $237,000, and are now worth $292,000. The Works will be operated at a profit this year. The discounts allowed last year were $3,385.

Mr. Henderson had supplied him with figures for pipes laid last year amounting to 13,366 lineal feet. There are 1,75 services in operation. There are 25 1-2 miles of pipe in operation. The new mains give an increased pressure of 15 per cent.

Mr. D. W. Dumble next spoke. Was for many years on the School Board, but felt there was need for new blood on the Board. There is much dissatisfaction with the Board, mainly financial. The School Board, decided in the interests of the town to build a new Collegiate Institute. He agreed with this, as more accommodation is required.

The Board got an option on three acres at $3,000, including a school house thereon. It would save $600 a year from the Mansion school. If the armouries were built, a play ground would be furnished. Other things were mentioned by members of the Board in favor of this school. The city voted $50,000 for the building. Pictures of the London armouries were brought down to affect the votes. The citizens in selling their property got a big price for their land and also for the buildings. The Government gave $10,000 to secure ground for the armory. The deed was taken over by the town in April. Three four half acre lots were deeded to the Government. The town council, as it was an educational matter, let the School Board have their way. The deputation sent to Ottawa, saw the Minister of Militia. This resulted in leaving two lots on McDonel street, which the Government demanded. Then the town gets one lot for $10,000. The School Board got two lots. School Board paid $10,000, for one-third of the land, and the Government got this building. The lots for play grounds are mainly controlled by the military.

If Peterboro becomes, as thought, a military headquarters, the galloping of artillery, and shouts of the officers would distract the children's attention. It is a mistake to put the school here. Better let the Government pay the money and take all the land.

The plans, without heating, or furniture, resulted in an estimate of $75,000, and would ultimately cost $100,000. The people considered they had been fooled by the School Board, hence the second $60,000 was voted down.

Mr. John J. Hartley, a member of the Board, tendered for this building, which was improper. We want a full conference with the people. Under such circumstances, new blood was needed in the Council; then he would stand for the Board; He does not really want this office; it takes his time up. Would not ask any man for votes, if the people wanted him to serve, he would not.

There should be no room for such a lack of confidence, if the people elected him he would serve, but would be personally better pleased to be left out.

ALDERMEN.

Jas. Fissin, proposed by J. L. Hays, and Walter Wood; Geo. E. Elliott, by W. H. Robinson and Geo. E. Martin; Robt. Hicks, by A. A. Morrison and F. Adams; Frank Adams, by E. A. Morrow and J. E. Hays; H. C. Winch, by T. F. Matthews and H. Best; John H. Smith, by F. Adams and G. H. Duncan; Geo Ball, by J. T. Begley and R. Sisely; Roland McWilliams, by Jos. Batten and J. P. Bryson; Geo. H. Duncan, by John Sawyer and Walter Wood. Thos. Kelly, by Robt. Fair and Walter Wood; Robt. Sheridan, by O. S. Mutchett and G. H. Duncan; W. H. Bradburn, by Adam Hall and F. Matthews; Jas. G. Graham, by G. H. Duncan and O. S. Mutchett; Adam Hall, by Frank Adams and Thos. Kelly; A. McDonald, by T. F. Matthews and R. Fair; A. A. McIntyre, by Jos. Batten and T. J. Begley; E. F. Mason, by F. Adams and H. Best; Jos. Batten, by G. H. Duncan and R. Fair; C. H. Clement, T. F. Matthews and A. Hall; G. W. Green, by Adam Hall and T. J. Wilson; W. J. Johnston, by R. Fair and T. J. Wilson; A. W. Dreaman, by A. Hall and T. F. Matthews; G. J. Tovey, by Jos. Batten and W. G. Morrow Gus. L. Hay, by W. S. Davidson and Adam Hall; John Sawers, by G. H. Duncan and T. J. Wilson; John Nugent, by W. G. Morrow and Adam Hall; W. J. Thompson, by Adam Hall and W. S. Davidson; E. G. Patterson, by W. G. Morrow and T. F. Matthews; Jos. Crowe, by J. E. Johnston and G. Albern Thos. J. Wilson, by W. H. White and J. E. Hays.

The city clerk notified those present that all aldermanic candidates must lyle their qualifications before nine p.m. Saturday.

With thirty candidates in the field there should be good material for next year's council. It is, of course impossible, until nine o'clock to-night to say how many of those nominated will express their intention of running by turning in their qualification certificates.

THE DAIRYMEN'S MEET

All of Eastern Ontario Now Supplied With Bills of the Peterboro Meeting.

Mr. G. A. Gillespie, secretary of the local committee, who so successfully managed to get the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's convention for Peterboro, is to-day, one of the busiest men in the city. Mr. Gillespie prophesies a grand meeting for next January; one that will not only fill our hotels for three days, and cause thousands of outside dollars to circulate in Peterboro, but will result in giving this city an advertisement all over the Provinces, that must result in favorable returns later on. Mr. Gillespie has just completed billing not only this county, Victoria, Durham, Hastings, Northumberland, etc., but all of Eastern Ontario, about the convention. Yesterday he received intelligence that the services of Mr. O. A. Gamsby, of Orono, a celebrated vocalist, have been secured for the evening sessions of the convention. Arrangements have also been completed whereby the Grand Opera House orchestra will dispense sweet strains at every evening session in the opera house. He desires that all our citizens should know that everyone, particularly including the ladies, will be welcomed at the evening sessions in the opera house.

This is one of the grandest opportunities Peterboro has ever had to get a gathering of nearly 1,000 intelligent and well-to-do gentlemen together for three days, and have our city's advantages lauded broadcast.

TORONTO MAYORALTY

Fight Will Be Between Spence and Coatsworth.

Toronto, Dec. 22.—The Mayoralty fight in Toronto this year will be between two candidates, Controller F. S. Spence, and Ald. Emerson Coatsworth.

Mayor Urquhart was nominated, but withdrew in favor of Mr. Spence. There was a large crowd at the nominations which were held in the city hall and great interest was taken in the contest, as both nominees are strong temperance men, although opposed in politics, Spence being a Liberal and Coatsworth a Conservative.

Nothing Done at York Loan Meet

The meeting, as foretold in The Times, held on Thursday evening, called by Mayor Best, of local investors in the York Loan Co., amounted to nothing as far as real business results were concerned. Mr. E. H. D. Hall first addressed the meeting. Mr. Hall explained that the matter was before the Court of Appeal. The Ontario Government had appointed an auditor and until his report was made it was almost impossible to do anything.

Mr. Hall pointed out that the money of the company was tied up in a block of real estate in Toronto if this was disposed of in one piece, the affairs of the company might be finished up in a year. On the other hand, if the property were sold in the lots it might take several years, although it would be more profitable. He suggested that a committee be appointed to watch proceedings and notify the shareholders when to prove their claims.

Mayor Best was opposed to appointing a committee until after the liquidators had finished. Mr. R. F. McWilliams addressed the meeting on the same lines as Mr. Hall.

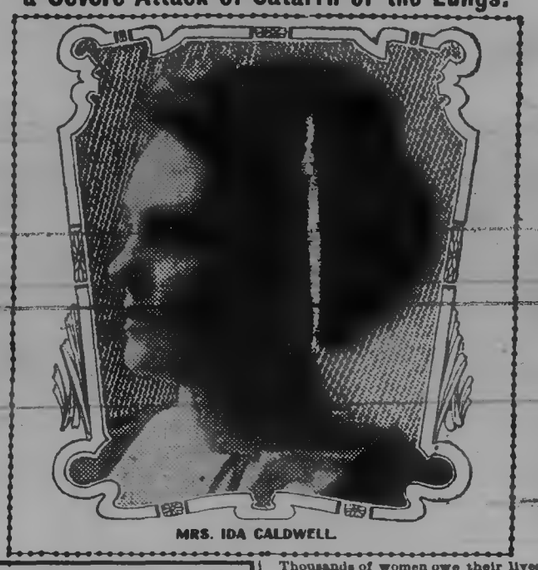
Mr. G. W. Hattons, solicitor for the Bank of Ottawa, suggested that the payments on stock should be deposited in the chartered banks, which would pay regular bank interest upon them.

It was finally decided that Mayor Best call a meeting later on to protect local shareholders.

—Mr. J. A. O'Donahoe and sister, Campbellford, were registered at the Oriental yesterday.

HER PHYSICIANS DESPAIRED. ADVISED CHANGE OF CLIMATE.

Pe-ru-na, Used as a Last Resort, Cured Her of a Severe Attack of Catarrh of the Lungs.



MRS. IDA CALDWELL.

The Sensational Cure of Mrs. Caldwell is the Talk of Her Acquaintances.

Mrs. Ida Caldwell, 506 Pearl street, Sioux City, Ia., Vice-President Order of Washington, writes:

"I suffered with catarrh of the respiratory organs off and on for the last three years until I thought it was chronic. My chest and lungs were irritated and I had to use the greatest care not to expose myself to chilly air or dampness as it increased my troubles.

"My physician advised me to try a change of climate, but I was unable to leave my family. Reading of the wonderful cures performed by Peruna, I bought a bottle.

"It was with the greatest satisfaction that I found it the one medicine among them all which cured me. I was relieved within three days and after two months and a half the irritation was gone, my lungs perfectly healed and my health restored."—Ida Caldwell.

Thousands of women owe their lives to Peruna. Hundreds of thousands owe their health to Peruna. Hundreds of thousands are praising Peruna in every state of the Union.

We have many thousands of letters from grateful women, with permission to use them in public print, which can never be used for want of space.

Catarrh would not be such a curse in this country if the people thoroughly understand its nature. It must be treated at once to prevent it from making inroads upon vital organs.

If you suffer from catarrh, buy Peruna to-day, for a day gained on the enemy, catarrh, means a day nearer recovery.

We have on file many thousand testimonials like the one given here. We can only give our readers a slight glimpse of the vast array of unsolicited endorsements we are receiving. No other physician in the world has received such a volume of enthusiastic letters of thanks as Dr. Hartman for Peruna.

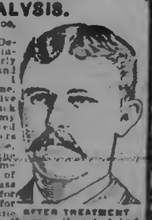
BEFORE TREATMENT



AFTER TREATMENT

Peter E. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I was dead or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, were an electric belt for three months, went to Mt. Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kergan, though I had little faith, as I had spent much money with little benefit. They cured me and saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through my nerves. I was cured mentally, physically and sexually. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

As I looked into his face all my strength seemed to go from me. Without a second's hesitation I sat down as he commanded me, and stared in a stupid, dazed fashion at the floor. I no longer had any will of my own. Of course I can see now that he had hypnotized me! but his methods must have been more deadly than I have ever seen exercised before, for he did not insist upon my looking into his eyes for any length of time, nor did he make any passes before my face as I had seen professional mesmerists do. He simply glanced at me—perhaps a little more fixedly than usual—and all my will was immediately taken from me. When I was calm he spoke again.

"You are better now," he said, "so I can talk. Please pay particular attention to what I am going to say, and what I tell you to do you will do to the letter. To begin with, you will now go back to your hotel, and, as soon as you reach it, go to bed. You will sleep without waking till four o'clock this afternoon, then you will dress and go for a walk. During that walk you will think of the man who has wronged you, and the more you think of him the fiercer your hatred for him will become. At six o'clock you will return to your hotel and dine, going to sleep again in the smoking-room till ten. When the clock has struck you will wake, take a hansom, and drive to 23, Great Gunter Street, Soho. Arriving at the house, you will ask for Levi Solomon, to whom you will be at once conducted. He will look after you until I can communicate with you again. That is your program for the day. I order you not to fail in any single particular of it. Now you had better be off. It is nearly six o'clock."

I rose from my seat and followed him out into the passage like a dog; thence we made our way into the yard. To my surprise a cab was standing waiting for us, the lamps glaring like fierce eyes into the dark archway which led into the street.

"Get in," said Nikola, opening the apron. "My man will drive you to your hotel. On no account give him a gratuity, for I do not countenance it, and he knows my principle. Good night."

I obeyed him mechanically, still without emotion, and when I was seated the cab drove out into the street.

Throughout the journey back to the hotel I sat in the corner trying to think, and not succeeding. I was only conscious that, whatever happened, I must obey Nikola in all he had told me to do. Nothing else seemed of any importance.

On approaching my residence, I wondered how I should obtain admittance; but as it turned out, that proved an easy matter, for when I arrived the servants were already up and about, and the front door stood open. Disregarding the stare of astonishment with which I was greeted, I went upstairs to my room, and in less than ten minutes was in bed and fast asleep.

Strangely enough, considering the excitement of the previous twenty-four hours, my sleep was dreamless. It seemed only a few minutes from the time I closed my eyes till I was awake again, yet the hands of my watch had stood at half-past six a.m. when I went to bed, and when I opened my eyes again they chronicled four o'clock exactly. So far I had fulfilled Nikola's instructions to the letter. Without hesitation I rose from my bed, dressed myself carefully, and when I was ready donned my overcoat and went out for a walk.

The evening was bitterly cold, and heavy snow was falling. To keep myself warm I hurried along, and as I went I found my thoughts reverting continually to Bartrand. I remembered my life at Markapurlie, and the cat-and-dog existence I had passed there with him. Then the memory of poor old Ben's arrival at the station came back to me as distinctly as if it had been but yesterday, and with its coming the manager's brutality roused me afresh. I thought of the fight we had had, and then of the long weeks of nursing at the wretched Mail Change on the plains. In my mind's eye I seemed to see poor old Ben sitting up in bed and telling me his secret, and when I was once more convalescent, went over, day by day, my journey to the Boolga Ranges, and dreamt again the dreams of wealth that had occupied my brain then, only to find myself robbed of my fortune at the end. Now the man who had stolen my chance in life was one of the richest men in England. He had in his possession all that is popularly supposed to make life worth the living, and while he entertained royalty, bought race-horses and yachts, and enjoyed every advantage in life at my expense, left me to get along as best I might. I might die of starvation in the gutter for all he would care. At that moment I was passing a newsagent's stall. On a board before the door, setting forth the contents of an evening newspaper, was a line that brought me up all standing with surprise, as the sailors say. "Bartrand's Generosity.—A Gift to the People," it ran. I went inside, bought a copy of the paper, and stood in the light of the doorway to read the paragraph. It was as follows:—

"Mr. Richard Bartrand, the well-known Australian millionaire, has, so we are informed, written to the London County Council offering to make a free gift to the city of that large area of ground recently occupied by Montgomery House, of which he has lately become the possessor. The donor makes but one stipulation, and that is that it shall be converted into public gardens, and shall be known in the future as Bartrand Park. As the ground in question was purchased at auction by the millionaire last week for the large sum of fifty thousand pounds, the generosity of this gift cannot be over-estimated."

To the surprise of the newsagent I crushed the paper up, threw it on the ground, and rushed from the shop in a blind rage. What right had he to pose as a public benefactor, who was only a swindler and a robber? What right had he to make gifts of fifty thousand pounds to the people, when it was only by his villainy he had obtained the money? But ah! I chuckled to myself, before many hours were over I should be even with him, and then we would see what would happen. A hatred more intense, more bitter, than I could ever have believed one man could entertain for another, filled my breast. Under its influence all my scruples vanished, and I wanted nothing but to cry quits with my enemy.

For more than half an hour I hurried along, scarcely heeding where I went, thinking only of my hatred, and gloating over the hideous revenge I was about to take. That I was doing all this under Nikola's hypnotic influence I now feel certain; but at the time I seemed to be acting on my own initiative, and Nikola to be only playing the part of the deus ex machina.

At last I began to weary of my walk, so, hailing a hansom, I directed the driver to convey me back to my hotel. As I passed through the hall the clock over the billiard-room door struck six, and on hearing it I became aware that in one other particular I had fulfilled Nikola's orders. After dinner I went into the smoking-room, and, seating myself in an easy chair before the fire, lit a cigar. Before I had half smoked it I was fast asleep, dreaming

The Drummer Boy
Gold Mining Company

One of the most promising propositions ever placed before the Canadian investors.

The Company's Offer to Discriminating Investors.

The management is assured that $15,000 will be sufficient to complete the improvements necessary to place the mine on a substantial producing and dividend paying basis. Therefore the directorate has authorized the sale of 15,000 shares of the capital stock at par. The improvements under way include the construction of a mill and concentrating plant, boarding and bunk houses for the miners employed and the installation of machinery required for the teatment of the output of the mine. With dividends assured and a certainty of a sharp advance in the price of this security it is stated with emphasis that no more attractive opportunity for investments could be placed before the public. Custer, Idaho, November 15, 1905.

To the Stock Holders of The Oxarna Mining Co.:—

We have steadily continued the development of our properties since last advising you June 25th. At that time we had no plant erected or contracted for, but now I am pleased to report that we have secured a Ten Stamp Mill, together with Boarding House, Assay Office and all other necessary buildings, originally costing $15,000.00, hence you will know that we have been making great progress, and are rapidly approaching a productive stage, but as we have a final payment to make on this Mill, we will not withdraw our stock from the market until this money is raised. We are now making preparations so that by early spring we can start our Mill for a long and continuous run. You will be advised later on as to the date when we will start so that you can be present if possible.

In addition to this Mill, which is now erected, with all machinery in place and in perfect running order, we have secured the machinery for an other Ten Stamp Mill, consisting of Battery, Seventy-five Horse Power Engine, two Forty Horse Power Boilers, and all other necessary machinery which we expect to install in the Mill now already equipped, which will increase the capacity of our plant from 750 to 1500 tons a month, which means a great saving in the cost of reducing our ores, as it takes about the same labor to operate a Ten Stamp Mill as it does to operate a Twenty Stamp Mill, about the only additional expenses necessary to operate the larger Mill is a little additional fuel. In addition to above machinery we have also purchased an Ingersoll Air Compressor for use in the Mines, at a cost of $1200.00.

We are assured funds to complete our payment on the Ten Stamp Mill and for other purposes, and never having any brokers to place our stock, we have had no commissions to pay, hence we have financed the Company for a less sum than is usually required. We have no debts and will pay no salaries until after the Mill goes into commission.

I also beg to advise you that we expect to take over the control of the stock of the Corning Mining Company, at an early date, giving a part of our stock in payment therefore. This will give us an additional eighty acres of Mineral Land, twenty acres of which is the Black Mine. This Mine has produced $100,000.00 net, and has one mile of development, costing over $75,000.00, and an additional sum of $10,127.00 has been expended in developments this and last summer. Our Mill is on this group and is adjoined by "The Lucky Boy Mine," which has produced $1,000,000, and by "The Badger Group," which has paid $500,000.00 on a capital of $130.00.

The time is rapidly approaching when THE OXARNA COMPANY WILL BE ONE OF THE STEADY PRODUCERS, and I urge each of the stock holders to buy all the stock that he or she can pay for while it can be had at the exceedingly low price of 10 cents a share. The officers are increasing their holdings and we want to give all the stock holders an equal chance with us. I have just put $1,000.00 more cash into the Company's Treasury for stock at 10 cents a share, the same that you will pay if you take advantage of this opportunity NOW.

I trust that you will be pleased with this report and with the efforts that are being made by your officers for the interests of each stock holder.

REGINALD CORYELL, Manager Oxarna Gold Minging Company.

To the readers of "The Times":—

The above report has been sent out to all our stock holders, and the allotment of stock for sale at 10 cents a share is being rapidly taken, for the ore that we are now taking out averages over $67.00 a ton and, with our Twenty Stamp Mill in operation, our earnings will not be less than $30,000.00 net per month, which will enable us to pay at least 100 per cent. (ten times the present cost) in dividends within six months from the time we put the Mill in commission. For immediate acceptance only, I can offer this stock for 10 cents a share cash, or one-quarter of the amount with order and a like amount in 30, 60 and 90 days. Make all orders payable to the undersigned, or remit through the NATIONAL BANK OF DELPHOS.

Post Office a Busy Place.

The Christmas rush at the Postoffice is now at its height. Postmaster Rogers and staff have been working early and late, and have prevented any very great congestion.

The Rush Today.

Should the weather be favorable the rush of Christmas shoppers today will be very great. The holiday trade has not been so good this year as on former years, due no doubt to the unseasonable weather. The probabilities are, therefore, that the shop keepers will have all they can do today.

Smallpox Dying Out.

The smallpox outbreak in Chandos is now completely under control, thanks to the energy of Dr. Bell, Medical Health Officer, of Apsley, and the Provincial Health Department. A letter from the north to The Times states that the disease is gradually dying out.

He Likes The Times.

Mr. D. McMartin, of Deseronto, who for twenty years or more has been a constant reader of this great family journal, dropped in to renew his subscription yesterday. Mr. McMartin says The Times is a welcome daily visitor to his home, and an indispensible adjunct to his happiness.

St. Paul's Tomorrow.

The services at St. Paul's Presbyterian church tomorrow will be of a special character. The church has been beautifully decorated for the occasion. The choir, under the capable leadership of Mr. Crane, will render a choice selection of music appropriate to the occasion.

A Successful Season.

Mr. D. McMartin, who holds the responsible position of Superintendent of the big Rathbun saw-mills at Deseronto, accompanied by Mrs. McMartin, is spending a few days in town, the guest of his brother-in-law, Mr. Joseph Naylor. Mr. McMartin, ever since he left Peterboro six years ago, has looked after the running of the Rathbun mills. Although men were scarce last season, the company had a very successful year, the big mills running continuously from early spring until a few days ago, without any serious break.

A GENEROUS DEED.

Girls Given Fifty Per Cent of Loss by York Loan Co.

A deed was done a few days ago that reflects great credit on a George street dry goods and gents' furnishing store.

In this gentleman's employ are several girls who had invested sums ranging from $50 to $100 each in the York Loan Co. A few days ago this merchant, proprietor of a large double store on George street, called these girls to his private office and spoke about their alleged losses. The merchant said in substance: "Girls, I want all my employees to have a merry Christmas. Now, I know that the loss of your money would prevent this. Now, I think that the York Loan Co. will not pay more than 50 cents on the dollar. I have given instructions to my bookkeeper to issue cheques to each of you, good for 50 per cent. of your alleged losses."

Such an action as this is one that should be fully recognized. We suppress the name of this merchant by request of the gentleman supplying us with the information, as he stated the gentleman would not like his name mentioned.

WIRE THOUSAND ISSUED

Circulation of the Times Going Up very Rapidly.

The circulation of The Times has been going up by leaps and bounds during the autumn months. Yesterday our issue exceeded 2,500 copies.

As soon as we get settled in our new premises, recently purchased by us, we intend to instal an up-to-date newspaper plant, and will endeavor to produce a morning daily newspaper very little, if any, behind the papers of Toronto. We believe there is an immense field here for a first-class newspaper, covering all Eastern Ontario, and we propose to print such a paper.

Snow Plowing.

There has been many complaints regarding the way the snow plowing has been done after the big snow storm of Wednesday night. A gentleman told The Times that some of the streets had not been touched at all, while on others the plow was so late getting to work that it did more harm than good on account of the beaten path in the centre of the walks which it was unable to remove.

Mrs. Mulligan's Boy.

The following was given The Times yesterday for publication in these columns: Tommy was absent from school for one entire day. But he brought a note or excuse the next morning, which would prove that he had been detained at home legitimately. The writing was hardly that of a feminine hand, and the note appeared to have been written laboriously. Furthermore, the penmanship seemed to be strangely familiar to his teacher. The note read as follows:

"Dear Teacher: Please excuse Tomy for not coming to scool yestidy, he couldn't come. I tore my pants. Yours truley, Mrs. Mulligan."

Stop Hounding Deer.

The Times yesterday had a call from Mr. McIntosh, who lives in the back part of Chandos. Mr. McIntosh, who is an old hunter, says that the deer are decreasing rapidly. He urges still-hunting, abandoning hounds, and rifle, allowing the use of rifles only, and if the deer take to the water, let them go. He read of where one hundred men and two hundred dogs were at work, and the result was the deer got no rest, were run from place to place, until they were either killed, or perished from wounds, or from being heated, and then taking a long swim in cold water. Stop hounding and the deer will increase in numbers.

The Trenton Route.

The Port Hope Times says, that an engineer of wide experience, one who is in a position to know the substance of the reports which the surveyors of the various proposed routes of the Trent Valley Canal will make to the Government, declares that the Trenton route is out of the question, and that it will be impossible for the Government to select it, however much it may desire to do so.

The Port Hope route, he declares, is beyond question the best in every respect, and reports will indicate this fact. This route is the most likely to be adopted so far as can be known. The only other route which presents anything approaching the advantages of the Port Hope route is one that has been surveyed to Cobourg. And this route is in many particulars much inferior to that via Port Hope.

The Land of the Aztecs.

Who has not read of the glories and wonders of old Mexico? Tis says when Montezuma ruled gorgeous court in the ancient capital in Gran Tenochtitlan are departed, but they have left Mexico one of the most interesting countries in the world. Pictures quo Tuma and ruins, as a setting of flowers and sunshine, everywhere delight the fortunate visitor; each day's travel reveals fresh beauties. And all of the ruins a new Mexico is arising, a land of possibilities, abounding in resources of all kinds. In the peasants' hands the soil will yield five crops a year, metals and minerals in abundance. Our business men have here a splendid field for investment, and should see and judge the land for themselves. Leisurely investigation under sunny skies will be pleasant work, while the ladies will be delighted with their bargains in native work and precious stones.

An attractive itinerary, covering the whole of Mexico and the best of the Southern States, and including a visit to Cuba, and New Orleans for "Mardi Gras," has been arranged for the Cuthbert Home-party tour, leaving Toronto early in February next. The special private train will contain every possible comfort and luxury, and the cuisine equal to that of a first-class hotel. A pleasant, smooth running trip is assured, the management having had long experience in this branch of travel. Canadian enterprise, when it is the best, is worthy of your attention. Full particulars with descriptive literature, upon application to E. M. Cuthbert, 25 Maitland street, Toronto, or C. B. Foster, District Passenger Agent, C.P. Ry., Toronto.

Hummel Guilty.

Buffalo, Dec. 21.—A big fight is on in the Surrogate Court here relative to the appointment of an administrator of the estate of the late David McCormack, who has a brother and sister living at Amherst Island, Ont., and scores of nephews and nieces elsewhere in Canada.

McCormack died at Providence Retreat here Dec. 7th, where he had been for over a year as an incompetent. He was a well-known Buffalo lake captain, and amassed considerable property. Shortly before he was taken to Providence Retreat he and his wife were found subsisting on potatoe peelings and very mean fare although they had plenty of money in a local bank.

One of the worst cases of asthma ever known was Mr. Sim, of Leamington. He suffered from asthma and bronchitis for 28 years, but has been completely cured by a new treatment and will send particulars and recipe to anyone troubled with asthma or bronchitis. Write E. Sim, Box 144, Leamington, Ontario.

Lived Like Misers.

New York, Dec. 22.—Justice Rogers sentenced Hummel to one year's imprisonment in the penitentiary and $500 fine. This is the maximum penalty. Hummel was one of the most widely known of New York's lawyers. He had been connected with a number of celebrated cases. He entered the law office in which he is now the senior partner many years ago as an office boy.

The charge upon which he was convicted was conspiracy in the Dodge-Moore divorce litigation, in which he sought to show that Mrs. Moore's divorce from Dodge was invalid. The object of this was to upset her marriage to Moore, who is a very wealthy banker and owner of steamship companies.

Can She Save Them?

Many a poor mother who feels that those she holds most precious are gradually slipping away from her over the terrible precipice of disease, would be thankful to know what Doctor Pierce's wonderful "Golden Medical Discovery" has done to restore thousands of weak and wasted children to complete rounded, rosy, healthy, activity and life.

"Five years ago this last fall I was taken down with a fever and was very bad for several months," writes Mrs. Henrietta Bell, of Diamond, Ohio. She continues: "Finally recovered from the fever, then my lungs became very bad. The doctor said I had consumption, and that he had done all he could for me, and he did not think that I could get well. My case was a very dangerous one. Became very weak, had night-sweats, also a very bad cough, night and day. [illegible] my time on earth would be short. Requested my husband to get me a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and perhaps it would help me. Before I had taken one bottle my cough was almost gone. The next to disappear were the night-sweats. I am almost sure that if it had not been for your medicine I would not have been here to-day."

If mothers will only write to Dr. Pierce concerning the ailments of their family he will send them sound and valuable advice in a plain sealed envelope, and without any charge whatever. His remarkably wide experience has qualified him to deal with diseases which baffle the local practitioner. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Barricaded Streets Carried By Storm

Casualities on Friday Totalled 150--Attacks on Strike Leaders.

St. Petersburg, December 24.—Telephone messages from Moscow say that 150,000 men are on strike there, that the city is already feeling the pinch of hunger, that many bakeries have been sacked, and that all business is suspended. Even the banks are closed. Only the St. Petersburg and Kieff and Voronoch Railway lines are open.

There have been some attacks upon strikers, especially on student leaders, by the people, and two girls were stripped naked and turned loose in the cold in the vicinity of the Jewish market.

Considerable street fighting has occurred at Moscow, as the result of attempts of the troops and the police to break up processions.

The revolutionists resisted at several places and erected barricades which the dragoons and infantry carried by storm. At some places only lank shells were fired, but at the Varskain street barricade, which was not carried until midnight, there was a scene of slaughter. Several volleys were fired by the troops, and eleven men were killed and eighty were wounded.

CASUALTIES AT MOSCOW.

Altogether the casualties at Moscow yesterday are estimated at 150. In addition wholesale arrests were made.

From the small towns along the railroads come reports of attacks on railroad men. At Elnia seven families were butchered and two delegates were lynched near Kursk.

The organ of the Moscow workmen has appealed to the men to avoid assuming an aggressive attitude, saying that even if the troops fired, "await the signal for armed resistance."

Here in St. Petersburg there is little change in the situation. Several collisions between workmen and the troops have occurred, in which several of the former were killed or wounded, and many agitators were arrested in their lodgings during the night. With the exception of the official organs, only the Novoe Vreyma and Slovo appear.

M. Nenschaleff, the minister of communications, has received a telegram from the employes of his old road, the Southwestern, saying they will keep that system open.

FEAR ERA OF TERRORISM.

Though the printers union is one of the most advanced and most thoroughly organized unions in Russia, it is unable to enforce the newspaper strike. The Novoe Vreyma, Slovo and other conservative papers expect to appear today.

The Pan-Russian Congress of the League of Leagues is scheduled to be held in St. Petersburg tomorrow, but owing to the strike few of the delegates are present, and the meeting probably will be postponed, like the Zemstvo Congress of Moscow, until January.

With the political strike as a revolutionary weapon apparently losing its keenness owing to too frequent use, fears are entertained that the revolutionists may be driven to return to the old methods and inaugurate an era of terrorism.

PEASANTS ENRAGED.

Valdimir, Russia, December 24.—Owing to the hostile attitude of the people here, who attacked the houses of the railroad men, the strike leaders would have been torn to pieces had the troops not interposed. The railroad strike here is ineffective. Most of the employes are working.

Reports received here from several villages in the province tell of the murder of agitators by peasants who were enraged at their attacks on the Emperor. Among the victims was a young woman. Two policemen who tried vainly to save an agitator in the village of Nodol were themselves torn to pieces.

PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT.

Kurks, Russia, December 24. — The striking railroad men of this city have proclaimed a provisional government, and has issued an appeal for support in setting up a Russian republic.

MR. HARTLEY REPLIES

He Emphatically Denies Statements Made By Mr. Dumble.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—I see by your report of the civic nominations in Saturday's issue, a speech made by Mr. D. W Dumble, a candidate for election for the Board of Education.

In this speech, Mr. Dumble, I see, for reasons that he alone may be able to explain, made a most unjustifiable and unfounded attack upon members of the Board. Not content with attacking the Board and their policy in regard to the Collegiate institute, he singled me out as a victim for his venom.

Mr. Dumble's statement that I was a tendering contractor for the Collegiate Institute building, while a member of the Board is absolutely untrue; I neither tendered directly nor indirectly.

I might say, in reference to my past standing in the Board that I was elected unanimously twice while it appears Mr. Dumble coveted, but never reached.

In Mr. Dumble's opinion a working man is of no consequence; this no doubt is his reason for making an unfounded charge against me.

As is known to members of the Board of Education, and to my fellow citizens at large, I was born and have lived all my life in Peterboro, and I defy anyone to point a finger at any act of mine that has been even suspected of dishonesty or anything that savors of graft.

Mr. Dumble is a lawyer, a magistrate and a gentleman of standing in the community, and how he could deliberately bring forward so slanderous a charge, which was absolutely without foundation, I am at a loss to understand.

Thanking you for your courtesy, I am sir,

Yours truly,
J. J. Hartley.

ATHLETIC WORLD

BY OUR SPORTING EDITOR

THE TURF.

Why should not those in this city who love to watch the ponies run have a matinee on New Year's Day. A scratch race could easily be arranged and, weather permitting, large crowds would attend a good race. There are many local horses now in training, these include two belonging to Mr. Martin Connors, our well-known local sportsman and owner of fast horses, three in training by Mr. Cook, one each belonging to the Elmhurst's of Otonabee, and one of Mr. Fife's of the same township.

A good fast matinee on New Year's Day would not only provide good amusement for our citizens, but raise enthusiasm for Peterboro's winter circuit. If the owners and trainers of Peter's fast ones could only get together a most enjoyable day could quickly be arranged for.

—To accommodate patrons the Peterboro Street Railway Company, kept their cars running until midnight on Saturday.

KING EDWARD'S CHRISTMAS

HOW THE ROYAL FAMILY WILL SPEND THE DAY.

Appropriate Holiday Gifts For The German Emperor.

London, December 23.—King Edward VII., Queen Alexandra and their children and grandchildren will spend Christmas at Sandringham, as in former years, and the celebration of Yuletide will be in accordance with the traditions of Old England and typical of the hospitality of the fine old palace. The program for the celebration will be simple, but impressive, and the distribution of presents unusually liberal. The providing of presents is not a small matter at the British court. The King and the Queen not only give presents to the members of their immediate family and their numerous relatives scattered all over the continent, but also to all the members of the royal household, the officials and employes of the various palaces and country seats, and to hundreds of other persons, in some way connected with the royal establishment.

There are alone about three hundred persons connected with the Sandringham establishment, and every one of them will be remembered. Each cottager, laborer and other workman at Sandringham receives his six pounds of beef for the Christmas dinner and other good things. The celebration in the royal family will not be until Monday. After the distribution of presents in the morning, the King and Queen, as well as all the other members of the house party, will attend Christmas service in St. Mary Magdalene church. After service lunch will be served, and after lunch the royal stables and kennels will be visited. In the afternoon the members of the family will devote themselves to the time-honored pastime of bowling. The Christmas dinner will be eaten in the handsome dining hall at Sandringham and the bears head with the apple and peacock will adorn the festive board after the time-honored custom.

Berlin, December 23.—Probably no European court is giving Christmas presents on so extended a scale as the court of Emperor William. Everyone gives presents to everyone else and the task of selecting the most appropriate gifts is not an easy one. For weeks the Emperor as well as the Empress and their grown-up children have haunted the shops where Christmas presents are sold and many a dealer has been pleasantly surprised by large and liberal orders for members of the Imperial family. As usual the Emperor will distribute a large number of his portraits, cigar and cigaret cases, matchboxes and other trifles, while the Empress has purchased a carload of handsome gifts for the ladies of the court, the hundreds of employes and servants, and for hundreds of poor pensioners.

The Christmas celebration in the Imperial family will be of a strictly intimate character. Only the immediate members of the family will take part in it and sit at the table at the Christmas dinner, which always is a regular family affair.

Rome, December 23.—In accordance with old custom Christmas will be celebrated by the royal family in Orthodox fashion. There will be a Christmas tree for the youngest members of the family and bountiful gifts for every one of the grown up members and officials, servants and employes of the royal household. Thousands of gifts will be distributed to the children of the poor and those in the various charitable institutions, in the name of the royal children.

OUTSIDE NOMINATIONS

Lakefield Will Have an Election For Reeve.

At the nomination meeting held in the town hall, Lakefield, on Friday evening the following nominations were made.

For Reeve— E. A. Tanner, Jas. F. Lifferap. Arthur J. Kidd, F. J. Moore.

For Councillors—J. W. Cornish, F. J. Burgess, Arthur J. Kidd, R. J. Lennox, George A. Baptie, Robert Carter, George G. Hendren, Robert Duff, John E. Richardson, Thomas Z. Webster.

For School Trustees — George Payne, John Hall, R. Q. Dench, Jas. W. Ridpath, W. J. Bullock, J. W. Stuart.

MR. MOHER, REEVE OF DOURO.

There was a good sized crowd at the nominations for reeve and councillors for the Township of Douro Friday afternoon. Township Clerk Wm. O'Brien opened the polls at the o'clock, and announced that he was prepared to received nomination. The first name presented was that of Mr. Frank Moher for reeve and as he was the only name mentioned for that office, he was declared elected by acclamation.

There will be a contest for the council, however. All the members of last year's council were re-nominated, and two new men will also seek the support of the ratepayers. Those who were nominated were Messrs. John R. Allen, Bartholomew Leahy, Frank Leahy, Wm. Quinlan, Thomas E. Jury and Michael Welsh.

The nominations passed off very quietly. There was no speech-making.

TOWNSHIP OF SMITH.

There will be no election in the township of Smith on New Year's Day. The Reeve and Council were elected by acclamation. The township's business will be looked after by Reeve Robert R. Scott, and Councillors T. H. Graham, J. H. Garbutt, W. J. Stanley, and Richard White. No other names were presented, which speaks well for the work done by the Council last year. Township Clerk F. J. Bell opened the polls at one o'clock, and sharp at two o'clock he read over the names that had been presented to him, and declared the polls closed.

Reeve Scott, and the four councillors addressed the large number present, and thanked them for again trusting them with the township's business.

Mr. Jas. M. Elliott, clerk and treasurer of the county, and an ex-reeve of Smith township, was present. He delivered a splendid address. Mr. Elliott always was very popular throughout the whole township of Smith, and he was given a rousing reception at the nominations.

EMILY TOWNSHIP.

Austin, Water commissioners — Wm. Burgoyne, Dr. Gould (acclamation). School trustees. F. McDougall, J. J. Newison, H. A. McIntosh (acclamation).

NORTH MONAGHAN.

The ratepayers of North Monaghan are evidently satisfied with the work of the council of 1905, for at the nomination meeting held Friday the reeve and all the councillors were elected by acclamation. The personnel of the council for 1906 will be as follows:

Reeve—Jos. Madill.

OTONABEE.

At the nomination meeting held Saturday in the town hall, Keene, the old council was re-elected by acclamation. Reeve, Mr. John Fife, Councillors, Messrs. W. J. Porter, Christopher Howson, Donald Cameron and W. H. Stewart. Mr. Jas. Drummond presided. Short addresses were given by the reeve and councillors. County Councillors Johnstone and Carey, who were present, also gave addresses, giving an account of the work done by the County Council during the past year.

BURLEIGH AND ANSTRUTHER COUNCIL, 1906.

Reeve—Chas. R. D. Booth. Councillors—Wm. I. Lees, Zac Tucker, Clinton Coones, Robt. McCauley. Elected by acclamation.

THE ICE WARNING

Local Refrigerators Will Be Placarded.

As noted in a former issue of This Times at the last meeting of the Board of Health a resolution was passed permitting the ice men to cut ice again in Little Lake. The water in Little Lake has been analysed and found to be very bad. To use the ice in summer drinks or food would be most dangerous. To provide against this the Board has forbidden the ice users to put ice in either food or drink, and the following notice, which has been issued by the medical health officer, will be tacked on each and every refrigerator and ice box;

Warning—The ice in this refrigerator is impure, and it is unsafe for use in any way, except for cooling purposes. And the proprietor is hereby notified that to permit this ice to be used in drinks or food, will incur a penalty of not more than fifty dollars. By order of the Board of Health, J. Bingham, medical health officer.

HOTEL MAN SKIPS

Proprietor of St. Lawrence Hotel Port Hope Gone.

Port Hope, Dec. 24.—On Friday a large meeting of the creditors of the St. Lawrence Hotel was held. Mr. McClure, the proprietor has left town, and it is not known where he has gone. The hotel is in a bad state of affairs. Mr. F. W. Griffiths, of Niagara Falls, represented some of the creditors, and Mr. P. E. McDonald, of Detroit, Mich., is representing the McClure's. The debts amount to nearly $5,000, and the hotel has only been under the proprietorship of Mr. McClure for the past six months. The hotel is being run by the sheriff until such time as a sale can be made.

Mr. Claxton Remembered.

A pleasing event took place on Saturday morning when the employes of the porcelain department of the Canadian General Electric Company, gathered in the old buildings formerly occupied by the Peterboro Carbon and Porcelain Co. On behalf of those present, Miss Katie Conroy presented Mr. Harold Claxton, manager of the works with a handsome tea, brella as a small token of their personal regard and esteem. Mr. T. Tutt kept read a very complimentary address.

The ceremony was a dual one as, Mr. J. A. Brown, foreman, was also remembered by a similar presentation and address.

The two gentlemen honored, in fitting terms expressed their thanks for the compliment paid.

A CHRISTMAS SERVICE

St. Paul's Church Held Extra Services Yesterday.

The vast crowds which yesterday worshipped in St. Paul's Presbyterian church, had a rich treat at both morning and evening services.

A special service had been arranged for both services. At the morning service the Christmas carols were specially worthy of mention.

Rev. Dr. Torrance officiated at the morning service, when the solo "Throw wide the Portals" was most effectively rendered, Miss Davies being in excellent voice. Taken altogether yesterday's musical portion of the services was worthy of great praise, both instrumental and vocal. It was universally conceded that the new choir arrangement, whereby members appeared, for the first time, in black surplices and "mortar-board" hats, was a great improvement.

The church was beautifully decorated, organ loft, choir loft and other prominent parts of the edifice being tastefully decorated with the customary Christmas evergreens.

The pastor took as his text, "Christ the Star and Scepter," and gave an address that was listened to with rapt attention.

Rev. Mr. McKay conducted the evening service, taking as his text, "The Gospel of Joy." Rev. Mr. McKay gave a most eloquent and inspiring address redolent with optimistic sentiments and indicative of intelligent preparation.

The solo "Oh Quiet Night" at the evening service was specially worthy of note.

Changes on C. P. R. Sleepers.

Some time ago the C. P. R. made an announcement that sleeping car conductors would be placed in charge of the company's sleeping cars over the entire system as soon as competent men could be secured. As a result, conductors are now in charge of the sleeping cars running between Montreal and Winnipeg and between Montreal and Toronto. Later on this system will be adopted on trains running through to the coast and other points.

CALLS STANDARD OIL ROBBER

Cocoera is Taking $22,000 from Kansas Assembly.

Ottawa, Kas., December 23. — "The Standard Oil Company is robbing the people of the Kansas fields $60,000 a day or $22,000,000 a year," declared Gov. Hoch in a speech to the Republicans today.

"We sit supinely while we are being robbed of enough money every day by this one corporation to build a hundred homes for the homeless or to rear a great educational institution, or to endow a college, or in one year to pay all the expenses of the State for five years.

"The Kansas field is yielding 60,000 barrels a day, an insignificant part of its capacity, and for this oil the Standard Oil Company, which sets the price, is paying less than one-third what it paid a year ago. I believe it could pay $1 per barrel for this oil more than it is paying and still make a large profit."

Winston Churchill Again.

London, Dec. 25.—Winston Churchill, Under Secretary for the Colonies, speaking at Deptford, said he declined to believe that the brave colonials, who had helped in South Africa, would demand as a price of their loyalty certain paltry preferences on corn, meat and wool which could only be obtained at the expense of the poorest people. It was a slander on their loyalty. If the Tory party was returned it would be with Chamberlain at its head, pledged to tax every article of food but maize and bacon.

Baby's Comforter A Cause of Disease

Sir William Broadbent Regards it as an Invention of the Devil and Waste of Digestive Secretions.

London, December 25. The earliest illusion of extreme youth—the India-rubber teat, or baby's "comforter"—was denounced by Sir William Broadbent last week in an address on London's tuberculosis children, delivered at the Council of the Invalid Children's Aid Association, at Denison House, Victoria.

"An invention of the devil," "A fraud on the unhappy child," "A waste of digestive secretions," were some of the picturesque epithets applied by Sir William to the "comforter," to which he attributed much infantile disease. Many evil effects arose from dirty feeding bottles.

It was a remarkable fact, he said, that while consumption had steadily diminished year by year during the last thirty years, the death rate from tuberculosis affections among children had distinctly increased. During the years 1901 to '903, 6,391 children under the age of five years succumbed to different forms of tuberculosis, of whom 2,894 died before they were a year old.

On public grounds, said Sir William Broadbent, these deaths were scarcely to be regretted. If a child contracted tuberculosis at an early age, it was probably very susceptible to disease, and for its own sake death was certainly preferable to a life of suffering, while in the interests of the community at large the elimination of those who might grow up to be a burden and a source of weakness was desirable. Not infrequently the removal of these weakly children allowed the stronger children of the family a better chance of growing up healthy.

HOME FOR THE CHILDREN.

A great need exists, in Sir William Broadbent's opinion, for a home where tuberculosis children could be received and given the benefit of open air treatment, and in this matter he thought we might take a leaf from the book of the French.

Tuberculosis among children was due, he said, to overcrowded housing, improper feeding, dirt, bad ventilation, and the dirty India-rubber teat.

COUNT KATSURA TO RESIGN

PREMIER OF JAPAN WILL VERY SOON RESIGN.

Retirement of One of The Ablest Statesmen of the Day.

Tokio, December 23.—Now that the war with Russia has been terminated, the alliance with Great Britain extended and the negotiations with China and Corea concluded, Count Katsura Taro is to resign from the premiership of Japan. This he intimated yesterday forenoon. Marquis Saionji, president of the Seiyukai party, is regarded as Count Katsura's probable successor.

Yesterday afternoon Marquis Saionji was granted an audience with the Emperor, and held a conference as well with Marquis Ito, Marquis Inamagata and Count Katsura. The dinner in honor of Marshal Oyama tomorrow will be, it is supposed, the last social function in which Count Katsura will take part as Premier.

Marquis Saionji would have preferred to accept office after the assembling of the Diet, which will hold a business session in January.

The privy council today approved the regulation drawn up for the Corean residency-general. Announcement of the dissolution of the combined Japanese squadrons is expected today.

CHILDREN NOT TO BE KEPT IN JAIL.

Order Sent Out to Sheriffs to Bring About a Change of Conditions

Toronto, Dec. 25.—All sheriffs throughout the Province have been notified by Dr. Bruce Smith, Inspector of Prisons, that no child under 16 years must be detained in jail a day without notice of the circumstances being sent to the Superintendent of Neglected Children. This official will thereupon investigate the case, and if possible turn the child over to the local aid society; otherwise the Industrial Home will be utilized.

In case a detention of the child for a few days is found necessary, the sheriffs are instructed to see that he is kept separate from the adult inmates of the jail, the object being to prevent the dissemination of criminal ideas.

Mr. J. J. Kelso, speaking of the regulation, recalled the case of a boy 12 years old, who was kept for a whole year in Pembroke county jail.

A Big Sale.

Mr. W. H. Staples, of Cavan, having decided to give up farming, is offering his immense stock for sale on January 18th. Forty pure bred Durham cattle, pure bred sheep, excellent horses, etc. Posters and catalogues will be out in a short time. This will be one of the biggest sales in the district for years.

What Do You Think of This?

The following appeared in the Associated Press despatches a day or two ago. It speaks for itself: "Encouragement is being given here to Mr. Neill, inventor of the automatic telephone, who promised the French Government to find husbands in Canada for the thousand girls his invention has thrown out of work. It is said there will be no difficulty in keeping his promise if Mr. Neill goes to the Western Canada Secretary of the Canadian Emigration Society." In the first place Mr. Neill is not the inventor of the automatic telephone, and in the second place it is very doubtful if the new machine is anything more than a toy. There are, we believe, a number of automatic telephone switchboards on the market, none of them ever having gone into general use.

Sterling, Ill., December 21.—The value of a stolen kiss was placed at $1[illegible] by a jury in the Carrol County Circuit court today. Mrs. Millie Hahan, from whom the kiss was stolen, demanded $5,000 from John L. Brewster, who admitted the theft, but the jury, after due consideration, decided that $[illegible] ought to be sufficient balm.

ALL WE ASK OF YOU IS - HOLD ON TO WHAT YOU BUY OF THIS STOCK

Dores Montgomery Mining Company

OF BULL FROG, NEVADA

604 CROSSLEY BUILDING, SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

We are offering a limited amount of treasury stock at 25c. per share, for development work. Our property is just 1800 feet southwest of the famous Montgomery Shoshone mine and both have unquestionably the same vein. Our group shows a well defined vein cropping out through, and it is a perfect fissure. A six inch talc seam on the hanging wall gives high values. We have also several other ledges, and it is only a matter of development work to make this property equal to any producer in the section.

Clipping from "The Rhyolite Herald": A glimpse at the world beater mine. What is a block of $75 ore, 150x150x300 feet worth in cold cash? This is in sight in the Big Shoshone Mine.

Can you figure?

If you were to compute the amount of ore "in sight" in the Montgomery Shoshone Mine, Nevada's infant wonder, and had the exact measurements before you, would you believe your own eyes? Here is an opportunity to test your faith.

There are five drifts on the big ore body. The first drift is 100 feet from the portal of the crosscut tunnel, which shows 150 feet of milling ore. The other drifts follow at a space of 50 feet apart. Here are the measurements.

Drift No. 1, north 100 feet. Drift No. 3, south 60 feet. Drift No. 5, north 40 feet.
Drift No. 2, south 120 feet Drift No. 4, north 140 feet.

The winze sunk at a point 75 feet from the portal of the tunnel is 110 feet below the level and 150 feet from the surface.

The total exposure of ores in drifts No. 3 and 4 running in opposite directions, is 200 feet in length. The ore has been proven to be 150 feet in width in the crosscut tunnel, and has been proven contiguous from the surface down to a depth of 150 feet in the winze, at a point where the ore was first struck in the tunnel, and the workings are all in ore.

Here is the block: 150 x 150 x 200 feet—5,250,000 cubic feet—300,000 tons—$22,250,000.

It is the opinion of the management of the mine that all of the ore exposed will average up to $75 a ton. If that is true there is $22,250,000 worth of ore in sight in the mine today. If the ore averages only $50, there is $7,500,000 in sight. If the ore averages only $40, there is $15,000,000 in sight in the mine. If the ore averages only $10, there is $1,500,000 in sight. These calculations are made on the basis of 15 cubic feet of ore to the ton.

The management of the Montgomery Shoshone conservatively estimates that the winze has produced $300,000 worth of ore. If this is right, the ore from the winze has averaged about $975 a ton, or about $1530 for every foot of sinking, the winze being 4 x 7 in clear.

Ore from the winze running less than $250 is thrown over the dump as milling ore. No less than 150 tons of ore has been shipped from this mine, all of it coming from the winze. Another shipment of 50 tons or more will be made via Las Vegas in a few days.

The figures given above are startling in the extreme, but the measurements and ore values as quoted are official—direct from the management of the wonderful mine that is today astonishing the world.

This property is only 1200 feet from the Dores Montgomery Mine.

"GOLD IS WHERE YOU FIND IT."—The old Mining Adage.
The Older Mining Problem Follows "HOW TO GET IT OUT."

Poor men discover mines, rich men buy them out, or get control of the stock and freeze them out. Here is it that the discoverer of a rich property ever develops it for himself. Most of the suffering and privation of prospecting is only a foundation for another man's building. In the case of the DORES MONTGOMERY MINING COMPANY, we have resolved not to lose what we, after so many years, have wrought from the earth. Therefore, after carefully incorporating, we decided that there was safety in numbers and we are seeking the small investor in order to spread the stock as much as possible and all we ASK IS IF YOU BUY, HOLD ON, as you would to an endowment policy. Don't come into this solely to speculate. It is safe, with a big future, but we don't offer many shares. This is an opportunity that you never had before. C. H. Schwab offered $1,000,000, which was refused, for the Montgomery Shoshone Mines, just 1800 feet from our property.

WHY SO WEARY?

Always Restless and Weak Isn't Natural—But It's Dangerous

You have to work hard. This uses up lots of nerve force and tears down the body faster than it can build up.

The result is a half-dead feeling you can't shake off. Somehow you must get more vitality. The water in your blood must be turned into nutriment and building material.

This is just what happens in using Ferrozone, which renews the blood and nerves, and makes each organ do the work that nature expects of it.

Ferrozone quickly increases your weight, brings appetite and healthy color, instills a reserve of vigor into the system that defies weariness, exhaustion, debility, or sickness of any kind.

Ferrozone quickly increases your weight, brings appetite and healthy color, instills a reserve of vigor into the system that defies weariness, exhaustion, debility, or sickness of any kind.

The enormous strengthening power of Ferrozone is proved in the case of Mrs. Edward Hill, of Orr Lake, Ont., who says:

"Two years ago I had a nervous breakdown. At night I tossed restlessly in bed, unable to get any rest from sleep. In the morning I suffered from over-powering weakness. My appetite was poor. I grew pale, thin and despondent. A slight backling cough also added to my burden.

"My doctor said to try Ferrozone, and it did me good in a few days. I increased in strength, the nervous sensations disappeared, and with my appetite came back my color and good spirits. I have gained over ten pounds in weight, and as my age is 56, I consider Ferrozone is a marvel." (Signed) Mrs. Edward Hill.

REMEMBER THIS: Ferrozone is a true tonic—not an alcoholic stimulant. Fifty chocolate-coated tablets in a box for fifty cents, or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

COW TESTING ASSOCIATIONS

Probably every farmer in Canada would like to obtain more profit from each individual cow in his herd, but at present there is lack of co-operation amongst farmers to accomplish this object.

In Denmark, the home of agricultural co-operation, there have been testing associations since 1895, and there are now nine thousand farmers having their cows tested systematically. Similiar work will pay here, and pay well. Wherever such work has been done, the average production per cow has speedily been raised twenty five, and even fifty pounds of butter per annum. Surely there are hundreds of farmers, painstaking and thoughtful, willing to show a little enterprise for an almost certain return of from five to ten dollars more than at present from each cow per year.

In Michigan an association was organized in September, 1905. Canadian farmers need to take the matter up quickly and seriously.

As an instance of what substantial progress is possible when individual cows are tested, a farmer near Cowansville, Que., furnishes a striking illustration. In 1895 fifteen cows were kept, giving an average of only 131 pounds of butter. In 1899 tests were commenced of each cow separately, the milk being weighed regularly. In 1904 twenty cows were kept (on the same land which, when purchased in 1851, would not decently keep nine cows) and the average production per cow was 324 pounds of butter. This increase of 123 pounds per cow can be attained on many other farms.

In some illustration testing undertaken in 1904 and 1905 by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, it was shown that very poor returns are received from many cows, therefore the urgent need of cow testing associations is apparent. Valuable practical pamphlets on the subject are available and will be sent free to any applicant.

Where any twenty patrons of a factory will agree to weigh the milk from each cow on three days during the month through the milking period, and furnish themselves with scales and sample bottles costing about two or three dollars complete, the Minister of Agriculture announces that the testing will be done free of cost to the patrons. As the Department is anxious to assist farmers in organizing, Mr. J. A. Reddick, Dairy Commissioner, Ottawa, will be glad to hear from any progressing farmer or factory owner in any community relative to this most important matter, and will arrange for meetings to discuss the question.

UNIONS IN A COMBINE.

Cheeky Bunch of Grafters Run Chicago—Strike Called in Factories of Any Maker Underselling Illinois Brick Concern.

Chicago, December 23.—Seventeen true bills were voted yesterday in the conspiracy case against the officials of the Illinois Brick Company and the labor leaders. According to the charges, the trust and union officials conspired together to make it impossible for independent competitors to do business except on terms dictated by the trust. A slush fund of $25,000 is said to have been set aside by the trust officers to be used in seducing officials to do as they wished them to.

The trust dictated the price of brick, it is asserted. No competitor dared to undersell it, under penalty of having strikes called by the union on some pretext or other. The trust dictated the size of the brick to be made. When any manufacturer was getting too much business it was arranged to have a strike called at his yard because the brick being made were larger than prescribed. The trust, it is asserted, dictated to whom brick should and should not be sold. According to witnesses, it is impossible for any manufacturer to get in good graces of the trust to buy brick in the market in Chicago.

Governor of Jail for 40 Years

Kingston, Dec. 21.—To-day Mr. C. H. Corbett will have completed forty years of service as Governor of the county jail here. He was appointed on Dec. 21st, 1865, by the late Sheriff Corbett, the sheriffs at that time having the appointment of all jail officials in their hands. The jail governor was then only eighteen years of age. He is the senior prison official in Ontario, and was reported upon by the late Inspector of Prisons Dr. Chamberlain, as superior to any man in the Province as a prison disciplinarian. Some years ago Mr. Corbett was mentioned in connection with the wardenship of the penitentiary here, when that institution was so badly in need of a head, but a political favorite received the appointment.

The Land of the Aztecs.

Who has not read of the glories and wonders of old Mexico! The days when Montezuma upon gorgeous court in the ancient capital of Gran Tenochtitlan are departed, but they have left Mexico one of the most interesting countries in the world. Pictures que ruins and relics, in a setting of flowers and sunshine everywhere delight the fortunate visitor; each day's travel reveals fresh beauties. And out of the ruins a new Mexico is arising, a land of possibilities, abounding in resources of all kinds. In the peasants' hands the soil will yield five crops a year, metals and minerals in abundance. Our business men have here a splendid field for investment, and should see and judge the land for themselves. Leisurely investigation under sunny skies will be pleasant work, while the ladies will be delighted with their bargains in native work and precious stones.

An attractive itinerary, covering the whole of Mexico and the best of the Southern States and including a visit to Cuba and New Orleans for "Mardi Gras," has been arranged for the Cuthbert Home-party tour, leaving Toronto early in February next. The special private train will contain every possible comfort and luxury, and the cuisine equal to that of a first-class hotel. A pleasant, smooth running trip is assured, the management having had long experience in this branch of travel. Canadian enterprise, when it is the best, is worthy of your attention. MR. W. J. GAGE TELLS OF THE GROWTH OF THE CONSUMPTIVE HOSPITALS IN MUSKOKA

Accommodation at Free Hospital Increased by Twenty-five Beds

URGENT CALL FOR FUNDS TO MEET INCREASED BURDEN FOR MAINTENANCE

Dear Friend:—

Contributions from rich and poor, young and old, received by the Free Hospital for Consumptives, tell of the love and charity toward the great work carried on in Muskoka.

Thousands from all parts of Canada not only sent their "God bless the work" but their money also to help to answer their prayers.

The poor widow out of her hard-earned savings, telling how her own heart was made lonely through the dread scourge, as well as the rich insurance companies, have sent their gifts.

2,000 patients have been cared for since the opening of our Homes in Muskoka. 560 of these were treated in the Free Hospital. 150 patients in these two Homes to-day, show how this life-saving work has grown.

Premier Whitney, replying to a large deputation in the interests of the National Sanitarium Association, stated that "personally he thought $100,000 would not be too much for the Government to set apart for this work."

Seventy-five patients to be cared for in the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives means a large weekly outlay. The Trustees accept this obligation, believing the needed money will be forthcoming.

The world is full of good and generous people ready to give. But they want to be sure that their money is wisely spent. In no other place can your money do so much good.

The growing knowledge of the contagious character of the disease has made the lot of the consumptive poor a hard one.

The Muskoka Free Hospital is today the only place where a sufferer in the early stages of consumption is admitted free.

Will you not help to save the life of a sick one to whom all other doors are closed?

What greater blessing could crown your giving, than the knowledge that it helps to snatch a fellow-being from the very jaws of death?

$50,000 is wanted for the coming year. Will you join in this greatest of all charities?

Faithfully yours,
W. J. GAGE.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy and Kergan, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. He wrote them and for the New Method Treatment for me. My progress was somewhat slow; during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $18 a week in a machine shop before treatment. Now I am earning $31 and never lose a day. I with all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment. HENRY C. LACUM."

The Lust of Hate

that I was once more in Australia and teasing on a bed of sickness in the Mail Change at Markaparlie. A more vivid dream it would be impossible to imagine. I saw myself, pale and haggard, lying upon the bed, unconscious of what was passing around me. I saw Bartrand and Gibbs standing looking down at me. Then the former came closer, and beat over me. Next moment he had taken a paper from the pocket of my shirt, and carried it with him into the adjoining bar. A few minutes later he returned with it and replaced it in the pocket. As he did so he turned to the landlord, who stood watching him from the doorway, and said—"You're sure he's delirious, that he's not shamming?"

"Shamming? Poor beggar," answered Gibbs, who after all was not such a bad fellow at heart. "Take a good look at him and see for yourself. I hope I may never be as near gone as he is now."

"So much the better," said Bartrand with a sneer, as he stepped away from the bed. "We'll save him the trouble of making us his legatees."

"You don't mean to steal the poor beggar's secret, surely?" replied Gibbs. "I wouldn't have told you if I'd thought that."

"More fool you then," said Bartrand. "Of course I'm not going to steal it, only to borrow it. Such chances don't come twice in a lifetime. But are you sure of your facts? Are you certain the old fellow said there was gold enough there to make both of them millionaires half-a-dozen times over?"

"As certain as I'm sitting here," answered Gibbs.

"Very good; then I'm off to-night for the Booiga Ranges. In ten days I'll have the matter settled, and by the time that dog there gets on to his feet again we'll both be on the high road to fortune."

"And I'm only to have a quarter of what you get? It's not fair, Bartrand."

Bartrand stepped up to him with that nasty, bullying look on his face that I knew so well of old.

"Look here, my friend," he said. "You know Richard Bartrand, don't you? And you also know what I can tell about you. I offer you a fourth of the mine for your information, but I don't give it to you for the reason that I'm afraid of you, for I'm not. Remember I know enough of your doings in this grog shanty to hang you a dozen times over; and, by the Lord Harry, if you make yourself a nuisance to me I'll put those on your track who'll set you swinging. Stand fast by me and I'll treat you fair and square, but get up to any hanky-panky and I'll put such a stopper on your mouth that you'll never be able to open it again."

Gibbs leaned against the door with a face like lead. It was evident that however much he hated Bartrand he feared him a good deal more. A greater pair of rogues it would have been difficult to find in a long day's march.

"You needn't be afraid, Mr. Bartrand," he said at last, but this time in no certain voice. "I'll not split on you as long as you treat me fairly. You've been a good friend to me in the past and I know you mean me well though you speak so plain."

"I know the sort of man with whom I have to deal, you see," returned Bartrand with another nasty sneer. "Now I must get my horse and be off. I've a lot to do if I want to get away to-night."

He went out into the verandah and unhitched his reins from the nails on which they were hanging.

"Let me have word directly that carrion in there comes to himself again," he said, as he got into the saddle. "And be sure you never breathe a word to him that I've been over. I'll let you know all that goes on as soon as we've got our claim fixed up. In the meantime, mum's the word. Good-bye."

Gibbs bade him good-bye, and when he had watched him canter off across the plain returned to the room where I lay. Evidently his conscience was reproving him, for he stood by my bed for some minutes looking down at me in silence. Then he heaved a little sigh and said under his breath, "You miserable beggar, how little you know what is happening, but I'm bothered if I don't think after all that you're a dashed sight happier than I am. I'm beginning to wish I'd not given you away to that devil. The remembrance of it will haunt me all my life long."

I woke up with his last speech ringing in my ears, and for a moment could scarcely believe my own eyes. I had imagined myself back in the bush, and to wake up in the smoking room of a London hotel was a surprise for which I was not prepared. The clock over the door was just striking eleven as I rose to my feet and went out into the hall. Taking my coat down from a peg I put it on, and then, donning my hat and turning up my collar, went out into the street. Snow was still falling, and the night was bitterly cold. As I walked I thought again of the dream from which I had just wakened. It seemed more like a vision intended for my guidance than the mere imagining of an over-excited brain. How much would I not have given to know if it was only imagination, or whether I had been permitted to see a representation of what had really happened? This question, however, I could not of course answer.

On reaching the Strand I hailed a hansom and bade the driver convey me with all speed to 23, Great Gunter Street, Soho.

"Twenty-three, Great Gunter Street!" repeated the man, staring at me in surprise. "You don't surely mean that, sir?"

"I do," I answered. "If you don't like the job I can easily find another man."

"Oh, I'll take you there, never fear, sir," replied the man; "but I didn't know perhaps whether you was aware what sort of a crib it is. It's not the sheep gentleman goes to as a general rule at night time, except maybe they're after a dog as has been stole, or the like."

"So it's that sort of place is it?" I answered. "Well, I don't know that it matters. I'm able to take care of myself."

As I said this I got into the vehicle, and in half a minute we were driving down the Strand in the direction of Soho. In something under a quarter of an hour we had left Leicester Square behind us, crossed Shaftesbury Avenue, and turned into Great Gunter Street. It proved to be exactly what the driver had intimated, neither a respectable nor a savoury neighborhood; and when I saw it and its inhabitants I ceased to wonder at his hesitation. When he had proceeded half-way down the street he pulled his horse up before the entrance to what looked like a dark alley leading into a court. Realising that this must be my destination I opened the apron and sprang out.

"Number 23 is somewhere hereabouts, sir," said the driver, who seemed to derive a certain amount of satisfaction from his ignorance of the locality. "I don't doubt but what one of these boys will be able to tell you exactly."

Gold Mining Company

One of the most promising propositions ever placed before the Canadian investors.

The Company's Offer to Discriminating Investors.

The management is assured that $15,000 will be sufficient to complete the improvements necessary to place the mine on a substantial producing and dividend paying basis. Therefore the directorate has authorized the sale of 15,000 shares of the capital stock at par. The improvements under way include the construction of a mill and concentrating plant, boarding and bunk houses for the miners employed and the installation of machinery required for the teatment of the output of the mine. With dividends assured and a certainty of a sharp advance in the price of this security it is stated with emphasis that no more attractive opportunity for investments could be placed before the public. Custer, Idaho, November 15, 1905.

To the Stock Holders of The Oxarna Mining Co.:—

We have steadily continued the development of our properties since last advising you June 20th. At that time we had no plant erected or contracted for, but now I am pleased to report that we have secured a Ten Stamp Mill, together with Boarding House, Assay Office and all other necessary buildings, originally costing $15,000.00, hence you will know that we have been making great progress, and are rapidly approaching a productive stage, but as we have a final payment to make on this Mill, we will not withdraw our stock from the market until this money is raised. We are now making preparations so that by early spring we can start our Mill for a long and continuous run. You will be advised later on as to the date when we will start so that you can be present if possible.

In addition to this Mill, which is now erected, with all machinery in place and in perfect running order, we have secured the machinery for an other Ten Stamp Mill, consisting of Battery, Seventy-five Horse Power Engine, two Forty Horse Power Boilers, and all other necessary machinery which ye expect to install in the Mill now already equipped, which will increase the capacity of our plant from 750 to 1500 tons a month, which means a great saving in the cost of reducing our ores, as it takes about the same labor to operate a Ten Stamp Mill as it does to operate a Twenty Stamp Mill, about the only additional expenses necessary to operate the larger Mill is a little additional fuel. In addition to above machinery we have also purchased an Ingersoll Air Compressor for use in the Mines, at a cost of $1200.00.

We are assured funds to complete our payment on the Ten Stamp Mill and for other purposes, and never having any brokers to place our stock, we have had no commissions to pay, hence we have financed the Company for a less sum than is usually required. We have no debts and will pay no salaries until after the Mill goes into commission.

I also beg to advise you that we expect to take over the control of the stock of the Corning Mining Company, at an early date, giving a part of our stock in payment therefore. This will give us an additional eighty acres of Mineral Land, twenty acres of which is the Black Mine. This Mine has produced $180,000.00 net, and has one mile of developments, costing over $70,000.00, and an additional sum of $10,187.00 has been expended in developments this and last summer. Our Mill is on this group and is adjoined by "The Lucky Boy Mine," which has produced $1,000,000, and by "The Badger Group," which has paid $200,000.00 on a capital of $1200.00.

The time is rapidly approaching when THE OXARNA COMPANY WILL BE ONE OF THE STEADY PRODUCERS, and I urge each of the stock holders to buy all the stock that he or she can pay for while it can be had at the exceedingly low price of 10 cents a share. The officers are increasing their holdings and we want to give all the stock holders an equal chance with us. I have just put $1,500.00 more cash into the Company's Treasury for stock at 10 cents a share, the same that you will pay if you take advantage of this opportunity NOW.

I trust that you will be pleased with this report and with the efforts that are being made by your officers for the interests of each stock holder.

REGINALD CORYELL, Manager Oxarna Gold Mining Company.

To the readers of "The Times":—

The above report has been sent out to all our stock holders, and the allotment of stock for sale at 10 cents a share is being rapidly taken, for the ore that we are now taking out averages over $20.00 a ton and, with our Twenty Stamp Mill in operation, our earnings will not be less than $30,000.00 net per month, which will enable us to pay at least 100 per cent. (ten times the present cost) in dividends within six months from the time we put the Mill in commission. For immediate acceptance only, I can offer this stock for 10 cents a share cash, or one-quarter of the amount with order and a like amount in 30, 60 and 90 days. Make all orders payable to the undersigned, or remit through the NATIONAL BANK OF DELPHOS.

W. B. FLODING, Vice-President Oxarna Mining Company.

OLD BOY RETURNS

Mr. Sid Phillips of Pittsburg, Spending Christmas in the City.

Many of our older citizens will remember Mr. Sidney Phillips, whose mother still resides in the east ward, where Mr. Phillips was born.

It is now 30 years since Mr. Phillips left Peterboro, during which time he has paid the city three visits. He gave The Times a friendly call yesterday, and remarked that every trip he can spare time to give his old home reveals a marked growth and increasing prosperity of this city.

Mr. Phillips holds a very responsible position in Pittsburg, being foreman of the city's technical schools. His position carries a very large remuneration.

Several of Mr. Phillips brothers and their families are spending the holiday here, coming from Toronto and other points to hold a family reunion. They are guests of Mrs. Phillips of the east ward. Mr. Phillips will return to Pittsburg in about a week's time.

No Money in Market Tolls.

Several habitual market denizens on Saturday afternoon, whilst enjoying a glass or (!) in a local dispensary of wet goods, got on the subject of market tolls. It was unanimously suggested that the present market clerk, owing to the ridiculous price paid last year for the market privileges, will not make even living wages. These men, who are wide awake, claimed that the market tolls during the past year did not net, over and above the price paid, $300. If this be correct, the market clerk did not buy diamonds for Xmas presents.

At the same time, whether the contract was lucrative or not, Mr. Brown the present purchaser of the market tolls has made a most efficient tolls collector.

Narrow Escape From Wolves.

It is reported that a shanty clerk known here, last week, had a narrow escape whilst benighted on his way to the shanties. He and one of the markers, hearing wolves on their trail, with difficulty succeeded in heading off the wolves and reaching a shanty in the bush. Even after they had got inside and closed the shanty door, the hunger maddened pack ragged about the door, trying to gain admission. As daylight broke, the wolves lessened in number by several shot by the two benighted men, and as quickly devoured by the pack, slunk off into the forest depths. It was a narrow escape, the two men only beating the wolves in their race for life, by a few yards.

—On Saturday morning an old gentleman from Millbrook, unaccustomed to modern fixtures, tried to walk through the heavy plate glass door of Lang & Maher's tailoring establishment. He ran a narrow escape from a serious injury.

—On Saturday morning a local medico found that his door leading to the yard stuck. The doctor put his shoulder to the front and by exercise of great muscle, shoved too the erring door. Now the is mourning the loss of a large plate glass, inserted in the same door.

—Mr. R. J. Stuart, formerly of Norwood, was elected as a member of the council of the City of Calgary, Alberta, at the recent municipal elections in that city, heading the poll in the fourth ward. Mr. Stuart was an active member of the Norwood council for several years before he moved to Calgary.

—Municipal ownership in Brockville is a paying investment, judging from the report of the past year's operation of the light and power department taken over by the town five years ago. The revenue from gas and electricity amounted to $40,985.64, an increase of $10,271.64 over the first year's revenue. The operating expenses were $34,464.29, leaving a clear gain of $6,-521.77. Out of this, however, was applied a portion of the debenture.

A Novel Entertainment.

On Friday night St. Paul's church held an entertainment that possessed many novel qualities. The affair was the church's annual Christmas Sunday school entertainment.

The Sunday school decided to introduce some new features at their Christmas entertainment this year, and to Miss A. Williamson much of the success of the function is due.

The entertainment was held in the Sunday school hall, which was beautifully decorated with evergreens, flags, bunting, etc.

Instead of the usual admittance fee each boy had to bring a potatoe and each girl an apple. A barrel was placed at either side of the door for the reception of these rather extraordinary tickets of admission. When all had been admitted it was found that a half a barrel of apples and a bag of potatoes had been received. These, along with the other donations received during the evening, will be distributed among the needy families in the city.

Mr. Wm. Madill, superintendent of the Sunday school, made a capable chairman. A very interesting program was given in which young ladies suitably attired, sang "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." The little girls, appropriately dressed, sang "Little Mothers." The boys were also given a good reception.

STOMACH CURE

An Easy Way from Standpoint of Convenience.

The so-called cures for indigestion are almost as numerous as the victims themselves, and scarcely a day passes without the hopes of thousands of sufferers being raised by the discovery of some novel method of cure for this prevalent disease.

Until a combination of unusual remedies, heretofore but little known in this country, was made in Mi-o-na tablets, no certain cure for indigestion had been found, and it is therefore hardly to be wondered at that our leading druggist, who has the Peterborough agency, is selling large quantities of Mi-o-na.

Mi-o-na is a guaranteed cure for all diseases of the stomach excepting cancer. If you have pains or distress after eating, headache, belching of gases, sour taste in the mouth, dizziness, heartburn, specks before the eyes, furred tongue, sleeplessness, backache, debility or weakness, it shows that the stomach needs to be strengthened with Mi-o-na.

Just one little tablet out of a 50 cent box before meals for a few days, and you will soon regain perfect health and strength.

If you cannot obtain Mi-o-na of your druggist, it will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price. Write us for advice on your case from a leading stomach specialist which will be sent free. The E. T. Booth Company, Rhoan, N. Y.

Over-Burdened Women.

Many a man sees his wife bend and sag at burdens that strain the back and the heart alike, without any idea of the outrage. Children follow in too quick succession to allow the mother time to recuperate. The womanly organs become displaced, there are debilitating, disagreeable drains, with the added pain of inflamed or ulcerated parts. In this condition the woman bravely tries to carry her household load, afraid to take the rest she needs lest a meal will be late. No wonder she is pale, weak, wretched, surly of temper and snappish of tongue. She would be false to nature if she were anything else. No persons need help so much as the class of whom this woman is the type. And for such women no help is so sure, so wonderful, as that given by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It rescues all the womanly organs to perfect health. Re-establishes regularity in their functions. It restores the strained and shattered nervous system. It clears up the complexion, rounds out the form and makes life a daily happiness. "Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol or whisky. It is the best medicine for women. Nothing can be "just as good" as the best. Tell the dealer so if he offers a substitute.

"I want to say a few words about my case," writes Mrs. Eli W. Hathaway, of Fulton, Va. "Was then in a bad condition, and your remedy was that I probably inherited the trouble from my mother, and you prescribed Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. About that time I had an attack of fever and was sick for quite a while, so failed to get your medicine. After I got up I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Before I began to take it I had a hearing-down pain that fairly possessed the finest words. I have taken one bottle of 'Anti-Pain' and no more pains. After taking the second bottle I felt better than ever in my life, and am thankful to say I have had no return of my old trouble. I am very thankful for your good medicine, and I tell my friends what it did for me, and will recommend it to all who are afflicted. We think it the best medicine in the world."

Not only the Original but the Little Liver Pills, first put up over 40 years ago, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, have been much imitated, but never equaled, as thousands attest. They're purely vegetable, being made up of concentrated and refined medicinal principles, extracted from the roots of American plants. Do not gripe. One or two for stomach corrective, three or four for cathartic.

ST. JOHN'S DECORATIONS

Venerable Anglican Church in Christmas Garb.

Yesterday the large congregations attending services in St. John's church, were greatly pleased with the beautiful decorations, typical of the joyous Christmas season.

This grand old church always presents a most ornate interior at this season of the year, but yesterday's decorations, made under the tasteful suggestions of Mrs. Hughes-Charles, and willing volunteers from the congregation, surpassed previous records, in this simple but appropriate arrangements.

Each of the large windows was decorated in scroll pattern with evergreens and holly.

The huge central gallery, instead of, as in former years, being wound round with festoons, had the evergreens in perpendicular arrangement from cap to floor; this effect was very neat and attracted favorable attention.

The pulpit was entwined with evergreens and ornamented with carnations. A very pretty effect was rendered by the holly clad large chancel lamps.

Yesterday's music was greatly admired, and stirring sermons were given.

NEXT YEAR'S COUNCIL

Only 12 Qualified up to 6 o'clock Saturday Night.

It seems that the interest that should be taken by nominees for Peterboro's City Council is not in evidence.

At nine o'clock Saturday night when the time for qualification ended, only 15 out of 20 candidates named had qualified. Of that number six are members of the old council, and nine are new men.

Those who have already tyled their qualifications are:—

ROBT. HICKS.
JOHN H. SMITH.
GEO. BALL.
THOS. KELLY.
JAS. G. GRAHAM.
C. H. CLEMENTI.
GEO. J. TOVEY.
ROLAND F. M'WILLIAMS.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Those candidates nominated for the Board of Education, who by nine o'clock Saturday night had handed in their qualifications, were as follows, viz., Messrs. Pringle, Hill, Burnham, Ferguson, Hartley, Crane, Morrison, Fair, Morgan, Stevenson, Ackerman and Dumble.

This means that on New Year's Day, the free and enlightened electors of this city will have to do their patriotic duty and turn out to vote for both aldermen and Board of Education.

The boarders at Noble's Temperance House, on Hunter street, were made to feel thoroughly at home on Christmas Day. A CHRISTMAS BRIDE

Mr. G. V. Hounsell Takes Miss Mary Carter as His Bride.

A pretty ceremony was enacted on Christmas morning, at the residence of Mrs. E. Carter, 193 Auburn street, when her daughter, Miss Mary Carter, was married to Mr. George Victor Hounsell, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, M.A., rector of St. Luke's church, officiated at the ceremony. The wedding was very quiet, only the immediate relatives being present. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Andrews being the witnesses. Many pretty and valuable presents testified to the high esteem in which the bride is held. She is a member of the girls' auxiliary of St. Luke's church. Mr. and Mrs. Hounsell left on the noon train to spend a short honeymoon in Toronto and other western points. After their return they will reside at 193 Auburn street.

POLICE COURT NEWS

Christmas Day in this city seems to have been celebrated by a closer application to turkey and goose than to the cup that stimulates and then trips up.

Only one tone drunk, Jesse Irwin, was before his Worship at yesterday's court, and pleaded guilty, when faced with a charge of having been d. & d.

The hilarity cost Jesse $2 and an additional $3.75 for costs. There was another charge against him of having tried to buy liquor during prohibited hours. The second offence cost him $2 and $2.25 costs, so that Jesse's little Christmas celebration cost him dear.

A CHRISTMAS BRIDE

Miss Annie Oliver Becomes the Bride of Mr. J. L. Hobbs.

Staff-Capt. McAmmond, of the local Salvation Army corps, on Christmas morning, performed a pretty, but quietly carried out ceremony, whereby Mr. John Lester Hobbs took unto himself a wife, in the charming person of Miss Annie Oliver, daughter of Mr. Elias Oliver, of Fenelon Falls.

The ceremony was performed at the residence of the groom's father, Mr. Joseph Hobbs, corner of Park and Dalhousie streets.

Miss Grace Cover assisted the bride, while Mr. Ernest Sargeant was best man. The nuptial event was a very quiet one, only a few immediate relatives and friends being present.

Hon. Raymond Prefontaine Dead

Minister of Marine and Fisheries Succumbed to Heart Disease on the Night of Christmas Day.

Paris, Dec. 26.—Hon. Raymond Prefontaine, Canadian Minister of Marine and Fisheries, died suddenly at nine o'clock last night. The cause of his death was angina pectoris.

Mr. Prefontaine, accompanied by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, the Canadian Solicitor-General, came to France a couple of weeks ago from London in connection, it is said, with the establishment of a line of steamers between Marseilles and Canadian ports.

Soon after his arrival in Paris, the Minister complained that he was suffering from heart trouble, but he continued to fill his engagements.

THE END CAME SUDDENLY.

During the progress of a banquet given in his honor on Thursday last he was seen to be suffering acutely, but this at the time was attributed to emotion while replying to a toast to his health.

The Minister on Saturday visited Lille and Dunkirk, but on returning to the Hotel Continental here, he was compelled to take his bed, and a physician was sent for. The latter pronounced Mr. Prefontaine's illness to be serious, and a specialist was called into consultation. Complete rest was advised, and all engagements were cancelled.

At nine o'clock last night the administration of medicine was followed by a choking sensation. The last sacraments were administered and death followed immediately.

The British Minister, Sir Francis Bertie, was notified by Mr. Lemieux, and arrangements for the funeral of the Minister were at once begun.

The body will be taken to Montreal for interment.

Mr. Prefontaine came here from London, where he was negotiating with the Imperial authorities concerning the establishment of a naval militia in Canada, a subject in which he was deeply interested. A few days ago he was quoted as saying that the change in Government in Britain had delayed his plans, but that he was assured that the new Government was quite sympathetic with his designs.

ALD. JOHNSTON EXPLAINS

A Local City Father Discusses His Actions of Last Year

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—There are three matters I would like to set before the ratepayers who will be called upon to make their choice of twelve aldermen on Monday next, viz., my relations to organized labor, my position on license reduction, and my position on proposed fire fighting equipments.

You will have noticed a short time ago a paragraph in one of our city dailies to the effect that the Trades and Labor Council did not intend to place any labor candidates in the field this year and that they were not going to endorse me, as my actions in the council were not in the interests of working men. This was not official, never having been passed by the organizations at their meetings. It is just the opinion of one or two who are sore over something that has been bothering them for some time. When I read the article over I asked the writer of this through the press, to define what acts of mine were unsatisfactory, but up to the present I have heard nothing more of it, only this effect it is having with some throughout the city. Then, again, another paragraph appeared from the carpenters and joiners' endorsing me as their candidate. This, it appears, is not official either. I suppose some brother carpenter, thinking that while it was not talked of in the meetings, it would be their pleasure anyway.

I have never been requested by either the Trades Council or Carpenters' Union to bring up any matters in the City Council, excepting a certain number of propositions endorsed by them a few years ago which they thought would be for public benefit. One of these was to have an assessment commissioner appointed, and this I endorsed to the best of my ability. The other, which I did not endorse, was the proposal to pay by frontage tax the cost of cement sidewalks. They were thoroughly advised o my stand on this question. I favored general tax, and I favor it today more strongly than ever because the people said by their votes we want sidewalks paid by general tax.

I can attribute considerable to the several bodies of organized labor for my election as a representative in the council, and for that reason I think they might have called me to account in a different manner if my actions were unsuitable to them. I think when I was elected to the position of a councillor that I went there to represent the people in general and do what I believed to be right and in the interests of all classes of people. In my two years of council work I have endeavored to do what was right, and I leave the matter to the consideration of every ratepayer to judge for themselves whether they consider me worthy of representing them for a further term.

I want the people in all parts of the city to fully understand that I am representing no sect or organization, but fully representing the interests of every one to the best of my ability. I am a strong advocate of labor because I have always worked for my interests I may possess at this time. I have always looked upon the interests of the employers as well as the employed, and I have always felt that any employer who carries responsibilities, both mechanically and financially, should be respected, and his interests guarded as well as the man who does his day's labor.

I firmly believe that an action of this sort as taken by the trades council is a step in the direction of throwing away any influence that an organization of this kind may possess.

Now about the question of license reduction, my stand on this question is fully before the people. Some people are of the opinion that the ministerial association had no right to take any action on this matter. I, for one, believe they had. What are these people stationed among us for? Is it not to look after the matters pertaining to our good and try and elevate us to a better place of living than we may be better people? This is a question that apparently no one else seemed to move in. They took it up with the license commissioners, who jointly presented the case to the council, stating that they considered it should be presented to the people. The council are the representatives of the people and have decided as is well known to have the ratepayers speak on the matter, and in my opinion they have a right to vote on it as they are the ones who support both hotels and churches. Men who are keeping the law and are trying their best to keep good houses for the benefit of the travelling public have nothing to fear. It is better, in my way of looking at the matter, to have, say, fifteen good, well-kept houses than to have twenty-one with some continually breaking the law and degrading the name of a business of others who are trying to keep a good house.

We see the need more and more of some line of action being taken on this matter, and if the people will state by their vote that they want licenses reduced, some body will have to carry out their request. The license commissioners will be strengthened in their work by having the voice of the people at their back in the performance of their duties.

Now, about the fire hall improvements. If it were for no other reason than having fire hall appliances that would be a credit to Peterboro, I would try and better the conditions, and put us in an insurance class that would better our insurance rates. Our appliances are much the same as they were in years gone by, only instead of being drawn by hand they are pulled by horses. I am just as anxious as any ratepayer to keep down taxation, but when I consider the great benefit it is going to be to everyone, I will gladly pay the small amount of 25 cents on $1,000 assessment.

Some people are always complaining that the protection only benefits merchants and industries. Well, take it from that point if you will. If, through our defective alarm system, one, two or three minutes are lost in getting to a fire which may start in one of our industries or mercantile centers, the consequences may be serious. If it is an industry that employs a number of men, how does it affect you as a working man if you are out of employment while this building is being rebuilt, or if it is part of our mercantile center or a large fire in residential centers where a large revenue is derived from taxes, who is making up this revenue while this property is in ashes? You and I and everyone else in the community, by having a little added on our taxes, because all current expenditure is pretty much a fixed amount.

A combination chemical and hose is very necessary in the first stages of a fire. Larger ladders are needed to reach the highest points of buildings. A steamer is very necessary in case of emergency. Had it not been for the fire engine the new cereal mill would have suffered much worse from the fire than it did. A new hall is needed to place these appliances in and get our fire department into better working shape.

This pamphlet that will be distributed to every ratepayer this week will, I trust, be a convincing argument to favor the passing of the by-law.

I have placed my position before you in as plain and conscientious a manner as I possibly can. I have taken a stand for what I think is right, and in the face of the hot opposition which seems to assail me, I will leave the matter in the hands of the people, knowing that, whether I am one of the representatives or not, I did my duty and tried to carry to a successful issue matters that were to the general benefit of all.

I took a stand on these questions, and I will not show a white feather by backing down on any of them.

Yours truly,

W. J. JOHNSTON.

BELLEVILLE MAN GONE

Mr. S. H. Phippen Passes Away From Heart Failure.

Samuel H. Phippen, for many years one of Belleville's most prominent citizens, died suddenly of heart failure, Monday night. Deceased was for many years Government contractor, and the firm of Quinlan, Phippen & Robertson supplied all the stone for the Murray canal, and also for the Soulanges canal. He also contracted for many large public institutions. His death came as a great shock here, as he was a most popular man. He leaves a son, Edward, two daughters, Eva and Mabel, and a widow. He was sixty-three years of age.

ALD. LEARY HOME

Mr. Leary's Brother is Convalescent After His Narrow Escape From Death.

Ald. R. H. Leary is home again after his long trip to Santa Anna, Mexico. It will be remembered that the genial alderman's brother, was some time ago shot by a Yaki Indian, and had a narrow escape from death. His friends will be pleased to learn that Mr. Leary is now on the way to recovery, his brother, the alderman, having had him removed to Los Angeles, Cal. His assailant, a Yakis Indian, is under arrest, and will be shot by the authorities for the offence.

Mr. Leary was in charge of the work being done on a 100-stamp mill, owned by the Llewellyn Iron Co., of Los Angeles, on which $250,000 is being spent.

Ald. Leary will shortly take his family on a trip to California.

YORK COUNTY LOAN COMPANY

Peterboro Stockholders May Learn Some Facts.

FROM OTTAWA'S ACTION

Sensible Remarks Made Concerning Economy and Value of Savings Banks.

The following is the report of the Ottawa committee re the York Loan and Savings Company, which may be of interest to the thousand or more stockholders in Peterboro:

The undersigned having been appointed at a public meeting of the shareholders of the above company, held in the City Hall, Ottawa, on Saturday, 16th December, 1905, to act on behalf of the holders of claims of any kind against the company in Ottawa, Hull, and surrounding country, beg to report:

That the affairs of the company have assumed a shape different from that under discussion at the meeting referred to, by the issuance from the courts of a winding-up order. This at once relieved the subscribers from any necessity of making any further payment to the company, and placed the whole affairs of the company in the hand of an assignee or liquidator, to wind the company up, realize on all the assets, and pay pro-rata all claims proved against the company, in their order of precedence.

This winding up will probably take considerable time to effect, but as it removes all control of the company's property from the hands of the old officers, it will, in our opinion, be found to work out to the benefit of the claimants or shareholders.

Your committee have received what it believes to be a favorable offer from the Bank of Ottawa, to act as agents for the different shareholders and others interested in this part of the country, and without any expense to the depositors in connection with the winding up of the company.

The Bank is very favorably situated to do this, as through its manager in Toronto it can keep in constant touch with the proceedings, and thus save the shareholders the expense of employing agents to represent the shareholders, acting as it will, for a large number of claimants, it can expedite in many ways the winding up of the company.

The Bank of Ottawa will collect from the liquidator all money coming to the shareholders represented by it, forward the same to Ottawa and credit each shareholder with his or her proportion, when it can at once be drawn out, or if left on deposit, the usual bank rate of interest will be allowed for it.

A matter that engaged the serious attention of your committee was the enormous number of people whose confidence in the stability in saving institutions will be shaken by the failure of the York Loan. These people have, many of them, by denying themselves even the necessities of life, or what would by some be considered such, acquired habits of thrift and economy, in order that they might accumulate a little money, and by this failure they might lose faith in the desirability of such saving.

We cannot too strongly urge upon each shareholder the benefit to be derived from the continuance of such a habit of saving. It is the only way to make up what you may lose by the failure of the York Loan, and would urge that whenever possible they should deposit with the Bank of Ottawa at least as much as they were paying to the York Loan, for which the bank has agreed to open special accounts, and the money can be drawn at any time.

There can be no question of the security offered by the bank, nor of its careful and able management, and it has so many branches that little or no inconvenience will arise from paying direct into the bank, instead of having a collector calling once a week to receive your money.

The Bank of Ottawa takes this service upon itself, at considerable expense, but so much with the expectation of making money out of it, but as a public institution that has grown up and developed to its present large proportions in this city and surrounding country. It feels that anything that it can do to help the shareholders of the York Loan to realize as much as possible from their savings, will be a benefit to the community at large, and anything that can be done to encourage habits of thrift will be a benefit to the bank as well as to every business institution in the country.

Your committee have now prepared a form of power of attorney, to be signed by each shareholder or claimant, giving the Bank of Ottawa power to act for them in all matters in regard to the winding up of the York County Loan and Savings Company. We inclose a copy with this and request you to fill it up, signing it before a witness and return at once to W. H. Cuff, City Auditor, Ottawa.

You are also requested to send with the power of attorney your book or books and any other papers that will assist in preparing and filing your claim, a receipt for which will be forwarded to you as soon as possible.

Any information we have or any blanks required will be found at the City Auditor's office, in the City Hall, during office hours, and a person will be in attendance to give you any assistance in filling out claims or preparing papers.

Signed,

J. A. ELLIS, Mayor, Ottawa.
E. S. AUBRY, Mayor, Hull.

Bridgetown, Barbados, December 26.—The entire military situation of the British West Indies has been changed. The British regulars have departed from the island. Barbados loses, as $200,000 was spent here for the maintenance of the troops. Some fear that in case of an uprising the local forces will not be able to contend with the lawless elements.

Barbados has been the headquarters of the British military forces of the West Indies since 1780, and the only change looked for was the moving of it to Santa Lucia, without the least idea on the part of the people or the military of an entire withdrawal.

ALL WE ASK OF YOU IS - HOLD ON TO WHAT YOU BUY OF THIS STOCK

Dores Montgomery Mining Company

OF BULL FROG, NEVADA

604 CROSSLEY BUILDING, SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

We are offering a limited amount of treasury stock at 25c. per share for development work. Our property is just 1800 feet southwest of the famous Montgomery Shoshone mine and both have unquestionably the same vein. Our group shows a well defined vein cropping out through, and it is a perfect fissure. A six inch talc seam on the hanging wall gives high values. We have also several other ledges, and it is only a matter of development work to make this property equal to any producer in the section.

Clipping from "The Rhyolite Herald": A glimpse at the world beater mine. What is a block of $75 ore, 154x185x300 feet worth in cold cash? This is in sight in the Big Shoshone Mine.

Can you figure?

If you were to compute the amount of ore "in sight" in the Montgomery Shoshone Mine, Nevada's infant wonder, and had the exact measurements before you, would you believe your own eyes? Here is an opportunity to test your faith.

There are five drifts on the big ore body. The first drift is 190 feet from the portal of the crosscut tunnel, which shows 154 feet of milling ore. The other drifts follow at a space of 50 feet apart. Here are the measurements.

Drift No. 1, north 100 feet. Drift No. 3, south 60 feet. Drift No. 5, north 40 feet.
Drift No. 2, south 120 feet. Drift No. 4, north 140 feet.

The winze sunk at a point 75 feet from the portal of the tunnel is 110 feet below the level and 150 feet from the surface.

The total exposure of ores in drifts No. 3 and 4 running in opposite directions, is 300 feet in length. The ore has been proven to be 150 feet in width in the crosscut tunnel, and has been proven continuous from the surface down to a depth of 150 feet in the winze, at a point where the ore was first struck in the tunnel, and the workings are all in ore.

Here is the block: 150 x 150 x 700 feet—5,250,000 cubic feet—300,000 tons—$20,250,000.

It is the opinion of the management of the mine that all of the ore exposed will average up to $75 a ton. If that is true there is $20,250,000 worth of ore in sight in the mine today. If the ore averages only $50, there is $7,500,000 in sight. If the ore averages only $40, there is $15,000,000 in sight in the mine. If the ore averages only $10, there is $1,500,000 in sight. These calculations are made on the basis of 15 cubic feet of ore to the ton.

The management of the Montgomery Shoshone conservatively estimates that the winze has produced $300,000 worth of ore. If this is right, the ore from the winze has averaged about $975 a ton, or about $1250 for every foot of sinking, the winze being 4 x 7 in clear.

Ore from the winze running less than $250 is thrown over the dump as milling ore. No less than 150 tons of ore has been shipped from this mine, all of it coming from the winze. Another shipment of 50 tons or more will be made via Las Vegas in a few days.

The figures given above are startling in the extreme, but the measurements and ore values as quoted are official—direct from the management of the wonderful mine that is today astonishing the world.

This property is only 1800 feet from the Dores Montgomery Mine.

"GOLD IS WHERE YOU FIND IT."—The old Mining Adage.
The Older Mining Problem Follows "HOW TO GET IT OUT."

Poor men discover mines, rich men buy them out, or get control of the stock and freeze them out. Rare is it that the discoverer of a rich property ever develops it for himself. Most of the suffering and privation of prospecting is only a foundation for another man's building. In the case of the DORES MONTGOMERY MINING COMPANY, we have resolved not to lose what we, after so many years, have wrought from the earth. Therefore, after carefully incorporating, we decided that there were enough in numbers and from the start. Therefore, after carefully incorporating, we decided that there were enough in numbers and from the start to share the profits and all we ask is IF YOU BUY, HOLD ON, as you would to an endowment policy. Don't come into this solely to speculate. It is safe, with a big future, but we don't offer many shares. This is an opportunity that you never had before. C. H. Schwab offered $1,000,000, which was refused, for the Montgomery Shoshone Mines, just 1800 feet from our property.

Pale and Anxious

Your Countenance Indicates the Body's Awful Struggle for Health.

Impossible to work or think clearly when there is no reserve of vigor, no nourishment in the blood, no supply of nerve energy.

The life of the half-sick man is pitiful, in fact, almost criminal, when bounding strength is so quickly derived from Ferrozone.

This nutritive tonic is guaranteed to strengthen all men, women and children. Weak organs get new force, vital energy is generated. Muscle and fat are added, healthy color is restored and the blood fairly tingles with new-found life.

Read the evidence of Jno. Carter, of 411 King St. East, Toronto, who says: "After a severe attack of Grippe my health was almost shattered. I suffered constantly from nervousness and dyspepsia. At night I would awaken with terrible palpitation and heart pains. Work became a great effort. At ten in the morning I was so tired and weak I could hardly work another minute.

"Then came a bad attack of rheumatism which laid me up in bed. I could scarcely lift the weight of a pound and to stoop or bend was impossible. My druggist recommended Ferrozone, and he knew what he was talking about, for it rebuilt my strength, gave me abundant appetite, better blood, and new nerve energy. The rheumatism has disappeared. I weigh more, feel refreshed and vigorous, and am able to work ten hours a day. Ferrozone did it all."

You will be steadied, toned and strengthened for all time to come with Ferrozone. Get the genuine in 50c. boxes or six for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., or Kingston, Ont.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE WORK.

It is gratifying to know of the increased enthusiasm among Farmers' Institute officers and directors throughout the Province. They evidently put forth every effort to make the meetings in the latter part of November and throughout December a success, and their efforts resulted in largely increased attendance and enthusiastic discussions. Reports from all along the line indicate that the series of meetings just closed, have been more successful than at any other time during the past few years, some of the oldest men in the work stating that "they were the best meetings I ever attended."

A special appeal was made to the officers, and they have responded like men. It is to be hoped that they will continue the good work throughout the series of meetings to be held in January and February.

The work to be undertaken at the meetings this winter will consist, as in past years, of addresses and discussions on what are called by some, "Thread-bare subjects." We are thoroughly convinced, however, that there is nothing of more vital importance to the average farmer, than the general cultivation of the soil, the selection of seed grain, the prevention of the introduction and eradication of weeds, the necessity of having a definite object in the breeding of the various classes of live stock, the feeding of stock at the lowest possible cost in keeping with the production of a high class of animal products, etc. All these and many other subjects will receive due prominence at the meetings this winter; and the greatest good will result only when those in attendance go prepared to take an active part in the discussions.

Each deputation will be furnished with mounted specimens of 20 noxious weeds. These will be exhibited at the places of meeting, both before and after the addresses are delivered, and will be of interest not only to farmers, but to their wives and children. Small pamphlets, setting forth methods of eradication, will be distributed to those who show an interest in the subject of weeds.

It is to be hoped that the farmers will not neglect to adopt some means by which their sons will become interested in the work of the Institute. Take the boys to the meetings with you and induce them to study the literature sent out by the Department.

It was unanimously decided at the Convention held in September last, it would be well to form one or more Farmers' clubs in each riding. These should be only at those places where a keen interest is manifested. These clubs will be officered and conducted solely by local men. Inquiries were made regarding the formation of these clubs at the fall meetings, and several localities have already intimated their intention to hold meetings throughout the winter. Full information as to the best method of conducting these clubs will be given to each deputation. If a sufficient number of centres decide to organize for local work, the Department will undertake to give directions and assistance by circular and pamphlet from time to time.

together with considerable United States capital, are said to be behind an enterprise looking to the establishment of immense car shops in Toronto. The company will be capitalized at $5,000,000, and will work in close conjunction with the Canada Car Co., Montreal, who already have more orders than they can possibly fill in the next five years. If the plans carry through, employment will be furnished some 2,000 men.

EPIDEMIC OF SMALLPOX

Disease Will Become General in The Province.

Toronto, December 25.—Dr. Sheard at the final meeting of the local board of health Friday made the statement that he was confident there would be an epidemic of smallpox throughout the province this winter. He declared the local boards of health should urge upon the government that policy of compulsory vaccination be carried out all over Ontario.

JAPAN IS STILL WAITING

Open Secret in Tokio of Komura's Action.

Tokio, December 21.—The continued failure of Baron Komura to conclude the negotiations with the Chinese Government at Pekin which were begun after the conclusion of the Russo-Japanese war is an open secret.

It is believed by some Japanese here that the extent of Japan's concessions are such as will fail to secure what they think should have properly been her acquisitions as the result of the treaty at Portsmouth.

For example, the building of the Krin Chang Chung Railway has not been conceded, and the stationing of railway guards is not to be permitted, leaving the work in the hands of the police who will be withdrawn when the period for the withdrawal of troops expires.

China's firm attitude is believed to be due to combined pressure indirectly exerted by Russia, France and Germany.

The outcry against the alleged weakness of the Cabinet is increasing and some persons advocate the suspension of the Pekin negotiations.

Favors New Steamship Line.

London, Dec. 23.—Hon. Mr. Prefontaine, at the Chamber of Commerce banquet in Paris, spoke of the support of the projected steamship line between Montreal and Mediterranean points.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux described the strong sympathy of French-Canadians for France, the land of their fathers, and the sympathy which existed side by side with that of firm attachment to Great Britain.

BLOOD DISEASES

If you inherited or contracted any Blood Disease you are never safe unless the virus or poison has been eradicated from the system. At times you see alarming symptoms, but live in hopes no serious results will follow. Have you any of the following symptoms? Sore throat, ulcers on the tongue or in the mouth, hair falling out, aching pains, itchiness of the skin, sores or blotches on the body, eyes red and smart, dyspeptic stomach, sexual weakness—enlarged glands. Don't trust to luck. Don't ruin your system with the old fogy treatment—mercury, potash and patent medicines, which suppress the symptoms for a time only to break out again when happy in domestic life. Don't let quacks experiment on you. Our NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure you. OUR GUARANTEES ARE BACKED BY BANK BONDS that the Blood or Skin disease will never return. Thousands of patients have been already cured by our NEW METHOD TREATMENT for over 20 years, and no return of the disease. No experiment, no risk—not a "patch up," but a positive cure. The worst cases solicited.

HAD BLOOD POISON 12 YEARS

The New Method Treatment Cured Him after Drugs, Mercury, Hot Springs, &c., all failed.

Wm. H. Patterson, of Saginaw, Mich., relates his experience: "I do not like notoriety and especially of this kind, but I feel I owe this much to Drs. K. & K. for the great good they have done me. I had a serious blood disease when 24 years of age. The skin and blood symptoms gradually developed. Pimples and blotches formed, [illegible] sores broke out, hair became loose, pains in the bones and joints. After Treatment dyspeptic stomach, foul breath, itchy skin, etc. It is needless for me to say I tried doctors. I grew to hate the looks of one. I visited Hot Springs twice for four months each time. It helped me temporarily, but in six months after returning home I was as bad as ever. Finally a Doctor, friend of mine, advised me to [illegible] as they made a specialty of these diseases and treated the worst cases by the hundred they ought to be expert in curing them. I was afraid of advertising doctors, but I took his advice. They agreed to treat me under a guarantee or no pay. I investigated their financial standing and found they were perfectly responsible, so I commenced the new method treatment. The eruptions disappeared in [illegible] the bone pains in four weeks and in four months I was entirely cured, etc. I can recommend the New Method Treatment for Blood and Skin Diseases."

The Lust of Hate

BY GUY BOOTHBY

Author of "A Beautiful White Devil," "A Bid For Fortune," "The Marriage of Esther," "Dr. Nikola," Etc., Etc.

I paid him his fare and sixpence over for his civility, and then turned to question a filthy little gutter urchin, who, with bare feet and chattering teeth, was standing beside me.

"Where is 23, my lad?" I inquired. "Can you take me to it?"

"Twenty-three?" said the boy. "That's where Crooked Billy lives, sir. You come along with me and I'll show you the way."

"Go ahead then," I answered, and the boy thereupon bolted into the darkness of the alley before which we had been standing. I followed him as quickly as I could, but it was a matter of some difficulty, for the court was as black as the Pit of Tophet, and seemed to twist and turn in every conceivable direction. A more unprepossessing place it would have been difficult to find. Half-way down I heard the boy cry out "Hold up, mother!" and before I could stop I found myself in collision with a woman who, besides being unsteady on her legs, reeked abominably of gin. Disengaging myself, to the accompaniment of her curses, I sped after my leader, and a moment later emerged into the open court itself. The snow had ceased, and the three-quarter moon, sailing along through swift flying clouds, showed me the surrounding houses. In one or two windows, lights were burning, revealing sights which almost made my flesh creep with loathing. In one I could see a woman sewing as if for her very life by the light of a solitary candle stuck in a bottle, while two little children lay asleep, half-clad, on a heap of straw and rags in the corner. On my right I had a glimpse of another room, where the dead body of a man was stretched upon a mattress on the floor, with two old hags seated at a table beside it, drinking gin from a black bottle, turn and turn about. The wind whistled mournfully among the roof tops; the snow had been trodden into a disgusting slush everywhere, save close against the walls, where it still showed white as silver; while the reflection of the moon gleamed in the icy puddles golden as a spade guinea.

"This is number 23," said my conductor, pointing to the door before which he stood.

I rewarded him, and then turned my attention to the door indicated.

Having rapped with my knuckles upon the panel, I waited for it to be opened to me. But those inside were in no hurry, and for this reason some minutes elapsed before I heard anyone moving about; then there came the sound of shuffling feet, and next moment the door was opened an inch or two, and a female voice inquired with an oath—which I will omit—what was wanted and who was wanting it.

To the first query I replied by asking if Levi Solomon lived there, and, if he did, whether I could see him. The second I shirked altogether. In answer I was informed that Levi Solomon did reside there, and that if I was the gentleman who had called to see him about a hansom cab I was to come in at once.

The door was opened to me, and I immediately stepped into the grimiest, most evil-smelling passage it has ever been my ill luck to set foot in. The walls were soiled and stained almost beyond recognition; the floor was littered with orange peel, paper, cabbage leaves, and garbage of all sorts and descriptions, while the stench that greeted me baffles description. I have never smelled anything like it before, and I hope I may never do so again.

The most I can say for the old lady who admitted me is that she matched her surroundings. She was short almost to dwarfishness, well-nigh bald, and had lost her left eye. Her dress consisted of a ragged shirt, and in place of a body—I believe that is the technical expression—she wore a man's coat, which gave a finishing touch of comicality to the peculiar outline of her figure. As soon as she saw that I had entered, she bade me shut the door behind me and follow her. This I did by means of a dilapidated staircase, in which almost every step was taken at the risk of one's life, to the second floor. Having arrived there, she knocked upon a door facing her; and I noticed that it was not until she had been ordered to enter that she ventured to turn the handle.

"The gentleman what has come about the 'ansom keb," she said, as she ushered me into the room.

The apartment was lit by two candles stuck in their own wax upon a little deal table, and by their rays I could distinguish the man I had come in search of standing by the fireplace awaiting me. He did not greet me until he had made certain, by listening at the keyhole, that the old woman had gone downstairs. He was a quaint little fellow, Jewish from the soles of his feet to the top of his head. He had the nose of his race, little beady eyes as sharp as gimlets, and a long beard which a little washing might have made white. He was dressed in a black frock coat two sizes too large for him, black trousers that would have fitted a man three times his size, and boots that had been patched and otherwise repaired till their original maker would not have known them again.

"Mr. Pennethorne, I presume," he began, rubbing his hands together and speaking as if he had a bad cold in his head, "I am delighted to see you. I am sorry that I cannot ask you to sit down, but I have no chair to give you. For the same reason I cannot offer you refreshment. Have you had a good look at me?"

My surprise at this abrupt question prevented my replying for a moment; then I insinuated that I thought I should know him again, after which, with a muttered "That's all right," he blew out one of the candles, remarking that, as we now knew each other, we could conduct our business quite as well with half the light.

"I received word from our mutual acquaintance Dr. Nikola this morning," he began, when the illumination had been thus curtailed, "that you would be coming to see me. Of course I did not ask the business, for Dr. [illegible] is my friend, and I [illegible] trust him to the letter. By his instructions I am to fit you with a disguise, and then to take you to the place where you will discover a certain hansom cab awaiting you."

I nodded. At the very mention of the cab my old hatred of Bartrand sprang up again, and I began to question the Jew as to where we were to find it and what I was to do when I had got it. But this impetuosity did not meet with his approval.

"My young friend, you must not be in such a hurry," he said, wagging his head deprecatingly at me. "We shall have to be sure we make no mistake otherwise the doctor would not be pleased, and I should not like to risk that. Have you known Dr. Nikola very long?"

"I met him this morning for the first time in my life," I answered, realizing on what intimate terms we now stood, considering the length of our acquaintance.

"If that is so you have much to learn regarding him," the Jew replied. "Let us be very careful that we do not risk his displeasure. Now we will get to work, for it is nearly time for us to be going."

One of the most promising propositions ever placed before the Canadian investors.

The Company's Offer to Discriminating Investors.

The management is assured that $15,000 will be sufficient to complete the improvements necessary to place the mine on a substantial producing and dividend paying basis. Therefore the directorate has authorized the sale of 15,000 shares of the capital stock at par. The improvements under way include the construction of a mill and concentrating plant, boarding and bunk houses for the miners employed and the installation of machinery required for the treatment of the output of the mine. With dividends assured and a certainty of a sharp advance in the price of this security it is stated with emphasis that no more attractive opportunity for investments could be placed before the public. Custer, Idaho, November 15, 1905.

To the Stock Holders of The Oxarna Mining Co.:—

We have steadily continued the development of our properties since last advising you June 15th. At that time we had no plant erected or contracted for, but now I am pleased to report that we have secured a Ten Stamp Mill, together with Boarding House, Assay Office and all other necessary buildings, originally costing $15,000.00, hence you will know that we have been making great progress, and are rapidly approaching a productive stage, but as we have a final payment to make on this Mill, we will not withdraw our stock from the market until this money is raised. We are now making preparations so that by early spring we can start our Mill for a long and continuous run. You will be advised later on as to the date when we will start so that you can be present if possible.

In addition to this Mill, which is now erected, with all machinery in place and in perfect running order, we have secured the machinery for an other Ten Stamp Mill, consisting of Battery, Seventy-five Horse Power Engine, two Forty Horse Power Boilers, and all other necessary machinery which we expect to install in the Mill now already equipped, which will increase the capacity of our plant from 750 to 1500 tons a month, which means a great saving in the cost of reducing our ores, as it takes about the same labor to operate a Ten Stamp Mill as it does to operate a Twenty Stamp Mill, about the only additional expenses necessary to operate the larger Mill is a little additional fuel. In addition to above machinery we have also purchased an Ingersoll Air Compressor for use in the Mines, at a cost of $1200.00.

We are assured funds to complete our payment on the Ten Stamp Mill and for other purposes, and never having any brokers to place our stock, we have had no commissions to pay, hence we have financed the Company for a less sum than is usually required. We have no debts and will pay no salaries until after the Mill goes into commission.

I also beg to advise you that we expect to take over the control of the stock of the Corning Mining Company, at an early date, giving a part of our stock in payment therefore. This will give us an additional eighty acres of Mineral Land, twenty acres of which is the Black Mine. This Mine has produced $120,000.00 net, and has one mile of development, costing over $70,000.00, and an additional sum of $10,157.00 has been expended in developments this and last summer. Our Mill is on this group and is adjoined by "The Lucky Boy Mine," which has produced $1,000,000, and by "The Badger Group," which has paid $600,000.00 on a capital of $1200.00.

The time is rapidly approaching when THE OXARNA COMPANY WILL BE ONE OF THE STEADY PRODUCERS, and I urge each of the stock holders to buy all the stock that he or she can pay for while it can be had at the exceedingly low price of 10 cents a share. The officers are increasing their holdings and we want to give all the stock holders an equal chance with us. I have just put $7,500.00 more cash into the Company's Treasury for stock at 10 cents a share, the same that you will pay if you take advantage of this opportunity NOW.

I trust that you will be pleased with this report and with the efforts that are being made by your officers for the interests of each stock holder.

REGINALD CORTELL, Manager Oxarna Gold Mining Company.

To the readers of "The Times":—

The above report has been sent out to all our stock holders, and the allotment of stock for sale at 10 cents a share is being rapidly taken, for the ore that we are now taking out averages over $67.00 a ton and, with our Twenty Stamp Mill in operation, our earnings will not be less than $30,000.00 net per month, which will enable us to pay at least 100 per cent. (ten times the present cost) in dividends within six months from the time we put the Mill in commission. For immediate acceptance only, I can offer this stock for 10 cents a share cash, or one-quarter of the amount with order and a like amount in 30, 60 and 90 days. Make all orders payable to the undersigned, or remit through the NATIONAL BANK OF DELPHOS.

—Those interested in the idea of reducing the licenses of this city, held a meeting last night in the Y.M.C.A. Had those people seen the congested state of our local public houses and hotel yards last Saturday, they would perhaps be less keen in their well-intentioned crusade.

—Alphonse Dalling, a former employe of the Queen's Hotel, Whitby, was brought back from Bowmanville to Toronto on Saturday by Detective Sankett to answer the charge of passing a worthless check for $15 at the Iroquois Hotel, Toronto. The check was on the Western Bank of Whitby.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

Peterboro's Future Depends Upon The Quality of Our Councillors.

And now the candidates for aldermanic and Board of Education honors are about giving "the glad hand" to every acquaintance they own or think they should own.

In this matter there is more than appears on the surface. The average man treats the subject of candidates for Peterboro's council with more or less levity. If the average man would consider that candidates running for the council give up many evenings of their time for the public weal without further recompense than popular abuse, he might possibly drop his joking.

Our city fathers may, and doubtless do, make mistakes, many mistakes. But, when the average man puts his thinking cap on, and stops to consider the weary hours devoted to Peterboro's municipal administration by these UNPAID public servants, he might well give all candidates a thorough weighing in his mental balance.

In our council of the past year, we have had good men, and some better men. The thing to consider is, whether any of the new blood now offered for infusion into municipal affairs, is better or more alive than some of that which actuated our aldermen of the past. If the new blood, divided among a vegal candidates, is better, let it be infused; or, at least, in so preponderant a matter as our city's advancement and progress, let us choose for our suffrage, those candidates possessing the most aggressive, but still conservative red-corpuscles of "bugs" in their municipal possibilities.

There is good material in both old and new candidates for election; it is the duty of every patriotic citizen to first give his candidature a thorough investigation and then, after mature deliberation, vote for those who are "Live Men."

Peterboro is now at a critical stage in its history; our advancement has been steadily upward. A steady westbound upward call, in the years that year 1906, not our chances for advancement backward call years.

In the matter of choosing whether Tom, Dick or Harry made or elected aldermen, there is more at stake than the individual's quest for your support. Peterboro, to advance to the place she should hold among the aspirants of Canadian cities, must elect a council that is wide awake, untrammeled by petty graft for private gain, and composed of men whose ideas have been shaped by extended experience in affairs.

Let us, for the sake of our city, weigh the honesty, intelligence, experience and local patriotism of our candidates before marking our ballots on election day.

CARD TO THE RATEPAYERS

City Council 1906

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN;

I solicit your votes and influence in favor of my candidature for alderman. I was for several years a member of Ashburnham council and one year Reeve of the village. I place my experience gained in such service at the disposal of the ratepayers, and trust to be elected, if I deserve the favor and have the confidence of the community.

I shall not be able to make a personal canvass and trust that I will receive such support as the ratepayers may afford to one who will work for the best interests of the city.

Very respectfully yours,

J. H. SMITH

TO THE RATEPAYERS OF PETERBORO

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN;

Having served you one year as one of the members of your City Council, I again come before you asking for re-election.

I am confident that if favored with your approval I can be a more useful member, this growing out of my experience. I will promise a most faithful service and careful attention to the interests of the city.

Thanking you for past support and soliciting your votes and influence,

Very respectfully yours,

GEO. J. TOVEY

TO MY FELLOW CITIZENS

I would respectfully ask the ratepayers of Peterboro for a share of their votes in the coming municipal elections for Aldermen.

If honored by election I shall do my share in assisting to give Peterboro an honest and economical civic administration.

I consider that our city should endeavor to materially increase the number of our local factories. At the same time I believe all factories seeking assistance in any form, from Peterboro, should give a tangible guarantee that they will keep their end of any arrangement made with this city.

C. H. CLEMENTI

TO THE ELECTORS OF PETERBORO

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN;

At the request of a number of ratepayers to reconsider the withdrawal of my name as a candidate for 1906, I have decided to allow my name to go before the electors on January 1, 1906.

I will thank those ratepayers who favor a progressive policy for the city along economical lines for their voluntary support as other interests will not permit me making a personal canvas.

R. HICKS

How hard a struggle it is to coax before she can get her child to take its first step. It is just about as hard to induce a consumptive, especially one with weakness of the lungs, to take the first step to health. There is a lack of confidence, and perhaps a crushing experience of a former failure which depresses and discourages the sufferer.

In spite of doubts and fears you will take the first step to health when you take the first dose of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It never fails to help. In ninety-eight cases out of one hundred it never fails to cure. Never mind about the symptoms. Obstinate cough, bleeding of the lungs, spitting of blood, emaciation, night-sweats, conditions which if neglected or unskillfully treated terminate in consumption, have all been perfectly and permanently cured by "Golden Medical Discovery."

"I have attributed to our then Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cured me of consumption," writes Mrs. Mattie L. Benton, of Morganton, N. C. "My health had been bad and for several months before I heard the [illegible] I had symptoms of consumption. Hard night-sweats, a bad cough, loss of appetite and a great loss of flesh. There were other symptoms of disease that disappeared by the use of the medicine. By the time I used one bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery' I began to realize my need, and after using two and a half bottles my cough was cured. I could eat heartily and all symptoms of consumption had disappeared. Took seven bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and one of the 'Favorite Prescription.' Am very thankful I received so much benefit. I believe I would have been dead if I had rested and not taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

Sick persons are invited to consult Dr. R. V. Pierce, by letter, absolutely without fee or charge. Every letter is regarded as sacredly confidential. Each answer is mailed in a plain envelope. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

A Canadian's Experience in Russia

A Traveller Tells of What He Witnessed In Warsaw.

Yesterday there was registered at the Knowden House a gentleman who has just returned from Russia, where he had been on a business trip for a Chicago house, which he represented. He landed in New York on the 18th, and stopped off to visit his sister, Mrs. J. Andrews, who lives on Stewart street. To The Times Mr. Bain, the gentleman referred to, told his experiences in Russia.

"I have had all I want of Russia," he said. "The Cossacks are human devils, without one thought beyond killing. I saw them charge into a crowd of 5,000 persons in Warsaw. They used their knouts and pistols and swung their swords at every head within reach.

"I stayed at the Bristol Hotel in Warsaw, and from November 11 to November 17, during the great strike, there was no cooks in the hotel. The night of November 15 I was playing billiards in the billiard room on the second floor. We heard a great shouting outside, but this had become so usual that we paid no attention to it. Suddenly there was a fusilade of shots and a crashing of plate glass, then cries of anger from men and shrieks from women from the cafe below.

"We ran to the head of the stairs, and saw men and women rushing from the place. Some dashed up the stairs and others back through the hall to the rear. While we stood there, a bomb wasthrown into the cafe and exploded, wrecking the ground floor. Another bomb quickly followed, and the whole building seemed to shake.

"Before the sound of the explosion had died away, the crowd had swarmed through the window and a break in the wall, and we heard the crashing of china and chairs and the breaking of tables. The crowd had begun to think of the upper stories, and we thought of some way to escape, when we heard the indescribable yell of the Cossacks. Then came the charge of cavalry, the cries of the wonded, the crack of revolvers, the impact of horses against a living wall of people, which yielded with a sickening sound.

"Five hundred Cossacks literally cleared their way through the crowd. Some rode their horses through the windows, cutting down all inside who did not flee. Gradually quiet was restored.

"A few days after this I was in the American bar, which faces on a park square, while there was a meeting of workmen. There were fully 5,000 crowded in the place, when the Cossacks charged and cleared the park. The Cossacks were fired upon and several were wounded, and this appeared to drive them to fury, for they used their sabers freely. The place resembled a shambles.

"Some of the workmen rushed back and caught up the body of one of their dead comrades and threw it into a wheelbarrow, with the legs dangling over the front. The crowd then paraded through the streets, singing revolutionary songs, with the dead man wheeled in the lead. It took me two hours to get out of this crowd.

"After this I went to St. Petersburg. On December 6 it was impossible to get a telegram or letter out of St. Petersburg, and the tumult was very great.

"In a few days I got a permit and took passage to the german frontier, where I soon was en route for home."

Mr. Bain left yesterday for Chicago, where he will remain for the present.

GRAND CAIRO EXPENDING

Egyptian Capital Expected to Reach the Foot of the Pyramids.

Cairo, December 27. — The expansion and transformation of Cairo is proceeding at a remarkably rapid rate. Not long ago it was reported that a concession has been given by the Egyptian government for the building of a town in a portion of the desert adjoining the Abassieh quarter of the city. Another scheme is now in preparation. A group of Europeans is said to have asked the Minister of Finance to sell the tract of the desert land to the west of the pyramids, so that it may be used for building purposes. If this request is granted, a new town will before many years rise almost at the feet of the sphynx and pyramids, and Egypt's capital will be extended to the side of these ancient monuments.

The Land of the Aztecs.

Who has not read of the glories and wonders of old Mexico! The days when Montezuma held gorgeous court in the ancient capital of Gran Tenochtitlan are departed, but they have left Mexico one of the most interesting countries in the world. Picturesque ruins and relics, in a setting of flowers and sunshine, everywhere delight the fortunate visitor; each day's travel reveals fresh beauties. And out of the ruins a new Mexico is arising, a land of possibilities, abounding in resources of all kinds. In the peasants' hands the soil will yield five crops a year, metals and minerals in abundance. Our business men have here a splendid field for investment, and should see and judge the land for themselves. Leisurely investigation under sunny skies will be pleasant work, while the ladies will be delighted with their bargains in native work and precious stones.

An attractive itinerary, covering the whole of Mexico and the best of the Southern States, and including a visit to Cuba and New Orleans for "Mardi Gras," has been arranged for the Cuthbert House-party tour, leaving Toronto early in February next. The special private train will contain every possible comfort and luxury, and the cuisine equal to that of a first-class hotel. A pleasant, smooth running trip is assured, the management having had long experience in this branch of travel. Canadian enterprise, when it is the best, is worthy of your attention. Full particulars, with descriptive literature, upon application to E. McCutcheon, 25 Richmond street, Toronto, or C. B. Foster, District Passenger Agent, C.P. Ry., Toronto.

ENORMOUS GAINS IN IRON TRADE

Great Railway Development Keeps Steel Mills Unusually Busy.

ELECTRICITY NOW IN VOGUE

One Line Introducing New Power On Branches as an Experiment in Economy.

Ottawa, December 28.—The extensive railway development in Canada during the past few years is having its natural effect upon the industrial enterprises of the country. This is particularly noticeable in the recent expansion of the iron and steel industry, which has received a remarkable impetus since the introduction of the bounty system and the imposition of the new duties on steel rails.

Twenty-five years ago there were 7,200 miles of railway in operation in the Dominion, and today there are about 20,000 miles. In addition a large number of charters have been granted for the construction of new lines, notably the Grand Trunk Pacific, which will add many more thousands of miles to the present total mileage. In extent of railway development throughout the British Empire Canada stands third. India comes first, with about 27,000 miles of railway, Great Britain second, with over 23,500 miles; Canada third, with 20,000 miles, and Australasia fourth, having some 17,000 miles of railway in operation.

BIG DEMAND FOR RAILS.

The large and steady growth of railway business in Canada for the past few years is full of promise for the future of the steel industry in this country. The Grand Trunk Pacific Line will require steel rails to equip its track, extending some 3,700 miles from ocean to ocean, and as the development of the North-West progresses there will be new branches built on this line, and on the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian Northern Railway, which is the third transcontinental railway in course of construction in Canada.

The supply of steel rails to meet the enormous demands of these great railways and other lines in operation, in course of construction and projected in the Dominion will have to be derived almost entirely from the Canadian rolling mills, as the bounties and duties now applied will prove a practically insurmountable barrier against the American mills. Already orders have been placed with the two big Canadian mills at Sydney, N. S., and at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., for next year's delivery, to the extent of 200,000 tons of rails, which is about half the capacity of the two mills.

In 1904 the imports of iron and steel into Canada amounted to over $41,000,000, and of rails and railway supplies upward of $2,500,000. The whole of the iron and steel goods comprised in these imports are producable in the works now being operated in the Dominion. The change coming over the steel trade in this country is shown by the exports of steel goods manufactured in the Dominion having increased, during the past five years, from $40,000 to over $1,000,000.

ELECTRICITY SUPPLANTS STEAM.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company proposes to electrify, as a beginning, certain of its branch and suburban lines in the Province of Quebec. This is a forwardstep which augurs much for the future prospects of the ultimate adoption of electrical energy, as the motive power instead of steam, for Canadian railways.

It is pointed out that the substitution of electricity for steam, on the company's lines in the eastern parts of the system, is exceedingly interesting in view not only of the extraordinary development in connection with electricity, but of the prediction of Thomas A. Edison, who said that within the next fifteen years all the railways would be using nothing but electrical power for their trunk lines.

This prediction becomes all the more significant when taken with the statement made by the President of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy. In a recent interview Sir Thomas said that the company intended to adopt electricity for some of its shorter branch lines, and, casting his eye into the future, he said he foresaw the day when electricity would take the company's engines from coast to coast. He pointed at the same time to the extraordinary advantages that Canada possesses in her unrivaled waterfalls, which could be used for the development of power.

FISH SEIZED

600 Pounds of Fish Seized at Royal Hotel By Inspectors.

That Game Inspector Thomas Rutherford, is the right man in the right place was fully in evidence yesterday.

During the afternoon of yesterday between two and three o'clock, game inspectors, T. Rutherford and David Johnston made a seizure that reflects great credit upon their sagacity and knowledge of matters appertaining to their business.

The two inspectors, who are determined to wipe out all illicit game abuses, got word that both bass and muskinonge, both out of legal season now, were being brought into the city and quietly hawked about. As such a state of affairs cannot be allowed under present Ontario Government regulations, the inspectors put two and two together, and quickly located a cache of game fish, weighing over 600 pounds, cunningly hidden away in bags and boxes in sheds behind the Royal Hotel.

Mr. Flynn, proprietor of this hotel, it is only fair to say, knew absolutely nothing about the illegal game hidden on his premises.

The two game inspectors at once got the 600 pounds of fish under seizure. The next question was what to do with it? The law prevented them from selling it, hence deterred them from using it, so a happy medium was struck.

The 600 pounds of prime bass and muskinonge was divided equally between the Nichol's Hospital, St. Joseph's Hospital, the House of Providence and the Protestant Home.

In view of this clever capture of fish, murdered out of lawful season, it might be added that Mr. Rutherford is now "On the Warpath" after those parties in this city and elsewheres who, by purchasing venison and fish, out of season, encourage the back country settlers, to kill out Peterboro county's supply of game. This seizure of fish is only the thin end of a wedge of extermination driven into illicit murder of game.

ATHLETIC WORLD

BY OUR SPORTING EDITOR

BASKETBALL.

The Westmount team, intermediate champions of the Province of Quebec, will play the local Brownies, junior champions of Canada, at the Y.M.C.C. gymnasium on New Year's night. The Westmount team is the only eastern team that defeated the Brownies on their tour at Easter, winning out by a score of 36—23, after the best game every played on Westmount floor. This year they have defeated Central Y.M.C.A. team of Montreal, with two senior men on, by a score of 37—12, and McGill college team easily. They are quite confident of defeating the Brownies even on their own floor. The Brownies are under heavy expense in bringing this team here as the Westmount team are coming west to play this one game. The match should be well patronized, and will be the best exhibition of basketball ever seen here.

HOCKEY.

The City Hockey League have reorganized for the season, electing officers and transacting other business. The meeting was attended by representatives of the three teams which will constitute the league this year, viz., the Bankers, High Lifes, and Suicides.

The officers elected were:

President—F. A. Clark.
Vice-Pres.—Jos. Mahler.
Secretary—J. L. Main.
Treasurer—C. Wilson.

The Executive Committee will be composed of the officers elected and a representative from each of the teams in the league.

A committee composed of Messrs. Main, Weatherstone and H. Morgan were appointed to confer with the Guild League officers and secretary of the Rink Company with reference to arranging hours for the playing of league games. The proposal was that the City and Guild League games should be played on Thursday nights.

The prospects are that the games in the City League this season will be much faster than they were last year, the three teams entering each having some fast men on their line-up.

OLD MOORE'S 1906 FORECAST.

Prophet Pleased at Success of His Predictions for 1905.

London, December 26. — If old Moore's" predictions come true 1906 will be a year of absorbing interest. Some of the most remarkable prophecies are as follows:

January—A series of railway and shipping disasters.

February—Disasters to vessels of war and "large floating city."

March—Reduction in income tax; tax on two-wheeled exercisers, presumably bicycles.

April—Removal of professional beggars from the streets; prominent statesman to die after "chequered and somewhat stormy life."

May—World's peace congress; royal personage to die.

August—World-wide philanthrophist to die.

September—Home Rule for England, Ireland and Scotland.

November—"Social upheaval" in Turkey.

December—New newspaper which will absorb four derelict ones.

In an interview "Old Moore" claimed to be highly satisfied with his predictions for 1905. "My greatest triumph," he said, "was in July, when I said in my prophecy:

"'A disaster is foreshadowed to a large war vessel—warship would seem to be indicated—flying the stars and stripes.'

"The explosion on the United States gunboat Bennington was a remarkable fulfillment. Then again—also in July—I predicted the majority of four by which the government was defeated.

"For this month I foretold the Countess of Shrewsbury's actions by saying that a case at the law courts would cause much warming of aristocratic lines in public."

New Factory Given Good Inducements

City Council, In Committee of the Whole, Consider Application of the Howard Stove Co., Who will Employ 300 Hands.

Last night an important, though short, meeting of the council, was held in the committee room of the city buildings. There were present the Mayor, Ald. Hall, Johnston, McIntyre, Crowe, Leary, Scott, Batten, Mixon, Hicks and Adams.

Mr. Howard, of Montreal, head of the Howard Stove Company, was present and addressed the meeting. Mr. Howard is seeking a location for a site for his company. The company will manufacture stoves and heaters. Mr. Howard explained that the first year, his company starts business, they will employ from 50 to 100 hands; the factory will be steadily enlarged until by the end of three years, they expect to have a staff of some 300 employes.

The Peterboro Sugar Company's property was fully discussed, and was favorably regarded by Mr. Howard. This property contains about 25 to 30 acres of land, and the company would want at least five or six acres to begin with. Their output the first year would be about 100 stoves daily.

Some discussion arose as to what charge would or should be made for this present partially completed walls of the Sugar Company's factory. Ald. McIntyre objected to giving the partly built walls to the factory for nothing, in case the city secures this property and sells it to the Howard Company.

Other items will soon see the walls built up into a good live industry then see some dead walls remaining to advertise a defunct Peterboro industry. Ald. Hall thought if the city supplied property to a good live factory they should not carry away post holes or partly built walls, rather than get the business.

It was moved by Ald. Johnston, seconded by Ald. Hicks "That provided Mr. Howard and his associates will establish a factory for making stoves and heaters as outlined by him at this meeting and at a meeting held on Dec. 12th, 1905, the city will give them a free site as titled to establish the factory and a fixed assessment on the value of the site for a period of ten years, this to be subject to confirmation by the Ontario legislature. Carried.

It was decided to hold a special meeting of the council on Friday night at eight o'clock to finish up uncompleted business.

A PLEASING EVENT

Joint Installation of Officers of Corinthian and Peterboro Lodges A. F. & A. M.—Masonic Proceedings Followed By a Very Enjoyable Banquet

The joint installation of the officers of Corinthian Lodge No. 101, and Peterboro Lodge No. 155, A.F. & A.M., took place in the Masonic Temple, George street, last night, and was very largely attended by both local and visiting brethren. The work of installation was under the exceedingly capable charge of W. Bro. Duncan Walker, whose splendid execution of the duties with which he was honored elicited very flattering commendation from Rt. W. Bro. O'Flynn, of Belleville, Past District Deputy Grand Master of Prince Edward district, and others. W. Bro. Walker was efficiently assisted in his work by Rt. W. Bro. W. H. Walkey and W. Bros. McCullough, Eastwood, Burrit and Morrison.

The installation was followed by a recherche supper served by W. McCallum in his well-known good style, after which a very pleasing toast list, agreeably interspersed with musical selections and humor, was heartily enjoyed by the large gathering of good fellows. The social proceedings were under the chairmanship of W. Bro. Duncan Walker, who found a very acceptable Vice-chairman in W. Bro. Jas. Crane.

Last night's celebration of St. John's Day by these two large lodges was a brilliant affair, very successfully carried out in every detail, while the evening's pleasure was in no small measure enhanced by the presence of Rt. W. Bro. O'Flynn, of Belleville, who has many friends among Peterboro Masons, and is always a welcome guest.

Good Music at St. Peter's.

The music at St. Peter's cathedral on Christmas Day, was even better than the average of that fine edifice. The choir, in splendid harmony, rendered Wingrade Festival Mass in the morning. Some well executed solos were given by the Misses A. Simcoe, A. Cluney, E. Primeau, O. Morton, J. Delaire, and A. Primeau, and Messrs. W. Meeks, J. Hanrahan, G. Hill and J. Wyer. In the Benedictus solo, by W. McCormack, and quartette composed of Misses M. Gauduer, N. Simcoe, and Messrs. F. Pope and W. McCormack, were heard. Mr. J. Delaire gave the Grand Tantum Ergo in good voice and style.

AIR TIGHT WELDING

Miss Florence Cawlyn Hall Becomes the Bride of Mr. G. E. Tompieman, Montreal.

A very pretty ceremony was noted yesterday afternoon, at the residence of Mrs. Eliz. A. Hall, Simcoe street, when her daughter, Miss Florence Cawlyn, was joined in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Geo. Earl Tompieman, of Montreal. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. J. Scott, pastor of the Murray street Baptist church.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. W. E. Hall, of Toronto, looked charming in a gown of cream broadcloth silk, trimmed with embroidered chiffon, with the traditional; tulle veil and orange-blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses. Her travelling suit was of navy blue Panama cloth, with hat to match.

The bridesmaid, Miss Ada Tampleman, of Toronto, was attired in white silk, with valenciennes trimmings, and carried pink roses. Miss Jean Elliott was ring-bearer, and was dressed in pale blue silk. The groom was assisted by Mr. George B. Hall, of Hamilton, brother of the bride.

The ceremony was performed beneath a wedding-bell in the drawing-room. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Mr. Clarence Hall, cousin of the bride.

At the conclusion of the ceremony a recherche wedding dejeuner was served.

The groom's present to the bride was a beautiful pearl sunburst; to the bridesmaid, a pearl crescent; and to the groomsman a pearl stickpin. Many guests were present from Toronto, Montreal and other points.

Mr. and Mrs. Tompieman left on the 5.55 train for a trip to Toronto, Buffalo and Rochester, and will not take up residence at once. Mr. Tompieman is connected with the Allis-Chalmer-Bullock Electric Company, of Montreal.

S. S. TRUSTEES

Nominations Held For Separate School Trustees.

An important function, in connection with Peterboro's Separate schools, was held yesterday morning, when, at the Murray street Separate school building, nominations for trustees were held.

There will be an election in the second ward where Henry Carveth and John B. Audette were nominated. In the second ward two new men were elected, one to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. George Ball.

Those nominated were as follows:

FIRST WARD—Jos. Gosgin, nominated by R. Sheehy, and seconded by Geo. Ball.

SECOND WARD—Henry Carveth, nominated by J. J. Lynch, seconded by M. L. Henry. John B. Audette, nominated by M. L. Henry, seconded by Thos. J. Lynn.

THIRD WARD—John J. Lynch, nominated by Geo. Ball, and seconded by Jos. Cluney. John B. Burns, nominated by John J. Lynch, seconded by Jos. Murty.

FOURTH WARD—Jos. Bixley, nominated by James Cluney, and seconded by John Primeau.

FIFTH WARD—John Primeau, nominated by Jos. Hislop, seconded by R. Sheehy.

Has Troubles of His Own.

Mr. David Henry, grocer, at the corner of Park and Parnell streets, has been the victim of organized vandalism. A few evenings ago the glass in his cellar window was smashed, leaving exposed to the cold about dollars worth of potatoes. He boarded the window up, and the records were kicked in on Tuesday night. Fortunately the weather lately has been moderate, or Mr. Henry would have been a heavy loser. The police now have the matter in hand and arrests are looked for.

ALL WE ASK OF YOU IS - HOLD ON TO WHAT YOU BUY OF THIS STOCK

Dores Montgomery Mining Company

OF BULL FROG, NEVADA:

804 CROSSLEY BUILDING, SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

We are offering a limited amount of treasury stock at 5c. per share for development work. Our property is just 1300 feet southwest of the famous Montgomery Shoshone mine and both have unquestionably the same vein. Our group shows a well defined vein cropping out through, and it is a perfect fissure. A six inch talc seam on the hanging wall gives high values. We have also several other ledges, and it is only a matter of development work to make this property equal to any producer in the section.

Clipping from "The Rhyolite Herald": A glimpse at the world beater mine. What is a block of $75 ore, 150x150x200 feet worth in cold cash? This is in sight in the Big Shoshone Mine.

Can you figure?

If you were to compute the amount of ore "in sight" in the Montgomery Shoshone Mine, Nevada's infant wonder, and had the exact measurements before you, would you believe your own eyes? Here is an opportunity to test your faith.

There are five drifts on the big ore body. The first drift is 100 feet from the portal of the crosscut tunnel, which shows 150 feet of milling ore. The other drifts follow at a space of 50 feet apart. Here are the measurements:

Drift No. 1, north 100 feet. Drift No. 3, south 60 feet. Drift No. 5, north 40 feet.
Drift No. 2, south 120 feet Drift No. 4, north 140 feet.

The winze sunk at a point 75 feet from the portal of the tunnel is 110 feet below the level and 150 feet from the surface.

The total exposure of ores in drifts No. 3 and 4 running in opposite directions, is 260 feet in length. The ore has been proven to be 150 feet in width in the crosscut tunnel, and has been proven continuous from the surface down to a depth of 150 feet in the winze, at a point where the ore was first struck in the tunnel, and the workings are all in ore.

Here is the block: 150 x 150 x 200 feet—5,250,000 cubic feet—200,000 tons—$20,250,000.

It is the opinion of the management of the mine that all of the ore exposed will average up to $75 a ton. If that is true there is $20,250,000 worth of ore in sight in the mine today. If the ore averages only $20, there is $7,200,000 in sight. If the ore averages only $40, there is $15,000,000 in sight in the mine. If the ore averages only $10, there is $3,000,000 in sight. These calculations are made on the basis of 15 cubic feet of ore to the ton.

The management of the Montgomery Shoshone conservatively estimates that the winze has produced $200,000 worth of ore. If this is right, the ore from the winze has averaged about $975 a ton, or about $1250 for every foot of sinking, the winze being 4 x 7 in clear.

Ore from the winze running less than $250 is thrown over the dump as milling ore. No less than 150 tons of ore has been shipped from this mine, all of it coming from the winze. Another shipment of 50 tons or more will be made via Las Vegas in a few days.

The figures given above are startling in the extreme, but the measurements and ore values as quoted are official—direct from the management of the wonderful mine that is today astonishing the world.

This property is only 1300 feet from the Dores Montgomery Mine.

"GOLD IS WHERE YOU FIND IT."—The old Mining Adage.
The Older Mining Problem Follows "HOW TO GET IT OUT."

Poor men discover mines, rich men buy them out, or get control of the stock and freeze them out. Rare is it that the discoverer of a rich property ever develops it for himself. Most of the suffering and privation of prospecting is only a foundation for another man's building. In the case of the DORES MONTGOMERY MINING COMPANY, we have resolved not to lose what we, after so many years, have wrought from the earth. Therefore, after carefully incorporating, we decided that there was safety in numbers and we are seeking the small investor in order to spread the stock as much as possible and all we ask is IF YOU BUY, HOLD ON, as you would to an endowment policy. Don't come into this solely to speculate. Be in safe, with a big future, but we don't offer many shares. This is an opportunity that you never had before. C. H. Schwab offered $1,000,000, which was refused, for the Montgomery Shoshone Mines, just 1200 feet from our property.

How Consumption Starts

Tired When You Waken--Languid All Day—Nerves Worn Out —Snap All Gone

Your limbs feel "draggy" and excessively weak. A night's sleep seldom brings satisfying rest. Continuous headaches, exhaustion and nervous depressions destroy your health. Soon every spark of vitality is used up, and you catch tuberculosis.

Start to-day. Build up, get new nerve force, and overcome this process of decay. Use Ferrozone, which physicians consider the most vitalizing, upbuilding tonic ever made.

Ferrozone cures because it can furnish the body with sufficient nutriment and building material.

Think of the instant effect—at once the appetite increases, delightful color in the cheeks proves that rich, red blood is being circulated. Tired muscles are invigorated, flesh and weight are added. Nerve force develops, and glorious health is firmly established.

This is certain—Ferrozone restores failing strength from any cause. The experience of Mr. Thos. Dowd, of Colchester, Ont., proves this:

"Household worries and cares had almost exhausted my strength. I was weak and miserable. My cheeks lacked the color of health, and occasionally I had spells of rheumatism. Then my appetite fell off, and nothing could tempt me to eat. Worn-out feelings, chills and despondency filled my very being. I became anaemic and dwindled down to a shadow. Consumption was very near. Ferrozone put strength in my body with a rush. It built me up, strong, virile and happy, and I have been well ever since."

Ferrozone cures sickness by curing the real cause—lack of blood and nerve tone. It keeps people at their best—fit, ready and anxious for work. 50c. boxes only, six for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., and Kingston, Ont.

LORD ROBERTS' WARNING

The more complete reports of Lord Roberts' stirring address at Newcastle on the subject of Imperial Defence, as contained in the English press, offer serious food for reflection on the part of the British people. Briefly stated, Lord Roberts believes that to ensure the safety of the Empire we must possess not only a regular army, fitted in all respects to take the field, but also as adequate a reserve as could be suitably and economically provided under Great Britain's peculiar conditions of foreign service, a second reserve formed by the auxiliary forces; and the whole topped off by large potential reserves furnished by the able-bodied men of the country.

When a man of Lord Roberts' experience tells the British people that, in spite of their fancied security, there is a real danger that some day the armies of foreign armies may be heard on English soil, it is time for the nation to take heed. He has just as much confidence in the ability of the navy to guard Britain's shores as the average man, but points out that we must not forget that in the navy as in all merely human organizations, the unexpected and the unforeseen might occur, and the element of chance had to be calculated upon even in a greater degree than in the army. There were such things as hurricanes and fogs which might frustrate seemingly perfect arrangements. Above all, the officers upon whom the command of the different fleets would devolve were at present absolutely untried in war. They might turn out to be heaven-born commanders who could not make mistakes or lose their heads, but they might not. Their capability of command could only be proved in actual war.

Thus does a great commander recognize the possibilities of disaster. His plan to meet it is a simple one and in keeping with the views which prevail in Canada as to the best guarantee of national safety. He would teach every Briton how to shoot, recognising that willingness to meet a foreign foe does not imply an ability to do so, and that untrained battalions would have no hope of success against the trained armies of continental Europe. By his system every able-bodied man, whatever his birth or position in life, would be obliged to acquire a knowledge of military duties sufficient to fit him for taking his part in the defence of his country. Lord Roberts also urges the inculcation of a deeper feeling of patriotism among children. He would encourage the formation of cadet corps, such as lads' brigades and church brigades, and insist that all boys not at school under the age of eighteen should be attached to one or the other of these corps for the purpose of practice in rifle shooting, all boys going to school to be similarly trained in connection with their education along other lines.

It is worthy of comment that the idea of military training as a part of the school and college curriculum is taking hold in Canada and Great Britain at the same time. No matter what success attends Lord Roberts' efforts to awaken the British masses to a sense of their responsibilities, Canadians will all agree that he is aiming at the only solution of the grave question of the safety of Great Britain compatible with her existing national life. It is to be hoped that, as an English paper puts it, Lord Roberts will by his success in converting his countrymen to the necessity of taking an interest in the affairs of the army place the coping stone upon a long and brilliant career.

Friends of Elephants.

Paris, December 26.—A society, which calls itself the Elephants' Friend, has been founded in Paris. It has for its object the protection of the African elephant, which is theatened with extermination by the numerous hunters which now swarm the no-longer Dark Continent. It is purposed to found in the center of the African continent a sort of park, which would serve as a range for wild game, the regulations concerning which will be founded upon those existing in the United States Yellowstone Park. Not only elephants will be accorded safety there, but asylum will also be given to giraffes, zebras and other harmless creatures.

Danger in Yolks of Eggs.

London, Dec. 25.—One by one the most cherished articles of diet appear to be going under the attacks of the medical profession. Heretofore the theory has been that no matter how dirty the inn or the boarding house one could always take refuge in boiled eggs. But now the Lancet says that a French medical man has discovered a hidden danger lurking in the yolk. The yolk of the eggs of hens, ducks, and tortoises, he declares, contains a substance which when injected into the veins, under the skin, or into the general body cavity, eventually causes death from acute intoxication of the central nervous system. Hens' egg yolk is less toxic than that of the duck, it is explained, but that of the tortoise is more dangerous than either. It is admitted, however, that the percentage of poisons is not enough to kill and that the general public is in little danger from this form of poisoning.

The Lust of Hate

BY GUY BOOTHBY

Author of "A Beautiful White Devil," "A Bid For Fortune," "The Marriage of Esther," "Dr. Nikola," Etc., Etc.

As he spoke he crossed to a cupboard in the corner of the room, and took from it some garments which he placed upon the table in the centre.

"Here we have the very identical things," he said, "and when you've got them on, you'll be as smart a cabby as any that mounts his box in the streets of London. Try this and see how it suits you."

He handed me a bushy black beard, which, marked on springs, and assisted me to fasten it to my face. When it was made secure he stepped back and examined it critically; then with a muttered "that will do," turned to the garments on the table, and selected from the heap a tarpaulin cape, such as cabmen wear in wet weather. This I fixed round my shoulders. A sou'wester was next placed upon my head, and when this was done, as far as I was concerned, we were ready to be off. My curious acquaintance was not long in making his toilet, and five minutes later found us passing out of the filthy alley into Great Gunter Street once more.

"I'll go first," said the Jew. "You follow two or three paces behind me. It's just as well we should not be seen together."

I accordingly took my position a few steps in the rear, and in this fashion dodged along behind him, until we reached the corner of Wardour and Pultney Streets. Here my guide stopped and looked about him. Evidently what he wanted was not forthcoming, for he began to grow uneasy, and stamped up and down the pavement, looking eagerly in each direction. All the time I did not venture to approach him. I was considering what I was about to do. I thought of my father, and my brother and sisters, and wondered what they would have thought if they could have known to what a pass I had fallen. What would my poor mother have said if she had lived? But she, as far as I could learn from those who had known her, had been a gentle Christian woman, and if she had lived I should in all probability never have left England. In that case I should not have known Bartrand, and this revenge would then not have been necessary. By what small chances are our destinies shaped out for us!

At last the rattle of wheels sounded, and a moment later a smart hansom cab, which I recognised as that shown me by Nikola at his house that morning, drove down the street and pulled up at the corner where we stood. The lamps glowed brightly in the frosty air, and it was evident the horse was one of spirit, for he tossed his head and pawed the ground with impatience to be off again.

The driver descended from his perch, while the Jew went to the horse's head. The other was a tall fellow, and until he came into the light of the lamps I could not see his face. To my surprise, he did not speak, but stood fumbling in the pocket of his oilskin for something, which proved to be a letter. This he handed to me.

I opened it and scanned its contents, it was, of course, from Nikola.

"Dear—Everything is arranged, and I send you this, with the cab, by my servant, who, as you know, will not reveal anything. As soon as you receive it, mount and drive to Pall Mall. Be opposite the Monolith Club punctually at 11.30 and once there, keep your eyes open for the man we want. I will arrange that he shall leave exactly as the clock chimes, and will also see that he takes your cab. When you have dropped your fare in a quiet street, drive as fast as you can, go to Hogarth Square, and wait at, or near, the second lamp-post on the left-hand side. I will pick you up there, and will arrange the rest. The man in question has been entertaining a distinguished company, including two dukes and a Cabinet Minister, at dinner this evening, but I have arranged to meet and amuse him at twelve. May good luck attend you. "Yours, N."

I stuffed the note into my pocket and then glanced at my watch. It was exactly quarter-past eleven, so if I wanted to be at the rendezvous at the time stated it was necessary that I should start at once. Without more ado, I climbed on to the seat at the back, wound the rug I found there round my legs, put on the badge the Chinaman handed up to me, and, whipping up the horse, much to the Jew's consternation, drove off down the street at a rapid pace. As I turned into Great Windmill Street snow began to fall again, and I gave an evil chuckle as I reflected that even the forces of Nature were assisting me in my murderous intentions. In my heart I had no pity for the man whom I was about to kill. He had robbed me as cruelly as one man could rob another, and now I was going to repay him for his treachery.

CHAPTER IV.

The cab horse was a fine animal, and upon going to such good purpose that when I turned from Waterloo Place into Pall Mall I had, contrary to my expectations, still some few minutes to spare. Now that the actual moment for putting into effect the threats I had so often uttered against the man who had wronged me so cruelly, had arrived, strange to say I was seized with a sudden and inexplicable feeling of compassion for him. Badly as he had injured me, and desirous as I was of repaying him for his treachery, I discovered I could not bring myself to do what I had arranged without reluctance. If it had been a matter of fair fighting, with the certainty of no one interfering between us, it would have been a totally different matter, and I could have gone into it with a light heart; but now to decoy him to his death by the aid of Nikola's science was an act of cowardice at which my whole nature revolted.

Feeling half inclined to put off—if not for ever, at least for that evening the dastardly deed I had had arranged for me—I drove slowly down the street, quite unable to resist the temptation of seeing the man whom, if I wished to do so, I could kill so easily in the event of his hailing me as had been arranged, I would reply that I was engaged, and leave him to find another vehicle, unconscious of the narrowness of his escape. At any cost I would not let him set foot in my conveyance. While I was thus arguing with myself I was drawing closer and closer to the Monolith Club. Already I could discern the stalwart form of the commissionaire standing upon the steps under the great lamp. At the moment that I approached, two men left the building arm in arm, but neither of them was the man I wanted. Little by little their steps died away in the distance, and so nicely had I timed my arrival that the clock at the Palace ahead chimed the half-hour exactly as I came opposite the steps. At the same instant the doors of the Club opened, and Bartrand and another man, whom I recognised instantly as Nikola, came out. The mere sight of the man I hated shattered all my plans in an instant. In the presence of the extraordinary individual accompanying him I had not sufficient pluck to cry "engaged"; so, when the commissionaire hailed me, there was nothing for it but to drive across the road and pull up alongside the pavement, as we had previously arranged.

The

Drummer Boy

Gold Mining Company

One of the most promising propositions ever placed before the Canadian investors.

The Company's Offer to discriminating investors.

The management is assured that $15,000 will be sufficient to complete the improvements necessary to place the mine on a substantial producing and dividend paying basis. Therefore the directorate has authorized the sale of 15,000 shares of the capital stock at par. The improvements under way include the construction of a mill and concentrating plant, boarding and bunk houses for the miners employed and the installation of machinery required for the treatment of the output of the mine. With dividends assured and a certainty of a sharp advance in the price of this security it is stated with emphasis that no more attractive opportunity for investments could be placed before the public. Wire reservations and address all communications to the

Custer, Idaho, November 15, 1905.

To the Stock Holders of The Oxarna Mining Co.:—

We have steadily continued the development of our properties since last advising you June 25th. At that time we had no plant erected or contracted for, but now I am pleased to report that we have secured a Ten Stamp Mill, together with Boarding House, Assay Office and all other necessary buildings, originally costing $15,000.00, hence you will know that we have been making great progress, and are rapidly approaching a productive stage, but as we have a final payment to make on this Mill, we will not withdraw our stock from the market until this money is raised. We are now making preparations so that by early spring we can start our Mill for a long and continuous run. You will be advised later on as to the date when we will start so that you can be present if possible.

In addition to this Mill, which is now erected, with all machinery in place and in perfect running order, we have secured the machinery for an other Ten Stamp Mill, consisting of Battery, Seventy-five Horse Power Engine, two Forty Horse Power Boilers, and all other necessary machinery which we expect to install in the Mill now already equipped, which will increase the capacity of our plant from 700 to 1400 tons a month, which means a great saving in the cost of reducing our ores, as it takes about the same labor to operate a Ten Stamp Mill as it does to operate a Twenty Stamp Mill, about the only additional expense necessary to operate the larger Mill is a little additional fuel. In addition to above machinery we have also purchased an Ingersoll Air Compressor for use in the Mines, at a cost of $1200.00.

We are assured funds to complete our payment on the Ten Stamp Mill and for other purposes, and never having any brokers to place our stock, we have had no commissions to pay, hence we have financed the Company for a less sum than is usually required. We have no debts and will pay no salaries until after the Mill goes into commission.

I also beg to advise you that we expect to take over the control of the stock of the Corning Mining Company, at an early date, giving a part of our stock in payment therefore. This will give us an additional eighty acres of Mineral Land, twenty acres of which is the Black Mine. This Mine has produced $100,000.00 net, and has one mile of developments, costing over $70,000.00, and an additional sum of $10,157.20 has been expended in developments this and last summer. Our Mill is on this Group and is adjoined by "The Lucky Boy Mine," which has produced $1,000,000, and by "The Badger Group," which has paid $400,000.00 on a capital of $1200.00.

The time is rapidly approaching when THE OXARNA COMPANY WILL BE ONE OF THE STEADY PRODUCERS, and I urge each of the stock holders to buy all the stock that he or she can pay for while it can be had at the exceedingly low price of 10 cents a share. The officers are increasing their holdings and we want to give all the stock holders an equal chance with us. I have just put $1,200.00 more cash into the Company's Treasury for stock at 10 cents a share, the same that you will pay if you take advantage of this opportunity NOW.

I trust that you will be pleased with this report and with the efforts that are being made by your officers for the interests of each stock holder.

REGINALD CORYELL, Manager Oxarna Gold Mining Company.

To the readers of "The Times":—

The above report has been sent out to all our stock holders, and the allotment of stock for sale at 10 cents a share is being rapidly taken, for the ore that we are now taking out averages over $67.00 a ton and, with our Twenty Stamp Mill in operation, our earnings will not be less than $20,000.00 net per month, which will enable us to pay at least 100 per cent. (ten times the present cost) in dividends within six months from the time we put the Mill in commission. For immediate acceptance only, I can offer this stock for 10 cents a share cash, or one-quarter of the amount with order and a like amount in 30, 60 and 90 days. Make all orders payable to the undersigned, or remit through the NATIONAL BANK OF DELPHOS.

W. E. FLODING, Vice-President Oxarna Mining Company.

You Use His Mandrake and Butternut Pills—He Guarantees Lasting Cure.

Rheumatism begins and ends in the blood which at no time is ever free from poison. But if the kidneys are healthy, they will filter out the wastes and poisons.

There can be no cure, no permanent relief until the kidneys are stimulated. First get them into working order. For this purpose Dr. Hamilton's Pills excel all other remedies; they heal and strengthen the kidneys as no other poisons depart from the blood and all medicine can do. Once the kidneys are renewed by Dr. Hamilton's Pills the trace of rheumatism disappears.

No Case is Too Chronic to Yield to the Marvellous Influence of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"I spent nearly three years experimenting with rheumatic remedies," writes Geo. E. Sunbury, of Portland. "I had almost given up hope, when I tried Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they completely cured me. No remedy could be better."

LIST OF CANDIDATES

Names of Those in the Field as Next Year's Aldermen.

By request of several of our readers we publish once more a complete list of candidates who will stand for election as aldermen for 1906.

This is a matter deserving popular and careful consideration. There is good material both among the candidates who acted efficiently last year, and also among the new aspirants for municipal honors.

In choosing candidates, citizens having Peterboro's future growth and advancement at heart should select names of candidates having the greatest and most intelligent possibilities for furthering her industries and giving an economical administration free from all suspicion of personal private gain. The destinies of this city should not be handed over to the mercies of men whom individual ratepayers would not entrust with the management of their private affairs.

The candidates now open for election are Messrs.;

FRANK ADAMS.
E. F. MASON.
R. HICKS.
GEO. ELLIOTT.
COPE CLEMENTI.
THOS. KELLY.
THOS. J. WILSON.
J. GEO BALL.
JAS. G GRAHAM.
JOHN H. SMITH.
R. F. M'WILLIAMS.
GEO. H. DUNCAN.
THOS. J. TOVEY.

WM. J. JOHNSON.

WILL HE LEAVE?

Rumors That Rev. H. A. Langfeldt May Leave Peterboro.

It was currently reported yesterday that Rev. H. A. Langfeldt may in the near future leave his present scene of activity and good work done.

Dame Rumor yesterday whispered that the popular rector of St. Luke's church, has been offered the rectorship of an important Episcopalian church in one of America's largest cities. Mr. Langfeldt is reticent on the subject, but there are good reasons for believing that a tempting and flattering offer has been made him.

If the Rev. gentleman decides to accept this call his loss to the parish and the city will be greatly felt.

New Year's Day at Y. M. C. A.

The Y.M.C.A. will, on New Year's day, hold a reception from 10 to 12, for the boys of the city, over twelve years of age. In the afternoon there will be a reception to the members and friends of the association from two to six o'clock.

In the evening a basketball match will be held between Montreal, and the Harriers of Peterboro.

Those interested are asked to note the phase for that day, and to call at the building—if only for a few minutes—during the day.

PETERBORO LOST

Queen's College Kingston, Takes First Game of Hockey By 7 to 4.

Last night the Brook street rink was filled to the roof by crowds of enthusiastic lovers of Canada's great winter game, hockey. The referee was Mr. Lionel King who performed his duties with general approval by both sides.

The ice was somewhat soft owing to the weather, still a good stiff game was put up by both sides. At half time the score stood 4 to 2 in favor of Queen's University. During the first half Chris Graham had the misfortune to break one of his skates, which W. Stroud took his place. Sargent scored two goals and Walsh one, in the first half, for Queen's, and Whitecroft, two for the locals.

In the last half Sargent scored one and Walsh three for Queens, with Whitecroft getting one and Cavanagh one for the locals.

In the first half Cavanagh was ruled off for two minutes, by the referee.

The teams lined up as follows.

Peterboro		Queen's Goal.
Fitzpatrick		Mills
	Point
Cavanagh		McDonald
	Cover-point.
Crowley		Ellis
	Center
Whitecroft		Crawford
	Rover.
Currier		Walsh
	Right Wing
Stroud		Sargent
	Left Wing.
Burnell		Richardson

Had the ice been in better condition the locals would have done better work, still they showed signs of need for more practice in team work.

LICENSE REDUCTION

Citizens Voting on This Question Do Well to Consider Farmers' Needs.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Daily Review, in yesterday's issue, had a short, but pointed article on the proposed reduction of licenses. The article reads as follows;

"Those who are agitating for a reduction of hotel licenses in Peterboro, have a difficulty to face in the threats made by hotelkeepers that if their licenses are confiscated they will close up their sheds and stables. As was evidenced last Saturday, farmers have difficulty in securing accommodation for their teams on a big market day and some merchants feel that the closing up of any of the present hotel sheds would result in a distinct loss to business. It has been suggested that the church sheds should be left open for the accommodation of farmers, but a number are opposed to this movement on the ground that the church sheds if left open for the use of everyone would soon get in a filthy condition."

Ald. Johnston's Lame Excuses.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—I saw a long-winded, but very lame apology made by Ald. Johnston in your issue of yesterday, for his acts during last year in the Council. As a personal acquaintance of the worthy alderman, I was sorry to see him show his hand so plainly, and give so lame an excuse for the weather cock changeability of his policy. As regards Ald. Johnston's temperance platform, so transparently timed to catch the temperance vote, does this councillor ever stop to consider the difference between his trade and that of the licensed victuallers? Ald. Johnston has a certain number of dollars invested in the tools of his business. If he had, as have men holding licenses from $7,000 to $20,000 invested in their means of livlihood which would be a clear loss if shut out from a license, would he be so keen to have his capital confiscated? Of course Ald. Johnston is anxious to have more trips to Ottawa and elsewheres at the public expense, even if he does lose a few articles on his return. The alderman would wisely let the ratepayers judge his civic career without rushing into print. If Ald. Johnston is re-elected I hope he will change his ways as to local firms, and allow Peterboro firms to get orders for Peterboro supplies, when the Peterboro tenderer is as low in price as Toronto firms. Thanking you for your valuable space.

RATEPAYER.

Mr. P. K. Hughes Referred To.

A Spokane paper, refering to an old Peterboro boy, a son of Mr. J. L. Hughes, says;

R. H Dunn and Miss Marion L. Kimball, composing the real estate firm of R. H. Dunn & Co., yesterday sold their business to L. J. Studebaker, of Newporte, Wash., and Fred. K. Hughes of Spokane, who will operate under the name of the Globe Investment Company.

Mr. Dunn and Miss Kimball have been connected with the firm for two years. The firm was Roderick and Dunn for the first year, and was then joined by Miss Kimball, when it became R. H. Dunn & Co.

Mr. Studebaker has been interested in mines and oil lands in Montana for some time and made his headquarters at Newport. He has never engaged in business here, but Mr. Hughes has conducted real estate business here before.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PETERBORO

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Having accepted the nomination for re-election as Alderman of the city for the year 1906, I respectfully solicit your votes and influence.

If again favored with your confidence and elected, I shall continue to look after your interests, do my best to serve you faithfully and discharge the duties pertaining to the position in a manner that I hope will generally merit the approval of the majority of the electors.

Thanking you for your generous support in the past, I am,

Yours truly,

FRANK ADAMS

The Angel of marriage is always a baby. Without it, wedlock is a summer field that never blooms, a flower that never buds, a night without stars, a sermon without a benediction, a prayer without an Amen.

There never was a husband worthy of the name, who did not aspire to be the father and the grandfather of healthy, capable children, to hand down his name and the fortune accumulated by the sweat of his brow, from generation to generation. There never was a wife fit to bear that noble title, who did not wish to wear womanhood's most glorious crown, the sceptre of motherhood. Thousands of wedded couples, otherwise happy, fall short of wedlock's greatest happiness because they are childless. In the majority of cases, this is because the wife, through ignorance or neglect, suffers from weakness and disease of the organs distinctly feminine. For women who suffer in this way there is one great medicine that does not fail to accomplish its purpose. It is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly on the delicate organs concerned and makes them strong, healthy, vigorous and virile. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration, soothes pain and tones the shattered nerves. It fits for womanhood and motherhood. It quickens and vitalizes every distinctly feminine organism. It banishes the maladies of the expectant months and makes baby's introduction to the world easy and almost painless. It insures that little new-comer's health and nourishment in plenty. It is the best supportive tonic for nursing mothers.

Mrs. Jennie Parks, of Marshall, Spokane Co., Wash., writes: "I am glad to tell of the good results of your great medicines—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives me strength. I have no tired feeling and my baby is the picture of health. I feel better than I have in ten years."

In cases of constipation Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used as an adjunct to "Favorite Prescription." They are extremely simple, perfectly natural and insure prompt and permanent relief.

TO THE DULY QUALIFIED ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PETERBORO

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

On account of the change in the Constitution of the Board of Education effected by the late Provincial Government, each elector has the right to vote for nine candidates. This renders it impossible for me, with the limited time at my disposal, to personally interview any large proportion of you.

I, therefore, take this method of acquainting you with the fact that I am a candidate for a position on the Board about to be elected.

During the years that I have served you, I have given my best attention to the Educational interests of the Town, and, if elected, I shall be equally faithful in the interests of the City.

I am, Ladies and Gentlemen,

Yours faithfully,

W. H. HILL.

TO MY FELLOW CITIZENS

I would respectfully ask the ratepayers of Peterboro for a share of their votes in the coming municipal elections for Aldermen.

If honored by election I shall do my share in assisting to give Peterboro as economical and economical civic administration.

I consider that our city should endeavor to materially increase the number of our local factories. At the same time I believe all factories seeking assistance in any form from Peterboro, should give a tangible guarantee that they will keep their end of any arrangement made with this city.

Three Hotels Scorched at Niagara Falls

Imperial Hotel, Proctor House, Temperance Hotel Annex, Presbyterian Church and Other Places Suffer Loss.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Dec. 29.—Fire started yesterday morning in the basement of the old Porter Hotel, now a part of the Imperial Hotel at Falls at second streets, in the portion occupied by Fazon, Williams and Fazon, grocers. The occupants of the Porter Hotel were startled by a terrific explosion down stairs, and almost immediately the flames began to shoot up through the building. Fortunately the force of the explosion was sufficient to arouse all the occupants, who were able to make their escape, but nearly all lost their clothing and personal effects.

The fire quickly spread through the Porter Hotel, and to the store of J. and G. M. Rae, sporting goods, next door. Both Fazon, Williams and Fazon's and the Rae stores are complete losses, about $25,000 each.

TEMPERANCE HOTEL NEXT.

The Imperial Hotel caught fire from the Porter. The Temperance House annex, just back of the Imperial on Second street, caught fire, and the top storey was completely gutted and the second floor badly damaged. The roof of the Presbyterian church on First street also caught fire, but the building was saved.

Explosions of barrels of whiskey in Fazon, Williams and Fazon's cellar during the progress of the fire, scattered their contents in every direction and added to the fierceness of the blaze, and the constant explosion of cartridges and other ammunition in the Rae store added another element of danger.

When the fire appeared to be beyond control an appeal for aid was sent to Buffalo, but before the engines arrived the local firemen had the situation well in hand.

LOSS ESTIMATED AT $140,000.

The total loss is estimated at $140,000. The Imperial Hotel Building was damaged to the extent of $15,000, and its contents, valued at $20,000, are a total loss. Other losses were; Temperance Hotel, $10,000; Buffalo-Niagara Falls Electric Light and Power Company, $5,000; Presbyterian church and Lucas's Livery, $2,000 each; Lehigh Valley ticket office, $1,000; adjoining stores, damaged by smoke and water, about $35,000.

REV. MR. POTTER'S LETTER

A Correspondent Considers the Rev. Gentleman's Act Libellous.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—I would claim a few inches of your valuable paper to shortly refer to a letter in last night's Examiner from Rev. Jas. G. Potter.

In my humble opinion this clergyman has every right to take up the subject of temperance and preach it to his congregation or the world at large, it is in fact, his right as being presumably part of the work for which he draws his pay, and tends towards advancing his chance for a future call.

One thing in the rev. gentleman's letter, however, is deserving of serious comment. In speaking of the recent generous gift made this week by the Peterboro License Holders' Protective Association to the Children's Shelter, the rev. gentleman's only attitude is a sneering ingratitude towards men, who, let their faults be what they may, have given nearly $50 towards a charity above reproach, and is a direct slander absolutely impossible of complete corroboration.

The rev. writer charges that the children of this home are (inferentially without exception) "the products of the Peterboro Licensed Holders' Protective Association." As a member of the association I might say, that the association could take legal action to compel proof or an apology. The last (or possibly second to last) child admitted to the shelter, was admitted after wandering about Monaghan to escape a cruel step-father. In such matters however, the rev. gentleman, not only flings charges impossible of substantiation, but brings a slanderous assertion against an association, some of whom in private and family matters are as respectable as this writer, and who certainly are as quickly to respond to calls for aid towards charity or city as any class of the community. In reference to names of objectionable license holders, the rev. writer says a certain license holder "Gave me the names of other houses violating the law continuously." This statement of the rev. writer, is evidently a result of treacherous memory; was it not the rev. gentleman who gave the names to the license holder referred to? When making charges like this, would not the rev. gentleman be more decent to think before he writes?

Trades and Labor Council Will Meet To-night.

An important and largely attended meeting of the Trades and Labor Council was held Wednesday night at which the representatives of the different local unions were present.

Matters in connection with the coming municipal campaign were discussed and several lively speeches made on the issues of the contest.

The gathering was of a private nature, and it was announced yesterday that nothing definite had been decided upon.

Another meeting will be held tonight, when, it is expected, that certain candidates, now nearing election will be endorsed, and an official statement made regarding the attitude of the Trades and Labor council on the fire protection by-law, and also the proposed reduction in the number of liquor licenses, both of which questions will be voted upon at the election on Monday next.

No decision was reached on the proposition to have the Trades and Labor Council for next year, composed of the president, vice-president and secretary of the respective local unions, instead of having three delegates appointed from each union, as at present. This matter will also likely be determined tonight.

The Land of the Aztecs.

Who has not read of the stories and wonders of old Mexico? Tho says when Montezuma held gorgeous court in the ancient capital of Gran Tenochtitlan are departed, but they have left Mexico one of the most interesting countries in the world. Pictures que ruins and relics, in a setting of flowers and sunshine everywhere delight the fortunate visitor; each day's travel reveals fresh beauties. And out of the ruins a new Mexico is arising, a land of possibilities, abounding in resources of all kinds. In the peasants' hands the soil will yield five crops a year, metals and minerals in abundance. Our business men have here a splendid field for investment, and should see and judge the land for themselves. Leisurely investigation under sunny skies will be pleasant work, while the Indian will be delighted with their bargains in native work and precious stones.

An attractive itinerary, covering the whole of Mexico and the best of the Southern States, and including a visit to Cuba and New Orleans for "Mardi Gras," has been arranged for the Cuthbert House-party tour, leaving Toronto early in February next. The special private train will contain every possible comfort and luxury, and the cuisine equal to that of a first-class hotel. A pleasant, smooth running trip is assured, the management having had long experience in this branch of travel. Canadian enterprise, when it is the best, is worthy of your attention. Full particulars, with descriptive literature, upon application to E. M. Cuthbert, 25 Maitland street, Toronto, or C. B. Foster, District Passenger Agent, C.P. Ry., Toronto.

THE LICENSE QUESTION

Citizens Moral Reform League Issue a Card.

The question of one of our important civic matters, to be voted on next Monday, viz., that of reducing our hotel licenses, is now being handled by organized influence.

As noted in a former issue of The Times, a body of citizens last week got together and formed what they entitled the "Citizens' Moral Reform League."

The object of this league is to influence votes in the coming election, when our ratepayers will express their opinions as to whether Peterboro's hotel accommodation should be lessened or not.

Without expressing any opinion on the wisdom of such action or not, we only hope that all ratepayers will vote according to an intelligent and unbiased study, which result will redound to Peterboro's general prosperity, and commercial growth.

If ratepayers who have personally investigated the subject of Peterboro hotel and hotel yard accommodations, and are convinced that less accommodation for farmers and the travelling public is beneficial, come to this conclusion that it is better to confine drinking to a smaller number of bars, let them act according to their judgment. The same applies to those who do not think that reducing the number of hotels would prevent drinking in any degree and would merely confine drinking to fewer hotels and thus encourage the treating system.

In any case as this is a subject that affects our local revenues, and in a sense, involves a moral idea let all taxpayers weigh the subject well, apart from rapid sentimentality or regard for the feelings of any individual who might thereby be a loser.

The Citizens' Moral Reform League issues the following appeal.

The Citizens' Moral Reform League which was formed in Peterboro this week, has issued an appeal to the electors in reference to the question, "Are you in favor of a reduction in the number of liquor licenses in the city of Peterboro?" The vote will be taken on Monday next.

The appeal is as follows:—

Ladies and Gentlemen,—You are to be given an opportunity to make "A Happy New Year" a reality to many on Monday next. With a large majority in this city are in favor of banishing the bars altogether, we are anxious to make such progress as will meet with the hearty support of the entire community.

Throughout the city all classes of citizens are agreed that some of the present saloons ought to be cut off. Some four or five are very offensive. Profanity and loudness abound so that it is absolutely unsafe for women to pass without being insulted, and in addition, run by men who will persist in selling drink to drunken men.

We ask you, therefore, to vote for reduction on January 1st—a good New Year's Act.

POINTERS.

1—The League undertakes to see that only those morally offensive will be cut off, so as to avoid appearance of partisanship.

2—The League will use its influence to have abundance of shed room provided, so that this ought not to interfere with the free vote of the electors for reduction.

3—We are anxious that the accommodation and comfort of travellers and visitors, both male and female, will be the chief concern, instead of all the anxiety about catering merely to the lust for strong drink.

4—This will be a decided advance towards the removal of objectionable resorts and in a definite form lessen the immortality that often accompanies the drink habit.

5—As this confronts your home and your city, vote as early on Monday as possible, and do not wait for conveyance.

Citizens' Moral Reform League.

CHARGED WITH ARSON

H. C. Constable Cochrane Brings John Winters From Harvey.

High Constable Cochrane has returned from what for a gentleman of his years, was a long and arduous journey.

It seems that John Winters of Harvey, many miles away in the heart of our back country, was charged with having wilfully set fire to a dwelling house owned by Mr. John J. Lundy of this city, on Dec. 21st. The house in question has been vacant for several years, and finally after considerable trouble, was rented by Wm. Coons of Bridgenorth.

It is alleged that Winters, an unsuccessful applicant for rental of the place, deliberately set fire to the house.

Tracks in the snow from the fire to the place where Winters was working led to his being suspected of the crime. He admits that he was at the fire but not until the building was almost consumed. This, he says, was about eight o'clock in the morning. On the other hand his employer, Davis, states that the house, which was unoccupied at the time, was on fire at noon.

Constable Cochrane used a buggy as far as Gannon's Narrows, and from that point drove in a sleigh, and secured his man.

Winters, who is twenty-five years of age, appeared before County Magistrate Edmison, and was remanded until Jan. 4th. In the meantime whilst further evidence is being sought, Winters will be [illegible] Castle Nesbitt.

POLICE COURT NEWS

Joe McMullen, who as noted, in a former issue, recently got on a big bender, and, not content with an overdose of hilarity, must needs play a little game of forgery.

This self-convicted forger, possibly to screen his own crime, handed in the names of three local hotels, as being those which he said supplied the source of his jag. The Queen's, C.P.R. and Cavanaugh's hotels were all charged with this serious offence.

When McMullen was put in the witness box his head seemed fuller of whisky than memory. He could not, after having sworn to the contrary, remember where he did get this liquor. He seemed to have a hazy idea of having got liquor at one of the hotels he had originally named, but four witnesses swore he did not get any.

McMullen himself was remanded for another week on a charge of forgery.

JAP PRISONERS COMPLAIN

Declare They Were Not Well Treated By Russians.

Berlin, December 28.—Emperor William's adjutant, Lieutenant General von Plessen, met the Japanese prisoners of war who are passing through Germany from Russia at 6 o'clock this morning with large supplies of chocolate and cigarettes and, for the officers, bouquets of chrysanthemums. There were 1,723 men and forty-eight officers, and they were touched by the Emperor's thoughtfulness in giving them the first opportunity of seeing the flower of their native land. Besides von Plessen, Baron von Dem Knesebeck, master of ceremonies of the Empress and representative of the German Red Cross, and the Japanese minister and his staff were at the station and shook hands with the officers, while grooms of the Emperor distributed the presents. The first train brought sixty-eight dangerously wounded and sick men, five of whom died on the way here. The prisoners universally condemned the treatment they had been subjected to in Russia. They were interned in a country village without newspapers or cigarettes. The crippled Japanese were confined in a very small building, and had to crawl around unassisted.

After breakfast, the trains with the prisoners proceeded to Hamburg, where the Japanese will embark on the steamers Cambroman and Vancouver.

THE TROUBLE ENDED

Mr. W. H. Bradburn, By Assuming Mortgage, Keeps St. Lawrence Hotel Going.

The Port Hope Guide says:—We are very pleased to announce that Mr. W. H. Bradburn of Peterboro, owner of the building, has assumed the chattel mortgage held by Mr. W. M. Miller, and has concluded satisfactory arrangements to continue the Hotel St. Lawrence under the management of Mr. Blake Crawford. This will be an arrangement very satisfactory to the creditors of the late proprietor, and will be an assurance to the general public that their comfort and convenience will receive every consideration.

The new order of things went into effect to-day at noon, and the hotel business has continued without interruption, and under the new management no doubt this business will increase.

TO BE REORGANIZED

York Loan Co. Will Be Discussed Next Session.

A Toronto despatch says:

The affairs of the York County Loan and Savings Company will be aired before the Legislature at the coming session. Mr. Jas. Bicknell, K. C., stated to-day that he proposed to apply for special legislation directing a reorganization of the company. He added that he had not withdrawn his application to have the winding up proceedings conducted under the Ontario Act.

Life Not a Picnic at Kingston Penitentiary

Fastidious Inmates Think the Country Can Afford Fowl Dinners and Other Luxuries at Christmas Time.

Kingston, Dec. 29.—On more than one occasion during the past year there have been noisy demonstrations by the prisoners of the Penitentiary for the purpose of showing their dislike of the food served them, some of the "courses" are said to have been decidedly inferior in quality, if the quantity was all that could be desired. On Christmas Day the roast pork served did not appeal to the tastes of the convicts, who thought that the country was not too poor to serve them with turkey or goose, when the inmates of asylums and jails were provided with that poultry luxury, and the noisy night that followed was the way the prisoners took of letting the outside world know of the "hardships" they have to endure. Latterly the amount of food supplied the prisoners has been reduced, so penitentiary officers say, evidently for the purpose of cutting down expenses, and giving the prison a better financial showing at the end of the year. The Department of Justice is not responsible for this. If there is any blame it lies with those under whose immediate control this penitentiary is.

In the old days, when the late Dr. Lavell was warden of the penitentiary, when the pigs on the prison farm grew up with only three turns and officials waxed rich on the pickings—the prisoners had real happy times and many liberties. The Christmas season was one of great merriment. On Christmas eve the prisoners were allowed to hold a concert in the afternoon, under the supervision of the guards, of course, and on Christmas Day they had feasts as luxurious as the citizens had. Their jollifications lasted some days.

CONDITIONS HAVE CHANGED.

In these later days, however, things are changed. A gloom pervades the prison at Christmas, the same as at any other time of the year. Dr. Platt, the present warden, believes in making penitentiary life a thing to be feared. Every restriction is placed upon the prisoners, and the guards too, feel the severe discipline. The former cheery Christmas times have passed away, perhaps to return no more, and the prisoners grow hard as they brood over their sad fate.

LORD CURZON'S POPULARITY

Sympathy Has Been Predominant in His Dealings With Subordinates.

Calcutta, December 28.—Lord Curzon has received a great many proofs of the high place which he has won in the esteem of the subordinate official services in India. One of the latest and at the same time one of the most interesting of the memorials signed by the elected representative of the various official services at a meeting at Simla. This address engrossed is intended as a loving memorial for Lord Curzon, a token of the work which it is asserted he has accomplished in India.

The address begins by reminding Lord Curzon that before leaving England seven years ago he publicly said that sympathy was an ideal quality for an Indian viceroy. The signers of the petition gratefully acknowledged this sentiment had been predominant in all his officers, and that while absorbed in the momentous problems of state policy he had never lost an opportunity of ameliorating the condition of a very large body of public servants known by the general name of "the uncovenanted service." Their pensionary prospects have been improved in many ways, the stringency of leave and holiday regulations had been materially relaxed and the officials employed at Simla had been the recipients of special marks of favor at the hands of his lordship.

Negro Made Signs.

New York, December 28.—The hanging of Edward F. Tapley, a negro murderer, in the jail in Jersey City today, has given rise to a controversy over the completion of a promise made by the condemned man before his execution that he would, if possible, signal by a prearranged method as long as he remained alive. Some of the witnesses aver—one has made affidavit—that Tapley gave the signals as he had promised to do some time after the trap was sprung. Sheriff Kaiser, Under Sheriff Erwin and Hangman Van Hise are just as positive in saying that no signal was given.

"When the first convulsion is over," Tapley had declared, "if I am not dead I will raise my right arm as high as I can and open and shut my hand."

Those who say he signalled assert that after the convulsions had passed they saw him raise his arm two or three inches, and open and shut his right hand.

Devil in the Hands of the Law.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 28. — Lugged away in an old cart yesterday, Herman Mintz's statue of the devil is being guarded by a constable. The image was set up on his front lawn two months ago by Mintz and created a sensation. Mintz is not a believer in the Deity, and wrought the statute to symbolize his feeling as to the future.

A constable with a writ of replevin called at the house of the old German stone cutter and levied on the statue. The owner resisted the demand, and he and his family tried to save it from capture, but the constable and his assistants were successful in removing it and then made return on the writ that was sworn out by Warren West of Ypsilanti on a claim of $61.40 for labor, part of which was performed on "Beelzebub".

TEACHER KILLS NEGRO

Shot Him Through the Head When He Threatened Her.

Logan, W. Va., December 28. — Herman Nolan, a negro, was today shot and killed by Miss Daisy Wilkinson, a young school teacher. The shooting occurred on the highway running through a woodland near the Guyandotte river. Miss Wilkinson was walking to her school and was overtaken by the negro. He made advances and threatened to kill her, when Miss Wilkinson drew a pistol and sent a bullet through his brain. The girl then walked to a farm house and told her story. The negro's body, after lying in the road several hours, was thrown by citizens into the Guyandotte river. The girl has not yet been arrested, and the indications are that she will not be. Miss Wilkinson is 25 years old.

WELL-DRESSED WOMEN IN A GAMBLING DEN

French Girl Employed in Pool Room Threw Doors Open to Detectives —A Panic Results.

New York, Dec. 29.—The Sun today says: Carelessness in the selection of a French maid proved the undoing of a pool room for women in a brown stone house on West 58th street. Inspector William McLaughlin for nearly a month had been trying to get evidence to raid it. He detailed detectives on the case and they had been watching the house daily. According to the sleuths the poolroom was frequented by women of wealth and prominence on the West Side, who went to it in their carriages and automobiles.

One woman who lives not far from Central Park West and 72nd street was followed from this place a week ago. Detectives Younge and O'Brien in toy hats and frock coats, followed this woman to her home and found her quite willing to talk. She had a grievance owing to a "bad tip that had caused her to lose a large bet.

The detectives reported to Inspector McLaughlin what this woman had told them, and he began to plan a way of raiding the place. The Inspector was greatly pleased three days ago at seeing an advertisement for a French maid to work in the suspected house. His detectives lost no time in hunting up a young woman who could speak both French and English and she had little trouble in getting the job. Yesterday this young woman threw open the front doors and the three detectives rushed in. They found three telephones working, a race at New Orleans being called off, and eighteen expensively dressed women studying sheets and racing charts. The intrusion of the police caused a panic among the women patrons. They ran to all parts of the house and tried to hide. It took the police some time to gather all hands.

A License Scandal.

Bathurst, N.B., Dec. 29.—Solicitor-General Jones, Royal Commissioner, opened his investigation here yesterday into charges preferred against the Liquor License Commissioners and License Inspector. The charges, which are made by nine clergymen, six of whom are Catholic priests, allege that the Act is being openly violated, with the full knowledge of the accused officials; that the inspector is not a fit person for the position; that wholesalers sell at retail, and that gambling is allowed on the premises.

Nine witnesses gave evidence bearing out the charges. One witness testified that he saw the chairman of the commissioners taking drinks after hours on Saturday night in a wholesaler's place, and other corroborated him. Witness told of the inspector refusing to prosecute violations unless the complaints put up a deposit for costs. Warrants were issued for many witnesses failing to attend.

Stealing By Clerks.

The Examiner is authority for the reported statement by a local merchant that stealing by clerks from their employers had been going on in some stores in Peterboro. This assertion is given as the result of a conversation regarding the wholesale thefts reported from Toronto, in consequence of which nine men have been placed under arrest, charged with stealing liquor valued at several hundred dollars. We hope, for the good name of our city, that the prominent merchant referred to is mistaken, and if not, that the examples made of the light-fingered Toronto youths, will prove a timely warning to any employes indulging in like practices here.

Banwell's Bond.

London, Dec. 28.—The manager of the London Guarantee Company, speaking to the Canadian Associated Press, said he had heard nothing concerning Banwell, the Crown Bank clerk, except what he had read in the Toronto papers. The Toronto agent of the company had just mentioned the matter in a letter. No photograph or description had been received and he did not expect that Banwell would come to England.

ALL WE ASK OF YOU IS - HOLD ON TO WHAT YOU BUY OF THIS STOCK

Dores Montgomery Mining Company

OF BULL FROG, NEVADA.

604 CROSSLEY BUILDING, SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

We are offering a limited amount of treasury stock at 25c. per share for development work. Our property is just 1500 feet southwest of the famous Montgomery Shoshone mine and both have unquestionably the same vein. Our group shows a well defined vein cropping out through, and it is a perfect fissure. A six inch tale seam on the hanging wall gives high values. We have also several other ledges, and it is only a matter of development work to make this property equal to any producer in the section.

Clipping from "The Rhyolite Herald": A glimpse at the world beater mine. What is a block of $75 ore, 1500x150 feet worth in cold cash? This is in sight in the big Shoshone Mine.

Can you figure?

If you were to compute the amount of ore "in sight" in the Montgomery Shoshone Mine, Nevada's infant wonder, and had the exact measurements before you, would you believe your own eyes? Here is an opportunity to test your faith.

There are five drifts on the big ore body. The first drift is 100 feet from the portal of the crosscut tunnel, which shows 150 feet of milling ore. The other drifts follow at a space of 50 feet apart. Here are the measurements,

Drift No. 1, north 100 feet. Drift No. 3, south 50 feet. Drift No. 5, north 40 feet.
Drift No. 2, south 150 feet Drift No. 4, north 140 feet.

The winze sunk at a point 75 feet from the portal of the tunnel is 110 feet below the level and 150 feet from the surface.

The total exposure of ores in drifts No. 2 and 4 running in opposite directions, is 290 feet in length. The ore has been proven to be 150 feet in width in the crosscut tunnel, and has been proven continuous from the surface down to a depth of 150 feet in the winze, at a point where the ore was first struck in the tunnel, and the workings are all in ore.

Here is the block: 150 x 150 x 290 feet—6,956,000 cubic feet—390,000 tons—$29,250,000.

It is the opinion of the management of the mine that all of the ore exposed will average up to $75 a ton. If that is true there is $29,250,000 worth of ore in sight in the mine today. If the ore averages only $30, there is $7,200,000 in sight. If the ore averages only $40, there is $15,600,000 in sight in the mine. If the ore averages only $10, there is $3,900,000 in sight. These calculations are made on the basis of 15 cubic feet of ore to the ton.

The management of the Montgomery Shoshone conservatively estimates that the winze has produced $300,000 worth of ore. If this is right, the ore from the winze has averaged about $975 a ton, or about $1230 for every foot of sinking, the winze being 4 x 7 in clear.

Ore from the winze running less than $250 is thrown over the dump as milling ore. No less than 100 tons of ore has been shipped from this mine, all of it coming from the winze. Another shipment of 50 tons or more will be made via Las Vegas in a few days.

The figures given above are startling in the extreme, but the measurements and ore values as quoted are official—direct from the management of the wonderful mine that is today astonishing the world.

This property is only 1500 feet from the Dores Montgomery Mine.

"GOLD IS WHERE YOU FIND IT."—The old Mining Adage.
The Older Mining Problem Follows "HOW TO GET IT OUT."

Poor men discover mines, rich men buy them out, or get control of the stock and freeze them out. Rare is it that the discoverer of a rich property ever develops it for himself. Most of the suffering and privation of prospecting is only a foundation for another man's building. In the case of the DORES MONTGOMERY MINING COMPANY, we have resolved not to lose what we, after so many years, have wrought from the earth. Therefore, after carefully incorporating, we decided that there was safety in numbers and we are seeking the small investor in order to spread the stock as much as possible and all we ask is IF YOU BUY, HOLD ON, as you would to an endowment policy. Don't come into this solely to speculate. It is safe, with a big future, but we don't offer many shares. This is an opportunity that you never had before. C. H. Schwab offered $1,000,000, which was refused, for the Montgomery Shoshone Mines. Just 1500 feet from our property.

The Scourge of Consumption

Thousands Are Dying—If Tired Languid or Run Down Get Protection Before Too Late

No child, man or woman is safe from consumption unless their blood is pure, rich and nourishing.

Allow the blood to become thin, and immediately the whole system grows weak. The lungs are deprived of resisting power and the ever-present tubercular bacilli develops.

The most positive protection against consumption is Ferrosone, which restores the blood to full strength. Weak organs are instantly strengthened. Worn-out tissues are rebuilt. New life is given to the lungs and all danger of consumption is destroyed.

Mrs. E. J. Richardson, Manotick, Ont., tells as follows of her enormous gain in health from Ferrosone: "For two years I was not well. I was thin and anaemic. Towards spring I fell into a condition of nervous exhaustion. A dead tired-ness hung over me like a load of lead. Housework of any kind I simply couldn't do. A bad cough developed that worried me greatly for I thought it might be tuberculer. When I first read of Ferrosone I was convinced it was good. I took it regularly for eight weeks and the change in my condition was wonderful. My cheeks filled out and became clear and rosy. I gained eight pounds and now am strong and vigorous as possible."

Ferrosone feeds, nourishes and tones up the body—it sends the thrill and vim of robust health from head to foot—makes you feel better at once. Won't you use Ferrosone? Price 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., and Kingston, Ont.

MORROCCO AS BATTLE GROUND

The approach of the Morocco conference and the reported arrangements for the assemblage of the British Mediterranean, Atlantic and Channel squadrons, comprising sixty war vessels, for manoeuvres near the Gulf of Cadiz, about that time, have a rather sinister conjunction in the minds of European observers.

The publication of the French and German official papers on the question of Morocco does nothing to allay the disquiet of last spring, but rather intensifies alarm and suspicion.

At Berlin the outcome of the conference is viewed with pessimistic feelings. The French documents do not indicate that France has waived her pretensions as the predominant factor in Moroccan affairs. It is expected that France will at the conference insist on maintaining the special rights which gave rise to Germany's interference. In such case Germany will protest against a French protectorate and the whole question will begin over.

At the Berlin Foreign Office it is declared that Germany will not permit French "rights" to be construed as extending over the whole of Morocco. This means that if any change is to be made in the present status, the Sultanate shall be parvelled.

The crisis thus arising is united at as the very probable basis of the British Admiralty arrangements by which the united squadrons will assemble within striking distance of the disputed coast.

A despatch from Rome states that while France and Germany have agreed on the questions to be discussed at the conference no agreement has been reached about the manner of solving the difficulties. Consequently all kinds of surprises and complications may arise while the conference is going on, especially as Germany has been most cautious not to allow anything to transpire about her intentions on the questions of capital importance.

Among diplomats in general the opinion is held that the future of Morocco should be a question of especial interest to the Mediterranean powers, in which Germany is not included. The coming conference therefore assumes the highest importance as destined to be a battle field on which will be established the question of the supremacy of the powers in Europe.

In this struggle France will be backed by Great Britain and Russia, while Germany will be supported by Austria. Spain will be neutral, while Italy is hampered by being a member of the Triple Alliance, and also by the fact that she is the traditional friend of Great Britain.

Thus, the Moroccan question may be the basis of colossal doings in the merry springtime.

A CHARITABLE DEED

Peterboro Hotel Men Raise $50 For Children's Shelter.

An act of kindness that should receive public notice and universal appreciation was the handsome gift, made yesterday, through Mr. R. J. Munro, secretary of the Peterboro Licensed Holders' Protective Association, to the Children's Aid Society. The local hotelmen, at a meeting held on Tuesday, decided to give a Christmas box to "one of Peterboro's most praiseworthy charitable institutions the Children's Aid Society." The list was passed, and very quickly $41.50 was chipped in by those present, and yesterday the sum was handed to the treasurer of the society. This amount will probably be increased to $50 within the next day or two.

It is such acts as this that show how large hearted men respond quickly to the relief of distress. The officers of the society extend their thanks on behalf of the children, to the hotel men.

It would now be in order for those ever considerate men in the institution to show by an increased amount given to the same institution, that they are as eager to respond when pockets are touched; thus the Shelter would gain and no harm be done.

AN ADVENTUROUS HONEYMOON

French Diplomat and His Bride Explored Tibet.

Calcutta, December 27.—Additional reports from the Count De Lesbain, of the French Legation at Peking, and his bride, who recently arrived at Darjelling, from Tibet, indicate that he and his bride have established a record in Central Asian travel. On their honeymoon they went north from Peking to Minghsi, and thence north again, discovering two buried cities. They traveled to the Gobi desert, discovering a new lake, and returned southwest to Liang Chow, whence their circuited on the north of the lake of Koko Nur, in Tibet, and arrived at the lonely Tsaidan sale swamp. The daring explorers reached the sources of the Yangtse Kiang. They endured incredible hardships, and at one time saw no human beings for fifty days. They nearly perished on a terrible upland mud plateau, 16,000 feet high, only four of their transport animals surviving. Thence the count and his wife struck south to lake Dingri Nor, and down to the Sang Chu river, avoiding Shigatse, on the route from India to Lhasa, and coming straight to Gyantse. They found the people of Tibet entirely friendly, and attributed their extraordinary success to the visit of the recent British military expedition.

A STRIKE FAILURE

Leather Cutters of Quebec Lose their Strike and Their Jobs.

Montreal, December 27.—A strike of Montreal leather cutters, apparently for the purpose of securing higher wages, but in reality to force a union shop upon a number of boot and shoe factories, has resulted in a failure. This strike was declared not at the request of the men, but under instructions from officers of the International Union, and is a typical case of the unreasonable methods which labor agitators sometimes adopt to carry their ends.

The Lust of Hate

BY GUY BOOTHBY

Author of "A Beautiful White Devil," "A Bid For Fortune," "The Marriage of Esther," "Dr. Nikola," Etc., Etc.

"You're in luck's way, Bartrand, cried Nikola, glancing at my horse, which was tossing his head and pawing the ground as if eager to be off again; "that's a rare good nag of yours, cabby. He's worth an extra fare."

I grunted something in reply, I cannot remember what. The mere sight of Bartrand standing there on the pavement scanning the horse, had roused all my old antipathy; and as I have said, my good resolves were cast to the winds like so much chaff.

"Well, for the present, au revoir my dear fellow," said Nikola, shaking hands with his victim. "I will see you at the house in half-an-hour, and if you care about it you can have you revenge then; now you had better be going. Twenty-eight, Saxeburgh Street, cabby, and don't be long about it."

I touched my hat and opened the apron for Bartrand to step inside When he had done so he ordered me to lower the glass, and not be long in getting him to his destination or I'd hear of it at the other end. He little thought how literally I might interpret the command.

Leaving Nikola standing on the pavement looking after us, I shook up my horse and drove rapidly down the street. My whole body was tingling with exultation; but that it would have attracted attention and spoiled my revenge, I felt I could have shouted my joy aloud. Here I was with my enemy in my power; by lifting the shutter in the roof of the cab I could see him lolling inside—thinking, doubtless, of his wealth, and little dreaming how close he was to the poor fellow he had wronged so cruelly. The knowledge that by simply pressing the spring under my hand I could destroy him in five seconds, and then choosing a quiet street could tip him out and be done with him for ever, intoxicated me like the finest wine. No one would suspect, and Nikola, for his own sake, would never betray me. While I was thinking in this fashion, and gloating over what I was about to do, I allowed my horse to dawdle a little. Instantly an umbrella was thrust up through the shutter and I was ordered, in the devil's name, to drive faster.

"Ah! my fine fellow." I said to myself, "you little know how near you are to the master by whom you swear. Wait a few moments until I've had a little more pleasure out of your company, and then we'll see what I can do for you."

On reaching Piccadilly I turned west, and for some distance followed the proper route for Saxeburgh Street. All the time I was thinking, thinking, and thinking of what I was about to do. He was at my mercy; any instant I could make him a dead man, and the cream of the jest was that he did not know it. My fingers played with the fatal knob, and once I almost pressed it. The touch of the cold steel sent a thrill through me, and at the same instant one of the most extraordinary events of my life occurred. I am almost chary of relating it, lest my readers may feel inclined to believe that I am endeavoring to gull them with the impossible. But, even at the risk of that happening, I must tell my story as it occurred to me. As I put my hand for the last time upon the knob there rose before my eyes, out of the half dark, a woman's face, and looked at me. At first I could scarcely believe my own eyes. I rubbed them and looked again. It was still there, apparently hanging in mid-air above the horse I was driving. It was not, if one may judge by the photographs of famous beauties, a perfect face, but there was that in it that made it to me the most captivating I had ever seen in my life—I refer to the expression of gentleness and womanly goodness that animated it. The contour of the face was oval, the mouth small and well-shaped, and the eyes large, true, and unflinching. Though it only appeared before me for a few seconds, I had time to take thorough stock of it, and to remember every feature. It seemed to be looking straight at me, and the mouth to be saying as plainly as any words could speak—"Think of what you are doing, Gilbert Pennethorne; remember the shame of it, and be true to yourself." Then she faded away; and, as she went, a veil that had been covering my eyes for months seemed now to drop from them, and I saw myself for what I really was—a coward and a would-be murderer.

We were then passing down a side street, in which—fortunately for what I was about to do—there was not a single person of any sort to be seen. Happen what might I would now stop the cab and tell the man inside who I was and with what purpose I had picked him up. Then he should go free, and in letting him understand that I had spared his life I would have my revenge. With this intention I pulled my horse up, and, unwrapping my rug from my knees, descended from my perch. I had drawn up the glass before dismounting, the better to be able to talk to him.

"Mr. Bartrand," I said, when I had reached the pavement, at the same time pulling off my false beard and my sou'wester, "this business has gone far enough, and I am now going to tell you who I am and what I wanted with you. Do you know me?"

Either he was asleep or he was too surprised at seeing me before him to speak, at any rate he offered no reply to my question.

"Mr. Bartrand," I began again, "I ask you if you are aware who I am?"

Still no answer was vouchsafed to me, and immediately an overwhelming fear took possession of me. I sprang upon the step and tore open the apron. What I saw inside made me recoil with terror. In the corner, his head thrown back and his whole body rigid, lay the unfortunate man I had first determined to kill, but had since decided to spare. I ran my hands, all trembling with terror, over his body. The man was dead—and I had killed him. By some mischance I must have pressed the spring which opened the valve, and thus the awful result had been achieved. Though years have elapsed since it happened, I can feel the agony of that moment as plainly now as if it was but yesterday.

When I understood that the man was really dead, and that I was his murderer—branded henceforth with the mark of Cain—I sat down on the pavement in a cold sweat of terror, trembling in every limb. The face of the whole world had changed within the past few minutes—now I knew I could never be like other men again. Already the fatal noose was tightening round my neck.

While these thoughts were racing through my brain, my ears, now preternaturally sharp, had detected the ring of a footstep on the pavement a hundred yards or so away. Instantly I sprang to my feet, my mind alert and nimble, my whole body instinct with the thought of self-preservation. Whatever happened I must not be

The Drummer Boy

Gold Mining Company

One of the most promising propositions ever placed before the Canadian investors.

The Company's Offer to discriminating Investors.

The management is assured that $15,000 will be sufficient to complete the improvements necessary to place the mine on a substantial producing and dividend paying basis. Therefore the directorate has authorized the sale of 15,000 shares of the capital stock at par. The improvements under way include the construction of a mill and concentrating plant, boarding and bunk houses for the miners employed and the installation of machinery required for the testment of the output of the mine. With dividends assured and a certainty of a sharp advance in the price of this security it is stated with emphasis that no more attractive opportunity for investments could be placed before the public. Custer, Idaho, November 15, 1905.

To the Stock Holders of The Oxarna Mining Co.:—

We have steadily continued the development of our properties since last advising you June 25th. At that time we had no plant erected or contracted for, but now I am pleased to report that we have secured a Ten Stamp Mill, together with Boarding House, Assay Office and all other necessary buildings, originally costing $15,000.00, hence you will know that we have been making great progress, and are rapidly approaching a productive stage, but as we have a final payment to make on this Mill, we will not withdraw our stock from the market until this money is raised. We are now making preparations so that by early spring we can start our Mill for a long and continuous run. You will be advised later on as to the date when we will start so that you can be present if possible.

In addition to this Mill, which is now erected, with all machinery in place and in perfect running order, we have secured the machinery for an other Ten Stamp Mill, consisting of Battery, Seventy-five Horse Power Engine, two Forty Horse Power Boilers, and all other necessary machinery which we expect to install in the Mill now already equipped, which will increase the capacity of our plant from 750 to 1500 tons a month, which means a great saving in the cost of reducing our ores, as it takes about the same labor to operate a Ten Stamp Mill as it does to operate a Twenty Stamp Mill, about the only additional expenses necessary to operate the larger Mill is a little additional fuel. In addition to above machinery we have also purchased an Ingersoll Air Compressor for use in the Mines, at a cost of $1200.00.

We are assured funds to complete our payment on the Ten Stamp Mill and for other purposes, and never having any brokers to place our stock, we have had no commissions to pay, hence we have financed the Company for a less sum than is usually required. We have no debts and will pay no salaries until after the Mill goes into commission.

I also beg to advise you that we expect to take over the control of the stock of the Corning Mining Company, at an early date, giving a part of our stock in payment therefore. This will give us an additional eighty acres of Mineral Land, twenty acres of which is the Black Mine. This Mine has produced $100,000.00 net, and has one mile of developments, costing over $70,000.00, and an additional sum of $10,137.00 has been expended in developments this and last summer. Our Mill is on this group and is adjoined by "The Lucky Boy Mine," which has produced $1,000,000, and by "The Badger Group," which has paid $500,000.00 on a capital of $1200.00.

The time is rapidly approaching when THE OXARNA COMPANY WILL BE ONE OF THE STEADY PRODUCERS, and I urge each of the stock holders to buy all the stock that he or she can pay for while it can be had at the exceedingly low price of 10 cents a share. The officers are increasing their holdings and we want to give all the stock holders an equal chance with us. I have just put $1,000.00 more cash into the Company's Treasury for stock at 10 cents a share, the same that you will pay if you take advantage of this opportunity NOW.

I trust that you will be pleased with this report and with the efforts that are being made by your officers for the interests of each stock holder.

REGINALD CORYELL, Manager Oxarna Gold Mining Company.

To the readers of "The Times":—

The above report has been sent out to all our stock holders, and the allotment of stock for sale at 10 cents a share is being rapidly taken, for the ore that we are now taking out averages over $50.00 a ton and, with our Twenty Stamp Mill in operation, our earnings will not be less than $30,000.00 net per month, which will enable us to pay at least 100 per cent. (ten times the present cost) in dividends within six months from the time we put the Mill in commission. For immediate acceptance only, I can offer this stock for 10 cents a share cash, or one-quarter of the amount with order and a like amount in 30, 60 and 90 days. Make all orders payable to the undersigned, or remit through the NATIONAL BANK OF DELPHOS.

Diseases of Women

OFTEN DUE TO

Deranged Kidneys

When the Kidneys Are Weak It is Impossible for Any Women to be Happy or Healthy

If the girls and women who are silently suffering with what they suppose is "female trouble," would look to their kidneys they would soon find the source of their ill-health.

The kidneys are very closely allied with the female organs and if the vitality of the kidneys is in any way impaired, great suffering is sure to occur.

No better medicine is known for the kidneys than Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Buttermilk; they stimulate and strengthen the kidneys and thereby assist the other organs to do nature's work. Instant benefit and certain cure are guaranteed in every case.

Sufferer, don't wait, begin treatment with Dr. Hamilton's Pills at once; they will cure you as they did Mrs. A. H. Coburn, a well-known resident of the town of Portland. Read her experience;

"For two years past I have been sickly and weak. My color was dull and sallow, and I felt exhausted and weary, as if all my strength were being eaten up with some hidden trouble. I heard of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and decided to use them. The change in a few days was surprising. They regulated my kidneys and bowels and cured all my suffering; to-day I am perfectly well."

Every woman can take Dr. Hamilton's Pills with safety and benefit. Their occasional use keeps the system in healthy, well regulated order. No medicine more gentle or more prompt in results. Now is the time to get Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c. per box or five boxes for $1, at all dealers, or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A. and Kingston, Ont.

Candidate Answered in Irish.

One of the local aspirants for municipal honors, yesterday tackled a friend of Irish descent, and incidentally one of the good fellows of that good nationality, and made the usual "spiel," for a vote, saying, as do such candidates, "I would be glad if you should give me a lift next Monday, etc." His expression was worth photographing when his friend replied in the tongue of his ancestors, "Cead mile failthe," or as it sounded to unaccustomed Canadian ears, "Cad meal faute." This being interpreted meant "With a hundred thousand welcome."

THE FIRE BY-LAW

Public Sentiment Has Taken a Tremendous Change.

There has been a great revolution in the public sentiment of Peterboro on the question of better fire protection. Hundreds of citizens who candidly admit having voted against the last fire by-law, are not only advocating but "talking up" the vote for next Monday. The general, but erroneous, impression formerly prevailed that the money asked for would, when spent, only or mainly, benefit merely one section of the city. People are now admitting everywhere, and preaching the doctrine that increased fire protection facilities and appliances, are for the benefit of every man, woman or child in this city. It is expected that the fire by-law will, next Monday, be carried by as large a majority as last election on such matters, it was in the minority.

Every voter having Peterboro's interests at heart should see that we are put on a par with at least, such towns as Port Hope or Whitby, in the matter of saving our city from being wiped out by fire, or have hundreds of men without work through a large factory being destroyed.

Officers' Instruction Class.

Acting under permission received from the Department of Militia, Lt.-Col. Miller will open about the second week in January, a class for the instruction of military officers. This class will be continued during the present winter and spring; and will undoubtedly fill a long-felt want in military circles. In former years it was necessary for aspirants for commissions to spend a couple of months at the Stanley Barracks in Toronto; but under the present arrangements one will be able to qualify as an officer here in Peterboro under Lieut.-Colonel Miller's exceedingly capable instructions. The Sergt.-Major will take charge of the work in the drill shed, and the colonel will give lectures in the mess room.

New Choir Leader for St. John's.

Mr. G. Frances Ferguson, of Fort Erie, Ont., will assume charge of St. John's church choir on the first Sunday in January. Mrs. E. Eardley-Wilmot, who so kindly consented to temporarily take the leadership of the choir a few months ago, and has conducted it with signal ability, is retiring. Mr. Ferguson comes to handle a most encouraging proposition, the choir having unlimited possibilities in both voice and training.

Narrowly Escaped Drowning.

A Lindsay man named Downey, had an exceedingly narrow escape from drowning the other night, the result of being too venturesome on rotten ice. The Post says;

Having been up town on a purchasing trip, he undertook to save a little time on the homeward journey by crossing the river opposite the exhibition. The ice had been solid there, but the mild weather of the past week or ten days caused it to become rotten, and Downey, unaware of this, jumped into a large open space. His attempts to extricate himself were rendered fruitless by the weight of his heavy overcoat which became waterlogged, so he held on to the edge of the ice and shouted for help. His cries were heard by Mr. Thos. O'Neil while proceeding along King street, east ward, and after some time in succeeding in locating Downey, but found it impossible to reach him. The two men then shouted in concert and their cries were heard by Mr. Adam McCabe, who launched a boat and effected a rescue in the nick of time, as Downey could not have held on a half minute longer.

Mr. Culverwell About Again.

The Port Hope Guide says. We are pleased to see the familiar figure of Mr. J. A. Culverwell about our streets again. A week ago Saturday when Mr. Culverwell was about to get off the train at the G.T.R. station, he was detained writing down some information which he was obtaining from an acquaintance. When crossing the platform he tripped over the steel which was left between the cars, and fell against the corner of the iron railing of the next car, the fall being made heavier by his carrying a valise. The shock was not only great, but several ribs were so badly bruised that he has been confined to bed for a week. We are pleased to learn that he is progressing favorably, and trust he will soon be himself again.

T. V. C. Investigation Resumed.

The Trent Valley Canal investigation was reopened yesterday morning before Henry Holgate, C.E., of Montreal, at the local office of the department of Railway and Canals. Mr. J. A. Cherry, who had a contract for a portion of work in the construction of the lift lock, was the only witness called.

An exhibition of the water levels along certain parts of the canal was handed in by Mr. Emms, as requested, at the last sitting of the investigation commenced. Messrs. McLaughlin and O'Connell, the lawyers, who are acting for the Crown, were present.

ANY FOOL

Knows enough to carry an umbrella when it rains, but the wise one is he who carries one when it is only cloudy.

Any man will send for a doctor when he gets bed-fast, but the wiser one is he who adopts proper precautionary, preventive and curative measures when first appear the ills which, if unchecked and uncured, grow into serious illness.

Impaired digestion and nutrition are generally the forerunners of a nervous or functional break-down.

Nature has provided remedies most abundantly for all such conditions in our native medicinal plants. With the use of chemically pure glycerine, of proper strength and at a proper sustained temperature, Dr. Pierce extracts from Golden Seal root, Queen's root, Stone root, Black Cherry bark, Bloodroot and Mandrake root, medicinal principles which, when combined in just the right proportions, constitute his widely famed "Golden Medical Discovery." It restores the tone of the stomach, the activity of the liver and the steadiness of the nerves, pouring vitality into the blood all the once sick and debilitated one is so renewed in health, strength and power that he can resume his work, whatever it is, with vigor and elasticity.

All medical authorities, of whatever school, agree that Hydrastis, or Golden Seal—one of the essential roots in the make-up of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—is of very great value as a pure tonic, and as an alterative—valuable in chronic affections of the stomach, intestines and bladder.

Not only the Original but the best Little Liver Pills, first put up over 40 years ago, by old Dr. R. V. Pierce, have been much imitated but never equaled, as thousands attest. They're purely vegetable, being made up of concentrated and refined medicinal principles, extracted from the roots of American plants. Do not gripe. One or two for stomach corrective, three or four for cathartic.

OF THE

CITY OF PETERBORO

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

On account of the change in the Constitution of the Board of Education effected by the late Provincial Government, each elector has the right to vote for nine candidates. This renders it impossible for me, with the limited time at my disposal, to personally interview any large proportion of you.

I, therefore, take this method of acquainting you with the fact that I am a candidate for a position on the Board about to be elected.

During the years that I have served you, I have given my best attention to the Educational interests of the Town, and, if elected, I shall be equally faithful in the interests of the City.

I am, Ladies and Gentlemen,

Yours faithfully,

W. H. HILL.

TO MY FELLOW CITIZENS

I would respectfully ask the ratepayers of Peterboro for a share of their votes in the coming municipal elections for aldermen.

If honored by election I shall do my share assisting to give Peterboro an honest and economical civic administration.

I consider that our city should endeavor to materially increase the number of our local factories. At the same time I believe all factories seeking assistance in any form, from Peterboro, should give a tangible guarantee that they will keep their end of any arrangement made with this city.

The next Liberal Administration will be a most remarkable one from a social point of view. Nearly all the leading Liberal politicians are men of enormous wealth. Consequently there will be much entertaining. Many of the hostesses will be of almost equal importance, and the entertaining will be chiefly in the hands of the younger generation. The only instance of mother and daughter acting as party hostesses is provided by Lady Aberdeen and Lady Marjorie Sinclair.

NEW GERMAN GAME FOR ATHLETIC WOMEN

"Schlagen Ball" the Latest Substitute for the Delights of Hockey.

LONDON, Dec. 23.

Schlagen ball is the newest game for athletic members of the fair sex. It comes from Germany, where it occupies the same position as hockey does in this country.

At present, schlagen ball is very little known, and the Battersea Polytechnic is the only place where it is played. Miss Morse, the instructor in the gymnasium, introduced the game, believing it would be a welcome change from hockey.

Schlagen ball is a cross between rounders and baseball, and, as translated, the name means "strike ball." The players are armed with a wooden "schlage," some two feet long, with which they have to strike the ball when bowled to them.

The game is played on an open space, seventy yards long by fifty wide, and no hits are allowed beyond the boundary. There are eight players on each side, but during actual play only one of the side which is "in" is on the field, although the whole side has to run to the opposite end of the field and back when a hit is made.

Points are scored by runs, catches and hits, points being scored by their opponents if one of the running side is hit by the ball before she has crossed the boundary.

Schlagen ball is a game eminently suited for women, as it has all the excitement without any of the danger of hockey.

CHILD'S LIFE SAVED BY SLEEPING CAT

Stab of Madman's Knife, Intended for Infant, Received by the Animal.

PARIS, Dec. 23.

An extraordinary incident occurred last night in a small house in the St. Germain quarter, tenanted by a man named Grenardi and his wife. At the last moment the tragedy was turned to comedy by a happy accident.

Grenardi, once a prosperous merchant, lost all his property by speculation. Through constant brooding on his downfall he at last became insane.

His delusion was that the devil would direct him to the spot where hidden treasure was concealed. He declared that Beelzebub himself had promised this, but on condition that the blood of a child was offered to him.

Accordingly, last night Grenardi rose from his bed, and, with a knife in his hand, went toward his child's cradle. His wife attempted to stop him, but without avail.

Grenardi then struck at the child, turning away his face as he did so. In his frenzy he shrieked aloud, arousing his neighbors, who broke into the room and overpowered him after a severe struggle.

The mother now ran to the cradle and saw that the clothes were bloodstained. She lifted the baby, and to her joy found it unharmed.

A cat had crept under the blankets, and had received the stab intended for the child.

DESERTED BY WIFE, SEEKS QUICK DIVORCE

Woman Abandons Husband Because He "Slighted" Her for Game of Cards.

VIENNA, Dec. 23.

Herr von Boja obtained a divorce in the courts here yesterday on a petition which he filed three days after his marriage.

His bride, who was a woman of considerable wealth, had married him on condition that they should both be converted to Protestantism before the ceremony. This course is now often taken in Austria, where Roman Catholics cannot obtain a full divorce.

The wedding took place in a Protestant church, and the pair went to Abbazia for the honeymoon. There Herr von Boja found an old friend, with whom he stayed up to play cards.

His wife, slighted by his conduct, left the hotel quietly, after writing a note that she did not intend to return. Her husband, on discovering that she had left him, filed a petition for divorce next day on the grounds of desertion.

MONEY SPENT IN DRINK AND TAXES IGNORED

Hungarian Premier Says That Country is in Danger of Political Ruin.

VIENNA, Dec. 23.

Baron Fejervary, the Hungarian Premier, said in an interview yesterday that the present governmental anarchy in that country might end in absolutism.

"There are people to be found," he stated, "who say that absolutism for a while is better than chaos forever.

"The programme of the Coalition—to pay no taxes and to furnish no recruits—appeals to the masses, especially to the more worthless members of the community. Nevertheless, it is a short-sighted policy, which brings its own punishment.

"The arrears will have to be paid some day, and the Coalition will be the first to exact them if ever it comes into office.

"But the money is gone—chiefly in drink. Since the passive resistance began, the yearly deficit in regular taxation is at the rate of thirty millions, and the annual increase under the head of spirits is over twenty millions.

"That means that the peasants, instead of contributing to the needs of the State, obey the convenient injunctions of the Coalition, and the money which ought to go into the treasury finds its way into the spirit shops.

"The present state of affairs is one that cannot continue without politically, commercially and morally ruining Hungary. All sense of discipline and of public duty is being corrupted."

POSED AS STRONG MAN FOR THIRTY YEARS

Known as "Iron Arm," Woman Was Noted and Feared for Her Prowess.

PARIS, Dec. 23.

A wagoner was knocked down and killed by a tramcar at Colombes yesterday. When the corpse was being prepared for burial, it was found to be that of a woman.

Her assumption of man's attire was, it is now known, the sequel of a romance that became a tragedy. She was a woman of good family, named Clotilde Filly, and thirty years ago she ran away from home and obtained permission from the police to masquerade as a man.

She was known among her fellow-wagoners as Paul, and was noted for her feats of strength, which gained her the nickname of "Iron Arm."

Most of the men she knew were afraid of her on account of her violent temper and her readiness to fight. She could box with such skill that few men who saw her fight once cared to stand up against her afterward.

A gentleman of title—they are very numerous in Rome—inserted a short time ago an advertisement in a New York and in a Chicago paper offering his hand and heart in exchange for an American heiress.

Up to this date he has received two hundred and fifty-four replies, more or less genuine.

Several correspondents wanted to know whether, in view of the prospective husband's title, they would be asked, father and mother included, to all the balls and dinners given by the King and Queen of Italy.

SIR HENRY CAMPBELL-BANNERMAN'S RISE TO VAST POLITICAL POWER SURPRISING

Ten Years Ago Nobody Dreamed That He Would One Day be Prime Minister of Great Britain and Ireland—Noted for Energy and Tact Rather Than for Oratorical Gifts

LONDON, Dec. 23.

IN HIS 70th year Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman becomes Prime Minister, and the political prophets are once more confounded.

It is safe to say that ten years ago no one imagined that the steady-going Secretary for War of the last Liberal Administration would ever become the First Minister of the Crown. That was a distinction which his fondest admirer never forecast for him. It was an eminence which in those days, at any rate, "C.-B." never sought.

For, like the Duke of Devonshire, Sir Henry is, or was, a politician with no eager longing for the uneasy pillow of high office. He became War Minister, not because he was anxious for the place, but because Mr. Gladstone appreciated his steady-going, business-like qualities, and selected him from among more brilliant candidates for the office. It was his steady-going character that made him, in 1899, the leader of the Opposition.

"I was a sort of 'rara avis' in those times—a politician without ambition," he said on one occasion, in explanation of his selection for the place which so doughty a warrior as Sir William Harcourt had found untenable. "I never had any desire for the position I was called upon to occupy, but I was put there by force of circumstances, and I said: 'Please, God, I will do my best.'"

A Stop-Gap.

The fortunes of the Liberal party were never at a lower ebb than when "C.-B." as Campbell-Bannerman is popularly called, strolled, as it were, into the leadership. The war split it into factions, which howled at each other more bitterly than they did at the government, and "C.-B." was looked upon as a stop-gap, a nominal leader, who would somehow or other muddle through until the time came for him to step unobtrusively down and make room for another.

But "C.-B." has never stepped down. Ridiculed and denounced by his opponents, and rejected for a time by his Liberal imperialist friends, he has plodded steadily on, and now, "by the force of circumstances," he finds himself strolling into Downing street, with no man in the Liberal party to say him nay.

His triumph—however short it may be—is the triumph of the eminently Scotch characteristic of "stickativeness." No scorn of his friends and no invective of his foes has succeeded in making "C.-B." shift his ground. He was a Home Ruler in 1885; in 1905, in spite of Lord Rosebery, he is Home Ruler still. He described the methods of the British Army in South Africa as "methods of barbarism," and if he were heckled to-morrow he would say the same thing.

No one of his opponents trounced him more soundly than Mr. Chamberlain did for his pro-Boerism, his Little Englandism, his attack on the methods of the war, yet no one has been more ready than Mr. Chamberlain to recognize the qualities that have made "C.-B." Premier.

The Brunt of the Fight.

"Who but Sir Henry has done the work?" said Mr. Chamberlain, a year or two ago; "who else has borne the brunt of the fighting? I don't like his views, but I respect the man."

Inside and outside the Liberal party men now agree with Mr. Chamberlain in this respect.

Perhaps the most remarkable feature of Sir Henry's "call" to the post of Prime Minister is that no one has questioned the propriety of it. He is as inevitable to-day as Mr. Gladstone was in 1886. The Liberal party would give a solid vote for him. Mr. Balfour would suggest no one else.

For a Prime Minister "C.-B." has an unillustrious past. His shrewdness for business made him an excellent Secretary for War—he has the reputation in Pall Mall of being the best and best informed holder of the office for many years—but it was his department that blew Lord Rosebery's government to pieces. Cordite laid them low. The one thing in his career that distinguished it was his success in inducing the Duke of Cambridge to resign the commandership-in-chief, and, as has appeared quite recently, it was a letter from Queen Victoria herself that finally persuaded the duke.

Sir Henry has, in fact, been regarded, until very recent times, as a parliamentarian whose wealth and social influence as much as his respectable talents procured for him the modest prominence he attained.

He is one of the few Liberal politicians with an income of $250,000 a year. At one time his mansion in Grosvenor place, overlooking Buckingham Palace, was one of the most celebrated political salons, and "C.-B.'s" dinners and wine were unimpeachable. At Belmont Castle, Perthshire, "C.-B." entertains large parties.

Merchant Princes.

The castle he himself built some twenty years ago, out of the fortune bequeathed to him by his father and a maternal uncle. His father began business in Glasgow in a small draper's shop, in partnership with his brother, and the two built up the firm of J. & W. Campbell, and became merchant princes of the North. Curiously enough, those brothers were ardent politicians, one a Liberal and the other a Tory. To-day there is no stauncher Unionist in the House of Commons than J. A. Campbell, Sir Henry's brother.

Although he is one of the best-read men in the House of Commons, and perhaps the best classical scholar on either front bench, "C.-B." has never shone as a debater. His manner is what the men in the Commons gallery call "old-womanish," even when they wish to be nice. He writes out his speeches beforehand, even to the jokes, and reads them out with uplifted forefinger. He is the only front-bench man who cannot make a speech without a classical quotation, and frequently he "drops into poetry."

He has what they call a "pawky" humor, which is of a distinctly Scottish variety which Southerners find it difficult to enjoy. But in private he is said to be a story-teller of great merit, and to have a witty retort ever on his lips.

In the great act which "C.-B." is now called upon to perform he will be helped by the lady who for nearly fifty years has been his wife. For years Lady Campbell-Bannerman has been an invalid, and fears have often been entertained by his friends that Sir Henry would retire from politics in order that he might stay quietly at his wife's side.

The world hardly looks yet awhile upon "C.-B." as a septuagenarian, but in three or four years' time he and Lady "C.-B." will celebrate their golden wedding.

COULD NOT SURVIVE DISHONOR'S STAIN

Foiled on Vengeance on His General, French Officer Kills Himself.

LYONS, Dec. 23.

A captain of the general staff at Lyons, discovering that his wife, of whom he was passionately fond, was on unduly intimate terms with a cavalry general, called on the general, and fired two shots from a revolver at him.

His arm, however, was thrown up by a fellow-officer, and he was immediately placed under arrest.

In view of the exceptional circumstances, the Minister of War telegraphed to him to come to Paris, and, after making him give his word of honor that he would not again attempt to take the general's life, restored him to liberty.

The officer, on his return to Lyons, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head with a revolver, leaving a letter stating that he could not survive his dishonor.

WOMAN HELPS MAN TO STRANGLE WIFE

Holds Victim's Hands and Talked With Her While Man Adjusted Noose.

FLORENCE, Dec. 23.

After ten days of intense excitement, the trial for wife murder of a man named Fuscati and his sweetheart and accomplice ended here to-day.

The murder was effected in a peculiarly treacherous manner. The woman, who passed for a friend of Fuscati's wife, held the victim's hands and talked to her while the husband crept up behind and flung a slip-knot over his wife's head. Together the husband and the false friend then put their weight on the cord and strangled her.

Fuscati was sentenced to penal servitude for life, and his accomplice to the same punishment for thirteen years.

The depraved cynicism of the male prisoner so enraged the public that several attempts to lynch him after the trial were only rendered abortive by large forces of police and military.

SPYING ON SERVANTS BY SPEAKING TUBES

Murdered Austrian Baroness Had Complete System of Espionage in Household.

VIENNA, Dec. 23.

Remarkable statements have been made in the course of the trial here of several persons alleged to be implicated in the murder of Baroness Laureta Biedermann, whose mutilated body was discovered in her villa at Baden, a suburb of Vienna, some days ago.

The Baroness appears to have been an excitable and suspicious woman. She lived in a state of continual warfare with her servants, against whom she often instituted legal proceedings. Driven in consequence fear of robbery and assassination, she slept with a loaded revolver at her bedside, and had established a regular system of espionage in the household.

A groom one day discovered a system of speaking tubes leading from the chauffeur's room in the kitchen and servants' rooms to the sitting room. In this way the Baroness heard suspicious references to herself that were anything but complimentary.

TYPICAL COSSACK RAID ON RUSSIAN VILLAGE

Men and Women Terrorized by the Barbarian Hordes of the Czar.

LONDON, Dec. 23.

Percival Gibbon, the special commissioner in Russia of the Evening Standard and St. James' Gazette, describes a raid by Cossacks on the village of Pavlour.

"Up and down the streets," he says, "a mufled man ran from door to door, stamping into each hut, inspecting it impatiently, commanding or directing its inhabitants in the briefest of words. 'If the students have given you any pictures or papers, burn them quick. And get to bed, but don't undress,' he says to each.

"The muzjiks are all but helpless, paralyzed by the imminence of the horror that is advancing through the snow-strewn night toward them.

"One hut stood with its door open, the light within leering wantonly across the road, and within a woman sat dazed upon the bench, her head cast back and her mouth open, while the man of the house sprawled on the foul floor, and the air of the place was nauseous with the smell of vodka.

"In another a girl was moaning with her hands to her face; she had been comely, but now that the Cossacks were due, her husband had remedied that. It was an obvious precaution to take, but when it was done he leaned against the wall with his fingers closing his ears.

"A shout from somewhere heralded the doom of the village, and forthwith there were heard the crash of hoofs through the frozen snow of the street, the jingle of accoutrements and some one laughing as a stranger, shrill mirth."

MAYOR KILLS WIFE AT HER OWN REQUEST

Suffering From Cancer, She Implored Him to End Her Excruciating Pain.

PARIS, Dec. 23.

A crime of a remarkable character took place yesterday at St. Pierre when the Mayor of that town, M. Canton, killed his wife with a hatchet at the woman's own and earnest request.

For a long time past the woman had suffered great pain from a cancer, and had repeatedly, in the presence of various people, implored her husband to put her out of her misery by killing her. It is stated that she had several times attempted to take her own life.

Yesterday, during the absence of the servant, it is supposed that the Mayor was again implored by his wife to end her sufferings, for when the servant returned the woman was dead, killed by several blows of a hatchet.

M. Canton directed the servant to go for the police, and on their arrival was arrested and conducted to prison. He has expressed no regret at the terrible deed.

He was elected Mayor of St. Pierre years ago, and was highly esteemed by his fellow-townsmen.

TUBERCULOSIS EXPERIMENTS

Tests Made From Substance Extracted From Bacilli by Prof. Behring.

PARIS, Dec. 23.—At Medan several veterinary surgeons and bacteriologists attended a demonstration by M. Vaiee, the scientist who has been experimenting with a vaccine formed of the emulsion of the substance extracted by Professor Behring from his tuberculosis bacilli.

The subjects were small Flemish oxen and Limousin and Normandy bullocks—in all twenty-one. Some of these were vaccinated in February last, and experiments were made to see whether such vaccination rendered them immune from tuberculosis. For this purpose they were afterward inoculated with tuberculosis virus. All those who had been vaccinated showed no effects from the virus, while three of the unvaccinated animals died. It has also been found that the vaccinated animals are not liable to contagion.

The vaccinated animals are to be kept in order to see how long their immunity lasts.

Professor Slain By Maniac Student

FAILING TO PASS EXAMINATION, MAN BECOMES INSANE AND HAS TERRIBLE REVENGE

LISBON.

A sensational incident in Coimbra, the seat of the Portuguese university where all the great men of Portugal are educated, is occupying public attention.

One of the professors, Dr Rafoios, was assassinated by four shots from a revolver in one of the chief streets of Coimbra by a former pupil of his, who morbidly attributed his failure in life to the professor. Four years ago he failed in his final examination at Coimbra, and was thus unable to take up his position as a physician.

This failure so preyed upon his mind that he became possessed of the idea that he would take the life of the professor who had examined him.

For this purpose he went twice to Coimbra, but was frustrated by his own mother, who wrote to Professor Rafoios warning him of her son's intention. He was arrested and confined in an insane asylum at Oporto, which he left a year ago, cured, the doctors said. It appears, however, that the monomania never left him.

On Thursday night, as the professor was leaving a bookseller's shop, the maniac, wrapped in a cloak, slipped up to him and, uncovering his face, said: "Do you remember me?" and before Dr. Rafoios could answer, fired four shots. A crowd of students came to the rescue, the assassin was captured, and the professor conveyed to his house in a dying condition. He succumbed yesterday afternoon.

Christmas Cards For England's Queen

UNIQUE DESIGN PREPARED FOR HER AND PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

LONDON.

Members of the royal family observe the general custom of sending Christmas cards to friends. For the Queen, Messrs. Raphael Tuck & Sons prepared a card of special design, known as "the art pendant".

It measures some twenty-three inches in length, and is about fifteen inches wide. In delicate art tints, the picture represents Mary, the Mother of Jesus, leaning over the Child Christ in the Manger, while baby angels hover above. A pencil of light from the Star shows through the window, which gives a glimpse of Bethlehem.

The Prince and Princess of Wales have also selected a specially designed card, which, when completed, will be sent to them in India. Its size is the same as that chosen by her Majesty. The case in which the card will be inclosed is in itself a handsome piece of work. A pure white kid binding bears on one side in gold the royal monogram, with the Prince of Wales' feathers in each corner. On the reverse side the Star of India is represented. The interior of the case is lined with moire antique, picked out with gold.

Improved trade has brought about a larger demand for more expensive cards than prevailed at this time last year. Messrs. Tuck alone are sending out no fewer than 3500 separate designs. Fine art in Christmas cards is universally demanded. Pictorial crudeness has disappeared even from the cheaper varieties.

Laughter in France is now lost art

ASSOCIATION FOR REVIVAL OF NATIONAL GAYETY ESTABLISHED IN FRENCH CAPITAL.

PARIS.

An association for the promotion of laughter has just been formed by a group of professors and students attached to the medical faculty of the university.

The members have drafted a circular, which they propose to address to the various universities, colleges and academies of France, calling attention to the fact that Frenchmen are gradually losing the art of laughter and becoming a taciturn and morose people. The circular appeals to them to encourage the rehabilitation of the "bright, numerous and joyous laugh of our ancestors".

The circular further enumerates five different classes of laughter, each of which gives the key to a man's character. Those who laugh in "ah" are of a frank disposition, and love noisy pleasures and merriment.

The Land of the Aztecs.

Who has not read of the glories and wonders of old Mexico! The days when Montezuma, most gorgeous court in the ancient capital of Gran Tenochtitlan are departed, but they have left Mexico one of the most interesting countries in the world. Matchless ruins and relics, in a setting of flowers and sunshine, everywhere delight the fortunate visitor; each day's travel reveals fresh beauties. And out of the ruins a new Mexico is arising, a land of possibilities, abounding in resources of all kinds. To the peasants' hands the soil will yield five crops a year, metals and minerals in abundance. Our business men have here a splendid field for investment, and should see and judge the land for themselves. Leisurely investigation under sunny skies will be pleasant work, while the ladies will be delighted with their bargains—in native work and precious stones.

An attractive itinerary, covering the whole of Mexico and the best of the Southern States, and including a visit to Cuba and New Orleans for "Mardi Gras," has been arranged for the Cuthbert Home party tour, leaving Toronto early in February next. The special private train will contain every possible comfort and luxury, and the cuisine equal to that of a first-class hotel. A pleasant, smooth running trip is assured, the management having had long experience in this branch of travel. Canadian enterprise, when it is the best, is worthy of your attention. Maddened Crowds Fight to Hear Torrey and Alexander

Frightful Crush of People in Chicago to Welcome Home the Renowned Evangelists

Chicago, Dec. 30.—So great was the crowd that gathered last night at the Chicago avenue church to welcome Dr. R. A. Torrey and the Rev. Chas. M. Alexander, home from their four years' evangelization trip around the world, that it could not be accommodated in the church building at one time, and after a short service the pews were cleared and a second audience filled in to hear the renowned evangelist and his singing colleague.

Full 5,000 persons gathered at the door of the church. When the seats had been filled an announcement was made that according to the ordinances, none would be allowed to stand, and the doors were closed, those shut out holding two "overflow" meetings.

Still the steps and sidewalks leading to them were blocked by those eager to hear the man who had "spread the fire" through Great Britain, China, Japan and other countries. They passed the time singing hymns, and when finally word was given that they could enter the church, they hurried into it until it again was filled, so that the police had to give orders for a large number to leave.

It was the opening of an evangelistic conference that will last until to-morrow night. Several speakers from different parts of the country were at the services, and many more are expected to reach Chicago to-day.

The meetings were enthusiastic from the beginning, but under the influence of Dr. Torrey's words they were swept along until nearly every person present arose to his feet in answer to his request for 'Volunteers for Christ."

A TENNESSEE FEUD AND A XMAS TRAGEDY

One Man Killed, Another Dying, and a Small Battle May Result

Bristol, Va., Dec. 29.—News reached Bristol yesterday of a double tragedy Christmas evening at Bertha, Tenn., near the Virginia, Tenn., line, resulting in the instant death of Roscoe Nichols and the fatal injuring of Silas Greene. A despatch last night said one hundred armed men were in the mountains near the scene of the tragedy. This despatch also said that a bloody conflict seemed certain. During the day both factions gathered arms and ammunition.

On the border line of the two States is a distillery operated by Wm. Greene, where a miscellaneous element from both sides assembled. Col. Greene, the proprietor, before being taken to jail in Greeneville, for violating the revenue laws, left his son, Silas Greene, in charge of the place. On Monday evening a band of men came to the distillery, shooting and swearing that they were hunting blood. One entered the home of Greene, and commenced swearing. Silas Greene requested him to refrain from using profanity in his house. As soon as Greene made this request, Roscoe Nichols, it is alleged, drew his revolver, and, with an oath, fired upon Greene, wounding him in the abdomen.

Greene drew his revolver, and shot Nichols through the heart. In the excitement, Greene escaped to a neighboring house, where he now lies fatally hurt.

ADVERTISED THEIR TRADE.

Callings of Professional Men Once Told by Their Dress.

"Professional men do some things better than they used to," droned an attorney who doesn't practice if he can help it.

"That is," he went on to explain, "professional men don't do some things they once did, and I think they're the better for it. There was a time, when I was growing up, when they advertised their calling by means of their dress. You could pick out a clergyman as far as you could see him, and it was much the same with lawyers. Nowadays preachers and pleaders wear raiment which makes them look like prosperous business men or high toned sports, and they seem to be more approachable and companionable, whether they are or not.

"But the greatest change in this respect has taken place among the physicians, not so much their clothes, perhaps, as their manner. I can remember when the old fashioned doctor entered a sickroom you felt that the jig was up, even if you were suffering from nothing more serious than a scratched ear, and you were sorry you hadn't led a better life. He'd tiptoe in with a face that reached from his forehead to his knees, clear his throat, whisper to mother, take out his watch, feel for your pulse and gaze gloomily into space—the spookiest, furthest away space ever. Then he'd whisper to mother again, write a prescription and steal out.

"'Is there no hope?' I used to ask mother.

"'However, as I said, that's all gone by. They're cheerful and breezy when they appear, an odor of fresh air and maybe the smell of a cigar are clinging to them, and they laugh at your fears and talk out loud. That's a sight better than medicine in most cases. The trouble is I don't often have the luck to be ill lately."

TROT OR GALLOP?

A Problem For People With Even Very Short Nerves.

Here is a problem for people with sharp eyes: As we all know, a horse when walking or trotting advances only one leg of each pair at a time, but when galloping lifts both forefeet together and then both hind feet. Now, the question is how other animals manage this matter. The birds, of course, flap both wings together, but which birds run and which hop? We human beings "trot" when we walk and "gallop" when we swim—that is, if we are using the plain breast stroke. The dog, however, "trots" for both. Now, do the amphibious animals—the seals, otters and the rest—swim like men or like other four footed creatures?

Then there are the fish. One would rather expect that, as they move their tails from side to side, they would flap alternately with the fins, which are their hands and feet. Who can tell whether they do or not, and whether all fish at all times follow one rule? By the way, how does a frog use its "hands?" The great mystery, Mr. Rag Lankester, has pointed out that, while the "thousand legs," such as our common galleyworm, advance two feet of a pair together, the centipede, which are much like them, do exactly the opposite, and the swimming worms also alternate the stroke of each pair of paddles.

Few people can tell on which system the caterpillar manages its dozen or so legs or whether the adult insect walks, trots, paces or gallops on its six. How does the spider use eight? Altogether, this is a large field for observation, a field, too, where any one may discover new facts as yet unrecorded, and thus add to the store of knowledge.

The Breathing Earth.

That the earth breathes is a well known scientific fact. It is often to be verified by that peculiar earthy smell which arises immediately after a thunderstorm, the lowering of the barometric pressure causing the flow upward of air, just as it is once more squeezed downward when the barometer rises. A resident of Geneva discovered a natural barometer at Ferney-Voltaire. It is a deep natural well or cave with a very small opening. When this opening is made small enough just to fit a whistle the different sounds as the earth inhales or exhales the air warn the neighbors of the coming weather. A lighted match or a feather shows the direction of the flow as well. It is said to be an excellent weather prophet.

Hot Water.

Nothing is better to take on rising than a cupful of hot water. One hot drink on an empty stomach clears the system for the day, and for many persons a tablespoonful of lemon juice increases the efficacy. Taken on going to bed without lemon, it will help to induce sleep. Both night and morning it has the effect of helping to clear the complexion.

NEWSPAPERS IN SCOTLAND.

It Is Sometimes a Very Difficult Matter to Buy One.

The American custom of glancing over the morning paper as you sip your coffee at breakfast goes with you abroad, but it is no simple thing always to get a morning paper. On coming down to breakfast the first morning in Edinburgh, I found there was no paper to be had, but, thinking it was a simple matter to buy a Scotsman on the street, I went out on Princes street and walked three blocks without the sight of a newsboy. "Where can I get the morning Scotsman?" I said to a policeman. He thought for a moment. "Weel," said he, "there's a great news shop aboot three blocks up, and ye might find one there." I followed the direction and found myself in a large news distributing depot. There were stacks and stacks of newspapers and magazines all about. "I would like the morning's Scotsman," I said. The man in charge looked bewildered. "I'll see," he said, "if we have one." He fumbled around a little while, and then went back into the rear of the store for fully three minutes. At last he came back, saying: "We haven't one." "Well," I said, "this is about the strangest thing I have seen. Can't get the morning paper here in Edinburgh." "No," he said, "ye'll find it diffeecult." "What do they publish papers here for, anyway?" I rejoined. "Do they want to keep them out of the hands of the people? Don't they want people to read them? Do they print papers to keep the news secret?" He bridled at once. "I want ye to understand," he said, "that the Scotsman is not published for the general publeek; it's published for the subscreebers."

The Scotsman, you know, probably ranks next to the London Times. "Well," I said, "this is all new to me. In my country publishers want to have their newspapers read. They want to sell all they can. They don't try to keep them out of the hands of the 'general publeek.' Can you tell me where I can get one, for I want to see the morning paper, though perhaps I shall have to get a letter of introduction to buy one?" "Weel," he answered, "there's a woman about a hundred yards from here that takes the Scotsman. She might sell you hers." I took the direction carefully, found the woman who took the Scotsman—she kept a thread and needle store—I bought her copy, and reached the hotel a half hour late for breakfast, which I had ordered before going out on the difficult quest of buying a morning paper in the great city of Edinburgh.

No Sanatoria "more judiciously . . and economically" managed.

CANADIAN OPINION

DR. R. W. BRUCE SMITH, Inspector of Public Charities, Province of Ontario. Official Report:

"I was specially pleased with the attention paid to conduct the institution carefully and economically. The patients I found cheerful, happy and evidently well looked after by those in charge. I found particular attention is paid to provide nourishing dietary, carefully prepared, and the quality of the food served was excellent. This hospital depends for its maintenance largely upon the voluntary contributions of the public."

FOREIGN OPINION

DR. H. L. RUSSELL, President of the Advisory Board of the Wisconsin State Sanatorium:

"We have just recently returned from our eastern trip, in which we had an opportunity of inspecting practically all the sanatoria in the east that are designed for the treatment of tuberculosis. I am very glad to be able to write you that the very favorable impressions that we received at Gravenhurst have continued with us after this round trip. We have found no place in our travels in which money seems to have been expended more judiciously and economically than in connection with the two institutions that are under the control of the National Sanitarium Association."

PATIENT UNDER EXAMINATION.

The entire cost of management is increased one-third.

But so pressing are the calls of those on the waiting list, and increasingly urgent the new applications received each day, that the trustees have decided upon the step indicated, confident that the Canadian people will see that these new beds are furnished and maintained.

Mr. Corry of Corry & Laverdure, the Ottawa contractors, under examination in connection with the Trent Valley Canal investigation, in his evidence said that his firm had carried out its contract faithfully along the lines requested in their contract. It was also brought out that the relations between Corry and Laverdure and the superintending engineer, Mr. R. B. Rogers, were of a somewhat strained nature during the period of the construction of the lift lock but Mr. Corry said that it was not an unusual thing for differences to arise between contractors and engineers. Mr. Corry was closely questioned by Messrs. McLaughlin and O'Connell, the Crown lawyers, and much evidence of a technical nature was taken.

Mr. Hamel, city engineer, of Hull, Que., who was employed in the capacity of engineer by Corry & Laverdure, during the construction of the lift lock, was also called and furnished evidence along the same lines as previous witnesses. He stated that the total cost of the work more than doubled the original estimate.

A SUCCESSFUL EVENT

Entertainment in All Saints' Sunday School Greatly Enjoyed.

On Thursday evening one of the most successful entertainments this season, was that held in All Saints' Sunday school. Sitting room was at a premium, and the large audience universally enjoyed every portion of the entertainment.

Prof. Clark, of Toronto, greatly delighted the little ones, with his clever ventriloquial rendering of Punch and Judy.

Rev. Wm. Major, who acted as chairman during the evening announced the result of the catechism competition. In doing so he expressed his pleasure at the fact that the candidate this year had done so well. 67 marks was the total set and the winner succeeded in getting the maximum. Three others were very close to 67. Miss Irene Spicer was the winner of the prize. A hymn book and a prayer book in a leather case.

Later Rev. Mr. Major announced that Mr. J. Green, barrister, had placed a sum of money in his hands for the purpose of securing prizes for Miss Stella Cuff, Fred Dickson and Rosie Hillier, the three next in merit.

SAD DROWNING

Mr. John McDonough Walks to Death in the Otonabee.

Yesterday the whole community was greatly shocked when the news spread that Mr. John McDonough, a respected citizen, had been drowned at the rack of the old power house on the American Cereal Company's raceway, a short distance above the works.

The last time Mr. McDonough was seen alive was at 8.30 on Thursday evening. When next seen, Mr. J. Williams, at seven o'clock yesterday morning found the body upright in the water, in a fixed position against the slats, by reason of the force of the current. The police were at once notified of the discovery, and Mr. D. Bellegham's ambulance was summoned.

The unfortunate man's body was at once extricated and it was at once judged, as the clothing was thickly covered with burrs, that Mr. McDonough had in a state of temporary weakness of mind resulting from age and infirmity, wandered aimlessly to his death. His cap was discovered floating above a boom, some fifty yards above this rack.

Surviving members of the family are his wife, two daughters, Miss Annie McDonough, of Boston, Mass., and Mrs. John King, of Peterboro, and Mr. Thomas McDonough, of the Oriental Hotel. His first wife predeceased him by about 18 years.

Coroner Grey was notified, and he, after inquiry, deemed an inquest unnecessary.

The late Mr. McDonough was well known in Peterboro, and was highly esteemed by a host of friends.

The funeral will take place on Sunday from this family residence, Rubidge street, to St. Peter's cemetry.

TERPSICHOREAN TREAT

200 Guests Enjoy Peterboro Club's Hospitality.

Last night the fine apartments of the Peterboro Club, located in the Bank of Commerce building, were ablaze with light, beautiful in their decorations, resonant with the voluptuous strains of sweetest music, and filled with the youth and beauty of our city.

Over two hundred invitations had been extended for their annual ball, by this Peterboro Club, the oldest organization of its kind in the city; very few and regrets so that large as are the club's quarters, the gathering, composed of over two hundred ladies and gentlemen, many from considerable distance, comfortably filled every part of the club.

Doctors Morrison and Wigmore, whose fine offices are adjacent, to the club, kindly turned their consulting rooms over to the club, one for ladies and one for gentlemen.

Great taste was shown in the decorations, comprising bunting, flags, flowers and greenery typical of the season; every available spot was used to advantage in securing a most pleasing; route ensemble that enraptured the eyes of all.

The supper, served in the long room, which was glittering whole, blazing with cut glass, silver and china, with beautiful flowers placed advantageously, was under charge of Mr. Harry Long, the well-known caterer. Last night, the supper, from meats to fruit ice cream, was a temptation to epicurism.

The music was, to tell the story in fewest words, "perfection." Many a fair one floating through the mazes of a waltz on the encircling arm of her partner, was heard to remark, "Isn't the music divine?"

As the long list of guests arrived and had discarded wraps, they were welcomed by Mr. Homer Judge Weller, president, Dr. B. Beamish, vice-president, and Mr. Ritchie, chairman of the Dancing Committee.

Dancing was kept up until about 3.30 a.m., when the supper circle being taken advantage by many score of guests.

The program included ten dances, with four extras, supper being served after the 5th dance, a waltz.

MR. DUMBLE ANSWERED

Mr. John Crane Writes re School Heating.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—I have read with interest the letter of Mr. D. W. Dumble in reply to Mr. Kennedy's letter of a recent date, and while I have neither the time nor desire to enter into any newspaper controversy with Mr. Dumble, for whom I have the highest regard, yet as a member of last year's Property Committee I should like to refer to the claims in his letter referring to the heating of the Central school. Much ado has been made about this matter and publicity has been given to only one side of the question.

The fact is the old heating system at the school has not been satisfactory for years, if the persistent complaints of the school authorities can be counted for anything. Finally, the old boiler gave out entirely and the committee consulted the best authority here, who pronounced it unfit and unsafe. Now, Mr. Editor, it may, and is the right of any citizen to criticise any expenditure of public money but, to my mind, there is no justification for a public body to quibble over an expenditure for a heating system, where a condemned boiler might blow up at any time and sacrifice the lives of hundreds of children. My own children attend that school, and I consider that any laxity in dealing with the condition of affairs then existing would have been condemned by the people.

That the old boiler was repaired and does duty in a secondary capacity in the Cordage Co., does not mean that it would be right and proper to leave the old wreck under a public school. The public look to the Board to protect their children, and action was taken along this line with that end in view. I grant there is a slight defect in the heating of the basement rooms—Not so serious as Mr. Dumble states—but these rooms never should be used for little children to spend their hours in and whatever defect there is has not been remedied, because we had hoped soon to give Miss Warner and her kindergarten class more respectable quarters.

Yours truly,
JOHN CRANE.

THE NEW DIMMER

Local Firm Completes Most Modern Theatrical Light Machine in Canada

Yesterday in our fine new Grand Opera House was completed one of the most up-to-date "Dimmers" that exists in any Canadian theater.

It might be explained that a "dimmer" is a recent electrical invention whereby all the many electric lamps illuminating the stage of a theater, can be absolutely and accurately controlled as to the required amount of light adapted to any particular scene, for instance as the fleeing mother, bearing her babe in arms, enters the forest, and the pallor shows fairs from the lips of the stage, or the dry peas in a long box rattled at intervals causes the last dropping rain to wake the baby, the sun, having sunk behind the western horizon, or the railway-lantern behind a scene, shows the silvery rays of the queen of night slowly casting a pallid tint over the heroine's anxious features, the light must be increased or diminished to be in perfect keeping. This, until the electric dimmer was invented was greatly done by turning gas up or down, as required.

Now one operator standing at a switch can regulate the three hundred incandescent lamps on the Grand Opera House stage, to the fraction of a single candle power, simultaneously.

Mr. Alexander of Messrs. Alexander & Miller, the local electrical experts, yesterday completed his contract for the complete wiring and installation in the new opera house. In the newly inserted dimmer the circuits are all controlled from 25 double poled switches to a switch-board on the stage whence all the 200 lamps can be controlled. This is the most modern dimmer and theatrical electric installation in Canada. This local firm has recently put in the electric light systems of both the Cobourg post office and armory. Such work done by a local firm is a good advertisement for our city.

A NOVEL SIGHT

Mr. Sanford Hall will Give Exhibition at the Basket Ball Game.

One unique feature of the basketball game between Westmount and the Brownies on New Year's night will be an exhibition of apparatus work given by Mr. Sanford Hall, of Montreal, a former resident of this city.

Mr. Hall is a well-known gymnast and has won the first prize in the Montreal gymnasium with a total of 98 per cent. This exhibition should be an interesting one.

Before the big game the Harriers and Arrows will play the deciding game of their series. Each has won a game and the third game should be an exciting struggle.

POLICE COURT NEWS

Yesterday morning the city court was augmented considerably, by this time two cases were disposed of in the police court.

An Italian living in a lane off Dutham street was charged by Chief Round with dispensing the foaming extract of hops and malt, and at the same time dispensing with the necessary formalities incumbent on those selling liquor.

In short the Italian had been known to have sold lager, and possibly other wet goods that when too freely used, lead to ice water towels round the heated brow next morning, and also to the user's hat fitting too tight.

The chief had several witnesses subpoenaed against the Italian for this morning, but the latter called on the chief and asked to get the case settled at once. When his trial was called yesterday he pleaded guilty and was fined $75 with $4.45 costs.

Another case called for trial was dismissed with costs of $1.60 to the complaintant. In this case W. Scully had charged James McKenzie with assault. Neither party however, appeared, hence the dismissal.

—Miss K. E. McCarthy of Peterboro, spent Christmas with her sister, Mrs. W. Shea, Norwood.

THE BIT OF RED

By HONORE WILLSIE

Copyright, 1905, by R. G. Parcells

Bruce sat alone at the head of the herd trying to remember and to forget, trying to remember her voice, her face, her vivid beauty; trying to forget the words that cut short his course as a newspaper man and sent him out on the ranch. Was it, after all, only a year since she refused him? Could he never again close his eyes without seeing the red of her gown? It seemed half a lifetime that he had been guarding these beasts, rounding up stragglers, keeping watch lest the herd stampede for the river. Day after day of burning sun and night after night of stars the loneliness of the plain oppressed him; the cattle irritated him with their stupid docility. The hot noon sun blistered down on their brown backs. The black flies bussed above them and their—

The broncho raised his head suddenly. It was so unusual for Dick to show signs of life during the noon hour that the man was startled from his reverie. A subtle disturbing wave seemed to sweep through the herd. Here and there a head was tossed, and dilated nostrils sniffed the summer air. The man, vaguely disturbed, looked toward the rear of the herd. Far out on the plain was a buckboard with a bit of red fluttering in it. "Good Lord," he said aloud, "one of the fool beasts has caught sight of that! It's hold tight now or the devil to pay!"

His year on the plain had taught him that the cattle herd is more sensitive to panic than even the human throng. A sudden movement, a strange flutter of sound or color, and far down in the grazing herd comes a sudden closing of ranks, a slow moving forward of a constantly augmented mass that, with quick increase of speed, sweeps on, until a thousand panic stricken steers stampede across the plain.

Bruce sat rigid upon his broncho at the head of the herd. Alone, he knew it was hopeless to attempt to make the herd "circle," the one sure remedy for a stampede. Even the slightest movement on his part might precipitate matters, while absolute quiet might prevent the breaking of the storm which was slowly brewing.

A half mile out on the plain the buckboard and the fluttering bit of red drew nearer. More heads were tossed in the air. On the outskirts of the herd nearest the coming buckboard here and there a steer ceased grazing and moved hesitatingly toward the center. Inquiring heads were lifted to see what the movement meant. Those that spied the fluttering red followed quickly to the center. Those that failed to see the cause felt the vague wave of terror and with short snorts of fear sought to move close to their fellows.

In rapid succession the animals were struck by the panic wave. With brain clear and tense, as full realization of his danger came upon him Bruce held in his restless pony and thought rapidly. Facing him was the herd. Behind him, three miles out across the plain, was the river. If the stampede came, heaven alone knew whether the maddened cattle would plunge headlong over the banks, those in front forced on by the unseeing ones in the rear, or whether the leaders could turn all at right angles and follow the river bank.

For one moment Bruce thought of trying to turn the stampede and by whip and shout endeavor to send the frightened brutes back, away from the river, but danger to the nearing buckboard, now so close that he could see it contained the figures of a man and a woman, precluded that plan. Then all power of controlling affairs was taken from him, for Dick, suddenly attacked by the fear contagion, gave a pitiful whinny of terror and, with the bit between his teeth, bolted toward the river. The sudden sound and movement were all that was needed, and in the next instant Dick's hoof beats were drowned in the roar of hoofs in mad flight about him.

Bruce, with knees that gripped the saddle like iron, gave one glance behind him. He was riding among the leaders, but the heavy hurtling ranks behind them threatened at any moment to ride them down. If he could make an opening Dick had three miles in which to pull away from them, and the roar of the maddened beasts, their wild snorts, and the occasional shriek of one of their number, who fell and was instantly trampled to death, made spur or whip or word unneeded for the broncho. Trembling, with head thrust far forward and nostrils distended, he sped on with all the speed the beasts crowded about him would permit.

Could they turn at the river? If not, Bruce knew that death for him was a matter of a few moments. And suddenly life seemed very sweet to him. Even life without her seemed suddenly bearable. The scent of the linden buds, the red of the gown she wore, how vivid and how lovely even the memory was! And was this all that life was to hold for him—a few years of hope deferred and early destroyed, then a few memories, and then death? And what a death—trampled, mangled, made into a thing unspeakable by those trampling hoofs. Ah, the pity of it, he thought, to have no taste of happiness!

He clinched the reins tighter. No, he would not die. Somehow he meant to live. For a moment he, too, was panic stricken. "Dick, Dick!" he groaned. "Can't you go faster? Pull away from them, old boy! There is no one to care much what happens to us, but we want to live anyhow!"

Again he looked back. Slowly the herd was gaining on the leaders. The forward ranks were more and more massed. Worse than the roar and screech of a hundred locomotives was the din about him. He could see the break in the level stretch of prairie that marked the river banks. Nearer and nearer it came, and closer about the quivering broncho pressed the snorting cattle. Now Bruce could see the rocks on the opposite bank, now he caught a glimpse of the brown water, and then—a sudden stumble, a mad roar, and horse and rider went down together.

For years and years he seemed to have been falling. Sometimes he caught sight of her, and always her lips moved, but he caught no word or sound. Sometimes he ventured to ask her what she said, but his questions when they came were absolutely irrelevant, and he cursed himself for a fool, and gradually the search was becoming painful. Strange aches and miseries racked his body. The glimpses of her face became less and less frequent. Suddenly he opened his eyes to rest them. The walls of his little ranch bedroom seemed familiar enough, but what were these agonies that wrung and wrenched him? Then memory came. Ah, yes—the stampede and the fall. He closed his eyes again and feebly pondered over his rescue. Then a soft rustle and a little murmur near the foot of the bed made him open his eyes once more. It was she! The red gown, the vivid face, the soft parted hair were all the same. If this were delirium, he thought, why, let delirium go on to the end of the chapter, and just for luck he would speak to her once more, just to see if she would faint away, as usual.

"It's a nice day, Alice," he remarked in a strangely small voice.

"Oh, Allen, Allen, do you really know me?" And with a rush of skirts she was on her knees beside the bed.

Know her! Could he recognise his own consciousness?

"You were in the buckboard," he said.

"How did you know?" she asked.

"I didn't know. Did the cattle get me?"

The girl shuddered and moved closer.

"No; the pony fell close to the river's edge, his body shielded yours from the herd, and the cattle used him for a dividing point and went up and down the river. They had to shoot the poor broncho, but we got you into the buckboard and back to the ranch somehow."

Bruce turned a bewildered face toward her, and in response the girl went on:

"Uncle John and I are touring the west, and I wanted to say hello to you. Cousin Frank told me you were here. Then came the stampede."

Her voice trailed into silence. Bruce put up a feeble hand and pressed her soft cheek close to his own. This, then, had been the reason for it all—the lonely vigils, the long hours, the constant desire and the endless misery of loneliness.

"Alice," he said gently, "is it to be yes now?"

The girl caught her breath. Her only answer was to leave her cheek close to his.

And Bruce, nestling closer, closed his eyes and fell asleep.

Love and Laundering.

The Korean mother, anxious to assure her daughter's successful marriage, makes certain that the young woman becomes a good laundress, for ability in this direction counts for more than beauty with the Korean swain. He does not even demand that his wife shall be more than a fairly good cook, but she must be able to keep fresh and spotless the linen garments which every one, from prince to peasant, wears. In spite of the fact that every article of wearing apparel is of white linen, not even the humble flatiron has made its appearance in Korea, and the attempts to introduce such occidental fads as washing machines and wringers have met with marked disfavor. The laundry work is done in the same manner as it was centuries ago, and the first recommendation to a young man's favor is ability as a laundress.

Living Barometers.

Among the best of the living barometers are anaila, which do not drink in the ordinary sense of the term, but absorb moisture during the wet weather directly through the skin and exude it afterward. As they are anxious not to have the moisture evaporate too quickly, thus creating a premature thirst, which cannot be conveniently satisfied, they keep during dry weather in strict seclusion, moving abroad only during or just before rain. Immediately before downfall they may be seen climbing the trunks of trees and busily getting in among the leaves. Gnats assemble in clouds under trees, and horses grow restless. Swans, where they are plentiful, may be seen flying against the wind. Spiders crowd on the walls, toads come out of their holes, and pigeons may be seen going to the dovecots earlier than usual.

A Cigar That Saved a Life.

M. Guizot, the great French historian, once owed his life to his cigar. Walking in one of the Paris gardens, he noticed that he was being followed by a shabbily dressed man. M. Guizot calmly sat down on a bench, upon which his unwelcome follower also seated himself, watching him all the time with an uncomfortably threatening air. The historian, however, was not troubled, but took a cigar from his pocket and quietly lighted it. As he did this the stranger rose and, muttering that he had been mistaken, added, "That scoundrel I seek does not smoke." Some days later the man was arrested for a murderous assault upon a public official against whom he had a grudge and for whom he had mistaken M. Guizot, whose cigar was thus a veritable life preserver.

The "Man Eater."

Lower California is the home of a species of lizard which appears to be at least a second cousin of the famed "Gila monster." It is of a mottled yellow and brown color and only about fifteen inches long. The natives of that region have given it the terrible name of "man eater," because it has a habit of attacking every human being it sees, going at one open mouthed, but does not appear to mind either wild or domestic animals. The man eater's body is almost as brittle as that of the mythical "joint snake."

Put Them Off Till Tomorrow.

Some things are very much better put off until tomorrow. Among them are the reprimand you mean to deliver, the defiance you mean to express, the resignation you mean to hand in to a heartless employer. Put off doing these and you'll probably discover that you don't have to do them.

The Sin of It.

Maud—Is it true that Millie's engagement is broken off? Chum—Yes; she accused Jack of stealing a kiss. Maud—Why, that's nothing, surely. Chum—Ah, but he stole it from another girl.

SIAMESE LIARS

Employee of Local Factory Did Not Get a Week Off.

An employee of one of our local factories, last Saturday, anxious to get leave of absence for a week, went to the manager, with a most convincing story that his wife, away in Toronto, was breaking her heart for his presence.

The manager not knowing the employee well personally, but "smelling a mouse," replied:

"I am afraid you are not telling the truth. I have just received a letter from your wife urging me not to let you off for Christmas week as you would be sure to get on a bender and make her worse than ever."

The employee started to leave the room. He paused at the door, asking: "Can I speak to you, not as an employer, but as man to man?"

"Yes, what is it?"

"Well, sir, what I am after saying is this," reproaching the boss, and wiping his eyes. "You and I are two of the most arrant liars the Lord ever made. I'm not married at all."

A STRIKE FAILURE

Leather Cutters of Quebec Lose their Strike and Their Jobs.

Montreal, December 27.—A strike of Montreal leather cutters, apparently for the purpose of securing higher wages, but in reality to force a union shop upon a number of boot and shoe factories, has resulted in a failure. This strike was declared not at the request of the men, but under instructions from officers of the International Union, and is a typical case of the unreasonable methods which labor agitators sometimes adopt to carry their ends.

Has Troubles of His Own.

Mr. David Henry, grocer, at the corner of Park and Parnell streets, has been the victim of organized vandalism. A few evenings ago the glass in his cellar window was smashed, leaving exposed to the cold about dollars worth of potatoes. He boarded the window up, and the boards were kicked in on Tuesday night. Fortunately the weather lately has been moderate, or Mr. Henry would have been a heavy loser. The police now have the matter in hand and arrests are looked for.

Babies.

"Milk for babes but meat for men." When a man can no more eat a man's food, but exists on a milk and cracker diet he is gone back to babyhood. He may be a big man but he has a baby's stomach.

Success in life depends largely on the stomach. The man with the baby's stomach finds himself also with a baby's peevishness and perversity. He has the baby's exaggerated personal sensitiveness and jealousy. He is an annoyance to his friends and an anxiety to his family. No man can be stronger than his stomach. A weak stomach argues a weak man. And a "weak" stomach is the common starting point of most of the so-called "weaknesses" which affect the great organs—heart, lungs, liver, kidneys, etc. How can it be otherwise when the body and all its organs are dependent on the stomach for their nutrition? The "weak" stomach drags the organs down with it, because being weak it is unable to convert food into nutrition, and the organs of the body being starved, of necessity become weak, as a consequence of starvation.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It makes the weak body strong in the only way physical strength can be made, which is by food, properly digested and assimilated. The cures of "weak" lungs, "weak" heart, "weak" or sluggish liver, "weak" kidneys, etc., which follow the use of "Golden Medical Discovery," are all due to this perfect nutrition of the body, the proof of which is the remarkable gain of sound, solid flesh, which invariably marks the cure.

"STOMACH TROUBLE."

"About ten years ago I began to have trouble with my stomach," writes Mr. Wm. Connolly, of 235 Walnut Street, Lorain, Ohio. "It got so bad that I had to lay off quite often two and three days in a week, my stomach would bloat, and I would belch up gas, and was in awful distress at such times. I have employed and been treated by the best doctors in this city but got no help whatever. Some said I had cancer of the stomach, others catarrh, others dyspepsia. I have bought and tried everything I saw advertised for dyspepsia and stomach trouble, but continued to get worse all the time. About twelve months ago I was in such a condition that my friends had some fear about my recovering. I called a doctor and he found me in a very bad shape. Hands and limbs were cold and dripping with cold sweat. He told me that I had a very bad case of chronic indigestion. I was under his treatment until this spring (1904), but did not improve any. By some way or other I happened to get hold of a vial of your 'Pellets,' and I thought they helped me. It was then I wrote to you for advice. You told me that by my symptoms you thought I had been completely and advised the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' in connection. These medicines I have taken as directed, and am very happy to state that I commenced to get better from the start, and have not had a day's sickness on account of my stomach. I feel tip-top, and better than I have for ten years."

GAINED SIXTEEN POUNDS.

"It was twelve years ago that I declared as much help from Dr. Pierce's medicines," writes Mrs. Olive Stevens, of North Harvey, Cook Co., Ill. "I was afflicted with a scrofulous tumor in the left side of my neck. It was fully as large as a large sized walnut, and so painful that I could get but little sleep at night. I doctored with several physicians but received no benefit. The tumor grew rapidly and became inflamed and my general health became impaired.

"I grew very weak. One physician said I would be in consumption in a very short time. Our home physician said I would have to have the tumor removed, but afterward told my husband that I had heart trouble and he would not give me chloroform or ether, so he told me to be very careful; gave me medicine but did me no good. I went to Michigan, was there three months, and while there took R. V. Pierce's 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Dr. Pierce's Pellets,' as directed in your pamphlet. While away I gained about four pounds, the tumor became smaller, and less painful, and to-day there is not a sign of it. I feel confident I shall never be troubled with it again. We think there is no medicine like Dr. R. V. Pierce's, and we have recommended it to a great many who have taken it with very favorable results.

"The 'Golden Medical Discovery' saved my life entirely."

other murders which had shocked all London flashed through my brain, and instantly I realized everything. The victims, so the medical men stated, had in each case been killed by some anaesthetic: they had been found in the centre of the road, as if dropped from a vehicle, while their faces had all been mutilated in the same uncanny fashion. I turned and looked at the man by my side, and then, in an unaccountable fit of rage, threw myself upon him. The men who actually did the deeds were innocent—here was the real murderer—the man who had instigated and egged them on to crime. He had led my soul into hell, but he should not escape scot free.

The suddenness of my passion took him completely by surprise, but only for an instant. Then, with a quick movement of his hands, he caught my wrists, and held me in a grip of iron. I was disarmed and powerless and he knew it, and laughed mockingly.

"So you would try and add me to your list, would you, Mr. Gilbert Pemethorne? Be thankful that I am mercifully inclined, and do not punish you as you deserve."

Without another word he threw me from him, with the ease of a practised wrestler, and I fell upon the pavement as if I had been shot. The shock brought me to my senses, and I rose an altogether different man, though still hating him with a tenfold loathing as the cause of all my misery. Having once rid himself of me however, he seemed to think no more of the matter.

"Now be off to your hotel," he said sharply, "and don't stir from it until I communicate with you. By making this fuss you might have hung yourself, to say nothing of implicating me. To-morrow morning I will let you know what is best to be done. In the meantime, remain indoors, feign ill health, and don't see any strangers on any pretext whatever."

He stood at the corner of the Square, and watched me till I had turned the corner, as cool and diabolical a figure as the Author of all Evil himself. I only looked back once, and then walked briskly on until I reached Piccadilly Circus, where I halted and gazed about me in a sort of dim confused wonderment at my position. What a variety of events had occurred since the previous night, when I had stood in the same place, and had heard the policeman's whistle sound from Jermyn Street, in proclamation of the second mysterious murder! How little I had then thought that within twenty-four hours I should be in the same peril as the murderer of the man I had seen lying under the light of the policeman's lantern! Perhaps even at this moment Bartrand's body had been discovered, and a hue and cry was on foot for the man who had done the deed. With this thought in my mind, a greater terror than I had yet felt came over me, and I set off as hard as I could go down a bye-street into Trafalgar Square, thence by way of Northumberland Avenue on to the Embankment. Once there I leant upon the coping and looked down at the dark water slipping along so silently on its way to the sea. Here was my chance if only I had the pluck to avail myself of it. Life had now no hope left for me. Why should I not throw myself over, and so escape the fate that must inevitably await me if I lived? One moment's courage, a little struggling in the icy water, a last choking cry, and then it would all be over and done with, and those who had the misfortune to call themselves my kinsmen would be spared the mortification of seeing me standing in a felon's dock. I craned my neck still further over the side, and looked at the blocks of ice as they went by, knocking against each other with a faint musical sound that sounded like the tinkling of tiny bells. I remembered the depth of the river, and pictured my solemn body stranded on to the mud by the ebbing tide somewhere near the sea. I could fancy the conjectures that would be made concerning it. Would anyone connect me with it—but there, I could not go on. Nor could I do what I had proposed. Desperate as was my case, I found I still clung to life with a tenacity that even crime itself could not lessen. No: by hook or crook I must get out of England to some place where nobody would know me, and where I could begin a new life. By cunning it could surely be managed. But in that case I knew I must not go back to my hotel, and run the risk of seeing Nikola again. I distrusted his powers of saving me; and if I fell once more under his influence, goodness alone knew what I might not be made to do. No; I would make some excuse to the landlord to account for my absence, and then creep quietly out of England in such a way that no one would suspect me. But how was it to be managed? To remain in London would be to run endless risks. Anyone might recognise me, and then capture would be inevitable. I turned out my pockets and counted my money. Fortunately, I had cashed a cheque only the day before, and now had nearly forty pounds in notes and gold in my purse; not very much, it is true, but amply sufficient for my present needs. The question was: Where should I go? Australia, the United States, South America, South Africa? Which of these places would be safest? The first and second I rejected without consideration. The first I had tried, the second I had no desire to visit. Chili, the Argentine, or Bechuanaland? It all depended on the boats. To whichever place a vessel sailed first, to that place I would go.

Casting one last glance at the ice-bound water below me, and with a shudder at the thought of what I had contemplated doing when I first arrived upon the Embankment, I made my way back into the Strand. It was now close upon three o'clock, and already a few people were abroad. If I were not out of London within a few hours, I might be caught. I would go directly I had decided what it was imperative I should know. Up one street and down another I toiled until at last I came upon what I wanted, a small restaurant in a back street, devoted to the interests of the early arrivals at Covent Garden Market. It was only a tiny place, shabby in the extreme, but as it first caught my eye, I walked boldly in, and ordered a cup of cocoa and a plate of sausages. While they were being prepared I seated myself in one of the small compartments along the opposite wall, and with my head upon my hands tried to think coherently. When the caught, red-handed, with the body of the murdered man in my possession. At any risk I must rid myself of that, and speedily, too.

Climbing to my perch again I started my horse off at a rapid pace in the same direction in which I had been proceeding when I had made my awful discovery. On reaching the first cross-roads I branched off to the right, and, discovering that to be a busy thoroughfare, turned to the left again. Never before had my fellow-man inspired me with such terror. At last I found a deserted street, and was in the act of pressing the lever with my foot when a door in a house just ahead of me opened, and a party of ladies and gentlemen issued from it. Some went in one direction, others in a contrary, and I was between both. To drop the body where they could see it would be worse than madness, so, almost cursing them for interrupting me, I lashed my horse and darted

The Drummer Boy

Gold Mining Company

One of the most promising propositions ever placed before the Canadian investors.

The Company's Office [illegible] of the Gold Mining Stocks.

The management is assured that $15,000 will be sufficient to complete the improvements necessary to place the mine on a substantial producing and dividend paying basis. Therefore the directorate has authorized the sale of 15,000 shares of the capital stock at par. The improvements under way include the construction of a mill and concentrating plant, boarding and bunk houses for the miners employed and the installation of machinery required for the treatment of the output of the mine. With dividends assured and a certainty of a sharp advance in the price of this security it is stated with emphasis that no more attractive opportunity for investments could be placed before the public. Wire reservation and address all communications to the

Custer, Idaho, November 15, 1905.

To the Stock Holders of The Ozarna Mining Co.:—

We have steadily continued the development of our properties since last advising you June 25th. At that time we had no plant erected or contracted for, but now I am pleased to report that we have secured a Ten Stamp Mill, together with Boarding House, Assay Office and all other necessary buildings, originally costing $15,000.00, hence you will know that we have been making great progress, and are rapidly approaching a productive stage, but as we have a final payment to make on this Mill, we will not withdraw our stock from the market until this money is raised. We are now making preparations so that by early spring we can start our Mill for a long and continuous run. You will be advised later on as to the date when we will start so that you can be present if possible.

In addition to this Mill, which is now erected, with all machinery in place and in perfect running order, we have secured the machinery for an other Ten Stamp Mill, consisting of Battery, Seventy-five Horse Power Engine, two Forty Horse Power Boilers, and all other necessary machinery which we expect to install in the Mill now already equipped, which will increase the capacity of our plant from 700 to 1500 tons a month, which means a great saving in the cost of reducing our ores, as it takes about the same labor to operate a Ten Stamp Mill as it does to operate a Twenty Stamp Mill, about the only additional expenses necessary to operate the larger Mill is a little additional fuel. In addition to above machinery we have also purchased an Ingersoll Air Compressor for use in the Mines, at a cost of $1200.00.

We are assured funds to complete our payment on the Ten Stamp Mill and for other purposes, and never having any brokers to place our stock, we have had no commissions to pay, hence we have financed the Company for a less sum than is usually required. We have no debts and will pay no salaries until after the Mill goes into commission.

I also beg to advise you that we expect to take over the control of the stock of the Corning Mining Company, at an early date, giving a part of our stock in payment therefore. This will give us an additional eighty acres of Mineral Land, twenty acres of which is the Black Mine. This Mine has produced $100,000.00 net, and has one mile of developments, costing over $70,000.00, and an additional sum of $40,187.00 has been expended in developments this and last summer. Our Mill is on this group and is adjoined by "The Lucky Boy Mine," which has produced $1,000,000, and by "The Badger Group," which has paid $600,000.00 on a capital of $120,000.00.

The time is rapidly approaching when THE OZARNA COMPANY WILL BE ONE OF THE STEADY PRODUCERS, and I urge each of the stock holders to buy all the stock that he or she can pay for while it can be had at the exceedingly low price of 10 cents a share. The officers are increasing their holdings and we want to give all the stock holders an equal chance with us. I have just put $1,000.00 more cash into the Company's Treasury for stock at 10 cents a share, the same that you will pay if you take advantage of this opportunity NOW.

I trust that you will be pleased with this report and with the efforts that are being made by your officers for the interests of each stock holder.

REGINALD CORYELL, Manager Ozarna Gold Mining Company.

To the readers of "The Times":—

The above report has been sent out to all our stock holders, and the allotment of stock for sale at 10 cents a share is being rapidly taken, for the ore that we are now taking out averages over $67.00 a ton and, with our Twenty Stamp Mill in operation, our earnings will not be less than $20,000.00 net per month, which will enable us to pay at least 100 per cent. (ten times the present cost) in dividends within six months from the time we put the Mill in commission. For immediate acceptance only, I can offer this stock for 10 cents a share cash, or one-quarter of the amount with order and a like amount in 30, 60 and 90 days. Make all orders payable to the undersigned, or remit through the NATIONAL BANK OF DELPHOS.

TIREDNESS MEANS DANGER

Indicates Faulty Blood and Worn Out Nerves—Build, Up or Total Collapse Will Surely Follow

When you're tired all day, bothered by trifles, exhausted with nervousness, be sure there is something wrong.

You need bracing up, and more nourishment in the blood, need a powerful medicine to vitalize the nerves and distribute forces and staying power to all over-worked organs.

The most marvelous success is Ferrosone, a nourishing tonic so scientific as to be the admiration of every physician. Ferrosone performs wonders for people in poor health; acts directly on the blood, enriching it with strength and new life that is at once dispatched to all parts of the body. Ferrosone feeds the nerves and vital energies, supplies force, determination and joyous, buoyant spirits.

A case where there was nervousness and lack of strength is told by Mr. David Brown, of post-office box No. 20, Easton, Ont.: "About a year ago my health commenced to fail. My nerves got run down and I was troubled always cold. I felt worn-out and exhausted, weak as a little child. My face twitched. My limbs and arms commenced to lose their sense of feeling and finally my left side was perfectly numb. All my color left. My appetite ran down. Ferrosone was the first to give me any help. I improved with it very quickly. It toned up the blood and started circulation, so that the numbness gradually disappeared. My condition was perfectly cured by Ferrosone, and I have been well ever since. (Signed) "David Brown."

SPECIAL NOTICE.—To get satisfactory results be sure you get Ferrosone only. Fifty cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

PETERBORO, DECEMBER 30 1905

THE FUTURE OF THE FARM.

"Back to the farm" will soon be the slogan of many who are not unsuccessful in city life. President Creelman, of the Ontario Agricultural College, predicts this determination on the part of many professional and business men who find the field overstocked and the struggle too severe.

Crop raising for profit affords exercise for the mind sufficiently stimulating, more certain of results, and as worthy as any other.

"Book farming," or the application of science to agricultural pursuits, from being derided by the early pioneers, is now recognized as the only and sure road to success. It gives zest and hope to the most advanced intelligence.

An eminent agricultural authority in the United States, Dr. C. M. Wood, recently said: "We do not know positively so much as we knew positively 20 years ago. At that time I might then have laid down a rule and insisted that it should always be followed, but I have learned that there are many things to be considered."

This is the sensible and modest attitude of modern farm science. It allows the farmers to think for themselves, and to work out details over the plow and the hoe handle. Give an intelligent, practical man ideas, and he can polish off the practical side of the question better than anybody can do it for him in a study or chemical shop.

The growth of intellectual work on the land and the enthusiasm of fresh ideas, along the lines of the scientific methods taught at our agricultural colleges, are seen in the discussions which take place at association meetings and at Farmers' Institutes, which shew that the farmers of Ontario are in the forefront of modern knowledge about their many-sided business. They occupy a field of employment which men struggling in the professions and in many business pursuits might envy.

The time is near, as President Creelman predicts, when the farm will become attractive to the men of urban communities not only for its guarantee of a comfortable and secure subsistence, if not of great wealth, but for the opportunity it presents of intellectual studies, and the practical working out of scientific ideas and discoveries, in a broader field than a city office.

Geo. Ball Endorsed.

At a special meeting of the Trades and Labor council held last night, Mr. Geo. Ball's nomination for alderman was heartily endorsed. Ald. Johnston's name was also before the council, but he asked that it be withdrawn, as he is willing to abide the slimk of public opinion on his past two years' record in the city hall.

Last Session of The City Council

Aldermen Indulge in Complimentary Utterances, The One For The Other---Resolution Regretting The Retirement of Six Members.

Last night the City Council of 1905 met in their last session to wind up the year's business. There were present: Mayor Henry Best, and Aldermen, Hicks, Leary, Hall, Tovey, McIntyre, Batten, Scott, Adams, Begley, Mason, Crowe and Johnston.

Finance Minister E. F. Mason explained that the financial statement was not yet in a complete form, as many accounts are still outstanding. It was decided not to ask for a report of the city's financial affairs, until the year's business is closed up by the Treasurer.

COMMUNICATIONS.

An application from the Bell Telephone Company, for permission to erect five poles was referred to the Board of Works.

An application from the Peterboro Light & Power Co., for permission to erect poles was also referred to the Board of Works.

The annual petition from city retail boot and shoe dealers, asking that a bylaw be prepared to provide for the closing of all boot and shoe stores at seven o'clock each evening, excepting nights before holidays and Saturdays, was referred to the clerk, to report if the petition is sufficiently signed.

J. B. Douglas, boot and shoe dealer wrote that he had leased from the city a store in the market building, and owing to faulty construction of the block, the police saw fit to close off the store on both sides from the public, in order to assure safety from snow falling from the roof. In consequence of this his business was suspended on Thursday and part of Friday, Christmas week, the busiest season of the year. Mr. Douglas asked to be reimbursed for his loss of business to the extent of $50. He was referred to the city commissioners.

BYLAW.

A bylaw to authorize the construction of a sewer on Hoswell Avenue, and to provide for entering into an agreement for a temporary loan to defray the cost thereof, passed its several readings.

MUTUAL ADMIRATION.

The Council then went into a Committee of Mutual Admiration and regretted that the rates had decreed that they must part as a body of civic administrators—six to retire and six to remain. Each alderman addressed the assembly, eulogized his colleagues individually, and characterized them collectively as "a jolly good fellows. An air of exuberant good humor permeated the chamber until Ald. Hicks mischievously pointed out that while it had apparently been taken for granted that only six aldermen were retiring, there was a possibility of some others being retired into private life after Monday next. However, this committee which meets but once a year, was last night, as customary, one of kind regards, the one for the other, and but a reflection of the harmony which has, on the whole, dominated the council of 1905.

Ald. Leary remarked that were six paid aldermen elected, such a course would be in the city's best interests. It was difficult to get twelve good business men to devote so much of their time to aldermanic work gratuitously.

Ald. Hall said he was retiring for business reasons, and considered that, taking one thing with another, 1905's council had been a very pleasant and harmonious one. He deplored the little interest is manifested in civic affairs as evidenced at the nominations, when it was difficult to get nominators and nominees. This would not be the case were aldermen paid for their services as suggested by Ald. Leary; there would then be 5,000 aspirants for civic honors.

Ald. Leary hoped all the old aldermen in the field would be elected, and the best of the new aspirants. He would liked to have stayed in the council another year, as he was really interested in aldermanic work, but he was away from home on nomination day. He had nothing but the kindest regards for his fellow retiring aldermen, and those aspiring for reelection.

Ald. Begley regretted exceedingly that circumstances have compelled him to withdraw. While endorsed by the Trades and Labor council, he had always taken an independent stand so far as compatable with the labor platform. He spoke in strong eulogy of the city clerk, and thought the old aldermen should be elected for another term, in the city's best interests.

Ald. Crowe expressed the pleasure it had been to him to exercise his duties as an alderman, but he felt there were worthier men than he in the city to fill so important a position. He had not the slightest doubt but that the six old aldermen in the field would be re-elected. While, naturally differences had existed as to some measures, these differences had never disturbed the harmony of the meetings of 1905.

Ald. Adams was inclined to think the slim attendance at the nomination meeting a compliment to 1905's aldermen, rather than otherwise. It demonstrated considerable confidence in the aldermen on the part of our ratepayers.

Ald. Johnston regretted the loss of six of his colleagues, and hoped that retiring member would not be exempted on January 1st. In future, he said, Peterboro must rely upon her industries for any further substantial growth, and the city must be prepared to give the best possible inducements to new industries; such a course would be in the interest of workingmen as well as capitalists.

Ald. Scott, McIntyre, Batten, Tovey, Mason and Hicks, each made a happy and complimentary speech for their brother aldermen to sleep on. Ald. Hicks thought more money should be expended in advertising this city as a desirable industrial centre.

Ald. Adams moved, seconded by Ald. Tovey,—That this council regrets the retirement from the council of Aldermen Scott, Batten, Hall, Leary, Crowe and Begley, and this council desires to place on record its appreciation of the valuable services they have rendered to this city as members of the council.—Carried by a standing vote.

Mayor Best remarked that in his municipal experience he had never known a colleague who had not worked faithfully in the community's interest and the retiring aldermen had proved no exception to this rule. He had heard of a very desirable industrial proposition that will be made to next year's council.

There are only three or four points in Ontario which can be characterized as industrial centers, and Peterboro is one of the most important of them. The opportunity for further developing our importance in this direction is coming to us, and we must seize it. The city must secure control of power in order to offer it at reasonable rates to industries. In a few years the cost of power will go up in leaps and bounds.

The council then adjourned.

ESCAPES AWFUL FATE

Supposed Dead Girl Revived in Time to Avert Burial Alive.

New York, December 29.—After being dead apparently for three days, placed in a coffin, and with her friends and relatives ready to take a farewell view of the body before it was buried, Viola Anderson, 17 years old, of Elizabeth, N. J., was found to be in a trance today and was revived. The girl escaped being buried alive by a very small amrgin. The funeral was scheduled to take place today.

A neighbor, who is a close friend of the family, noticed that the body appeared to be slightly warm, although the girl was supposed to have been dead three days. Finally the family physician was sent for, and after a thorough examination and severe tests he said the girl was only in a trance. After working over her for several hours the doctor managed to revive the young woman and she began to speak. She expressed surprise at not finding herself in heaven and was horrified when told of her narrow escape from an awful fate.

DON'T NEGLECT A COLD.

Neglected Colds Lead to Consumption.

How Pretty Miss Powell Was Restored to Health by Pe-ru-na.

Miss Lillian Powell, Aurora, Ind., writes:

"Last spring I caught a severe cold from getting my feet wet and being out in the rain, and in a day I had a most miserable cold, but I neglected it, thinking it would soon leave me. But it hung to me for two weeks, when I felt something must be done, as my condition was serious.

"I had heard so much about Peruna and in its praise that I bought a bottle and began taking it regularly. I was gratified to find that in a week the cold and cough was broken up, and three weeks' treatment completely restored my usual good health."—Lillian Powell.

How Consumption Develops.

Nine cases of consumption out of ten occur in this way:

A person catches cold. The cold is not properly cured, and another cold is caught.

This cold is dilly-dallied with, either by no treatment whatever or some treatment that is ineffectual, and the cold continues.

Then another cold is caught and a cough develops. Cough syrups are resorted to, but they give only temporary relief.

By and by the patient gets tired of taking medicines and cough syrups and gives up in despair.

The cold continues to develop and the cough grows worse.

Then the doctor is called in, only to discover that the patient is in the first stages of consumption.

It was just in this way that Miss Powell, of Aurora, Ind., became sick. She caught a cold, and not considering it serious, neglected it, thinking as many others do, that it would "wear off."

However, it clung to her tenaciously, and in two weeks she found her health in a serious condition.

Fortunately, Peruna had been brought to her notice, and she took a course of this remedy before it was too late.

In a week the cough and cold were broken, and a three weeks' treatment completely restored her to health.

This is what Peruna is doing all the while. Not a day, and probably not an hour passes in which some one does not have a similar experience with Peruna.

Cure the Slight Colds and Avoid Consumption.

The first step toward consumption is a cold. The next step is a failure to cure it promptly. The third step is the development of catarrh, which gradually becomes chronic. The fourth step, the catarrh begins to spread from the head to the throat, then to the bronchial tubes, and finally into the lungs. It is then consumption in the first stage.

At any time during the progress of catarrh, from the first onset of the cold to its final settlement in the lungs, Peruna can be relied upon to stop the disease. If you have taken a cold, buy Peruna without delay. One bottle in the beginning will do more good than a half dozen bottles after the catarrh has fastened itself on the lungs.

Thousands of Testimonials.

We have on file thousands of testimonials from people who have been cured of catarrh of the lungs by Peruna. We can give our readers only a slight glimpse of the vast array of unsolicited endorsements we are receiving every month. No other physician in the world has received such a volume of enthusiastic letters of thanks as Dr. Hartman for Peruna.

ALL WE ASK OF YOU IS - HOLD ON TO WHAT YOU BUY OF THIS STOCK

Dores Montgomery Mining Company

OF BULL FROG, NEVADA

604 CROSSLEY BUILDING, SAN FRANCISCO. CALIFORNIA.

We are offering a limited amount of treasury stock at 25c. per share for development work. Our property is just 1800 feet southwest of the famous Montgomery Shoshone mine and both have unquestionably the same vein. Our group shows a well defined vein cropping out through, and it is a perfect fissure. A six inch talc seam on the hanging wall gives high values. We have also several other ledges, and it is only a matter of development work to make this property equal to any producer in the section.

Clipping from "The Rhyolite Herald". A glimpse at the world beater mine. What is a block of $75 ore, 150x150x200 feet worth in cold cash? This is in sight in the Big Shoshone Mine.

Can you figure?

If you were to compute the amount of ore "in sight" in the Montgomery Shoshone Mine, Nevada's infant wonder, and had the exact measurements before you, would you believe your own eyes? Here is an opportunity to test your faith.

There are five drifts on the big ore body. The first drift is 100 feet from the portal of the crosscut tunnel, which shows 150 feet of milling ore. The other drifts follow at a space of 50 feet apart. Here are the measurements.

Drift No. 1, north 150 feet. Drift No. 3, south 60 feet. Drift No. 5, north 40 feet.
Drift No. 2, south 170 feet Drift No. 4, north 140 feet.

The winze sunk at a point 75 feet from the portal of the tunnel is 110 feet below the level and 150 feet from the surface.

The total exposure of ores in drifts No. 2 and 4 running in opposite directions, is 300 feet in length. The ore has been proven to be 150 feet in width in the crosscut tunnel, and has been proven continuous from the surface down to a depth of 150 feet in the winze, at a point where the ore was first struck in the tunnel, and the workings are all in ore.

Here is the block: 150 x 150 x 250 feet—5,250,000 cubic feet—190,000 tons—$12,250,000.

It is the opinion of the management of the mine that all of the ore exposed will average up to $75 a ton. If that is true there is $12,250,000 worth of ore in sight in the mine today. If the ore averages only $20, there is $7,000,000 in sight. If the ore averages only $40, there is $15,000,000 in sight in the mine. If the ore averages only $10, there is $3,500,000 in sight. These calculations are made on the basis of 15 cubic feet of ore to the ton.

The management of the Montgomery Shoshone conservatively estimates that the winze has produced $300,000 worth of ore. If this is right, the ore from the winze has averaged about $975 a ton, or about $1250 for every foot of sinking, the winze being 4 x 7 in clear.

Ore from the winze running less than $250 is thrown over the dump as milling ore. No less than 150 tons of ore has been shipped from this mine, all of it coming from the winze. Another shipment of 50 tons or more will be made via Las Vegas in a few days.

The figures given above are startling in the extreme, but the measurements and ore values as quoted are official—direct from the management of the wonderful mine that is today astonishing the world.

This property is only 1800 feet from the Dores Montgomery Mine.

"GOLD IS WHERE YOU FIND IT."—The old Mining Adage.
The Older Mining Problem Follows "HOW TO GET IT OUT."

Poor men discover mines, rich men buy them out, or get control of the stock and freeze them out. Rare is it that the discoverer of a rich property ever develops it for himself. Most of the suffering and privation of prospecting is only a foundation for another man's building. In the case of the DORES MONTGOMERY MINING COMPANY, we have resolved not to lose what we, after so many years, have wrought from the earth. Therefore, after carefully incorporating, we decided that there was safety in numbers and we are seeking the small investor in order to spread the stock as much as possible and all we ask is IF YOU BUY, HOLD ON, as you would to an endowment policy. Don't come into this solely to speculate. It is safe, with a big future, but we don't offer many shares. This is an opportunity that you never had before. C. H. Schwab offered $3,000,000, which was refused, for the Montgomery Shoshone Mines, just 1800 feet from our property.

THOUSAND YEARS' SENTENCE

Cattle Thief Sent up For Longest Possible Term Gratified.

Galveston, Tex., December 29. — Mat Porter, aged 32 years, charged with cattle theft, was convicted today of Victoria and the jury assessed his punishment at 1000 years in the State penitentiary. He is already in a somewhat decrepid state of health. The jury wished to give him the heaviest possible sentence.

Porter has been responsible for numerous cattle thefts in that community but heretofore it has been almost impossible to secure the necessary evidence to convict him.

ENORMOUS GAINS IN IRON TRADE

Great Railway Development Keeps Steel Mills Unusually Busy.

ELECTRICITY NOW IN VOGUE

One Line Introducing New Power On Branches as an Experiment in Economy.

Ottawa, December 27.—The extensive railway development in Canada during the past few years is having its natural effect upon the industrial enterprises of the country. This is particularly noticeable in the recent expansion of the iron and steel industry, which has received a remarkable impetus since the introduction of the bounty system and the imposition of the new duties on steel rails.

Twenty-five years ago there were 7,260 miles of railway in operation in the Dominion, and today there are about 20,000 miles. In addition a large number of charters have been granted for the construction of new lines, notably the Grand Trunk Pacific, which will add many more thousands of miles to the present total mileage. In extent of railway development throughout the British Empire Canada stands third. India comes first, with about 27,000 miles of railway, Great Britain second, with over 22,500 miles; Canada third, with 20,000 miles, and Australasia fourth, having some 17,000 miles of railway in operation.

BIG DEMAND FOR RAILS.

The large and steady growth of railway business in Canada for the past few years is full of promise for the future of the steel industry in this country. The Grand Trunk Pacific Line will require steel rails to equip its track, extending some 3,700 miles from ocean to ocean, and as the development of the North-West progresses there will be new branches built on this line, and on the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian Northern Railway, which is the third transcontinental railway in course of construction in Canada.

The supply of steel rails to meet the enormous demands of these great railways and other lines in operation, in course of construction and projected in the Dominion will have to be derived almost entirely from the Canadian rolling mills, as the bounties and duties now applied will prove a practically impassable barrier against the American mills. Already orders have been placed with the two big Canadian mills at Sydney, N. S., and at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., for next year's delivery, to the extent of 280,000 tons of rails, which is about half the capacity of the two mills.

In 1904 the imports of iron and steel into Canada amounted to over $41,000,000, and of rails and railway supplies upward of $3,500,000. The whole of the iron and steel goods comprised in these imports are produceable in the works now being operated in the Dominion. The change coming over the steel trade in this country is shown by the exports of steel goods manufactured in the Dominion having increased, during the past five years, from $60,000 to over $1,000,000.

ELECTRICITY SUPPLANTS STEAM.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company proposes to electrify, as a beginning, certain of its branch and suburban lines in the Province of Quebec. This is a forwardstep which augurs much for the future prospects of the ultimate adoption of electrical energy, as the motive power instead of steam, for Canadian railways.

It is pointed out that the substitution of electricity for steam on the company's lines in the eastern parts of the system, is exceedingly interesting in view not only of the extraordinary development in connection with electricity, but of the prediction of Thomas A. Edison, who said that within the next fifteen years all the railways would be using nothing but electrical power for their trunk lines.

This prediction becomes all the more significant when taken with the statement made by the President of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy. In a recent interview Sir Thomas said that the company intended to adopt electricity for some of its shorter branch lines, and, casting his eye into the future, he said he foresaw the day when electricity would take the company's engines from coast to coast. He pointed at the same time to the extraordinary advantages that Canada possesses in her unrivaled waterfalls, which could be used for the development of power.

LORD CURZON'S POPULARITY

Sympathy Has Been Predominant in His Dealings With Subordinates.

Calcutta, December 24.—Lord Curzon has received a great many proofs of the high place which he has won in the esteem of the subordinate official services in India. One of the latest and at the same time one of the most interesting of the memorials signed by the elected representative of the various official services at a meeting at Simla. This address engrossed is intended as a loving memorial for Lord Curzon, a token of the work which it is asserted he has accomplished in India.

The address begins by reminding Lord Curzon that before leaving England seven years ago he publicly said that sympathy was an ideal quality for an Indian viceroy. The signers of the petition gratefully acknowledged this sentiment had been predominant in all his officers, and that while absorbed in the momentous problems of state policy he had never lost an opportunity of ameliorating the condition of a very large body of public servants known by the general name of "the uncovenanted service." Their pensionary prospects have been improved in many ways, the stringency of leave and holiday regulations had been materially relaxed and the officials employed at Simla had been the recipients of special marks of favor at the hands of his lordship.

A BOSTON LANDMARK

HISTORY OF A FAMOUS OLD ELM DESTROYED BY THE WIND.

This Celebrated Tree, Believed to Have Existed Before the Settlement of the City, Was Blown Down in the Great Storm of 1876.

Feb. 15, 1876, was a sad day for local historians in Boston, for the newspapers announced the next day that at about 7 o'clock the previous evening the old elm on Boston Common had been destroyed by a great storm which swept over the city at that time. So many eulogies, both oral and written, were delivered on this most ancient of Boston's landmarks, and it was realized that a connecting link with the remote past was gone forever.

It is not known when the tree began to grow, but an old Boston tradition was that the wife of Thomas Hancock, the eminent merchant, who was Lydia Hefichman before her marriage, claimed that her grandfather, Hezekiah Henchman, planted the tree when he was a boy. This would have made the tree just 200 years old at the time of its destruction.

It is probable that some of the many persons on record as being publicly executed on Boston Common looked on the fair world for the last time when standing beneath its branches, for it was one of the largest trees, if not the largest, in the town, and it stood on its outskirts, and also in 1722 it must have been a prominent object in Boston, for Bonner's map of the town, published in that year, shows it as a feature.

In 1825 the first recorded measurement of the old elm showed its dimensions to be as follows: Height, 65 feet; circumference, 21 feet 8 inches at 2 feet 6 inches from the ground, and the extreme diameter of the branches was 86 feet. At this time it was said of the tree that "this pride of our Common is pronounced by judges to be as handsome in form as it is large in size and venerable in age, and it may be worth the remark, notwithstanding all the buffeting it has received from storms and hurricanes for more than a century, its original beauty and symmetry have not been impaired, although it has at times lost many of its branches."

The tree was accurately measured by the city engineer of Boston in 1855, and it was found that it was considerably larger than in 1825, its height being figured at seventy-five feet. This showed that it was still growing in its extreme old age.

The first serious damage the tree received was in 1832, when the largest of its limbs was so rent asunder that three branches rested on the ground, but at much cost and labor they were replaced in their former positions and held together by iron rods and bolts. The great gale in June, 1860, injured the tree to such an extent that its former symmetry was destroyed, and at this time the cavity in the trunk was filled with several loads of material. On one of the branches which were torn off at the time 190 rings were counted, which indicated the great age of the tree.

The opening of the centennial year of the republic, 1876, found the tree alive, but decrepit, and it would probably have been decorated on Evacuation day and the Fourth of July, but, as stated at the beginning of this article, Feb. 15 saw its destruction.

The old elm fell at 7:17 o'clock in the evening, its trunk pointing toward the Park Street church, and the force of the fall shattered the trunk, while the branches were scattered in every direction. The melancholy news spread like wildfire through the city, and soon, despite the storm, the fallen monarch was surrounded by relic hunters. Armed with saws, hatchets and knives, they quickly detached pieces of the branches to preserve as souvenirs. Persons were seen in the theaters laden with boughs, and it was a common sight that evening to see men in the streets carrying limbs several feet in length and as large around as a stovepipe. Much of the tree was made into veneer, and one book at least of local history has on its back cover a large veneer from the tree, bearing on its face a lifelike engraving of the same.

So passed the old elm, and Boston mourned for its passing.

Dr. Jeremie V. C. Smith, mayor of the city in 1854, showed his interest in the old elm by having the tree carefully pruned and cleaned, and he caused to be placed around it an ornamental iron fence, octagonal in shape. On the entrance gate was attached an oval tablet bearing the following inscription:

THIS OLD ELM.

This tree has been standing here for an unknown period. It is believed to have existed before the settlement of Boston, being full grown in 1722; exhibited marks of old age in 1768 and was nearly destroyed by a storm in 1832. Protected by an iron inclosure in 1854.

J. V. C. SMITH, Mayor.

Soon after the falling of the old elm a young tree of the same species was planted in the center of the inclosure, and today it has attained a large and sturdy growth. Coming generations of Bostonians may be familiar with a second old elm on Boston Common, but it will always be the first old elm which witnessed, very possibly, the first settlement of Puritan Boston in 1630.

PRACTICAL VALUE OF COW TESTING

Another Appeal Sent to Farmers by Mr. Ruddick.

Ottawa, Dec. 30.—A fresh appeal has been sent out by Mr. J. A. Ruddick, the Dominion Dairy Commissioner, to farmers to organize associations for "cow-testing." A practical example is given. A farmer near Cowansville, Que., in 1898, kept 15 cows which gave an average of 131 pounds of butter. In 1900 he began to test the milk of each cow separately, and in this way ascertained which cows were paying and which were unremunerative investments. In 1904 he was keeping 20 cows, with an average production of 254 pounds of butter per cow. This increase of 123 pounds per cow can be obtained on many other farms.

"In Denmark, the home of agricultural co-operation, there have been testing associations since 1895, and there are now nine thousand farms having their cows tested systematically. Similar work will pay here, and pay well. Wherever such work has been done, the average production per cow has speedily been raised twenty-five, and even fifty pounds of butter per annum. Surely there are hundreds of farmers, painstaking and thoughtful, willing to allow a little enterprise for an almost certain return of from five to ten dollars more than at present from each cow per year.

"In Michigan an association was organized in September, 1905. Canadian farmers need to take this matter up quickly and seriously."

TESTING TO BE FREE OF COST.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture allowed in 1904 and 1905 that very low returns are received from many cows; it now says is the interest of farmers to test their herds, ascertain the delinquents and weed them out. In addition to sending of bulletins free of cost to all applicants, the Department offers that where any twenty patrons of a factory will agree to weigh the milk from each cow on three days during the month through the milking period, and furnish them with scales and sample bottles, costing about two to three dollars complete, the testing will be done free of cost to the patrons. As the department is anxious to assist farmers in organizing, Mr. Ruddick will be glad to hear from any farmer or factory owner in any community relative to this important matter, and will arrange for meetings to discuss the question.

SIXTY PLACES WILL VOTE

IN LOCAL OPTION CONTESTS ON MONDAY NEXT

Cases Where the council Would Not Let the Question be Submitted to the Votes of the People—Warm Campaigns for Local Option.

Sixty municipalities will on the 1st of January vote on the question of local option, involving 161 licenses. A much larger number of places started a campaign in this direction, but in several of them, through a majority of the Council voted for the first reading of a bylaw and for the Clerk to advertise it, the measure, however, being subsequently defeated. An active campaign is being waged in nearly all the sixty places, and the temperance people are confident of success, because all the municipalities except Markham village gave substantial majorities for prohibition in the referendum.

The following list gives the names of the municipalities in which the vote will be taken, the county in which each is situated, the number of licenses now in force, and the votes "yes" and "no" in the referendum.

COSSACKS HAVE THE UPPER HAND

Backbone of the Moscow Insurrection is Broken.

Moscow, Dec. 28.—The backbone of the insurrection is broken and the uprising here is rapidly going to pieces. The revolutionists are able to keep up only a guerilla warfare, but the ease with which they can move small detachments from place to place renders the task of suppressing them slow and tedious. All the troops of the Moscow garrison, including the former disaffected Rostoff Grenadiers and the reinforcements which are employed in crushing the revolutionists, are still insufficient to occupy thoroughly the territory won, thus enabling the revolutionists to slip into vacated territory as soon as the troops move on.

Many of the attacks on patrols are seemingly made out of a pure spirit of bravado, as they are completely futile from a strategic standpoint. The remnants of the insurrection now lack cohesion or head.

The city bears the picturesque appearance of a battlefield. Officers are everywhere seen galloping through the streets or being driven about in rapidly moving sleighs, accompanied by escorts of dragoons or Cossacks. The center of the city for the first time today showed signs of life.

No woman can look beautiful without good health. A woman's good health depends on those organs peculiarly feminine, and which so often become disordered, causing misery and dragging-down pain. Nature's laws are perfect, health ensures if you obey them, but disease follows disobedience. The distressing complaints of women are often brought about by catching cold at a critical period, breathing foul indoors' air and long hours of work and nervous tension. Go straight to Nature for the cure—to the forest. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is Nature's cure for the distressing complaints of women. Prof. King, M. D., in his American Dispensatory, says of Black Cohosh or Black Snake-root—"our early American Indians set a high value on this root in diseases of women. It is surpassed by no other drug, in congestive conditions of the parts where there are dragging pains and tenderness."

Lady's Slipper root is a "nerve stimulant and tonic, improving blood circulation and nutrition of the nerve centers—favoring sleep and cheerful condition of the mind; of service in mental depression, nervous headache, irregularities of women with despondency."—Prof. King. Besides the above ingredients there are—Golden Seal, Unicorn and Blue Cohosh roots in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 50 stamps. Over 1000 pages and illustrated. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

DOURO

The municipal elections are again on, with a number of aspirants to civic honors. The candidates are: Messrs. Thos. E. Jory, B. Leahy, Thos. Leahy, William Quinlan and Michael Walsh. They are all good men, in Mr. Jory the people have a gentleman who has served them faithfully and well for five or six years. He will be elected without a doubt, as also will Mr. B. Leahy, the indominatable and energetic hustler, who headed the poll last last year, and who will in all probability do so again.

The people of this township are to be congratulated on the re-election of Mr. Frank Moher to the Reeveship. Mr. Moher, although a young man, has shown ability and wisdom in the conduct of the affairs of the municipality during the past year. He is, without doubt, the right man in the right place. With a good Council to support him, Mr. Moher will show the same care and good management in the future as in the past. And in re-electing Mr. Jory and Mr B. Leahy to a seat at the board, the ratepayers will be making no mistake.

Mr. Wm. Quinlan has also reason to feel safe in the hands of the electors on Monday next. He is out for the people every time.

Messrs. Thos. Leahy and Michael Walsh are also well and favorably known, and have many in the township who would like to see them at the Council board.

Altogether, Douro has an assurance of good government for 1906.

One of the worst cases of asthma ever known was Mr. Sim, of Leamington. He suffered from asthma and bronchitis for 28 years, but has been completely cured by a new treatment and will send particulars and recipe to anyone troubled with asthma or bronchitis. Write E. Sim, Box 144, Leamington, Ontario.

A GOOD PROPOSITION

The Times would call the attention of investors to the advertisement of the Eagle Mining and Improvement Company, of New Mexico, whose general offices are at 314 Tacoma Building, Chicago. This company is ably managed and officered by men who stand high in the commercial world.

The company have decided to offer a block of their preferred stock for sale to Canadian investors. As the advertisement states, this company's mine has passed the "prospect" stage, and is producing yellow metal. The object of the directors is to increase the present capacity from 125 to 200 tons per day, by the installation of electric power.

Britain to Appoint Agents in Canada

Long-Felt Need of Agents to Boom Trade With the Dominion and Other Colonies to be Met at Last.

London, December 30.—Germany has British Government on the subject. "In issued a notification, continuing after commercial relations as in all other December 31 and until further notice matters," it says, "the mother country the most favored nation treatment to has to realize that what are termed British goods imported into Germany colonies are new nations. If we wish from all parts of the British Empire to retain trade it is folly to treat except Canada. them as part of the British Empire

Mr. Henniker Heaton's declaration at Montreal that two Governments have agreed to penny postage is only partially credited here. One country is thought to be Egypt, with which penny postage only recently came into effect, and France is thought to be the other country referred to, but post-office officials doubt this, as France has just endeavored to reduce the inland rate herself.

AGENT FOR THE DOMINION.

It is probable British commercial agents will be appointed to the Colonies. Mr. O'Hara's letter caused the matter to be seriously discussed on behalf of the Board of Trade. It is pointed out that Canada has not been entirely neglected. Inquiries are conducted through officials of the Journal Office Board, but more of the negotiations are done by Canadian officers on this side. As to Colonies in general men have been sent to make inquiries in South Africa and Australia. As a result agents have been appointed in Africa and will apparently be chosen in Australia when the report is received. There is the strongest probability that similar measures will be followed with regard to Canada.

The London Standard editorially strongly condemns the apathy of the important to us that our goods shall supply the needs of the colonies rather than those of the Americans and Germans than it is that the colonies secure a footing for their infant industries in the home market."

CANADA IS PART OF UNITED STATES.

The Outlook also takes up the question on similar lines, and says: "We were once shown in Ottawa envelopes addressed by Commercial firms in England to the Canadian authorities, and geographic and political fallacies of many sorts were disclosed, but the general idea ran through most that Canada was part of the United States."

A SARCASTIC COMMENT.

In a tribute to the late Hon. Mr Prefontaine the Outlook says his death is a loss to the whole Empire. "Would," it continues, "that the good rule that courtesy is the better part of imperialism, so becomingly expressed in the next voyage of H. M. S. Dominion, were made the axiom of the colonial policy. While the necessity of a continuous foreign policy is recognized, yet the majority of radicals look on the colonial policy as a kind of kaleidoscope, to be turned whenever a new Government comes in, or given as a plaything to an infant terrible of the type of Winston Churchill. Even with Elgin as the nurse, the result is certain to be deplorable.

MILLIONS OF GOLD

An American Makes Find Averaging $400,000 per Ton.

Winnipeg, Man., December 29.—Anthony Blum, of Boston, owner of the Manitentime mine, in the Manitou district, 300 miles east of here, unearthed walls of gold that assay $400,000 to the ton. There are millions in sight. It is the richest discovery ever made in gold mining. He spent ten years off and on the district, and has made much money.

TWENTY-EIGHT CHILDREN

Just Has Buried Twenty-Five of Them

Wilkesbarre, Penn., December 30.—Sixty-five-year-old Burton Garrison, of Berwick, near here, has just become the father of his twenty-eighth child, a girl. He has been married three times, and twenty-five of his children and two of his wives are dead. During a severe epidemic of typhoid fever at Berwick some fifteen years ago he lost fifteen of his children and his wife, and a row of sixteen headstones in the Summer Hill cemetery attest to his bereavement. Five other children and his second wife died since then. Garrison is hale and hearty and works daily in a foundry.

AN IMPORTANT RULING

Bishop Says Catholics Cannot Join the Y. M. C. A.

Pittsburgh, December 29.—Bishop J. F. Regis Canavin, of the Roman Catholic diocese of Pittsburgh, was asked today whether he would permit Catholic young men in his diocese to join the Y.M.C.A. Through the Rev. Father William Kittell, chancellor of the diocese, Bishop Canavin sent the following reply: "Assuredly not. We would as soon think of permitting church members to join the Presbyterian or the Methodist churches as to join the Y.M.C.A."

The question was put to Bishop Canavin because of the high feeling aroused here over a similar stand taken by Bishop Hoban, of the Scranton diocese. Through Chancellor Kittrell, Bishop Canavin said he was in hearty sympathy with Bishop Hoban's

General Secretary George F. Robinson, of the Pittsburg Y.M.C.A., says that many Roman Catholics are members of various branches of the organization here. "Here is what I have to say in reply to Bishop Canavin," he said.

With this, Robinson produced a letlet written by Archbishop John Ireland, in which his grace contributed $25 to the Y.M.C.A. of St. Paul, Minn., at the same time highly commending to all the association's work, as one of the best movements in the country.

CANADA WOULD BE THEIR SALVATION

Many Anxious to Take Advantage of Rothschild's Offer

London, Dec. 31.—All day yesterday the Vicarage of St. John's parish was besieged by men eager to be sent to Canada through Lord Rothschild's offer. "If I could get to Canada it would be my salvation," said one pathetically.

"The difficulty will be in selecting a committee," said one. "There are so many who would go and so many who deserve to go."

To shorten the distance between Liverpool and Canada by 582 miles, or nearly two days' time, is the object of the negotiations now going on between the transportation companies on this side of the water, and in Canada the idea is to have the Dominion Government provide facilities for landing passengers and cargo at the Gaspe Basin, Que., thus obviating the trip up the St. Lawrence River.

MEXICO'S REIGN OF TERROR

Wolves and Coyotes go Mad and Spread the Rabies

San Antonio, Texas Dec. 30.—A great loss of domestic animals is being sustained in Northern Mexico by coyotes and wolves with the rabies. Cattlemen from the Rio Grande country say practically all the coyotes beyond this river are mad and the cattlemen are scouring the country and exterminating them. Several Mexican children in Coahuila have been bitten, with fatal results. The spread of rabies to Texas is feared.

Hanged Himself

Woodstock, Dec. 30.—Robert W. Keeler, nurseryman, High street, committed suicide yesterday morning by hanging. He fastened a scarf to a hook in the wall, placed it around his neck and then drew up his feet from the floor. He was 55 years of age and leaves a wife and four children. He had been a sufferer for years from stomach trouble.

DIES BY DOSE OF LAUDANUM

EDWARD TOWNS DEAD IN ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL

Deceased had Taken Over-dose of the Deadly Poppy Extract to Cure Persistent Insomnia

On Saturday afternoon a deplorable tragedy was enacted in our usually uneventful East ward.

Edward Towns, a young man of good repute and a steady worker, was up to Saturday afternoon an employee of Hogan's Hotel, East ward.

It seems that Towns has, for some time past, been a victim of persistent insomnia, and had procured a quantity of laudanum some days ago, in order to procure the much needed sleep.

Saturday afternoon he was in the hotel in pursuance of his duties, and after having a slight altercation with some friends, more in the nature of a personal chaffing than real trouble, young Towns went up-stairs to his room. Whether from excitement over his recent experience just previous to retiring to his apartment, and desirous of settling his nerves, unstrung from protracted sleeplessness, or in a desire to ensure sleep quickly, the young man seems to have taken an overdose of the deadly drug, being evidently ignorant of toxicology. His friends, by his continued absence, followed shortly afterwards to his room, and discovered Towns, in a somnolent condition.

They at once asked what the trouble was, and on receiving an only half-intelligible answer, reported the matter immediately to the proprietor.

Mr. Hogan at once telephoned for Dr. McNulty. The doctor, getting this "hurry up" call, of course responded by his immediate presence. On his arrival, the first glance revealed the truth to the trained medical eye, and and the doctor had the less than half conscious man removed to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Here Towns recovered consciousness enough to say that he had taken a heavy dose of laudanum, which drug, he explained, being in his possession for insomnia, as noted above.

The usual remedies in such cases, as stomach pump, strong coffee, etc., were applied, but without success. Young Towns expired about six o'clock.

Edward Towns is of a most respectable family, his brother, Mr. T. P. Towns, being Postmaster and also in charge of the Telephone Exchange at that settlement in Douro known as Douro church.

What makes this sad event particularly distressing is that the young man's father is in a very low state of health at his residence near the church, and it is feared the shock of hearing of his son's sad death may seriously affect his condition.

Enquiries made by a Times representative showed that the deceased had not been given to the use of liquor during over a year past.

The young man leaves two brothers, Messrs. Paul and Joseph Towns, and two sisters, Minnie and Teresa, all of Douro.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday, from the family residence at Douro church.

Dr. Gray, the Coroner, at present thinks that no inquest will be necessary.

A GAY WEEK

This week will be characterized by unusual gaiety. Tonight there is the Deep Sea Mission ball, held by courtesy of Mine Host Graham, at the Oriental Hotel; on Tuesday evening Mr. Garnet Greer entertains his friends; on Wednesday evening the Collegians' dance in Foresters' Hall; On Thursday Miss F. Burritt entertains a large number of friends, and Miss Pearl Lundy is hostess to her many friends on Friday evening.

AN OPEN LETTER

Mr. Murphy, Sec. E. O. Dairymens' Association Writes About the Convention

Gentlemen,—We hope the readers of this paper have not overlooked the notice of the Convention of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, which is to be held here on the 10th, 11th, and 12th January, 1906, and which is to be found in another column of this paper. The importance of this convention to the Dairymen of Eastern Ontario, and particularly in this locality, cannot be overestimated. The dairy industry has grown from very small proportions, until now it is the great national industry of this Dominion. Its growth has really been phenomenal, and has marked a degree of prosperity, amongst the farmers, that no other business has done. It has not only brought us great returns in money, but indirect benefit in increasing the fertility of our farms and improving the type of our stock. The year just closed has been a very profitable one for the dairymen of this Province. good prices prevailed during the whole season, and it will be of the utmost importance to the farmer to prepare for seasons not so favorable, as bad seasons are sure to come, sooner or later, and, therefore, the farmers should be thinking and making preparations that would tide them over bad seasons, by getting all the information possible bearing upon this particular business.

Some years ago, it was generally believed that we had about reached the limit of our cheese production without incurring the risk of glutting the English market and bringing about an era of low prices, but the experience of this season, just passed, inspired us with confidence in the future of the English market. In spite of a big make and high prices, the Englishman demands our Canadian cheese, and it is not too much to say that its superior quality has much to do with this demand. The English consumer likes a good article, and we have been able to satisfy his fastidious taste and secure his trade, and we must not lag behind in making further improvements; and this convention, that is about to be held, is one of the best educators that has been, or will be, held in our community for some time. Be sure and come to the convention, and be in attendance at all its sessions, and there learn more of your own business and thus be enabled to put more skill into it and get more profit out of it.

While it is impossible to predict prices for our dairy products for the coming season yet, the statistical position of the market points to another profitable season next year, but it will require the co-operation of our Dairymen's Associations, our Dairy School, the Departments of Agriculture at Ottawa and Toronto, of the Inspectors, Factorymen, Farmers and Shippers to keep our dairy products to the front in the markets of the world.

The measure of success we attain will be the measure of progress and prosperity of the farming community of this, our beloved Province of Ontario.

Come to the convention and find out our successes and failures, and I am sure that you will go home with a letter knowledge of your business, and will be repaid for the trouble of attending.

Wishing every Dairymen the compliments of the season, I am,

Yours very truly,
R. G. MURPHY,
Secretary E. O. D. Association.

WHAT WILL MINTO DO IN INDIA?

His Course as Regards Military Depends on New Government

Calcutta, December 30. — Lord Minto has not as yet made any pronouncement upon the question of military reorganization. It is common knowledge, however, that Lord Kitchener never desired to make the military scheme a personal matter. His friends assert that throughout he aimed solely at the removal in a practical manner of grave sources of inefficiency which are inseparable from the existing system. His position is regarded as being absolutely independent, and it is believed that he would be the last person to retain office if the conditions were undignified or unsatisfactory. He is intensely interested in the development of the immense capabilities, which he believes he sees in the army of India to render vital service in case of need to the British Empire, and he is not the man to be turned lightly from the task. It is now generally recognized by Anglo-Indians that the Government of India erred grievously in endeavoring to deny the gravity of the faults in the existing system, and that Mr. Brodrick's proposals were defective. Although satisfactory reform will be easy and will not involve any constitutional change, the action of the new Government in the matter is anxiously awaited here. It is regarded as essential, however, that England should realize that it would be a suicidal mistake to refuse to remedy the evils which Lord Kitchener has indicated. A continuance of those evils certainly must mean that the defensive strength of the Empire will be materially weakened.

SAW BROTHER KILLED

His body was very badly mangled. The sister escaped injury, and notified the police and Coroner Baugh. An inquest was held this morning.

Hamilton, December 30.—The C. P. R. R. near Woodstock, through Brantford to Hamilton, and from Hamilton through Grimsby to Niagara Falls.

MALARIA ???

Generally That is not the Trouble.

Persons with a susceptibility to malarial influences should beware of coffee, which has a tendency to load up the liver with bile.

A lady writes from Denver that she suffered for years from chills and fever, which at last she learned were mainly produced by the coffee she drank.

"I was also grievously afflicted with headaches and indigestion," she says, "which I became satisfied were likewise largely due to the coffee I drank. Six months ago I quit its use altogether and began to drink Postum Food Coffee, with the gratifying result that my headaches have disappeared, my digestion has been restored and I have not had a recurrence of chills and fever for more than three months. I have no doubt that it was Postum that brought me this relief, for I have used no medicine while this improvement has been going on." (It was really relief from congestion of the liver caused by coffee).

"My daughter has been as great a coffee drinker as I, and for years was afflicted with terrible sick headaches, which often lasted for a week at a time. She is a brain worker and excessive application together with the headaches began to affect her memory most seriously. She found no help in medicines and the doctor frankly advised her to quit coffee and use Postum.

"For more than four months she has not had a headache—her mental faculties have grown more active and vigorous and her memory has been restored.

"No more tea, coffee or drugs for us, so long as we can get Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Particulars in Full of Today's Voting

As Great Rivalry Exists Between All Candidates, a Large Vote will Probably be Polled ---Fire-Bylaw Will Probably Carry.

Every patriotic citizen should make a point, whether convenient or not, to turn out and poll his vote for those whom his judgment considers are most likely to give Peterboro an honest and intelligent civic administration; he should turn out and vote for an equally important body of men, those whose management affect the future lives and opportunities of our children, the Board of Education; he should also turn out and give his opinion, as expressed by the ballot-box, whether Peterboro should expend a certain sum of money, divided over many years, on a badly needed, in fact indispensable, improvement in our fire fighting appliances. Another matter to be decided today, whether Peterboro's hotel accommodation should be reduced or not: this matter is one that is competent of judgment by every intelligent elector, and it is the duty of every voter to mark his ballot conscientiously, as his knowledge or interest in the city dictates.

THOSE WHO VOTE.

Only property holders or lease holders, whose lease runs over the period to be covered by the debenture (20 years), and who have covenanted therein to pay taxes, can vote on the fire protection measure.

Only Public school supporters can vote for members of the Board of Education.

All whose names appear on the voters' lists can ballot for aldermen, and also on the question. "Are you in favor of a reduction of the number of liquor licenses in the city of Peterboro?"

BELGIUM'S CROWN IS IN DANGER

INTRIGUE MAY COST LEOPOLD HIS THRONE.

In Which a French Woman Figures in a Very Prominent Way.

Brussels, December 29. — A report about an alleged project of King Leopold is causing the greatest agitation at court and in high political circles here, and it is expected that if the rumor prove true it may cause a revolution. Leopold's relations with the notorious "Queen of Congo," whose erstwhile residence in the Avenue Louise is one of the sights of Brussels, are a matter of notoriety, but this woman's career has ended as far as royal protection is concerned, and she now occupies a comfortable position as wife of a Belgian officer.

The present recipient of royal favors is a handsome French woman, the daughter of respectable parents in the south of France. She served as a barmaid for some years in a hotel at Bordeaux before she came to Brussels. About two years ago Princess Clementine, the King's only unmarried daughter, met this woman in the grounds at Lackhen and ordered her off, suspecting she was there for no good purpose.

"I have just as much right to be here as you have," was the curt reply. An altercation ensued, when the King happened to come up and, grasping the situation, peremptorily directed of his daughter to retire to her apartments. Since then father and daughter have never been seen together in public, and a separate establishment near the palace has been fitted up for the Princess.

The latest development of this intrigue forms the subject of anxious speculation. It appears that the King hired a villa at Villenfranche, near Nice, for this woman, and has repeatedly visited her and her reputed husband there. This woman has just given birth to a son, and rumor has it that the King seriously thought of making her his wife and proclaiming the child his son and heir to the crown of Belgium.

The most extraordinary part of the story is that there is nothing in the Belgian constitution to prevent the King from following this fancy. The absence of a direct heir has always been a grief to the King since he lost his eldest son, and he would much prefer not to see his nephew, Prince Albert of Flanders, ascend the throne. The loyalties to which family attachments give rise have been shown mostly carries him have been shown in his ruthless treatment of his own children. This extraordinary intrigue is covertly referred to in today's issue of the Socialist People, which speaks of a royal "offshoot as likely to come between the heir presumptive and the throne."

The result of such an attempt would be either that the monarchy would be overthrown and a republic established or Prince Albert would be declared King, despite Leopold's schemes.

PRAISES OUR APPLES

Eve Might Have Been Excused for Failing if Apple Was Like Those in Ontario

Ottawa, December 30.—A box of the first prize winter fruit from the Ontario Horticultural Exhibition in Toronto last month was shipped, at the suggestion of Col. J. B. McLean, of Toronto, to Lord Gleask, proprietor of the Morning Post, at London, England. Mr. A. McNeill, as president of the Ontario Fruit-Growers' Association, received in acknowledgement a letter, in which his Lordship exclaims: "Did such fruit ever grow out of the Garden of Eden, surely mortals and angels might well be excused for yielding to such a bait. Canada needs little or no inducement to immigration. I must thank you over and over again for this proof that Canada can supply all that is necessary, and also supply all that is beautiful. If Chamberlain comes in there must be a tenancy on your lovely fruit."

Sum of $3,000 Gone

Winnipeg, December 29.—No trace has yet been obtained of the funds missing from the Merchants' Bank here. Manager Wickson yesterday stated that the $3,000 package was not lost while in transit from the bank to the clearing house, but had been received from a Provincial branch through the express company. It was missed immediately after receipt at the bank, and it is reported here last night that a clerk has been suspended pending investigation.

To Bag Rebels and Annihilate Them

Riga, December 30, via Eydtkuhnen, East Prussia, December 31.—It is said that the new Governor-General, with 30,000 additional troops, is planning to uproot the revolutionary movement by surrounding Livonia and Courland and driving all the revolutionaries into a bag-shaped corner of Courland between Riga and Libau, where they will be annihilated, warships cutting off all escape by sea.

ALL WE ASK OF YOU IS - HOLD ON TO WHAT YOU BUY OF THIS STOCK

Dores Montgomery Mining Company

OF BULL FROG, NEVADA

604 CROSSLEY BUILDING, SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

We are offering a limited amount of treasury stock at 25c. per share for development work. Our property is just 1200 feet southwest of the famous Montgomery Shoshone mine and both have unquestionably the same vein. Our group shows a well defined vein cropping out through, and it is a perfect fissure. A six inch talc seam on the hanging wall gives high values. We have also several other ledges, and it is only a matter of development work to make this property equal to any producer in the section.

Clipping from "The Rhyolite Herald": A glimpse at the world beater mine. What is a block of $75 ore, 150x150x300 feet worth in cold cash? This is in sight in the Big Shoshone Mine.

Can you figure?

If you were to compute the amount of ore "in sight" in the Montgomery Shoshone Mine, Nevada's latest wonder, and had the exact measurements before you, would you believe your own eyes? Here is an opportunity to test your faith.

There are five drifts on the big ore body. The first drift is 100 feet from the portal of the crosscut tunnel, which shows 150 feet of milling ore. The other drifts follow at a space of 50 feet apart. Here are the measurements.

Drift No. 1, north 100 feet. Drift No. 3, south 60 feet. Drift No. 5, north 40 feet
Drift No. 2, south 120 feet Drift No. 4, north 140 feet.

The winze sunk at a point 75 feet from the portal of the tunnel is 140 feet below the level and 150 feet from the surface.

The total exposure of ores in drifts No. 2 and 4 running in opposite directions, is 260 feet in length. The ore has been proven to be 150 feet in width in the crosscut tunnel, and has been proven continuous from the surface down to a depth of 150 feet in the winze, at a point where the ore was first struck in the tunnel, and the workings are all in ore.

Here is the block: 150 x 150 x 260 feet—5,850,000 cubic feet—300,000 tons—$30,250,000.

It is the opinion of the management of the mine that all of the ore exposed will average up to $75 a ton. If that is true there is $30,250,000 worth of ore in sight in the mine today. If the ore averages only $30, there is $7,800,000 in sight. If the ore averages only $40, there is $15,600,000 in sight in the mine. If the ore averages only $10, there is $3,900,000 in sight. These calculations are made on the basis of 15 cubic feet of ore to the ton.

The management of the Montgomery Shoshone conservatively estimates that the winze has produced $300,000 worth of ore. If this is right, the ore from the winze has averaged about $975 a ton, or about $1250 for every foot of sinking, the winze being 4 x 7 in clear.

Ore from the winze running less than $250 is thrown over the dump as milling ore. No less than 150 tons of ore has been shipped from this mine, all of it coming from the winze. Another shipment of 50 tons or more will be made via Las Vegas in a few days.

The figures given above are startling in the extreme, but the measurements and ore values as quoted are official—direct from the management of the wonderful mine that is today astonishing the world.

This property is only 1200 feet from the Dores Montgomery Mine.

"GOLD IS WHERE YOU FIND IT."—The old Mining Adage.
The Older Mining Problem Follows "HOW TO GET IT OUT."

Poor men discover mines, rich men buy them out, or get control of the stock and freeze them out. Rare is it that the discoverer of a rich property ever develops it for himself. Most of the suffering and privation of prospecting is only a foundation for another man's banking. In the case of the DORES MONTGOMERY MINING COMPANY, we have resolved not to lose what we, after so many years, have wrought from the earth. Therefore, after carefully incorporating, we decided that there was safety in numbers and we are seeking the small investor in order to spread the stock as much as possible and all we ask is IF YOU BUY, HOLD ON, as you would to an endowment policy. Don't come into this solely to speculate. It is safe, with a big future, but we don't offer many shares. This is an opportunity that you never had before. C. H. Schwab offered $1,000,000, which was refused, for the Montgomery Shoshone Mines, just 1200 feet from our property.

HEALTH FOR WOMEN

Mrs. Emma Daigle of Moncton, N. B., Sends an Open Letter to All Sufferers.

Most women are tired when they wake up. Housework drags along with great difficulty. Nervousness is always present, headaches seldom depart, tears are ever ready to flow.

But there is a cure, a true specific for women's ills that restored a prominent lady in Moncton, Mrs. Daigle, who tells the following experience:

"About a year ago I had a serious sickness, sort of a general breakdown. My digestion failed entirely and I was able to eat but very little. I took violent stomach pains and suffered terribly from headaches. My doctor said it was "nerve exhaustion" and I might never be well. My troubles increased, for as I grew weaker I became subject to neuralgia and rheumatism. Sleep finally forsook me and I almost lost heart. Different medicines didn't help. Doctors couldn't do me any good. I was desperate when I heard of Ferrozone. The first box convinced me it was just what I needed. It toned up my stomach, gave me a splendid appetite and then my recovery seemed easier. Ferrozone increased my weight several pounds, has restored my nerves, given me a good color and strength such as I never had before. For the weak and sickly I can truthfully recommend Ferrozone." (Signed) Emma Daigle.

REMEMBER: No mere stimulant or alcoholic concoction can take the place of this nerve and blood nourishment contained in Ferrozone. This true tonic always does what is claimed for it. Sold everywhere in 50c. boxes or six for $2.50. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

ELECTRICITY BY DIRECT PROCESS.

Mr. Edison looks confidently into the near future and sees the time when coal will no longer be hauled over the earth to be used in the generation of power. The secret of electricity by direct process may at any moment be discovered by some of the 200,000 scientists in all parts of the world who are investigating electrical phenomena. Then power houses will be built at the mouths of mines, and instead of coal beings transported to places where power is needed power will be created where coal is found and conveyed wherever it is required, however distant, by wire. Power generated by falling water will be transmitted to the points where it is to be applied in the same way as that generated by the combustion of coal. All this will involve an immense saving. It will cost a third less to send power by wire than it does to transport coal by rail.

Like all great scientists, the "wizard of Menlo park" is a dreamer. Many of his dreams come true. In view of the remarkable developments in the application of electricity within the last quarter century it does not seem improbable that his latest dream will be frozen in fact.

The gigantic improvement he predicts would more or less directly affect every industry and individual. Railroads would be at once hurt and helped. The loss of their present large receipts for the transportation of coal would make a big hole in their revenues, but they could partially or wholly offset the loss by electrifying their lines and thus reducing the cost of their power. While the effects upon the transportation business would be mixed the results so far as other industries were concerned would be wholly advantageous. A reduction of one-third in the cost of power would enable manufacturers to make their goods more cheaply. Diminished cost of production would mean higher profits for the capitalist, higher wages for the workers, or lower prices for consumers. Probably it would mean all three, the benefits being divided between the classes. The aggregate gain to society as a whole would be something enormous.

It is to be hoped that when the secret of electricity by direct process is revealed the discovery will be made by a Canadian. This would add a great achievement to the already long list of the triumphs of Canadian genius in the field of applied science and would give Canadian manufacturers an immense advantage over their foreign competitors. Getting their power a third cheaper than their rivals they could easily hold the home market against them and at the same time drive them out of the markets of the world. It would not then be pretended that either protective tariffs or any other forms of government aid were necessary to promote the development of Canadian industry.

Mr. Edison holds out a pleasing prospect. He and other scientists should make haste to turn it into a pleasing reality.

ENGLISH NAVAL ACTIVITY

Britannia is going to continue to rule the wave if nothing happens to prevent it. Sir John Fisher, the controlling power of the British Admiralty, is keeping officers and men busy these days. His plan is to maintain an adequate striking force on war footing at the most commanding strategic spots for any possible emergency. So he has ordered that when the Atlantic fleet and the Second Cruiser squadron return to England for Christmas leave they are to be immediately replaced in their own waters by the Channel fleet and the First Cruiser squadron. In the meantime, the mobilization arrangements at the home dockyards are to be so complete that master crews of the reserve divisions can be brought up to full complements at twenty-four hours' notice.

In February next a series of combined manoeuvres will be held. It is understood that the real purport of them is to test the effectiveness of the existing distribution of British naval forces in Europe. The Atlantic and Mediterranean fleets, with the Second Cruiser squadron, will operate from Lagos, and the Channel fleet and the First Cruiser squadron will form an opposing force. The manoeuvre area will be very wide indeed, with a view of determining how wide a radius a modern battle fleet can effectually cover and yet keep touch with an enemy. These exercises are supposed to be preliminary to the world-wide manoeuvres projected for next summer.

A BRUTAL HUSBAND

He Tore Off Wife's Ear and Burned Her Feet.

Easton, Pa., December 29. — Edward Bruce, who brutally attacked his young wife, has been arrested after five days' hunt for him. It is charged that besides burning his wife's feet with hot irons, he cut pieces of flesh off her legs, tore one of her ears off and beat her with a strap, using the buckle end.

Bruce was found in New Jersey, but was willing to come here without requisition papers.

Alderman Brunner thought the alleged crime justified a high amount of bail, and fixed it at $10,000, which the defendant could not furnish. Bruce is a half breed Indian, and receives an income of $40,000. There has been talk of lynching him if found, but it has abated since he is safe behind the bars. Mrs. Bruce is in a critical condition.

VARICOCELE & STRICTURE

No other disease is so prevalent among men as Varicocele. As it interferes with the nutrition of the sexual organs it produces weakness, loss of semen through the urine, decay of the organs, pains in the loins, aching in the back, nervousness, despondency, bashfulness, palpitation of the heart, constipation, and a combination of these results in complete LOSS OF MANHOOD. Thousands of young and middle-aged men are troubled with STRICTURE. If you have reason to believe you are afflicted with it, don't neglect it. It will ruin you. Don't let doctors experiment on you by cutting, stretching or tearing it. Our NEW METHOD TREATMENT dissolves the stricture tissue, hence it disappears and can never return. We cure Varicocele and Stricture without operating or loss of time. The treatment may be taken at home privately. Send for our Free Illustrated Book on VARICOCELE and STRICTURE. WE GUARANTEE TO CURE OR NO PAY.

Kidneys & Bladder

All sexual complaints affect these organs, hence the kidneys are a great source of disease. Have you aching or weakness over the small of the back, tendency to urinate frequently, deposit in urine, coldness of hands or feet, a drowsy feeling in the morning. Don't neglect your kidneys. Our NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure any disease of these organs or no pay.

No Names Used Without Written Consent.

O. W. Rowe, of Jackson Mich., says: I had Varicocele in the secondary stage, and, after a stricture of 7 years' standing, was operated on twice, undergoing great suffering, but only got temporary relief. I was finally advised to try the NEW METHOD TREATMENT of Drs. K. & K. The enlarged veins disappeared in six weeks, the stricture tissue was removed in eight weeks and my sexual powers and vitality restored to their normal vigor. I recommend no doctors with my whole heart."

CURES GUARANTEED. NO CURE NO PAY.

Before Treatment. After Treatment.
